

SOCIETY

THE season is speeding toward its end, and toward the change of administration, and the functions of these last few weeks are like the last efforts a family makes before going abroad for an indefinite stay. They try to see all the people they really love, and the people entertain them with a view to an early and long separation.

That is the keynote of the greater number of social affairs in Washington just now.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt, who have had their last state dinner, and had but two more evening receptions on the season's schedule, have taken their recreation during this week in their favorite fashion, of riding in the suburbs. Of course they will continue entertaining their friends, both personal and official, but the great affairs which it is a duty for each President to give will soon be at an end until another regime is established, which will bring new faces and new conditions, more than likely.

The change will not only effect the official circle tremendously, but will extend to the diplomatic circle, not because of changes in our own country, but because of different conditions in the countries which are represented here.

There are already many new faces in the corps, but the latest news of the departure of the Cuban Minister, Mr. Quesada; the Haitian Minister, Mr. Leger, and the Nicaraguan Minister, Dr. Lule F. Corea, and their families, prominently from the corps here is a blow to the many friends these three popular diplomats and interesting families have made. Dr. Corea has been particularly in the public eye recently, by reason of his marriage to Miss Fleming, one of the beauts of two seasons ago, but three months after her debut in society.

The bride, a Washington girl born and reared, was a graduate and debutante, a bride and a mother in the short space of eighteen months. They will go, with their infant daughter, to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras, and after a visit to Nicaragua will go abroad for travel and recreation.

Dr. Corea is one of the most brilliantly educated and cultivated men of Central America and has many degrees conferred upon him and is considered one of the ablest lawyers his country has known.

The Leger family have occupied a prominent place in the corps and have become universally liked. Their household was augmented by their two-nieces, the Misses Bourke, of Haiti, both gifted musicians and artists and young women of large means and wide education. They have made many friends among the young Americans in society here. Miss Bourke is a brilliant pianist.

The Cuban Minister and Mrs. Quesada will be missed from the set with which they have been identified for so many years; in fact, since long before the war which resulted in the independence of their country. Their children were born and have been educated here, and their names will not be entirely filled for many a day after they depart.

The Mexican Embassy is still without an Ambassador, but Senor Don de la Barra, formerly Minister to Belgium, is expected here about the middle of next month, and his arrival will probably be the signal for the departure of the charge d'affaires and Mrs. Godoy and their family, who will be transferred to another post. Another matter of regret, for Miss Godoy, who was presented to Washington society as a very young girl, has a host of friends who will not be easily consoled in her absence. The Ambassador-elect is now on his way to Mexico and a short stay there will precede his Washington.

It will be a matter of deep and general regret if Mrs. Newberry and her daughter, Miss Carol Newberry, do not remain in the Cabinet circle the next few years. Mrs. Newberry has discharged the duties of an official hostess with much grace and dignity, and her charm of manner and great beauty have made her conspicuous at all public functions, to say nothing of the private ones.

Secretary and Mrs. Newberry will entertain the President and Mrs. Roosevelt at dinner on Tuesday evening, as it is their turn in the proper order of precedence in the Cabinet circle. They will have a party of house guests for the occasion from Detroit, including Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Joy, Mr. and Mrs. Strathmore Hendricks, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus E. Lothrop, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Stoughton Newberry. Mrs. and Miss Newberry are spending the week-end at Annapolis, having gone down there yesterday for the hop at the Naval Academy. They are the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Badger, who were for many years in Washington.

The President-elect and Mrs. William H. Taft, also thoroughly identified with Washington society, who are now in Havana, will come to Washington some time before their own inauguration ceremonies, and will be the guests of Miss Mabel Boardman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Boardman, formerly of Cleveland. Miss Boardman is one of the officers of the American Red Cross, of which the President-elect is President. She was also a member of his famous Philippine party. The Tafts will remain at the Boardmans until they go to the Capitol for the inaugural ceremonies, thence to the White House. Mr. and Mrs. Boardman are absent in Florida and will remain there until after the fourth of March.

Miss Roosevelt's absence in New York is keenly felt in the debutante circle, for functions in her set have been suspended until her return. She went over for the dance given by Mrs. Charles B. Alexander for her daughter, Miss Janet Alexander. Miss Roosevelt's close friend, who has been her frequent guest here, Miss Martha Bacon, too, another of Miss Roosevelt's particular little coterie, is on the way to Boston, where she will be the guest of Mrs. Washington Thomas, to attend the ball to be given by Mr. and Mrs. John E. Thayer on the 5th. Miss Roosevelt is spending the week-end as the guest of Miss Josephine Osborn at Garrison-on-the-Hudson, and will return to New York Monday to be the guest of honor at a theater party to be given by Mrs. F. Hopkinson Smith, Jr., formerly Miss Pauline Morton, a Cabinet bird of her father's regime.

PERSONALS

Miss Jarvis, whose engagement to Mr. Preston Gibson was announced recently, was the guest of honor at dinner last evening of Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson. The dinner company was a large one and a number of additional guests were asked for dancing afterward.

