

WELCOME BY ROOT

Secretary to Open Rivers and Harbors Congress.

DIPLOMATS AMONG SPEAKERS

French and German Ambassadors Among Those Expected to Address the Convention on Waterway Improvement—Many Distinguished Names Among the 3,000 Delegates.

Secretary Root is formally to open the National Rivers and Harbors Congress on Wednesday. This was decided yesterday at a conference between the Secretary of State and Congressman Joseph E. Ransdell and Capt. J. F. Ellison, president and secretary, respectively, of the organization.

Ambassador Jusserand also will be one of the speakers at the opening session, and his address will deal with the development of the waterways of France.

The list of speakers is a notable one. The governors of a half score of States will address the convention, as will prominent business men and big shippers from throughout the United States. Ambassador von Sternberg will also talk on the rivers, canals, and harbors of the Fatherland, which probably has brought this special system of transportation to a higher state of development than any other country.

In fact, the waterways of Germany will be much in evidence during the three days of the convention. Oscar P. Austin, chief of the Bureau of Statistics, is to dwell upon them; Thomas F. Anderson, of Boston, who has just completed an investigation of the rivers and canals, will give a lecture at one of the evening sessions. The lecture to be illustrated with stereoscopic views, and Jackson C. Welliver, a well-known Washington newspaper correspondent, who spent two months abroad this summer investigating Germany's waterways, railroads for the government, also will report the result of his trip.

Many Notables to Attend.

Many notables are to be present to take part in the deliberations. Andrew Carnegie, whose love for water led him to give a made-to-order lake to Princeton a short time ago, will come at the head of a delegation from the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. Par-off Washington, Oregon, and California are sending their representative men, and Secretary Ellison yesterday received a telegram, dated at Houston, Tex., from former Gov. George C. Pardee, of California, desiring the special car containing the delegation from lower California be headed this way.

One of the interesting characters who will attend is Capt. Alexander McDougall, of Duluth, Minn. Capt. McDougall, forty years has been a captain on the Great Lakes and has amassed a fortune in the carrying trade. He is the inventor of that queer type of craft known as the whaleback. Capt. McDougall has lived to see the traffic borne on the inland waterways grow from practically nothing to the enormous total of 118,000 net tons, as reported in the government figures for October of this year.

Big Railroad Men Here.

A most significant feature of the convention will be the presence of three heads of big railroad systems, W. W. Phelps, of the Southern; James J. Hill, of the Great Northern; and M. E. Ingalls, of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis. Mr. Hill has announced the subject of his address as "The economic relationship between waterways and railroads." The topic on which Mr. Hill will speak has not yet been made public. Mr. Ingalls has not yet signified his intention of taking an active part in the program, although he is registered as a delegate from Cincinnati.

The presence of these railroad magnates is interpreted as a subtle denial that the railroads are in any way opposed to a broad and liberal national policy of waterway improvements. This opposition undoubtedly existed in the past, when the roads were physically able to care for the traffic, but now the steam lines realize the crying necessity for an auxiliary system of transportation.

Indorsed by J. J. Hill.

Mr. Hill has been especially outspoken in his indorsement of the work of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress. A few days ago in the course of an address in Kansas City he pointed out that while business was increasing from 10 to 15 per cent annually, railroad mileage was being added only at the rate of 2 1/2 per cent. Within a decade Mr. Hill foresees stagnation in business, with all its attendant ills, unless some added means of transportation be developed to market the immense increase in the products of field, factory, and mine.

Others who will speak at the gathering are Chief Forester Pinchot, Chairman Burton, of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House of Representatives; Lieut. Gov. A. E. Davidson, of Texas; Lloyd E. Chamberlain, president of the Massachusetts State Board of Trade; Dr. N. G. Black, of Walla Walla, Wash.; and Leroy Percy, of Greenville, Miss.

Secretary Ellison, according to last night's report, 2,250 delegates were registered with him, and that every mail was bringing in more, who announced their intention of being present. In Mr. Ellison's opinion there will be 3,000 delegates registered before the opening session on Wednesday, and of these it is believed that upward of 2,000 will be present in person.

FIGHT AGAINST RECEIVERS.

Depositors of New York Banks Want Time.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Whether permanent receivers will be appointed for the six Brooklyn and Manhattan banks and trust companies now in the hands of temporary receivers, will be determined by Supreme Court Justice Bots, at Kingston, on December 12, 13, and 14.

