

DETECTIVE BAUR EARNS A REWARD

Arrests Negro Wanted in Texas on Murder Charge.

RESEMBLED THE DESCRIPTION

Talked with Suspect in Presence of Other Detectives, Who Claim Negro Confessed to Crime, and Explained How It Was Committed—Dallas Officials Have Other Charges.

Central Office Detective Frank Baur spent yesterday afternoon itemizing the things he will buy when he receives the $200 reward offered by the Texas authorities for Julius Robertson, negro, charged with complicity in a murder in Dallas. Baur arrested the negro early yesterday morning.

To make sure he had the right man, Baur held a long conversation with the prisoner at police headquarters. As a result of his questioning, the negro confessed, in the presence of Detectives Burlingame and Cornwell, just how the shooting occurred.

Story of the Murder.

The murder was committed November 11, 1908, in Main street, Dallas. Robertson said he was walking down the street with two other negroes, Jene Jones and a boy called "Shine." It was about 10:30 o'clock at night, he said, and they met a white man and his two sons. "Shine," he said, approached and asked the man for a job as a cotton picker. The man curiously refused to employ him, and, turning, walked down the street, followed by the negroes.

"Jene ran in front of the man," said Robertson, "Shine and I following in the rear. Jene threw a gun through the man and told him to hold up his hands. The man drew a knife, and 'Shine' ran up and caught hold of him. The man struck at 'Shine' with the knife. Jene told the man to drop the knife, and then fired a shot."

The prisoner declares he was standing on the sidewalk with the two sons when the shot was fired. After the shooting, he says, he and his companions ran in different directions, meeting half an hour later at a railroad crossing.

The other negroes were locked up in Texas soon after the shooting, but Robertson left the State, and a reward of $300 was offered for his capture. He talked freely of his exploit, and told at length of his many narrow escapes from the police since leaving Texas.

Robertson says he is an ex-convict, having served two years for killing Clay Perry, a negro, in Texas, in May, 1902.

Answered the Description.

Detective Baur heard several months ago that a negro answering the description sent out by the Texas police of the alleged murderer was working on a farm in Maryland. On Saturday he heard the negro had come to Washington, so he spent the day walking the streets looking for him. Early yesterday morning, when he had almost given up hope, he met Robertson at Ninth street and Pennsylvania avenue.

Chief of Police Brandenburg, of Dallas, has wired the Washington police that Robertson is wanted for complicity in the murder of Frank Weiford, a wealthy cotton planter. An officer with the necessary papers will leave for Washington, probably today.

In the meantime, Detective Baur, affectionately called "Stump" by his friends, is calculating how many things he can buy with the reward.

DEPICKS IDEAL SON-IN-LAW.

Rev. Dr. Bailey Relates Story of David and Saul.

"It pleased David well to be the King's son-in-law. After Saul gave him Michal, his daughter, to wife."

This was the text chosen by Dr. George Bailey, last night, to illustrate his sermon on the "Ideal son-in-law," delivered at the West Presbyterian Church, of which he is pastor.

"By his many noble qualities David showed himself worthy of the hand of the King's daughter, Michal," said Dr. Bailey. "David's first introduction to her was owing to his skill as a harpist. His genius for music and for improvisation had spread beyond Bethlehem to the court of King Saul. The power of melodious sounds to calm the paroxysms of insanity was even then well known, and David was sent for by Saul to play before him."

Dr. Bailey then related how, by accepting the challenge of the Philistine, he won the King's daughter, and was made captain of the King's bodyguard. The gist of the sermon was that David as a son-in-law was loyal to Saul in life, honored him in death, and treated his family with magnanimity.

FUNERAL OF MR. EINBECK.

Services Will Be Conducted by Pastor of Church of the Ascension.

Funeral services for William Einbeck, who died at his home on Saturday from a stroke of paralysis, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at his residence, 1767 T street northwest.

