From Tip-Bix. "George," said the maiden aunt, reprovingly, shaking her finger very solemnly at her small nephew, "there were two mice pies on the larder shelf this morning, and now they have disappeared. I didn't think it was in you." "Tisn't all in me," blubbered the wee boy; "one of 'em is in Gwennie."

DEATH BY LIVE WIRE

Samuel Young Is Entangled and Dies Instantly.

OTHER DEATHS MAR THE DAY

Pullman Conductor Expires in Red Cross Tent, but Cause of Demise Is Not Yet Learned—Richmond Man Is Picked Up Unconscious in Union Station and Dies Without Speaking.

Samuel Young, twenty-five years old, of 478 Wisconsin avenue northwest, became entangled in some live wires while walking on a lot near his home yesterday afternoon and was instantly killed.

About 2 o'clock his body was found by Henry Gearheart, a boarder at the Wisconsin avenue address, who was searching for Young. A physician was summoned, but found Young beyond medical assistance.

The body was removed to the Seventh precinct police station, and later to the morgue, by order of Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt. An investigation of the circumstances surrounding the death will be made. It is supposed he accidentally walked into the electric wires, which had been blown down by the storm early in the morning.

Cause Is Unknown.

Andrew Doron, a Pullman conductor, living in Pittsburg, died in the Red Cross tent at Union Station about 7 o'clock last night. The cause of his death has not been learned, and the body has been removed to the morgue, by order of Coroner Nevitt. It is probable an inquest will be held this morning.

Doron, who was about fifty-five years old, became ill in the train shed shortly after leaving the train on which he arrived in this city. The man fell to the floor unconscious, and the Red Cross authorities were notified. Doron was removed on a stretcher to the tent, where he died a few minutes later. He was identified by railroad employes, and relatives in Pittsburg were notified.

Norman A. Stall, of 11 East Grace street, Richmond, Va., died at the Emergency Hospital about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, two hours after he was removed from Union Station. Physicians ascribe his death to epilepsy.

Stall fell to the floor of the Union Station, and a hurry call was sent to the Red Cross tent in the station. The physician in charge there saw his condition was serious and ordered his removal to the Emergency Hospital, where he died without regaining his senses.

GREEK ATTACKS POLICEMAN.

Is Beaten Into Submission and Then Locked in Cell.

In a hand-to-hand fight with George Papos, a Greek, late yesterday afternoon, Policeman Frederick Dirk, of the Sixth precinct, was seriously cut about the head and body. The policeman used his baton with good effect, and it was necessary for Papos to have his injuries dressed by a surgeon before he could be locked in a station house.

The fight occurred in a house at 5 H street northwest, where Papos lives. Policeman Dirk was called into the house to quell a disorder alleged to have been caused by Papos. Procuring a large butcher knife, Papos attacked the policeman. He cut the latter on the head and face. The policeman beat the Greek into submission, and summoned a patrol wagon. Papos was carried to Casualty Hospital, and was later locked up on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon and disorderly conduct.

RED CROSS DOES GOOD WORK

Inclement Weather Cause of Many Ailments in Crowds.

Philippine Constabulary Band Members Among Sufferers—Service Was Pronounced Successful.

The Red Cross hospitals scattered from Seventeenth street to the Capitol did good work yesterday. In most cases the patients were overcome by the cold, although there were many who suffered from nervous shock and heart trouble. Nurses were kept busy in the tents.

At tent 14, in New York avenue, several cases were treated, the patients being members of the Philippine band. None of them could speak English. They were given restoratives and later were able to join their organization in time to take part in the parade.

Miss S. E. Tiffey, of this city, was also cared for at this station. She was on her way down the Avenue and had just crossed G street, at Fifteenth street, when she was seen to fall. Several policemen broke through the lines and carried her to the tent. She was revived and was able to leave in a few hours.

William Bucknot, of this city, fell from an inbound car in New York avenue. He sustained injuries about the head and suffered from a deep cut near the right eye, and after having his wound dressed returned home.

Others treated were: Bessie Good, who suffered from attack of heart trouble; Elizabeth Meiner, overcome by the cold; Gertrude Underland, right foot crushed.

Dr. Commiskey, in charge of the two stations at the Union Station, and the corps of nurses under him were called on to give medical aid to several passengers who were overcome on one of the afternoon trains from Philadelphia. They also treated one of the soldiers of a Pennsylvania regiment.

Although thousands of people passed in and out of the Union Station, only a few became ill, although Dr. Commiskey said that the few cases cared for proved the success of maintaining the hospitals.

Those in charge of tent No. 4, at New Jersey avenue and B street northwest, were busy all afternoon. Many Filipinos were treated here, overcome by the severity of the weather.

The same story was told all along the line—chills, fever, and fainting being the complaints mostly treated. Dr. Watson, in charge of tent No. 4, said that the curing for the sick and injured by the Red Cross was pronounced successful, and that it would be one of the features of future inaugurations.

Among the physicians and nurses who aided in the relief work were Dr. E. J. Commiskey, Dr. J. E. Johnson, Dr. A. H. McConner, Dr. E. J. Blackstone, Dr. N. A. Gallagher, Dr. R. S. Lamb, Dr. C. J. Boehs, Dr. J. F. Watts, Dr. Thomas F. Lowe, Dr. P. J. Hunt, Dr. A. F. Moffett, Dr. Stuart C. Johnson, Dr. A. H. Staples, Dr. W. J. R. Thomas, Dr. J. R. Biggs, Dr. Gibson, Dr. Jackson, Dr. Main, Dr. C. J. Stone, Dr. E. L. Mason, Dr. T. Abbe, Dr. H. M. Barker, and Dr. L. J. Buttle.

The nurses were Miss V. M. Bartlett, Miss N. Bernatin, Miss A. J. Miller, Miss F. M. Taylor, Miss Edna Johnson, Miss E. T. Patterson, Miss Bertha White, Miss Irene Mahan, Miss Maud Bachoroff, Miss Marie Muller, Miss Irene Collins, Miss Mansfield, Miss E. M. Smith, Miss Spellman, and Miss Alice Brooks.

SUICIDE BY GAS ATTEMPTED.

William Denell Seeks Parade and Then Seeks Death.

William Denell, thirty years old, returned to his home, 24 Four-and-a-half street northwest, after viewing the inaugural parade yesterday afternoon, and attempted to end his life by inhaling illuminating gas.

The man was found unconscious in his room by persons living in the house, who made an investigation to discover the cause of the odor of gas. An ambulance was summoned, and Denell was removed to the Emergency Hospital. He regained consciousness while in the ambulance, and will be able to leave the hospital today. The police say Denell was intoxicated when he attempted suicide.