The motions for the appointment of permanent receivers were to have been passed on to-day, but counsel representing the depositors and stockholders of each institution pleaded with the court for more time, upon the ground that plans to reorganize their respective institutions would work out satisfactorily. The proceedings developed that the receivers of the institutions are not aiding the depositors much in their efforts to ascertain the real conditions in the case of each institution.

New York, Nov. 30.—The arguments before Justice Bots, in Albany, to-day make it appear that the attorney general will be put forth by the attorney general's office to make permanent the receiverships of the suspended institutions in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

These institutions, according to the report of the State banking department last summer, had deposits amounting to about $20,000,000. That amount was undoubtedly considerably reduced before the institutions closed their doors, but there are still millions enough owing to the depositors to demand the highest ability in the management of the institutions.

HOPE FOR FORAKER

Friends Pledge Support in Presidential Boom.

TAFT SUPPORTERS ALARMED

Fearful That Senator Will Gain Strength, They Are Reported to Be Planning to Hold Ohio Republican Convention Early Next Year—May Affect Prospects Throughout State.

Political and personal friends of Senator Joseph B. Foraker called on him by the score yesterday to congratulate him on his declaration of willingness to receive support for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Hundreds of telegrams expressing good wishes and promises of assistance reached Mr. Foraker from persons in every part of the country. It was evident from these telegrams and from the expressions of Mr. Foraker's visitors that the Foraker boom is not to be confined to the State of Ohio.

Most of the members of the Ohio delegation decline to make any public expression in regard to Mr. Foraker's course. Some are inclined to believe the battle between Senator Foraker and Secretary Taft will have a bad effect on Republican prospects in the Ohio Congressionary contests next year, but others insist that it will have no effect at all. Ohio Congressmen are observing neutrality.

The Taft boomers here are talking about holding the Ohio State convention at an early date next year. This convention will determine whether Senator Foraker or Taft, or somebody else, shall receive Ohio's vote in the national convention, but it is expected that the real battle will be in the primary.

In expressing their wish for an early convention, the Taft supporters admit that Senator Foraker's Presidential prospects have gained strength since last spring. Mr. Foraker has been on the ground and has not been idle. In the opinion of the Taft supporters, Mr. Foraker will continue to gain, and while they maintain that the national delegation from his State, they want an early convention because the longer it is postponed the stronger Mr. Foraker will be.

TAFT MEN ACCEPT DEFL.

Foraker's Challenge for State Primary in Ohio is Welcomed.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 30.—That the Taft forces are ready to accept the challenge of Senator Foraker for a State primary to determine their choice for President is shown by the following, given out to-day by A. I. Vorys, manager for Secretary Taft:

"There is little that I can add to what I have already said on this subject. Ohio Republicans have determined their choice for President, and this preference is shown by the following, given out to-day by A. I. Vorys, manager for Secretary Taft:

"The friends of Secretary Taft, as I have repeatedly said, will welcome an early opportunity to submit the question directly to Ohio Republicans or their representatives in State convention."

TAFT FETED IN MOSCOW.

Russian Officials and Press Pay Him High Tribute.

Moscow, Nov. 30.—Many officials greeted Secretary Taft on his arrival here to-day. To-morrow the Secretary will visit Gov. General Hershman and inspect the Kremlin. He will dine with the governor general. There will be a grand ballet in special honor of the Secretary. Mr. Taft will arrive in St. Petersburg on Tuesday.

The newspapers devote a great deal of space to Secretary Taft. They recite at great length his public services as a statesman of international fame.

Brought Back to Stand Trial.

London, Nov. 30.—Walter Arthur Newman, alias Robert Lewis, alias Charles Miller, who is wanted by the Virginia authorities on the charge of grand larceny, and by the authorities of New York on the charge of assault, left here to-day in custody for Queenstown, where he will be taken on board the steamer Lusitania for New York to-morrow.

Dr. George F. Shady Dead.

New York, Nov. 30.—Dr. George F. Shady, a prominent physician, who had been dangerously ill at his home, the Renaissance, 312 Fifth avenue, of pneumonia, died to-night. Dr. Shady was taken suddenly ill two weeks ago and failed rapidly.