Rev. J. Henning Neims, rector of the Church of the Ascension, will officiate, and the body will be sent to St. Louis for interment.

Mr. Einbeck was sixty-eight years old, and had been ill for about a month. He had completed an original work on the study of the tides, to be published by the Carnegie Institution, with which he had been connected for the last two years, and his greatest regret when he became ill was that he would be unable to attend to the publication of the manuscript.

Born in Germany, Mr. Einbeck came to this country a young man, and attended the Missouri State University, from which he was graduated with honor. For thirty-six years prior to his connection with the Carnegie Institution he was in the Coast and Geodetic Survey. He was a member of the Cosmos Club and of other scientific societies. His brother, Dr. August Einbeck, of New Haven, Conn., survives him.

Dies in His Church Pew.

New Haven, March 28.—Thomas Donohue, aged seventy-two years, a contractor, died in St. Mary's Catholic church just as the priest was coming on the altar to-day to celebrate the high mass.

Rev. Father Macklin, the celebrant of the mass, went to the stricken man just before he expired and administered the last rites of the church.

VISITING PASTOR WELCOMED

Rev. W. H. Matthews Will Probably Be Extended a Call.

Metropolitan Presbyterian Church is favorably impressed with Preacher from North Dakota.

As a guest of the congregation, Rev. William H. Matthews, of Grand Forks, N. Dak., conducted the morning and evening services yesterday for the first time at the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, of this city.

The pulpit of the church has been vacant since Rev. Dr. Albert Evans accepted a call to Lockport, N. Y., and the committee on the call of a pastor invited Mr. Matthews to visit the church, and have recommended him to the congregation as pastor.

After the sermon yesterday morning, and in the evening, the visiting clergyman held an informal reception in the church, at which many members of the congregation were introduced to him. He will preach again next Sunday.

In about two weeks there will be a congregational meeting of the church, at which the selection of a pastor will be decided upon. While in Washington Mr. Matthews will be the guest of Mr. W. R. Spilman, 234 Fifth street southeast, who is chairman of the committee on the call.

Mr. Matthews is a graduate of the McCormick Theological Seminary, of Chicago, and his first charge was in Marengo, Ill. Later he became pastor of Central Park Presbyterian Church, of Chicago, and from there accepted a call to his present charge in Grand Forks, N. Dak. His sermon yesterday made an excellent impression on the members of the congregation, and it is probable that he will be offered the pastorate of the church.

When Sergt. Walsh and a detail of policemen entered the house and forced the door of the room from which the odor of gas emanated, they found Luther Middleton, a roomer in the house, leaning from an open window. Middleton had retired, and was awakened by the shouts of the crowd outside his window. He got up to investigate, and was almost overcome by the fumes. He threw open the window, and was leaning out when the policemen arrived.

CROWD SAVES A LIFE.

Rumor of Suicide Results in Timely Warning to Luther Middleton.

There was much excitement in the 100 block in Fourteenth street northeast shortly after 9 o'clock last night, when it was rumored a man had committed suicide in a house at 100 Fourth street. A crowd gathered in front of the house, and telephone messages were sent to the Ninth precinct station.

When Sergt. Walsh and a detail of policemen entered the house and forced the door of the room from which the odor of gas emanated, they found Luther Middleton, a roomer in the house, leaning from an open window. Middleton had retired, and was awakened by the shouts of the crowd outside his window. He got up to investigate, and was almost overcome by the fumes. He threw open the window, and was leaning out when the policemen arrived.

The rumor was started by some one living in the house detecting the odor of gas, and tracing it to Middleton's room.

LUM'S BODY UNCLAIMED.

Representative Boutell Will Ship It to Chicago for Burial.

Arrangements probably will be completed this afternoon for the removal to Chicago of the body of Albert C. Lum, aged and disinclined office-seeker, who died at the Emergency Hospital, on Friday morning. Representative Boutell, of Illinois, has wired the Chicago officials signifying his willingness to assist financially in shipping the body, which now lies unclaimed in the morgue.

