- COMMITTEE ON CREDENTIALS. Indiana... Charles A. Bookwalter... Ohio... Harry M. Daugherty... COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS. Pennsylvania... John Dalzell... Ohio... Wade Ellis... STATE CHAIRMEN. Indiana... Senator Beveridge... Ohio... Ex-Gov. Myron T. Herrick...

Chicago, June 15.—The Indiana delegation met to-day and elected Senator Beveridge chairman of the delegation and named Senator Hemenway for the committee on resolutions.

Mayor Charles H. Bookwalter, of Indianapolis, is to be the State's representative on the committee on credentials. He will lead the fight for the allies in the committee and upon the floor of the convention if necessary for the sending of the 150 delegates which the allies claim the national committee unrighteously have unseated.

While Mayor Bookwalter was making this announcement Vice President Fairbanks caused it to be known here that if the convention really insisted upon his renomination for Vice President he could not see how he could refuse to obey the call, and in so many words the Vice President said that he would obey the orders of his friends.

Want Southern Contingent Cut. The Pennsylvanians met and named John Dalzell for member of the committee on resolutions, and re-elected Senator Penrose national committeeman. Representative James Francis Burke presented his resolution for slicing down the Southern representation in national conventions, and Mr. Burke is to present this resolution to the committee on rules. The Keystone State chaps are still for Knox. The Illinois men are still for Cannon. The Wisconsin men speak of Senator La Follette with enthusiasm as Presidential timber.

The New Yorkers, at their meeting of the delegation, selected Timothy Woodruff as chairman of the delegation and re-elected William L. Ward as national committeeman. By a resolution presented by Representative Parsons, Gov. Woodruff was requested to present the name of Gov. Hughes as the choice of the delegation for the presidency.

Mr. Parsons also moved to make Congressman S. E. Payne the State's member on the committee on resolutions. This was unanimously adopted. Congressman J. Stout Fassett was selected for the credentials committee. Speaker Wadsworth for the rules committee, and Senator Depew as honorary vice president.

Hughes Stays in Race. Representative Parsons to-day telegraphed to Gov. Hughes urging him to retire as New York's Presidential aspirant, but Gov. Hughes declined to do so. The basis for Mr. Parsons' request was that the delegation here is utterly without standing. It is pretty nearly the laughing stock of the convention city.

Delegation Not for Hughes. The delegation is not for Gov. Hughes. When ex-Gov. Odell entered the meeting of the New York delegation he had in his pocket a resolution which called upon the forty-two delegates instructed to break their allegiance to Hughes.

Port Heads New Jersey. At the meeting of the New Jersey delegation, Senator Keen was elected chairman of the delegation by a vote of 14 to 10. Gov. Fort getting the 10. In the interest of harmony, and in order to give the State a solid delegation for ex-Gov. Franklin Murphy for Vice President, Senator Keen immediately resigned as chairman of the delegation and moved that Gov. Fort be elected to the place. This was done unanimously.

Eagles at Marshall Hall. A large delegation of Eagles from Washington, Aerie, No. 125, and their families journeyed to Marshall Hall yesterday for their sixth annual excursion. Athletics and games were participated in, and it was a tired but jolly crowd that landed at the Seventh street wharf at a late hour last night.

DIPLOMATS ON SCENE

Nations of World to Be Represented at Convention.

JOHN BARRETT KEPT BUSY

Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce, Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, Minister Wu Ting-fang, and Other Foreign Representatives Will for First Time Witness Stirring Scenes.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Chicago, Ill., June 15.—The titled representatives of the nations of the world who have come to see and report the convention, write books, &c., did not seem at all anxious about their seats. They did not besiege the convention managers at all. They just waited in their apartments or in the homes where they are being entertained until Mr. John Barrett's secretary reached them by phone and a messenger delivered the tickets to them. Such is greatness.

Ambassador Bryce Coming.

The Right Hon. James Bryce, the British Ambassador, with Mrs. Bryce, was expected in the evening at the Annex. They have been visiting friends at Madison, Wis., and Mr. Bryce will attend the sessions of the convention to note at first hand American political complexities on which he is such an authoritative writer.

Mr. J. Jusserand, the French Ambassador, with Mme. Jusserand, arrived this morning. They will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. McCormick. A dinner of twenty-six covers will be given for them to-night at the McCormick residence.

Another startling discovery was made yesterday by those who are planning a front-porch style of campaign for Candidate Taft. Secretary Taft, which is his legal residence, but he hasn't a home there.