AUTO DASHES OFF STAGE.

Spectacular Hippodrome Act Has Unexpected Climax.

New York, Nov. 30.—A big audience at the Hippodrome to-night witnessed an exciting part of the automobile race which was not rehearsed, and which caused some uneasiness.

At the end of the first act, and just before the big curtain is raised from the pit of the tank, three automobiles are seen apparently racing toward the audience at full speed. The machines are supposed to be brought to a stop before they reach the audience, but last night one of the machines got beyond control and plunged over the footlights, while the audience rose to its feet.

Leader Kline, of the orchestra, moved just in time to escape being crushed. The machine was stopped by the outer rim of the footlights and hung suspended over the orchestra pit.

HAVE CHARGE OF GALLERIES

Correspondents Name Committee to Act with Speaker.

Newspaper correspondents entitled to admission to the press galleries in the Capitol yesterday elected a committee that will act with the Speaker of the House and the chairman of the Senate Committee on Rules in governing the galleries.

The members of the committee are: T. J. Peace, of the Raleigh News and Observer; James P. Hornaday, of the Indianapolis News; Maurice Spauld, of the Pittsburgh Post; Charles S. Albert, of the New York World; and Arthur J. Dodge, of the Milwaukee Sentinel.

All are correspondents who have been here some time. They will to-morrow select a chairman, who will serve throughout the session. This committee will have practically complete control of the press galleries, subject only to the supervision of the Speaker and the chairman of the Senate Committee on Rules. Because of the fact that the new office building for the members of the House will make more room in the Capitol, the committee will attempt to get more space allotted to the newspaper workers, whose numbers are continually increasing, and the new committee will follow the lead of the former one, which secured promises of more space.

There was great interest manifested in the election yesterday and there was much keen electioneering for favorite candidates. The polls were open from noon until 5:30 o'clock, and practically every newspaper reporter in Washington exercised his right of suffrage.

BRIDE IS IN PERIL AT SEA.

Jockey O'Connor's Wife Rescued on Provenance by Sailor.

New York, Nov. 30.—Winnie O'Connor, the American jockey, who rode during the last racing season in France for the Vicomte d'Arroun and ranked third in the list of winners with $2 first and $50 second and third prizes to his credit, arrived today on the French liner Provenance, accompanied by a bride. The jockey married Miss Edna Loftus, a concert hall singer, in Berlin in June, and was remarried on November 22, the day before the Provenance sailed, by Daniel Harper, the American consul general at Chantilly.

The Provenance had a rough passage over, running into a series of heavy gales. On Wednesday Mrs. O'Connor nearly lost her life. During one of the hardest blows she went from the saloon to the promenade deck. The blast caught her, driving her along the deck for some distance and then hurling her against the rail. A seaman went to her assistance as she was about to slide through an opening.

O'Connor will enter the six-day race to be held at the Madison Square Garden beginning on next Saturday. Among his fellow passengers were six celebrated French bicycle riders, Jacquelin, Dupre, Georget, Stoll, Rutt, and Breton. They were met at the dock by "Pat" Powers and Harry Polock, and will enter the race.

FEWER MOOSE KILLED.

Record of Maine Hunting Season Behind That of 1906.

Bangor, Me., Nov. 30.—Only 176 moose were killed during the Maine moose hunting season, which closed to-night. This is ten less than the record of 1906, and far behind 1905, when 206 moose fell before the rifles of Maine hunters.

The deer hunting still has two weeks to run. Up to date there has been recorded here 2,164 deer, as compared with 2,113 at the same time last year, and 4,026 in 1906. The season total will probably fall under 2,500.

A series of cold rain storms during October and November caused the slightest decrease in this year's deer and moose slaughter.

VARIETY OF CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Presents for All Ages Attractively Shown at Kanna's.

It would seem that the children are the most favored of all beings on earth at Christmas time, or will be if their parents visit the toy department of S. Kann, Sons & Co.'s store and carry home for the use of Santa Claus even a small portion of the immense stock of toys that is displayed on the fourth and fifth floors. The quaint and curious toys that the patient toilers of Germany have been working upon for weeks are splendidly represented in this immense stock, and it is a voyage of delight to travel through the busy aisles. To-day's advertisements give a faint glimpse of the wonders in this toyland.

