PRESIDENT'S FOURTH QUIET
Makes No Speech, but Has Fireworks Display for Guests.

Wired About Washington Democrats' Desire to Fire Bryan Salute, Which May Be Granted.

Oyster Bay, July 4.—Aside from the noise of the patriotic small boy, Oyster Bay had a very quiet Fourth.

There was no speech by the President, and, as the local team has disbanded, not even a ball game. To-night Sagamore Hill is ablaze with fireworks, and the villagers, who were disappointed in not scoring on the last chance for a Fourth of July speech from the President, are consoling themselves by watching the show from the beaches.

President Roosevelt spent the day at home, taking his customary horseback ride in the afternoon. Secretary Loeb made a brief visit to the hill to go over the necessary work with the President, and the Executive offices were closed for the day. The Secretary and Mrs. Loeb returned to Sagamore Hill in the evening to see the fireworks.

The party at the President's house included the J. W. Foster family, the W. E. Miller family, Rev. Dr. Alexander Russell and his family, and several other guests from the village and the summer colony.

A letter was received at the executive offices this morning from Col. Charles S. Bromwell, the President's military aid and superintendent of public buildings in Washington, asking if it would be all right to grant the request of Washington Democrats for permission to fire forty-six guns from the Monument grounds to celebrate the nomination of Bryan. Col. Bromwell wrote that he was in doubt about the propriety of the salute, since Bryan's nomination would hardly be "a national celebration." It is understood that the request will be granted.

WOMAN STRUCK BY ROCKET.
Missile Then Enters Home and Starts a Blaze.

While Mrs. Torryson, of Waverly Heights, was walking along Pennsylvania avenue, near Twenty-second street, last night about 10:45 o'clock, a skyrocket set off from the opposite side of the street struck her on the arm, burning her severely.

The rocket then veered off and entered a window of 221 Pennsylvania avenue, setting fire to the building. The fire department put out the blaze, after damage was done amounting to about $5. The house is the residence of A. Soper, and is owned by G. N. Reid.

JUSTICE AUKUM ON BENCH.
Takes Mullowny's Place and Opens Court an Hour Earlier.

Justice of the Peace George C. Aukum yesterday presided over the first session of the District branch of the Police Court held since Judge Alexander R. Mullowny went on his vacation.

A number of cases of carrying concealed weapons, and several persons who were alleged to have celebrated the Fourth of July at a disorderly party, were the principal offenders tried by the acting judge.

In the past the Police Court has always opened at 9 o'clock. Yesterday Justice Aukum announced that court would be opened during his term on the bench at 7 o'clock. After a conference with Assistant Corporation Counsel James Pugh and Clerk Harper, he changed the time to 8 o'clock.

The first offender brought before Judge Aukum was John Anderson, a crippled negro, charged with disorderly conduct. The negro was tearful and penitent, and Judge Aukum started his term of service by dismissing the case.

In the case of Frank Marzpana, a Greek, charged with carrying concealed weapons, and with riding a bicycle in excess of the speed limit, Judge Aukum was not so lenient. He imposed a fine of $5 for the first charge and $5 for the second.

AEROPLANE FAILS IN FLIGHT
Coupling of Propeller Shaft Snaps and Stops Progress.

Crowd of Nearly 1,000 Persons Disappointed at Israel Ludlow's Accident Yesterday Afternoon.

Accidents marred the preliminary flight of Israel Ludlow's new aeroplane yesterday afternoon. As the flying machine was about to leave the ground the coupling of the propeller shaft to the motor snapped. No injury was done to the operator or the machine, R. S. Moore.

A crowd of nearly 1,000 persons gathered to watch the initial flight, attracted by the loud reports from the motor. Several policemen were on hand and easily handled the crowd.

It was Mr. Ludlow's intention to merely test the completed aeroplane, but this test proved so successful that he decided on his first flight. The aeroplane alighted about 100 feet of granite walk in the train shed of the old station, and out into the section of Sixth street recently completed, which extends through the Mall.

A breeze from the south was blowing at the rate of ten miles an hour. The aeroplane was headed against the wind under propulsion of its own power. After starting the motor, the aeronaut was about to assume his pose so placed as to produce perfect equilibrium, when the coupling of the propeller shaft broke.

The air ship was about to leave the ground just as that moment, the aeroplane's weight having kept it to the ground. Had he reached his post, the air ship would probably have been in the air, and the accident would have resulted in injury to both operator and machine.

The preliminary trial in the train shed developed a pulling power of more than a hundred pounds. This fact overcame the doubt in the mind of Mr. Ludlow as to the capability of the 25-horsepower opposed motor to lift the aeroplane, and caused him to try flight instead of waiting for a new 20-horsepower motor, which he expects to obtain in a week.

