TO-DAY'S GAMES.

Washington at Cleveland. Boston at Chicago. New York at St. Louis.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS. W. L. Pct. Philadelphia, 41 27 .600. Cleveland, 33 41 .448.

Special to The Washington Herald. Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 5.—There are not adjectives enough to describe the miserable game played by Washington to-day.

Just why it did not roll up an even larger total is rather difficult to understand, when it is stated that the locals made fourteen hits, including two triples and three doubles, had six sacrifice hits, received three bases on balls, and had the benefits of Washington's eight errors of commission and several of omission.

Eli Cates, his boy wonder, who gave Eddie Jones his first instructions in pitching many years ago, was Washington's first offering. He pitched only two innings, for Cleveland gathered a package of four hits in the second inning.

The champions took advantage of Dykert's wildness, however, and won the game in the latter half of the same inning, hits by Crawford and Roseman being the important factors. Score:

Detroit RHOAE Athletics RHOAE. Detroit, 12; Athletics, 1. Total, 12-1.

Berger Proves Effective. Berger was Cleveland's first pitcher, for Lajoie used two, as well as Cantillon. Berger, however, worked finely, holding the Nationals to three hits and one run in seven innings, when he retired to let the fans have another look at Foster.

Berger's work was very classy. He fanned the entire side in the first inning, and struck out seven in the seven innings that he was perspiring on the hill. He also sacrificed himself twice, and tried it a third time, when it failed to take.

Del and Clymer Suspended. Delehanty and Clymer, the two players who used some expressions during Tuesday's game that they never found in the Ladies' Home Journal, were suspended to-day, Ban Johnson sending word that both were suspended indefinitely.

Their absence placed Spike on third, Unglaub on second, and Edmonston, the demon Texan, in right field again. Washington's efforts in the run-getting line are easy to relate, so they will be described first. Berger whiffed the only three men who faced him in the first inning, but in the second he doubled, and scored on Street's single.

It was one, two, three, and out after that until the seventh, when Edmonston and McBride got on, the first singling, and McBride being passed. Nothing doing! Milan was the first to face Foster, and he was singled to center. Shipke walked, and when Milan tried to score on Ganley's single to center, he was caught at the plate, Hinchman relaying Altizer's throw. Then Unglaub fanned, and Hinchman threw out Freeman.

In the ninth inning, Street and Tannehill singled, but there was no one out, and Milan hit an easy grounder to Foster.

Runs and More Runs. On the other hand, Cleveland was oozy every minute. Josh Clarke scored in the first on a pass, Bradley's sacrifice, Unglaub's error, and Lajoie's sacrifice fly. Stovall's triple, singles by Nig and Josh Clarke and Bradley, with Milan's error, were responsible for three runs and Cates' exit in the second. With two down in the third, Stovall singled and Nig Clarke doubled, but Altizer's out finished the round.

Hinchman started the fourth inning with a double, and Berger sacrificed. Josh Clarke hit to Shipke, and Hinchman was run down. Then Bradley and Turner singled and Lajoie doubled, two more runs resulting before Turner was caught at the plate.

The real fun came in the next two innings, however, when Cleveland scored five runs on two passes, five errors, and only one hit, Hinchman making the lonely bling.

Cleveland drew a blank in the seventh, but in the eighth Lajoie went around on his single, Stovall's sacrifice, and Altizer's triple.

REDS AND GIANTS TIE.

Game Is Called at End of Ninth Inning Because of Darkness.

New York, Aug. 5.—The Reds leaned up against Crandall and Taylor in the ninth inning to-day and, aided by a bad throw by Devlin, took the lead. The New Yorks tied the score in their half and would have won, but for Mitchell's good throwing, which nailed two men trying to stretch singles into doubles. It was too dark to play longer. Score:

Cincinnati RHOAE New York RHOAE. Cincinnati, 4; New York, 4.

Special to The Washington Herald. Baltimore, Md., Aug. 5.—In a sweeter heat on the stage of the Monumental Theater to-night, Soldier Burns, the light-weight champion of the South, and Harry Seager, the present challenger of the title, mixed it at a rapid pace for fifteen rounds before the Eureka Athletic Club. With both men trying hard for a knockout at the finish, Abe Uhlman, who was the referee, declared it a draw.

The decision was popular among the spectators, though there were some who thought that Burns was the victor on points. It was a hard, earnest fought battle, and no one regarded the decision of Uhlman. Seager, game as any boxer seen in these parts for many a day, stood up and swapped punches with Burns at every interval. When Burns seemed to have him on his last legs, he would come back with an unexpected burst of speed which would even surprise the ardent admirers of Burns.

Considering the intense heat, both men made a remarkable battle, for from the time they entered the ring until the final glow, a crowd that packed the playhouse, despite the intense hot weather, was always on its toes. It was really the first battle of Seager, and he did nobly, for notwithstanding the advantage of height and reach Burns had on him, he was always ready to mix it at a fast clip.

Show No Ill Effects.

The last few rounds were even more hard fought than the early ones. Both men were on their feet at all times. At the end neither boxer showed much effects of the battle, though Seager's face was slightly swollen and Burns' left eye a little bit disfigured.

The bout was at 133 pounds at 3 p. m. before the contest. Both men weighed in under the required weight at Uhlman's. Seager looked to be the hardest trained, as he was well drawn when he entered the ring.

Seager's battle last night was really the outcome of his setto with Gus Gardner, of Philadelphia, whom he recently got the decision over in fifteen rounds in this city.

Seager was handled last night by his manager, George Mueller, colored Sammy Harris, and Joe Elliott. In Burns' corner were his manager, Little Sammy Harris and Morris Tasker.

Before the mill went on the winner was challenged openly by Kid Sullivan, of Washington, but as there was no victor, Sullivan must wait until Burns and Seager settle their little differences.

TOM O'ROURKE BANKRUPT.

Fight Promoter Files Schedule of Liabilities in New York Court.

New York, Aug. 5.—A friendly action in the interest of Tom O'Rourke, the fight promoter, has been taken in the New York bankruptcy court. O'Rourke has filed schedules in bankruptcy naming the following creditors: Tim D. Sullivan, $2,000; James E. Wood, $1,000; George Ringer & Co., $4,500; John Constidine, $800; and Tim O'Leary, assistant superintendent of police of Philadelphia, $4,700.

It is believed that the money scheduled as due O'Leary is the result of a partnership between O'Rourke and the Philadelphia in a prize fight club established by O'Rourke at Essington, Pa., about two years ago.

A large building was erected, and several fights were pulled off. Small crowds attended, and the losses of the sports were heavy.

Tommy Burns, the present champion, was matched to meet Bob Fitzsimmons there, but the district attorney, and, finally, the court of Delaware County, interfered. The match was declared off, and the backers of the club were compelled to pay the training expenses of the pugilists.

This was the end of the enterprise. O'Rourke and Seager, on the theory that he had protection and was "sore" at O'Leary because the latter could not call off the authorities.

O'Rourke's liabilities are $41,500 and his nominal assets $25,000.

TO STAMP OUT GAMBLING.

Ban Johnson Will Issue Orders to American League Moguls.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Efforts to stamp out gambling in baseball will immediately be made by the American League. Ban Johnson, president of the league, it is announced, will issue a bulletin to every American League club, calling attention to the prevalence of betting and asking each club owner to enforce to the letter the section of the league constitution prohibiting betting.

Mr. Johnson figures that in order to discourage the gamblers it may be necessary to place under arrest every one caught making bets at a ball park. If the city police cannot be trusted to enforce the order, he will recommend that the club owners assign a force of private detectives to ferret out the betters and those receiving bets.