Lum is believed to have come to Washington about ten days ago. He sought Mr. Boutell and asked aid. He was ill and penniless, and the Congressman gave him money and told him to return the next day. He made arrangements to have the warden sent back to Chicago, where he said he had a wife and children. The next heard of Lum he was dying in the Emergency Hospital.

The funeral of Mrs. Ruhanan Munson, wife of Dr. D. O. Munson, who died on Friday near Falls Church, Va., will take place this morning at 11 o'clock from the West Presbyterian Church at Falls Church. Rev. R. A. Devision, pastor, will officiate. Interment will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

The funeral of Henry Thomford will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at his family residence, 1317 Four-and-a-half street southwest. Rev. Paul A. Menzel, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

Report was made to the police yesterday morning that thieves broke into the copage establishment of C. H. Beavers, 1317 Four-and-a-half street southwest, Saturday night, and carried away the safe, about 1700 worth of property, valued at $10. A small amount of money and two gold watches were overlooked.

A thief who probably contemplates starting in a mercantile business appropriated a brass abacus, five feet long, from in front of the store of Benjamin Rich, 192 Seventh street northwest, before daylight yesterday morning. The abacus was bolted to the front of the store, but the thief made good use of a "jimmie" and had no trouble.

Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Turner Mitchell, a negro, thirty-four years old, employed by John Dobbins, a contractor of the left thigh. He said he had been out with a car when he was struck by a car driven by Mr. Dobbins. He was sent to Freeman's Hospital. His injury is not serious.

TEN YEARS IN ONE PULPIT

Rev. Dr. Smith, of St. Margaret's, Celebrates Anniversary.

Growth of Church Has Been Remarkable During His Pastorate. Church Debt Decreased.

Rev. Dr. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church, yesterday celebrated the tenth anniversary of his rectorship. In his sermon he spoke of the remarkable growth of the church during his pastorate.

When he came to St. Margaret's ten years ago, the congregation consisted of about 125 communicants. To-day there are more than 800. In the last six months more than 100 families have been added to the parish. The church has been enlarged twice, and another addition will be made this summer.

When Dr. Smith became rector of the church it was a small chapel seating about 300 persons. By next summer, when the additions are completed, it will seat a congregation of 900. An organ costing $7,000 has been installed and paid for. The revenues from pew rentals ten years ago were only $1,500. They are now $11,000. In 1904 the debt was increased to $25,000. By Easter Sunday it will have been cut down to $15,000, and in two years more the congregation expects to be able to burn the papers denoting the indebtedness.

While thus materially decreasing the debt, the congregation has always paid its full share of the apportionment for the support of foreign missions. Dr. Smith was the recipient yesterday of many congratulations on the able manner in which he has managed the affairs of the church.

AGED EDITOR IN CITY.

David F. Wallace, of Tennessee, Writing Reminiscences.

David F. Wallace, of McMinnville, Tenn., is spending the spring with his daughter, at 417 Eleventh street northwest. He is eighty-three years of age, six feet two inches high, weighs 180 pounds, is straight as an arrow, and with his long, wavy hair is a striking personality.

Mr. Wallace was editor and proprietor of the New Era, at McMinnville, for fifty-one years, and is the oldest living editor in Tennessee. He served during the war of the rebellion in Douglas's battalion of cavalry, under Gen. Wheeler, up to the battle of Stone River.

He was a "forty-niner," and is now engaged in writing his reminiscences of his perilous trip across the plains and his adventures in California. On his return he crossed the Isthmus of Panama and embarked for New York, taking his gold to the mint in Philadelphia, passing through Pittsburg on his way home. Mr. Wallace was a trader among the Sioux Indians for many years, and the appointment of President Cleveland.

NIBLO LECTURES ON RUSSIA.

Audience Enjoys Illustrated Talk, Despite Previous Long Wait.