Mr. Taft made this admission yesterday when asked if it was his intention to make his campaign from a front porch. But the discovery that Mr. Taft has neither a front porch nor a home in Cincinnati has by no means discouraged those of his admirers who are making his future plans for him. They feel assured that Brother Charles, who also lives in Cincinnati, will lend his home and front porch to Brother Bill.

POLICE PROTECTION AMPLE.

Out-of-town Detectives and Chicago Officers Caring for Crowds.

Chicago, June 15.—Final arrangements for police protection of day by Capt. P. D. O'Brien, of detective headquarters. The usual details were re-enforced by 100 picked men of the department, in addition to ten detectives sent from other cities. Each of the out-of-town detectives was paired with a Chicago officer. They were assigned to the hotels and the vicinity of the Coliseum.

WOMEN SEEN AT THE CONVENTION

Chicago, June 15.—Mrs. Nathan B. Scott, of West Virginia, wife of Senator Scott, of the national committee, is one of the most enthusiastic women here for the convention. She certainly is good to look at. She has soft gray hair, becomingly arranged, and has a way of wearing all gray costumes, hat, gloves, shoes, and all of the same pleasing hue. She stood before the Annex this morning watching the orphan children start upon their automobile trip about town, and if the instigator of that famous ride had been up for election just then and Mrs. Scott had a sure enough vote he would have gotten it.

Miss Helen Cannon and her sister, Mrs. Le Seure, arrived to-day, and are at the Annex. Miss Cannon's namesake, Helen Le Seure, now about thirteen years old, accompany them to "root" for her grandfather—her favorite candidate.

Senator and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew were the center of the social and political gathering as they were throughout the day the object of particular interest wherever they went. Mrs. Depew never has been before, and throngs of curious people waited in the Annex reception room for a glimpse of her at the moment when she was proceeding between high rows of mattresses stacked in the hallway of the Auditorium proper to her own suite.

OLD-TIME POLITICIANS FORCED TO THE REAR

alarm-bell? Is it in the platform? No; our reformers are making terms with the campaign, from the high functionaries to the office boy, came near losing his head.

While the Senator and Mrs. Depew were going in at one entrance, delegations from many places were passing through the other entrances.

As a result of this political stampede nobody got a chance to see just what Mrs. Depew was wearing, but it is known that her gown was of dark blue mohair, correctly tailored, and with embroidered collar and cuffs. With it she had on a white linen shirtwaist, also tailored, and a white and blue hat. She looked as untroubled as if she had just stepped from her room for a morning walk, but she and the Senator hurried to their rooms hastily, and she left word with the maid that she wished to see no one until 6 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh arrived in town last evening in their special car from Denver, and are making headquarters at the Annex. Miss Evelyn L. Walsh traveled in a natty costume of gray, while Mrs. Walsh, who is practically still in mourning for her young son and her mother, Mrs. Reed, wears black, though not deep mourning.

That political conventions have an attraction for women is proved by the arrival in town of Mrs. Shelby M. Cullom, who is looking forward to her fifth Republican national convention with great interest.

Mrs. Cullom helped to nominate James G. Blaine for his rather pathetic run for the Presidency. That was her first convention, and, to her, one of the most interesting. After that she attended the convention which nominated that successful candidate, Benjamin Harrison; later she came on to the convention which gave McKinley his nomination, and also was present when Roosevelt was nominated.

None of this proves that Mrs. Cullom is a politician. She is an old-fashioned type of woman, becoming rarer each year, and is growing gracefully old without the least assistance from the hairdresser or complexion specialists. Her gray hair is waved and parted above a tender, sweet face, and when she declares she is just a domestic woman, devoted to her husband and her household, you believe it.

DOLLIVER IS WANTED

Taft Looks with Favor Upon the Iowan.

EVEN CUMMINS WOULD DO

Administration Circles Plan to Forestall Adoption of Prohibition Plank by Democratic Convention. Cortelyou Not Opposed, but Wisdom of Running Two Members of the Cabinet is Doubted.

New York, June 15.—The New York Sun publishes the following from its Washington bureau:

While the stock of Senator Jonathan Prentiss Dolliver, of Iowa, as a Vice Presidential candidate is on the decline in Chicago, it is still above par in White House circles.

Direct from headquarters came this tip to-day: Second place on the ticket will in all probability be filled by an Iowan. It will either be Senator Dolliver or Gov. Albert Baird Cummins.

Dolliver has been the administration favorite from the beginning. Others were trotted out from time to time for public inspection, and for a show of open mind on the part of the administration.