But the children are not the only ones who have been thought about and planned for for Christmas. The jewelry department offers just as many pleasing things for the grown-ups as the toy department does for the children. And there are a great many beautiful new designs brought out this year that are unusually pleasing and quite unusual in the way of low prices.

CHARTERS OIL TRUST RIVAL.

Pittsburg Court Grants Papers to National Petroleum Association.

Pittsburg, Nov. 30.—Common Pleas Court No. 1 to-day granted a charter to the National Petroleum Association, the concern which is regarded as a coming rival of the Standard Oil Company. According to its incorporators, it is formed to "foster, protect, and promote the welfare and interests of persons engaged in the business of refining petroleum and its product, and for the protection and encouragement of that business by combining against imposition and fraud."

The association has been working through various parts of the country, having been active in Nebraska and other parts of the West, where it has been carrying on a warfare against excessive freight rates. It is proposed by the newly chartered organization to advance the interests of the independent refiners.

SAVES FIANCE FROM A LION

Girl's Quick Wit Causes Beast to Retreat After Attacking Man.

Louis Roth, Young German Trainer, Turns to Smile on a Woman He Loves, and Is Attacked.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 30.—Just to smite at his fiancée, Mercedes Lamonte, Louis Roth, the young German trainer who does an act with the animal show at the Ponce de Leon, was careless enough to take his eyes for an instant this afternoon from Atlas, the surliest lion of the collection, and as a result felt his leg being torn to shreds by the beast, which had sprung upon his keeper the moment he was free of his controlling gaze.

The smelt would have been Roth's last had it been bestowed upon a less courageous woman. Almost as the lion's claws cut into the flesh, Roth saw the flash of a revolver, and Atlas, finding himself again mastered, recoiled under the gaze of the woman, whose face had come near causing Roth's death, but who had repaid him by saving his life.

Though Roth's back was turned to the attacking beast, Miss Lamonte was looking to the front, and the girl fired the pistol in the animal's face, scaring the beast off.

The pistol shot caused a panic among the crowd. As soon as Roth had been rescued, Miss Lamonte threw her arms about his neck and said: "We must marry at once, Louis. I cannot wait longer. This life is too dangerous. Ah, too much hazard."

AMBULANCE HORSE DIES.

"Dandy" Falls on Slippery Pavement and His Career Ends.

New York, Nov. 30.—"Dandy," thirty-five years old, but a first class ambulance horse still, died in the harness to-day in a hurry-up run from Bellevue to East Fourteenth street and part way back.

A slippery pavement brought him down at a sharp turn, and after he had fallen in several efforts to regain his feet, Dr. Ruschli found that his right foreleg was broken. The patient was transferred to another ambulance, and a policeman ended "Dandy's" pain with a bullet.

He figured in the Windsor and Park Avenue Hotel fires, and at the time of the Harlem disaster made a record run of 100 rods.

Acquit Legless Treasurer.

Rockport, Ind., Nov. 29.—John P. Walker, former city and county treasurer, charged with embezzlement of over $83,000 of county funds, was acquitted last night. Walker contended that he had no felonious intent and paid to his debtors sufficiently on loans to expect off his balance. He is a cripple, his legs having been cut off above his knees in a railroad accident.

MR. FISH WINS ALLY

Walter Lutgen Leaves the Harriman Ranks.

ANNUAL MEETING DECEMBER 18

Rivals for Control of Illinois Central Active, Even After Close of Books—General Belief is That Fish Controls Majority of Proxies, with Enjoined Shares Excluded.

New York, Nov. 30.—The books closed to-day for the transfer of stock of the Illinois Central Railroad on December 18, at which the fight for supremacy between E. H. Harriman and Stuyvesant Fish will be decided.

The date was selected for a final stab by the Harriman party in the form of a circular to stockholders attacking Mr. Fish. The circular is signed by all of Mr. Harriman's associates in the directorate except one, Walter Lutgen, and his falling is looked upon as significant.

Not only does it cost Mr. Harriman an ally on the directorate, but it is taken to signify that the Rothschild family have given their proxies to Mr. Fish. Mr. Lutgen is a partner in August Belmont & Co.

"I have always rather admired Mr. Lutgen," said Mr. Fish to-day. "As to whether Mr. Lutgen would be counted on now, as one of his regular allies on the board, like Mr. Beach and Mr. Cutting, he declined to say."