For half an hour the audience which had gathered at the Columbia Theater last evening waited, with what patience it could muster, for the recovery of several trunks in which were packed the paraphernalia by means of which Fred Niblo was to give his illustrated travel talks on Russia.

The audience was amply repaid for the somewhat tedious wait by Mr. Niblo's delightful lecture on the great plateau country of Europe. The grandeur of the scenery, the magnificence of the famous old cathedral, the bell of Moscow, and many other places of interest were beautifully displayed on the canvas.

The motion pictures of the Moscow flood—our just one year ago—portrayed the actual scenes. The real loss of life caused by this flood will never be known. Mr. Niblo was fortunate in obtaining pictures of this great catastrophe. Much time was devoted to the czar and Czarina—their daily life, the castles, and the surroundings of the imperial family. The trick riding of the Cossacks held the attention of the audience. Mr. Niblo will repeat this lecture next Friday afternoon.

FAMOUS LAWYERS ENGAGED.

Black, Carlisle, Wright, and Others to Fight Prohibition.

Memphis, March 28.—Famous lawyers will make the fight for the liquor and brewery interests against the State-wide prohibition law recently passed over the governor's veto by the legislature of Tennessee.

Six men will conduct the case, among whom are former Gov. Black, of New York; John G. Carlisle, formerly Secretary of the Treasury in Cleveland's Cabinet; Luke E. Wright, recently Secretary of aW; ex-Senator Lindsay, of Kentucky, and possibly ex-Senator Turley, of Tennessee. These gentlemen are to be associated with one of the leading lawyers of Tennessee and the South, John J. Veertree, who will be chief counsel.

Additional Banking Hours. In addition to the regular banking hours, the office of UNION TRUST CO., 383 and 384, as in the past, will remain open until 5 p. m. on the 2d, 10th and 18th of each month, for the convenience of depositors. Interest paid on all accounts, subject to check.

SAENGERBUND WITH ENLIVENING CONCERT

Novel Entertainment Given by German Society.

FUNNY SONGS AND SKETCHES

"Ukase" Is Given that Ladies Remove Their "Superstructures," and the Effect of This Is Felt Not at All—Dog, Cat, Rooster, and Frog Quartet Makes Big Hit.

Always having the comfort of their members and guests at heart, and making every effort not to tempt them to make critical remarks, the Washington Saengerbund invited the ladies who were enjoying its programme of wit, humor, and music last night "kindly to remove their artificial superstructures," thereby indicating their numerous and variegated Merry Widow hats and other creations of the scientists and artists of the millinery studios and emporiums. This ukase lacked effect—there was not one of these "superstructures" removed—and the entertainment went on as merrily as if nothing had happened, which, in truth, was the case. Nothing had happened.

It was indeed one of the most original programmes ever presented on a stage in this city. It had been prepared by the Saengerbund management for the delectation of their many patrons. The programme was something out of the beaten path, for the reason that not only was the human voice heard in sweet song harmony, but that even the voices of quadrupeds had been drafted to add to the variety of the evening. There was an animal quartet, consisting of a cat, which paraded under the high-sounding name of Katerlich, and was supposed to sing first tenor. A rooster, named "Gack-erlich," assumed second tenor; a dog christened Hunderich snarled first bass, and a frog named "Quakerich" grunted second bass. An animal tamer was in charge of this unique quartet, which was under the patronage of John W. Mann, R. Brauner, A. Lepper, and John Redeker.

Humorous Songs Sung. Another novel feature of the evening was "The Dead March of the Lions and Rhinoceroses," by Theo Rosenfeld, played by the African bush orchestra, composed of thirty Bushmen and Hot-tentots.

A composition of humorous ditties was sung by Henry Gundersheimer, who claimed to be an Irishman of Jewish extraction, and also a member of the W. C. T. U. and the Y. M. C. A.

The feature of the programme was a comic sketch in one act, entitled "The Barber in Love," presented by R. Brauner, A. Lepper, and Mrs. A. Lepper. The thing was screechingly funny, and the participants received enthusiastic applause.

