

SCHLEY SEES MIX-UP

Hero of Santiago Interested in Lively Runaway.

FIVE MEN SLIGHTLY INJURED

W. J. Donovan Hurt About Shoulder and J. I. Rjordann Receives Deep Cut Over Left Eye—Horse Makes Dash Down Fifteenth Street, and Bobo Analyzes Confused Situation.

Admiral Schley, hero of the battle of Santiago, witnessed runaway in Fifteenth street yesterday afternoon. The admiral, it is asserted by those who say they know, was even more excited over the runaway than when he turned his dogs of war loose on Admiral Cervera's runaway war ships.

Truman Lanham, chief of the park commission of the District, was driving up Fifteenth street toward H street. W. J. Donovan, proprietor of a saloon in Seventh street, was driving down Fifteenth street toward New York avenue.

Innocent Automobile.

About the middle of the block was an automobile, standing quietly and innocently by curbside. It was not looking for trouble, but trouble was looking for it. And all the time the hero of Santiago was looking at the trouble.

Meanwhile the horses attached to the carriages driven by Lanham and Donovan were approaching one another. When the vehicles were about to pass, it became necessary for the driver of one of the carriages to turn sharply from his course, to avoid colliding with the innocent-looking automobile. This action was about as unexpected to the occupant of the other buggy as the effort of Admiral Cervera to escape with his ships from Santiago Harbor was to Admiral Schley. Details at this point in the proceedings became confused.

Crashing of Timbers.

There was a crashing of buggy timbers. A man was seen shooting through the mass of buggies, horses, and excited persons, and then a horse, as swift as Sheridan rode on his famous ride, shot out from among the wreckage and sped down Fifteenth street.

In the meantime a crowd had gathered around a distinguished crowd, suffice to say, headed by the hero of Santiago, who was visibly affected. An invoice was taken, and there was a babble and confusion of tongues.

Donovan was found lying in the street with a companion, J. I. Rjordann, when Donovan's horse decided to leave the vicinity, and was discovered about three-tenths of a second later three city squares down Fifteenth street trying to register at the Regent Hotel. His efforts in this direction were frustrated by a baggage man, Deems Hoskin, who bravely stepped in the horse's path and stopped him. Incidentally, Donovan's buggy suffered badly. A front wheel was torn off and the shafts and dashboard broken.

Bobo on the Scene.

Bicycle Policeman Bobo, of the White House squad, had scented trouble, and made a sudden appearance around the corner at the intersection of Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue. While Bobo was trying to analyze the situation, Donovan suddenly thought of a roll of bills—$1,400—in an inside pocket of his coat. He disappeared with great rapidity. When he came back he announced he had deposited the money in a bank.

Both of the injured men were treated at the Emergency Hospital. Donovan's shoulder was hurt and Rjordann received a cut over the left eye.

DENIES THE REPORT.

Asserted Labor Union Has Not Made Indorsement.

The report circulated throughout the District that the Central Labor Union had indorsed Gen. Andrew S. Burt and John W. Patterson as candidates to the Republican national convention was denied by one of the officers of the Central body last night.

Secretary Sam De Nedrey said the Central body had received a communication from Gen. Burt announcing he would support Senator Foraker for the Presidency. This communication was referred to the body, who, on motion, referred it to the delegates, to be taken to the different papers for the benefit of their members.

Mr. De Nedrey added that the Central Labor Union had taken no action relative to the local political campaign, and had indorsed no candidates, and he did not think they would.

As the date for the Republican primaries draws near, the fight between the two sides becomes warmer. Both sides are eliciting the services of large corporations and are making steady progress.

WOMEN OBSERVE DAY

Surrender of Lee Discussed at Circle Meeting.

CELEBRATE AN ANNIVERSARY

Ladies of G. A. R. Give an Interesting Programme, Consisting of Speeches, Songs, and Drills—Col. McElroy Makes Plea for Perpetuating Memory of Appomattox.

