ST. PAUL'S RECTOR TAKES UP DUTIES

Rev. Dr. Talbot Preaches First Sermon as Pastor.

FIELD HERE FOR GREAT WORK

Preacher Tells Congregation He Finds Opportunity in Capital for Broader Scope of Religious Activity—Deals with Need of Spiritual and Intellectual Awakening.

Rev. Robert Talbot, D. D., the new rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, preached his first sermon as pastor yesterday morning.

"There is an opportunity in this city for a great work," he said, "and it is that fact that attracted me most. I did not like to leave the church I had founded and seen to grow to one of the most prominent churches in the entire West, and my parishioners were loth to see me go."

"It seemed that I had been with them long enough, however, and that there would be an opportunity for a greater effort in this, one of the most beautiful cities of the country. Three weeks ago I preached to you, and at that time I was firmly impressed by the conditions which existed here and the excellent field for great work. That is why I decided to remain with you."

"This city should undergo a great spiritual and intellectual awakening," declared Dr. Talbot in taking up the subject of his sermon. "There are too many of us everywhere who are spiritually and intellectually asleep."

"More Enlightenment Needed." "It is just like the sleep that possessed and held the Middle Ages in its grasp. We must shake it off. At that time the agency of the awakening was the renaissance and the reformation. We need similar agencies to enlighten us now."

"The services of a rector in the church are threefold. He should be a priest, a pastor, and a preacher to the members of his parish. It shall be my endeavor at all times to do all these things, and I am confident that you will help me in doing so."

Rev. William Richmond, of this city, preached the evening sermon, in which he admonished the members of the parish to "clear the house during the Lenten season, in order that they might start out afresh under the pastorage of their new rector."

"There will be many occasions on which the new rector will hurt your feelings," he said. "But you must put aside the idea that he hurts your feelings intentionally. He wouldn't do that. He would be a fool if he did. Let him do his work in his own way. This is the only method which will bring the best results."

Comparisons Drawn. "Our new rector is inferior to our old rector in many ways. He is also superior to our late rector in many ways. This is not said in disparagement of the efforts of either. It is but natural that some men should excel others in some things, while they in their turn are excelled in others. They are but men."

"I believe that the function of the rector is more than threefold. He is more than priest, pastor, and preacher. He is also a ruler, and this is his most important function. He is the absolute ruler in the parish in all things spiritual. He should be looked up to as the spiritual leader of all the members of his church."

Dr. Talbot succeeds Rev. Dr. Alfred Harding, now Bishop of Washington. As a result of the call that was extended to him, Dr. Talbot decided to make a visit to this city before giving an answer. His acceptance was the result. It was with difficulty that his parishioners in Kansas City, with whom he had worked for a quarter of a century, were induced to consent to his departure, but it was pointed out that the local field offered greater opportunities for his ability.

"When Mr. Talbot came, to say that he made a great impression upon the congregation, is really to say that he is the last number of the Parish Record. He completely won every heart by the mere sound of his voice."

SUFFRAGETTE IDEA HITS THE CAPITAL

Aggressive Action Planned by Woman's Club.

LONDON METHODS TO BE USED

Preliminary Details of Campaign Are Discussed at Meeting—Worker from English Banks Tells Her Experiences—Men as Well as Women Promise to Help the Cause Along.

Preliminary plans for the organization of a lively suffragette propaganda in Washington were discussed last night at a meeting in the August Bebel apartment house, 11 B street northwest, by an enthusiastic body of devotees to the cause of woman suffrage.

"Votes for Women Club" is to be the name of the proposed organization. Aggressive action along the lines of the suffragette movement in London is to be its program. An American flag with but four stars, representing Colorado, Idaho, Utah, and Wyoming, the only States in which women have the right of suffrage, is to be the banner around which the faithful are to rally in their attempts to win the other forty-two States to their cause.

Assaults upon both Houses of Congress, impugning of Cabinet officers and the Chief Executive, public demonstrations in the streets, and other methods employed by their London sisters will form part of the plan of campaign by which these enthusiastic champions of women's rights hope to win the franchise in a city in which this principle is presently the all-absorbing topic of "Votes for women."

The Mrs. Minor Morris incident in the White House will be taken in comparison with the scenes that are promised in the halls and galleries of the Capitol. The arresting of Coxey's army or the handling of inauguration crowds will seem mere child's play to the Washington police if they have run counter to the proposed army of suffragettes.

Carrie Nation's hatchet will appear a mere toy in comparison with the four stars and stripes. The cartoonist, the paragon, the comedian, and the street sambo will have ample material with which to serve as involuntary publicity agents of the American suffragettes.

Experiences of a Worker. At the meeting last night, held in the shadow of the Capitol's dome, Miss Adelaide Hyde, who has just returned from a three years' visit in England, related her experiences as an active worker in the ranks of the London suffragettes. The enthusiasm with which her remarks were received showed conclusively that among her audience were many who were anxious for an opportunity to emulate the example of their English sisters.

Fred Merrick, a young and enthusiastic disciple of Karl Marx, the discoverer of "scientific socialism," discussed the problem of women's suffrage from the economic standpoint. Miss Gem Baker, of Boston, sang the "Marseillaise" in a voice vibrating with enthusiastic emotion.