G. Paul delivered a learned dissertation on "Woman's curiosity," under the guise of "specially imported Hamburger." He declared that it was the curiosity of the modern woman which makes yellow journalism a success, and that woman's curiosity was responsible for more peace of mind in the various households and communities than any other factor, the press, pulpit, and police not excepted.

Interesting Programme.

The following programme was given: Overture, "Ach Gott, wie wunderbar!"... F. Seebisch. Orchester von 30 Mann.

Komischer Vortrag... Herr G. Paul. Spezial-Importierte Hamburger. Musikalische Klamm-Bumm... Dr. Rud. Saur. Orchester.

Humoristische... Herr Henry Gundersheimer. Bräuder, besitzlicher Abend. Mitglied der Y. M. C. A. und W. C. T. U. "O lo, lo, lo!"... F. Seebisch. Orchester.

Komischer Vortrag... Herr William Hennemann. Taffel; noch nie da gewesen. Blue-End Wein-Posse. Orchester.

"Der verlebte Racker"... Herr Richard Wagner. Nachlassenschaft von... Herr R. Brauner. Riesenstreicher, Barber... Herr A. Lepper. Piano-Begleitung... Frau R. Brauner. Löwe- und Rhino-Totenmarsch... Theo. Rosenfeld. Afrikanisches Buschlied-Orchester.

A streichliche Klänge... Herr Ad. Preising. Neuer, waschechter Vortrag. Musikpreis-Poloniaise... Dr. A. Levy. Orchester.

Die Quartette... Otto Bertharding. Theaterbesuch... Herr William Hennemann. Gack-erlich, Tenor... Herr R. Brauner. Hunderich, Bass... Herr A. Lepper. Quakerich, Bass II... Herr J. Redeker. Orchester.

Big Chorus Concert.

Great preparations are being made by the United Singers, consisting of the Saengerbund, the Arion, and the Germania Maennerchor, to make the mass chorus concert on April 21, in the National Rifles' Armory, a great success.

The proceeds of this entertainment will be used for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the trip of the local singers to the New York national saengerfest, which will be held in June, and from which they expect to return to this city with the first prize. Prof. Henry Kaender, the musical director of the United Singers, conducted a rehearsal of the singers at Saengerbund Hall yesterday afternoon.

Negro Kills His Wife.

Kingston, N. Y., March 28.—Daniel Ford, a negro, murdered his wife last night at Brown's Station because she upbraided him for not giving her money. Ford ran away after the murder, but was caught this afternoon at Arkville, Delaware County, thirty miles away.

The Columbia Turnverein will entertain their members and friends at a musical lecture on the great plateau country of Europe. The grandeur of the scenery, the magnificence of the famous old cathedral, the bell of Moscow, and many other places of interest were beautifully displayed on the canvas.

DECLINE TO HAVE WAGES CUT. Iron Workers to the Number of 12,000 Will Quit Work.

Reading, Pa., March 28.—Late last night and to-day notice was given by the committee representing the puddlers and helpers of the Reading Iron Company to the superintendents of two departments of the company that the men will not turn out at work on Monday.

By a unanimous vote they decided not to accept the reduction of from $4.00 to $3.75 per ton. This action does not apply to the tube workers, as this department employs no puddlers, and the men are not acting with the puddlers.

This action will affect all the iron companies of the division, with the exception of a few cities, including Pottstown. Over 1,200 men will go out in this city alone, and about 12,000 in the entire district.

Baltimore, Md., March 28.—Five hundred men employed in the marine department of the Maryland Steel Company, at Sparrows Point, it is reported, will go on strike next Thursday, in consequence of the recent announcement by the company that the salaries of the men will be reduced 10 per cent. beginning April 1.

The company has three ships under construction, which must be finished on contract time, and should the men quit work at this time the company will suffer a big loss.