Another cause leading to the accident was the fact that a 20-pound fly-wheel was used instead of a 70-pound fly-wheel, which was on hand. The lighter fly-wheel was used in an effort to reduce weight, the motor, gasoline, and propeller, alone weighing about twenty pounds. The vibration proved too great for the fly-wheel used.

Owing to the fact that the old Pennsylvania Station will be demolished, beginning July 15, Mr. Ludlow has been offered the use of the race track grounds for landing by the management. It is probable that the flight will occur there.

Mr. Ludlow leaves for New York tomorrow to arrange for procuring money for the purchase of a 20-horsepower motor. He will return on July 13, and supervise the transferring of his aeroplane to Benning.

CHURCH RECEPTION FOR THE DELEGATES

Rev. Dr. Van Schaick Host of Young Universalists.

UNION CHOOSES NEW OFFICERS

Harry Russell Childs Again President of the Young People's Christian Union—W. J. Ogden Discusses Equal Rights in Church and State. Rev. J. C. Adams to Preach To-day.

A reception tendered the 200 delegates of the Young People's Christian Union convention at the Church of Our Father last night by Rev. John Van Schaick brought the fourth day's session of the convention to a fitting close.

The day was given partly to devotional and patriotic exercises, with a short business meeting in the forenoon. Many of the visitors assembled at the Monument grounds last evening and viewed the display of fireworks.

Aside from the election of officers, the principal feature of the day sessions was the address delivered at the patriotic service yesterday afternoon by W. J. Ogden, of Baltimore.

Prof. Arthur W. Peirce, of Massachusetts, presided at this meeting and introduced Rev. Dr. H. N. Couden, Chaplain of the House of Representatives, who offered the prayer. After several patriotic selections, sung by the audience, Mr. Ogden was called to the platform.

Discusses Independence Day.

He said, in part:

"This day, 132 years ago, the report of the committee of five—John Adams, Roger Sherman, Robert R. Livingston, John Jay, Franklin, and Thomas Jefferson—on a Declaration of Independence, was adopted by the representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled at Philadelphia.

"The gist of the Declaration of Independence is equal rights to all men, contained in the immortal sentence: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.'

"This first great principle is, indeed, a self-evident truth, and no amount of false logic or cunning word-phrasing can dislodge it as the very imperishable cornerstone of this republic. The lowest born negro is equal to the highest born before this law. The untutored ignoramus is the equal of the learned and influential scholar before this law. The criminal in prison is the equal of the virtuous Judge before this law. It is not self-contradictory, as some would have it appear, for it does not offend the sight or any sense or reason.

Triumph of the Intellect.

"Before its burning light the darkness of superstition has given place to a religion worthy of that name. The natural tendency of priestcraft is checked by the light that lighteth every man that cometh into the world. By this truth men demand their right of consent to every form of teaching, whether it be by preachers, teachers, press, or politicians.

"John Adams and Thomas Jefferson were, respectively, the original Republican and the original Democrat, yet both subscribed to the Declaration of Independence, which is equal to all men, and inconsistent with it, and was abolished.

"To-day the doctrine of equal rights to all men is denied by that strange thing known as the 'separate but equal' doctrine. The enemies are in the assertion of its truth so to-day Bryan and Roosevelt, the living exponents of the Democratic and Republican parties, stand together as against the forces that, with regard to party or politics, are allied to plunder the people.

Three Were Universalists.

"Universalists are here on their chosen ground. Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, and Benjamin Franklin, the majority of the committee, believed in the doctrine of Universalism, and the great truth of the universal fatherhood of God stands out in full relief in the immortal Declaration.

"The irresistible force of our great doctrine is being felt in every church in Christendom—in every legislative hall, and in every convention of political parties. Truth is breaking down the barriers of prejudice—men are seeing face to face and eye to eye. The Prince of Peace is conquering, in spite of the multiplication of battle ships, in spite of a metropolitan press largely controlled by the oppressors of the people. Abuses, deep-rooted, continue, but they have lost their grip upon the masses, and the public mind is open to the light. The doctrine of equal rights has captured both great political parties in America, and also in England. The enemies are in the minority, without a party, and there is no help for it. The press dare not, the church will not, and out of the final conflict the nation will rise victorious, an inseparable union of intractable States, resting upon a constituency of men conscious of their power, resolved in their determination that government for the people, by the people, and of the people shall not perish from the earth."

New Officers Chosen.

Following is the report of the committee on resolutions and the transaction of business yesterday morning, officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: Harry Russell Childs, New York, president; Rev. W. Hill, Salem, Mass., secretary; Arthur W. Peirce, Franklin, Mass., treasurer; executive board, Rev. O. Howard Perkins, Massachusetts; Miss Mabel Salmon, Illinois; Frank W. Bradley, Portland, Me., and Mary F. Jennings, Detroit.