U. S. Grant Circle, No. 1 Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, celebrated their seventeenth anniversary last night in G. A. R. Hall, Appomattox day was also remembered, certain numbers on the programme being devoted to the history of Lee's surrender.

Flags, bunting, flowers, smilax, and ferns were used as decorations. Besides the members of the circle many veterans and representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic posts were present.

Following an address of welcome by the president, Mrs. F. Randolph, and prayer by the chaplain, Mrs. Harry E. Houghterling, this programme was carried out.

Drill by the I. W. B. Flag Association, Mrs. Berry director and Miss Carrie Candelan accompanist; tenor solo, Charles Howatt; violin solo, Miss Louise May Farron, accompanied by Miss Jane Walker; vocal solo, Miss Fayne Woodhead; song, C. A. Woodhead; recitation, Col. E. B. Thompson; tenor solo, Lucius F. Randolph.

History of the Day.

Mrs. Christine Walton Dunlap, secretary of Appomattox Surrender House, spoke a few words of greeting on the history of the day and the work at Appomattox.

Col. McElroy, past senior vice commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. and editor of the Tribune, made an address on Appomattox and the need of its memory being perpetuated.

Capt. J. Walter Mitchell, former commander of the Spanish War Veterans, gave a historical resume of Appomattox, and told the history of the unmerited history of the civil war. Capt. Mitchell's efforts showed a scholarly research into the history of the war. His remarks received the closest attention. "America," following the singing of "America," the meeting closed with benediction by the chaplain.

DEMOCRATS MEET TO-MORROW.

Plan Vigorous Campaign in District and Near-by States.

The next regular meeting of the District of Columbia Democratic Association will be held Thursday evening, April 15, at the association headquarters, fifth floor of the Munsey Building.

Democrats of the District are in earnest this year to begin a vigorous campaign locally and in adjoining States for the success of the party and its candidates for the Presidency and Congress. Every man in the District, of whatever political persuasion in the past, who is anxious to see a change in its administration of the government, is requested to be present.

Among the speakers will be Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska; Jackson H. Randolph, of Maryland; Thetus W. Sims, of Tennessee; W. McClinton, Hugh Harvey, and Thomas W. Buckley.

DANCERS GIVEN MEDALS.

Justice Gould Makes Presentation at National Theater.

Another large and enthusiastic audience witnessed a repetition of "Miss Cora Shreve's opera, "Leonora," at the National Theater last night.

At the close of the second act, Justice Gould, of the District Supreme Court, made a short speech, in which he praised Miss Shreve highly for her good work and awarded the medals to the pupils who had attained the highest proficiency in dancing during the last year.

Master Minor Ellis was given first medal; Miss Leona Callan, second; Miss Gertrude Carpenter, third, and Miss Estelle Murray, fourth.

Miss Shreve was presented a handsome dancing table, by her pupils, as an appreciation of her efforts in their behalf.

NEWS CUT SHORT.

Hearing will be given a representation from the Anacostia Citizens' Association by the Commissioners on the naming of streets in Anacostia.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jane Padgett, who died yesterday morning at the age of eighty-eight years, will be held at 2 o'clock to-morrow.

The funeral of John B. Gilliland, who died Sunday, will be held from the chapel of Lee's undertaking establishment this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

George L. Mowen, thirty-five years old, arrested in Baltimore Monday night by Central office Detective Mullin on charge of forgery, will be given a hearing next week. Bond has been fixed at $1,500.

Death of Gen. Byron N. Cutcheon on Monday at the residence of his wife, Mrs. M. Cutcheon, was a surprise to his family. Gen. Cutcheon was a member of the House of Representatives in the Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth, Fiftieth, and Fifty-first Congresses.

At the meeting of District Council, No. 15, 15th, Royal Arcanum, last night in Schuyler Hall, 535 Ninth street northwest, Percy C. Bowen gave a character sketch of Mark Twain's "Pudding Head Willard" and read selections from the story.