Gov. Cummins is regarded as merely a pawn on the political chessboard. The administration has no patience with Republicans in Iowa who are opposed to the nomination of Dolliver on the ground that the way would thus be opened for Cummins to go to the Senate. Cummins stands well at the White House. While the administration is undoubtedly stacking the cards to force Dolliver on the ticket, they are holding Cummins in reserve. A close friend of Secretary Taft said to-day:

"Gov. Cummins would make a splendid Vice Presidential candidate. He is a whirlwind on the stump, a warm advocate of the Roosevelt policies, and popular in all the States of the Northwest. Should Dolliver, for any reason, be finally eliminated, I expect to see 'Cummins named.'"

Dolliver for President.

Geographical considerations have not alone prompted those interested in the fortunes of Mr. Taft to look to Iowa for the Vice Presidential candidate. It is regarded as probable that the Democrats, in convention assembled at Denver in July, will incorporate a prohibition plank in their platform. The Republicans will fight shy of prohibition, so far as expression is concerned, but the administration men think it advisable to make a substantial bid for the "dry" vote. They want to do this through the mediumship of the Vice Presidential candidate.

Here again Dolliver particularly, and Cummins to an appreciable degree, fill the bill. Mr. Dolliver has long been identified with the movement in Congress to secure the passage of a bill forbidding the shipment of intoxicants into States and districts where prohibition or local option prevails. Cummins, Dolliver, and in fact nearly all the prominent Republicans in Iowa, are more or less identified with the prohibition movement.

From the standpoint of the administration, Dolliver and Cummins, in the order named, look good as Vice Presidential candidates.

May Let Convention Decide.

There is a remote chance that after all the Taft forces may let the convention make its own choice of a Vice Presidential candidate. This may be done in order to assuage the wounded feelings of the "allies" who have been run over by the steam roller. It is known that the matter has been discussed in inner administration circles. In such an event, even Taft leaders admit that George B. Cortelyou would stand an excellent chance of landing on the ticket. But in the background stands the tall form of Charles Warren Fairbanks, a specter to administration eyes.

No opposition would come from Washington to the nomination of Secretary Cortelyou; no obstacle would be placed in his way if he were a leading candidate. Taft spokesmen contend that it might be impolitic to complete the ticket with another Cabinet officer, but as to Mr. Cortelyou personally, they speak in the highest terms.

The prediction is made by those standing close to the seats of the mighty that the platform to be adopted at Chicago will be substantially as it was written in Washington.

Will Indorse "My Policies."

It will indorse the President's policies, a part of the legislative programme projected at Congress during the recent session, and it is expected to administer to prove most satisfactory to administration supporters. The plank as to anti-injunction, which is a straddle, is intended to placate organized labor, and at the same time appease the interests who are opposed to any declaration on the subject.

PRESIDENT FOR DOLLIVER.

"Take Him or Cummins," His Suggested Ultimatum.

Chicago, June 15.—It is said that President Roosevelt is still strongly in favor of Senator Dolliver's nomination for Vice President, despite the fact that a strong letter was read to the Iowa delegation to-day from Senator Dolliver to George Perkins, chairman of the delegation, urging that the movement to nominate him be dropped, in order to avert party factionalism in Iowa, with its dangers for the national ticket.

The following dispatch was sent to Secretary Taft to-day: "Chicago, June 15.

"W. H. Taft, Washington: 'Please discourage talk of Dolliver. It means practically anarchy in Iowa and almost certainly a Democratic legislature. You can't afford to support a strong Republican State.'"

Mr. Hart is the national committeeman for the State of Iowa. The delegation was polled and the Allison-Dolliver people represented eighteen of the twenty-five delegates, all believing that the text of Senator Dolliver's letter should be obeyed.

When the President was informed of the persons read to the Iowa delegation concerning Senator Dolliver, he set back word that if he did not take Dolliver they ought to take Gov. Cummins. This command was received with consternation. It was interpreted to mean that the President was in the same mood of mind as when he was uttered the famous phrase, "If they don't take Taft they'll take me." That is, if they don't take Dolliver they will have to take Cummins.

The Palais Royal, 6 St., 11th St. A. LISNER. CRANE MAY BE CHAIRMAN. Selection is Believed to Lie Between Him and Hitchcock. From a Staff Correspondent. Chicago, June 15.—At the present time the chairmanship of the next national committee seems to lie between Senator W. Murray Crane, of Massachusetts, and Frank H. Hitchcock, of Ohio. The list of candidates was added to today, however, by the names of Harry S. New, of Indiana, the present chairman, and former Gov. Myron T. Herrick, of Ohio. Mr. New will be a member of the next committee and Mr. Herrick will not.