Rev. George Willis Cooke, of People's Church; Mrs. Alexander McKenzie, president of the Women's Single Tax Club of the District; and Mrs. H. L. Tindal, president of the Women's Suffrage Club of the District, were among those present who intend to take an active part in the organization of the Washington suffragettes.

As President Taft passed down B street in the inaugural parade last Thursday he was greeted by a strenuous waving of the four stars and stripes from a window of the August Bebel apartment house, and he acknowledged the compliment by removing his hat. Whether he counted the stars of the banner or realized the significance of the suffragettes still remains to be seen.

BAPTIST CHURCH DEDICATED. Chevy Chase Congregation Holds Impressive Ceremonies.

Pastors and Others Recite Interesting Stories of the Struggles. No Funds Solicited.

With impressive ceremony, attended by prominent Baptist pastors and laymen of Washington, the new Chevy Chase Baptist Church was formally dedicated yesterday afternoon.

It was under the most auspicious conditions that the members of the church, which ten years ago was only a small Sunday school, with occasional preaching, gathered in the new edifice for the first time.

Reminiscences of the early struggles of the congregation were recalled, and all joined in giving praise for the work accomplished. Rev. Dr. J. J. Muir, pastor of Temple Baptist Church, delivered an impressive sermon, and solos were sung by Miss Mary Ethridge and Mrs. Arthur G. Dunn.

LOCAL CHURCHES ARRANGED MUST LOVE GOD AND MAN.

Preacher Sees Those Who Do Not Include Both. "A man who hates his fellow-man and says he loves God is a liar," declared Rev. Stephen A. Northrop, of the First Baptist Church, of Kansas City, before a Y. M. C. A. mass meeting at new Masonic Temple yesterday afternoon.

"We may be strong intellectually, morally, and socially, but unless we have Christ within us we cannot succeed," was his contention. He told of the revivals recently held by "Gypsy" Smith in Kansas City, saying they were the greatest revivals ever held on the American continent. He said that 11,000 persons were converted during the series of meetings there, and that of these 6,000 were men. He described a dramatic scene when, at a meeting of 8,000 men, more than 100 soldiers from Fort Leavenworth were converted.

CHURCH IS WAITING

Independent Lutherans Face Vexing Problems.

PERMANENT ACTION DEFERRED

Disenters Take Option on Rooms in Confederate Veterans' Home Until End of Year—By that Time Final Decision as to Proper Course is Expected to Be Reached.

The Independent Lutheran Church, formed of those who are known as the "missionaries" from the Luther Place Memorial Church, will probably face several problems of church government in the near future.

They declare they are Lutherans in good standing, and will ultimately ask recognition as a congregation from the Maryland Synod. They are no longer finding it difficult to procure pastors for their services.

The officiating minister yesterday was Rev. James F. Brannin, a retired clergyman of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. The service was held, as usual, in the Home of the Confederate Veterans, on Vermont avenue. An option on these rooms has been obtained until January, 1910.

Time to Consider. "The option on our present quarters simply means that we are taking all the time necessary to consider our position," said one member of the new congregation yesterday. "We do not desire to form a permanent organization, or take any action which we cannot easily rescind, until we are absolutely sure we desire to go ahead."

"It is not at all certain that the congregation, say at the end of the year, will care to continue in its present form. By that time we shall have learned much from experience. It would be rash to take any final, decisive action now."

Neither the Independent Lutheran Church nor the Independent Lutheran government and discipline of the denomination is yet known. It is said that in this manner only will the congregation be able to call an accredited minister of the church as a congregation, application would have to be made to the Maryland Synod, which does not meet until October.

Acute Stage Possible. The attitude of the Maryland Synod regarding the "insurgents" is not known. The synod's powers are limited, as congregational rule is thoroughly established in the Lutheran Church.

"The question of our standing may reach an acute stage before long," said one member of the new church yesterday. "We want ministers of our own church to conduct our services whenever possible, and some are declining our invitations now because they doubt our standing, or because they think we are fighting our old pastor, Rev. J. G. Butler. There is absolutely nothing against our record as Lutherans. The fact that we were debarred from majority rule in the old congregation does not impair our status in the least."

It has been decided to hold a congregational meeting, or social, the last Thursday in every month, and questions of administration will then be discussed. Some remodeling will be done in the Confederate Veterans' Home in the next few weeks, and while this is in progress services will be held on the second floor.

BISHOP'S SISTER DEAD. Miss Augusta Wilson Stricken at Charlottesville Several Days Ago.

Miss Augusta Virginia Wilson died at Charlottesville, Va., several days ago, but, owing to the condition of the wires, her brother, Bishop Wilson, and other relatives in Baltimore and elsewhere could not be notified until Saturday.

Miss Wilson was buried in Mount Hebron Cemetery, Winchester, Va. She was the daughter of Rev. Norval Wilson, who was pastor of Wesley Chapel, this city, before the civil war. For years she was a missionary to Mexico. She retired from active work seven years ago. She was an interesting speaker. One thing that never failed to hold the attention of her hearers was the description of her paper house. It could be folded and packed away and moved with ease.