To-day's closing of the books, of course, does not affect the making out of proxies and those will undoubtedly continue to come in to both parties, in response to their vigorous campaigns at home and abroad. These in a position to know, say, however, that there is not likely to be much change of position in this respect over the record made at the counting in October, when it was shown conclusively that, excluding the 28,000 shares held by the Union Pacific and other Harriman companies, an injunction against voting which was obtained, Mr. Fish controlled a majority of the stock. The closing of the books prevents, however, any further changes in ownership of the enjoined stock.

Mr. Harriman recently announced a plan for organizing a holding company which would take over all the Union Pacific's securities, including the 281,000 shares of Illinois Central it owns.

Denies Disposing of Holdings.

This has not been put through yet, and reports that the railroad securities company, another of Mr. Harriman's properties, had disposed of its holdings to some friendly syndicate are authoritatively denied. That Mr. Harriman has been able to get enough of the stock in the open market to turn the scale is unlikely, it is said, particularly as his resources are reported to have been stretched to the limit in the requirement of the Central of Georgia Railway from Oakleigh Thorne and Marsden J. Perry.

"That injunction will stick to his back like a splinter, and he can't shake it off," said Mr. Fish. "Mr. Fish never takes the trouble to speak of any one except Mr. Harriman when he talks of the opposition."

Starves Himself to Death.

Aged Recluse Found in Stable with Horse and Dogs.

New York, Nov. 30.—Henry Hollyer, an aged recluse, died to-day of deliberate starvation in a tumble-down stable he owned on West Thirty-seventh street. He had occupied the stable for years, with a horse and two bulldogs as his only companions.

His only recreation was occasionally to ride the horse, a magnificent thoroughbred. The police had to stand guard over the stable to prevent its destruction by neighbors, who believed Hollyer had treasure concealed in it.

OLD FEAST REVIVED

Jews Observe Chanukah in Memory of Victory.

MARKS DEFEAT OF SYRIANS

Sustaining of Religious Faith in Year 165, B. C., Combines with Patriotic Zeal in Present Ceremonies. Handles Light Synagogues and Candles—Little Ones Receive Gifts.

Chanukah, or the feast of dedication, will be celebrated in the Jewish churches of this city beginning to-day, and lasting through the succeeding seven days.

This feast, which is of very ancient origin, commemorates the religious independence of the Jews over the Syrians, who at one time tried to make the Jewish church adopt their faith. It is in some ways resembles the American Fourth of July and Thanksgiving Day, as it is both a religious and patriotic holiday.

The feast is practically a children's festival in the home at the present time, having lost many of its elaborate ceremonies in the centuries during which it has existed. At the Reformed Jewish churches in this city the Magilla will be read at services celebrating this feast to-day. But during the following days will only be observed in the homes of the members of the congregations. The Orthodox churches will have a slightly more elaborate service to-day, and every day following during the term of the celebration.

Each day in the homes a candle will be lighted by the children, until an entire candleabra, holding eight candles, is ablaze. It is also the custom to give the little ones of the household various gifts and to sing songs of rejoicing.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Washington Hebrew Congregation will have a children's festival to-day in Pythian Temple. Stereoscopic views, pictures of Jewish life in a century past, will be shown, and a short religious service will be conducted. Gifts will be distributed to the children.

Origin of the Festival.

Chanukah has lost many of its most picturesque features since the time it was first instituted, and it is not now as widely observed as in former years. The feast celebrates the victories of the Maccabees over the Syrian King Antiochus, who, in B. C. 165, tried to make the Jews desert their faith. At that time Syria became Hellenized and wanted to dominate Judea. The King of Syria passed many laws and tried to enforce them, compelling the Jews to abandon their temples and take to the Syrian faith.

The Jews at that time had many elaborate religious ceremonies and holy scrolls. Antiochus sent priests to Judea and tried to bribe the younger men of the faith, and was partly successful. The temples and ceremonies, dear to the Jewish mind, were desecrated, while the Syrians were in power. An organization called the Maccabees was effected at this time, and although only a handful of men, managed to defeat the vast Syrian armies.

This won national independence for Judea and the Jews. After the victory was won a celebration of eight days' length was held, and the Jews, believing the victory to be an act of God, vowed that thereafter they would celebrate this victory for eight days in each Jewish calendar.