Y., were yesterday accompanied by Detective David Sheehan to New York City, the scene of their crime.

Death by accident, his own carelessness, and the verdict of the coroner's jury, which met at the morgue yesterday to inquire into the death of Edward Baskford, a lineman employed by the Potomac Light and Power Company, who was killed early Monday morning by touching a live wire.

ROUND TABLES HELD

Manual Training Association Sessions Continue.

ADDRESS MADE BY J. H. DIX

F. O. Carpenter Another Speaker. President to Receive Delegates at White House To-day—Election of Officers and Reception at McKinley Manual Training School To-night.

Addresses by James H. Dix, of the Philadelphia Vacant Lot Cultivation Association, and Frank O. Carpenter, master of the department of commerce, English and manual training, in which the manual training of pupils in the city and rural schools was the general theme, marked the close of the second session of the annual meeting of the Eastern Manual Training Association, held yesterday in the Business High School.

President John C. Brodhead, of Boston, Mass., presided, and with a few remarks introduced the speakers.

Mr. Dix's discourse, "The great manual training for forty millions of our people," Mr. Dix spoke of the great necessity for the youth of the farm to stay in the country and make a scientific study of conditions there, and in that way relieve the situation in the city, which is too much overcrowded. He told of the great need of the teaching of facts about nature to the small children, and how it should be placed up later by actual working in agriculture.

Frank O. Carpenter spoke of the materials that should be used in teaching pupils in manual training.

Three Round Tables Held. At the afternoon session there were three round tables held. These began at 3 o'clock. "Domestic science and arts" were the subjects discussed in room No. 12, and was presided over by Miss Irene McDermott, of the Allegheny High School, Allegheny, Pa.

"Manual training for boys" was the subject at round table in the assembly room, with John C. Park, of the State Normal and Training School, Oswego, N. Y., presiding. "Manual arts in normal schools" was discussed at round table in room 18. Alvin E. Dodd, of the Normal Training School, Trenton, N. J., presided.

At the meeting in room 12 "The social value of domestic science training" was discussed by Miss Irene McDermott, Allegheny High School, Allegheny, Pa. "Methods: Individual, group, demonstrations" was handled by Mrs. Ada B. Williams, supervisor domestic science, Cleveland public schools, Cleveland, Ohio.

At the meeting in the assembly hall Mr. Park discussed "Fundamental principles of manual training." The balance of the programme consisted of discussions by J. A. Chamberlain, supervisor of manual training, Franklin School, this city; William J. Deatur, Howard University; George E. Meyers, principal McKinley Manual Training School; R. Charles Bates, Jacob T. Deane, Port Deposit, Md.; Mary G. Davis, public schools, Boston, Mass.; William C. A. Hammil, director of manual arts, State Normal and Industrial Schools, Greensboro, N. C.

Today's Programme. There will be a session this morning, at which T. D. Sensor, chief of the bureau of examinations, department of public instruction, Trenton, N. J.; J. H. Morse, principal of the Primary Industrial School, Columbus, Ga., and Charles R. Richards, secretary of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, will make addresses.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon President Brodhead will preside at a session in the East Room of the White House. To-night there will be a business session in the McKinley Manual Training School. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

There will also be a reception afterward in the assembly room of the school. Delegates arriving yesterday. The following delegates arrived yesterday: G. Virginia Green, Philadelphia, Pa.; Louise H. Billings, Boston, Mass.; Grace E. Hayden, Boston, Mass.; Charlotte E. Allen, Boston, Mass.; E. Davis, Boston, Mass.; Ella L. Breenstein, Boston, Mass.; Alice S. Bryant, Boston, Mass.; Sigrid K. Madsen, Boston, Mass.; Helen M. Cushman, Boston, Mass.; Elizabeth S. Hess, Trenton, N. J.; S. Ida Paltheother, Trenton, N. J.; Edith Boughman, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. Mary Green Davis, Boston, Mass.; F. M. Rochester, N. Y.; Lucy S. Vaughan, Lancaster, Pa.; Frank M. Leavitt, Boston, Mass.; W. C. Hopkins, New York City; Mrs. M. F. Maguire, New York City; Charles E. Brooks, New York City; G. H. Phillips, New York City.