The decorations were all of pink.

Thompson entertained at a theater party yesterday afternoon at the National Theater in honor of Miss Godoy and her house guests, her cousin, Miss Canalis, and Miss Lazo, daughter of a former Guatemalan Minister. He abandoned the diplomatic service last summer.

Miss Frederica Morgan will go to Lakewood, N. J., about the 15th of next month to be the guest of Miss Cartwright Lynch, daughter of Mr. Jasper Lynch, of Lakewood, who was her guest here for the first Bachelors' cotillon and the charity ball this season.

Mr. J. L. Loose, of Kansas City, who joined Mrs. Loose here for a week's visit at the New Willard, has returned to Kansas City. Mrs. Loose will remain here for the inauguration and Mr. Loose will join her again later. Mrs. Loose was the guest of Miss Cannon for several weeks earlier in the season.

An interesting party of English people are now visiting in New York, some of whom will probably come to Washington before they return to their own country. They are: Lady Paget, formerly Miss Mary Stevens, of New York, daughter of Mrs. Paron Stevens; her son, Capt. Bertie Paget, and her nephew, Lord Anglesy; Lord and Lady Clifford, Sir Westman D. Pearson, Mr. Westman Harold Pearson, M. P., and Mrs. Pearson, the Archbishop of Montreal, Lady Bache-Cunard, Gen. Sir H. H. Rawlinson, Lady Sybil Grey, daughter of the Governor General of Canada, Earl Grey; Lady Dorothy Onslow, Lord Ashburton, and the Earl of Morar, and Mrs. Ismay, all of whom have arrived in the past week.

Her pretty new home is a rendezvous for Michigan people, and is one of the most attractive homes in the official circle. They will have a dinner in honor of the new Vice President and Mrs. Sherman some time next month.

Egelson will perform the ceremony. A reception will follow at the family residence, 1188 Fifth street northwest, at 7:30 o'clock.

A leading topic of discussion at many of the official functions is the very general breaking up of the Indiana delegation in Congress. The change begins with the Vice President and Mrs. Fairbanks, who will probably not be known in the official circles after the 4th of March, and thus Washington will miss one of its most popular and distinguished hostesses, who has led in the affairs of official life here for the past twelve years. Next in the order of precedence will be the departure of Senator Hemenway and his family at the close of this session of the Senate, and the retirement from public life of the Senator, Miss Hemenway, who is now Mrs. Gates, of Indianapolis, would have been missed in the Senatorial circle anyway, this year, as she has acted as her father's hostess for many years and has made scores of warm friends in this capacity, but her marriage a fortnight ago would have removed her far from the scene of her social triumphs.

Mrs. Overstreet, wife of Representative Jesse Overstreet, of Indianapolis, who has come to be an important factor in Washington's official society, and Mrs. Charles B. Landis, wife of Representative Landis, of Delphi, who enjoys a wide popularity along with her very interesting young daughter, who is interested in music and art, as her mother is, and enjoys society in the most refined degree, their contemporaneous debutante friends, will all be absent next year from the Congressional circle. In fact, the only ones who will return, the next season, are Representative and Mrs. Cox, of Jasper; Representative and Mrs. Dixon, of North Vernon; Representative and Mrs. Henry A. Barnhart, of Rochester; Representative and Mrs. Edgar D. Crumpacker, of Valparaiso; Representative and Mrs. John A. M. Adair, of Portland, and Representative George W. Rauch, of Marion, Ind. This removes from Washington Representative and Mrs. John Hopkins Foster, of Evansville; Representative and Mrs. John Crawford Chaney, of Sullivan; Representative and Mrs. Elias S. Holliday, of Brazil; Representative and Mrs. James Eli Watson, of Rushville, and Representative and Mrs. Clarence C. Ginnams, of La Grange. This is quite an appalling number of changes for the Indiana people, and, indeed, there is a great regret expressed on all sides that so many lovely women from Indiana are to be removed from this circle. These, it is believed, will be replaced by John W. Boehne, of Evansville; William Collop, of Vincennes; Ralph W. Moss, of Brazil; W. O. Barnard, of Newcastle; Charles A. Korbly, of Indianapolis; Martin A. Morrison, of Frankfort, and Cyrus Kline, of Angola.

The ladies who will receive to-morrow at Congress Hall from 3 to 6 are Mrs. De Armond, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Underwood, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Shackelford, Mrs. Hinshaw, Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Gordon, Mrs. Adair, Mrs. Madison, Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Kipp, Mrs. Adanson, Mrs. Pollard, Mrs. Lanahan, Mrs. Ashbrook, Mrs. Macon, Mrs. Griggs, Mrs. Sturges, Mrs. Larrinaga, Mrs. Hackney, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Willett, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Rodenberg, Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Ferris, Mrs. Denton, Miss Hanger, and the Misses Kustermann.