Invitations were extended to the convention to meet next year in New York, Minneapolis, and St. Paul. It is probable that Minneapolis will get the next convocation, as most of the delegates seem to favor the Western city. The executive board, which will finally decide this matter, will undoubtedly take the choice of the delegates into consideration and decide in favor of the Minnesota city.

The delegates assembled at the convention church earlier than usual yesterday morning, more than 200 being present at 8 o'clock for the quiet hour meeting, which was conducted by Ralph W. E. Hunt, of Maine. "The greatest thing in the world" was the topic considered at this meeting.

At 8:30 o'clock a devotional meeting was led by Miss Maude E. Great, of New York. The topic was "Liberty."

Business of the convention was discussed from 9:30 until the noon recess. To-day the services of worship will take place at the convention church at 11 o'clock in the morning, conducted by Rev. Dr. Van Schaick, pastor. At this service Rev. John Coleman Adams will preach the occasional sermon. During the day

Mr. Hodes was born fifty-five years ago at Hudson, N. Y. He obtained an appointment in the Government Printing Office and remained in the service until his death. Former Public Printer Stillings promoted Mr. Hodes from foreman of the specification division to a position on the clerical force of the printers. Local Officials Admire Him.

Local officials of the Y. M. C. A. express gratification at the prospect of Mr. Cooper coming to Washington. The committee having in charge the nomination of a successor to Mr. Hearne was appointed on the 20th of June, and consisted of Miles M. Shand, chairman; Henry B. F. Macfarland, Hugh A. Thrift, W. H. Kerr, John H. Sieman, Jr., and S. W. Woodward. On this committee's invitation, Mr. Cooper visited Washington early last week and was the unanimous choice of the committee and the board, Director of Education Myron J. Jones, who has known of Mr. Cooper's work for many years, commends the choice unqualifiedly, stating that he is eminently fitted to become the chief executive officer of the National Capital Y. M. C. A. in its present period of activity and growing influence in the District of Columbia.

Mr. Cooper is a member of the George Washington Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, and of the Springfield Lodge of Masons. He is also the head of the Secretarial Institute, at Silver Spring, Lake George, in which many Washington Y. M. C. A. workers are actively interested.

Y. M. C. A. MOURNS MR. GRACE.

News of Missionary's Death in London Shocks His Friends Here.

Members of the Washington Young Men's Christian Association have been shocked at the news of the death of its officials yesterday announcing the death of Mr. A. H. Grace, their representative in Allahabad, India.

For many months Mr. Grace has been contemplating a visit to the United States as the guest of the Washington association, and with his family had reached England en route for Canada, where his home is located. He was the guest of his brother at Tunbridge Wells when he was struck with typhoid fever about four weeks ago. A letter from his wife was received by President Woodward last week stating that Mr. Grace was in a serious condition.

"The death of Mr. Grace and the relation between him and the Washington Young Men's Christian Association, Mr. John B. Sieman, Jr., president of the foreign work department of the Washington Young Men's Christian Association, said:

"The members of the Washington association feel most keenly the death of Mr. Grace. For eight years they have followed him with deep interest, and have contributed annually to his salary and expenses. Since inaugurating this 'foreign work policy' three other secretaries have been added to the foreign staff of the association, and Mr. Grace was the only one for China, and one for South America. The home-coming of Mr. Grace had been looked forward to with more than ordinary anticipation by his friends here, and deep regret and genuine sorrow over his death have been manifested among those who have had the opportunity to follow his work personally."

Commissioner Macfarland, who has known Mr. Grace personally since he first entered the field in India, said:

"The news of Mr. Grace's passing is an occasion of profound sorrow to his Washington friends.

"He had contributed to the Christian cause in the universities of Northern India a great and lasting service, and was himself one of the very choicest spirits ever sent out from the college of Canada. I repeat what I have publicly said before, that the loss of Mr. Grace is a great new building in G street, was really laid in Allahabad; for it was this foreign enterprise and interest which awakened in the association here a new sense of obligation and of outreach for the men of the nation's Capital."

NEGRO DROWNED IN RIVER.

James Martin, fifty years old, a negro, was drowned in the Eastern Branch shortly after 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The body has not yet been recovered.

Martin, who lives at Kendall Green, went boating early yesterday afternoon with Morris Pickwell, a white man, and J. C. Nickens, a negro. They rowed some distance above Benning Bridge, and the white man was borne down by the water-soaked clothing, and did not come up.

All three were thrown into the water. Nickens and Pickwell managed to swim ashore, but Martin was borne down by his water-soaked clothing, and did not come up.

DOES THE QUESTION OF SHOES CONFRONT YOU?

You can easily solve it by having your old shoes repaired with entire new bottoms instead of half soles. This method of repairing makes the shoes equal to new ones in every way—the whole sole and heels being sewed on by factory workmen with factory machinery.

"Phone Main 1519 to-morrow and a wagon will call for your work and return it the next day.