IGNORES CARLIN CHARGES.

Commissioner Says Substation Matter Rests with Congress.

"I have already stated the facts, which are so simple there is really no room for controversy."

Commissioner Macfarland, in speaking of the charges against the Commissioner by Representative Carlin, in connection with the proposed railroad substation in South Washington, explained the situation in these words, to which he added:

"Congress now has the whole matter. It can pass Mr. Carlin's bill requiring the substation to be built at once. It can give the railroad the use of the site approved by the Commissioners, or it can disapprove that site and direct that another be provided, and in some other locality than 'north of the Long Bridge' if it desires. It is the supreme authority, and can to-day do anything that it pleases about the matter.

"Our conferences with the Senate Committee on Appropriations on the District budget, which is our most important matter with Congress, absorb our time now."

NIGHT SCHOOL CLOSES.

Joseph Troll, Isador Grosner, and Annie Rubin Prize Winners.

Franklin Night School closed last night, with the awarding of prizes for the best three essays written by foreign students on "The advantages offered by American citizenship."

Joseph Troll was awarded the first prize of $5 in gold offered by Mrs. G. T. Smallwood, Constitution Chapter, D. A. R., and vice regent for the District of Columbia. Second and third prizes, silk flags, given by our Flag Chapter, D. A. R., were awarded to Isador Grosner and Annie Rubin.

There were sessions for eighty nights this term at the Franklin school. This is the longest term ever held at the school. It is believed the term next year will be much shorter if the Senate fails to restore the cut made by the House of Representatives in the appropriation for night schools.

Lectures on Work of Treasury. Details of the workings of the Treasury Department were described to a large audience in the address of M. J. O'Reilly, on "The routine of obtaining advances and making deposits in the United States Treasury," before the Association of American Government Accountants, at the Public Library, last night.

EVANGELIST SERVICES.

J. R. Edwards, of Anacostia, Speaks at First Baptist Church.

J. R. Edwards, of Anacostia, spoke at the evangelistic services held at the First Baptist Church, Sixteenth and O streets northwest, last night, "Christ seeking the lost" was his subject.

E. Hex Sweet, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, will speak at the meeting to be held at the First Baptist Church fourth anniversary night, Rev. John R. Stratton, of Baltimore, and on Friday night Rev. E. T. Carter will speak.

The Ladies Aid Society and the Immanuel Mission Circle of the First Baptist Church met yesterday morning, at 11 o'clock, and held sessions all day. Rev. Mr. Scarito, of the Baptist Italian Mission, at Fifth and M streets, spoke on "Immigration and the home mission." Mrs. Wimbler, president of the Ladies Aid Society, and Mrs. G. Rick, president of the Immanuel Mission Circle, conducted the meeting.

Next Sunday the Chinese Sunday school of the First Baptist Church will have its fourth anniversary. Ling Bow, a Chinese boy, who was received into the church last night, at the evangelistic services, will be baptised.

COL. BRETT IS DINED

National Guard Regiment Gives Farewell Feast.

STRICTLY A MILITARY AFFAIR

Guests in Full-Drum Uniform and the Menu of Unique Design—Guest of Honor Makes an Address, Calling Attention to Disregard of Congress to the District Militia.

How shall we rank these upon glory's page, These more than soldier and not less than sage? Thus sang the First Regiment, Second Battalion, National Guard of the District of Columbia, at the farewell dinner given to Lieut. Col. Lloyd M. Brett at "La Boheme" last night.

The dinner was strictly a military affair, the nineteen guests being in full-dress uniform, and the menu card gotten up in a manner that resembled a camp bill of fare.

Dainty red lights spread a soft effulgence about the banquet table, that gave the dining hall a picturesque aspect. Each course, according to the menu, was named appropriate to a soldier's mess.

Introduces the Guest. Following the report, Maj. Joseph F. Hodgson, toastmaster, introduced, with an appropriate speech, the guest of honor. Col. Brett responded, thanking the regiment and praising the officers for the progress made by the regiment in the last few years. He also commended the men of the guard on the showing they have made under adverse circumstances.

"We should do all we can for the officers and men of the guard," said he, "always remembering that their military duty comes first, and in return for duty we do one that there is nothing too good for those who do it."

Referring to the apparent disregard of Congress to the needs of the District militia, the colonel remarked that Congress seemed favorable to the project for the erection of a new armory, but were slow in appropriating the money to advance the work.

"Only to-day he asked if $50,000 was a sufficient appropriation to build the armory. They have got to be educated to the needs of the National Guard of this country. Every large city of this country the militia has large and commodious quarters, for without such the National Guard cannot maintain a high standard."

Hopes for a Reality.

He expressed his appreciation at being invited to the dinner, and said he hoped the new armory would be a reality. The dinner closed with the singing of the following verse, to the tune of "Everybody Works but Father."

Here's to the Second Battalion, Companies H, F, G, and E. Some don't think we are the best. But we always work hard. We turn out well in camp. We drill like hell — when we do; We won't dare let you this if this wasn't true.

Those present were: Lieut. Col. M. Brett, Lieut. Col. H. Reichelderfer, Maj. F. Hodgson, Lieut. W. Sullivan, Lieut. Romulus A. Foster, Lieut. Edwin H. Neumeyer, Lieut. Harry C. Caldwell, Capt. C. E. Rogers, Lieut. Charles A. Myers, Lieut. W. Laurence Hazard, Capt. Charles L. Broadway, Lieut. Edward L. Turner, Capt. J. Henry Bean, Lieut. Duncan L. Richmond, Lieut. Leonard H. Johnson, Capt. J. William Lehmann, Lieut. Harry N. Stull, and Lieut. Robert S. Meyer.

DENIES BLACK HAND EXISTS.

King of Italy Wants Legends of the Camorra Destroyed.

Rome, April 14.—Kisner Victor Emmanuel yesterday gave an audience to Robert Watcher, commissioner of immigration at New York; William B. Howland, secretary of the Outlook Company, New York; and the treasurer of Italian Immigration Society.

In conversing upon the subject of emigration, the King said it was indispensable to destroy the legends of the Camorra and Black Hand, which alleged societies did not exist either in Italy or America.

FACES HEAVY SENTENCE.

Herbert, if Convicted, May Get Forty-two Years in Penitentiary. Benjamin Herbert, about fifty years old, a car cleaner employed by a local street car company, was convicted in Criminal Court No. 2 yesterday of a serious charge.

His daughter, Mazie Herbert, fourteen years old, but who looks much older, was Herbert's victim. While the girl denied the charges, the testimony of three witnesses made the case conclusive against Herbert.

Under the code Herbert can receive a sentence of forty-two years in the penitentiary.

ALEXANDER ON STAND

Made Irregular Attests Only for Schneider.

TESTIMONY OF GIRL CLERK

Miss Curtis Tells of Assigning Her Right to Apply for School Lands. G. W. Davis, Another Salem (Ore.) Notary, Tells of Buying Assignments for $1 and $2 Each.

The government continued its presentation of testimony yesterday, in the trial of Frederick A. Hyde, John A. Benson, Henry P. Dimond, and Joost H. Schneider, on an indictment which charges them with conspiracy to defraud the government out of valuable land in the West.

Don Alexander, former notary public, of Portland, Ore., on the stand yesterday, who testified he had attested applications for land, warrant deeds, &c., and had attached his notarial seal to them without the parties whose signatures appeared being present, and who were unknown to him, continued on the stand.

Girl Clerk on the Stand.

District Attorney Baker and Special Attorney Fugh, who are handling the government's case, placed on the stand Miss Belle Curtis, a former employee of Hyde, and George W. Davis, a former notary public of Oregon.

There will be no session of the court on Friday, on account of it being Good Friday, it was announced. In order that no time will be lost, however, contrary to custom, a session will be held Saturday.

Alexander was recalled when court convened and continued his identification of papers attested by him. On cross-examination, when asked if he was in the habit of placing his seal on papers put out in blank, he said he was not, and that the papers attested at the request of Schneider were not only papers so attested while he acted as a notary. He said he only received the usual notary fees from Schneider.

Miss Curtis testified as to the routine of work in Hyde's office. Her testimony in no way damaged her former employer. She said on one occasion she received $20 from Mr. Hyde to assign to him her right to apply for school land in California.

George W. Davis, of Hayward, Cal., formerly of Salem, Ore., and a notary public while a resident of Oregon, testified to having secured the assignment by a number of people of their applications for school land in Oregon, and stated that he paid these persons $1 and $2 each for their "rights."

District Attorney Baker showed the witness a bundle of about fifty applications. He identified the first one shown to him as having been attested by him in his capacity as notary public.

Then adjournment was taken for the day. Davis will continue on the stand to-morrow.

URGE BETTER CAR SERVICE.

Petworth Citizens Join Associations in Fight.

With other near-by associations, the citizens of Petworth, last night, at the home of Mrs. Gattelus, determined to fight for better car service.

Vigor has been given to the plan by the information of a joint committee, of three members each from Petworth, Brightwood, and Takoma Park, and Takoma Park to advance this section.

Mr. Mackrille, the secretary of the committee, reported recommendations to have through car service to the city to have that section of the railroad's charter repealed which permits them to sell only four tickets for 25 cents.

In the discussion stress was placed on the inconvenience of the transfer station beyond the Boundary. Committees are endeavoring to have streets repaired, and also to have a subpost-office station.

SHEA IN MANSFIELD ROLE.

Appears in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" at the Academy.

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," as presented last night at the New Academy, by Mr. Thomas E. Shea, on the occasion of his second evening's appearance of the present engagement, was received by the large audience with every mark of approval.

Mr. Shea has won for himself an enviable position among the lovers of the classic drama, and the announcement of his repertoire for the week gave promise of a thoroughly delightful series of performances, looked forward to with real pleasure by any other actor would.

The portrayal of the weird and peculiar character of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" by that great actor Richard Mansfield was so high an order that to attempt its presentation by any other actor would seem almost presumptuous. But the mantle of Mr. Mansfield has not fallen on unworthy shoulders in the case of Mr. Shea, whose fine stage presence, his clear conception of the meaning of the play, and the lesson taught by its strangely contrasting characters as shown by his presentation last night met with the warmest approval of the audience, which appeared to appreciate the treat that was set before it. Mr. Shea undoubtedly has few, if any, capable competitors on the stage to-day in this most difficult production.

To-morrow evening Mr. Shea will appear in "The Belles," in which he assumes the character of Mathias, a roll demanding exceptional ability.

PROGRESS ON DISTRICT BILL.

Commissioners Anticipate Committee Report to Senate on Monday.

Unusually rapid progress was made at conference yesterday morning and Monday morning between the Commissioners and the Senate Committee on Appropriations over the District appropriation bill.

It is hoped the bill will be reported to the Senate by next Monday.

All estimates in the budget omitted by the House are advocated by the Commissioners over the District appropriation bill. They will be restored in the Senate. They are particularly desirous about the school appropriations.

The members of the Senate subcommittee are: Senator Gallinger, chairman; Elkins, Hennaway, Foster, and Tillman. The latter is absent.
