

FIRST VOTING PERIOD ENDS TO-DAY

ON THE stroke of midnight the First Voting Period of The Washington Herald's Great Voting Contest will come to a close. Those who have been working hard have no cause to regret what they have done. Their work has told. Their names are to be found among the leaders, and it is to be hoped that others will now see their mistakes and try to redeem themselves in this, the Second Voting Period. The interest which this contest has aroused has not been at all great, though we have great hopes for better work during the next few weeks. When this contest is finally over, and the prizes have been awarded, ask the winner of that Middaugh & Shannon "Home of a Hundred Ideas" if he didn't take advantage of every opportunity to secure subscriptions to The Washington Herald. There is no doubt that his reply will be in the affirmative. Better be warned now, before it is too late. You can win the prize you want if you will work for it.

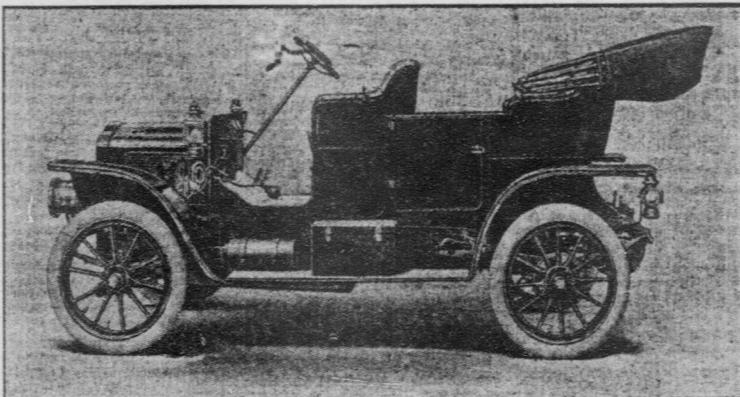

Now That the First Period Is Nearly Over, Get Ready for the Second

First Grand Prize: House and Lot
A MIDDAGH & SHANNON "HOME OF A HUNDRED IDEAS."

THE cut on the left will give you a fair idea of our First Grand Prize, a Middaugh & Shannon $5,850 "Home of a Hundred Ideas." Of course, you can get no idea from this cut as to what the inside of this home looks like, but you can visit it and see for yourself. It is located at 24 Bryant street, two blocks north of W, and may be reached via North Capitol street cars. The smaller cut is that of our Second Grand Prize, a $2,250 White Steamer Automobile, purchased from the Dewey Garage Company, while the cut on the right depicts a few scenes with which European tourists are familiar. The winner of our Third Grand Prize will know the delights of looking upon not only these, but thousands of others just as attractive. On another page we show you a cut of our Third Grand Prize, a Columbia Victoria Electric, and dwell at some length upon the manifold merits of this car. To-morrow we will show you by the list of contestants just what has been done since the Contest opened. Don't fail to get to-morrow's issue of The Washington Herald.

This Is No Time to Rest; You Must Keep Going if You Want to Win

THE FIRST Voting Period has been remarkable for the amount of work done by the several contestants. The prizes have not yet been won, and, by the same token, they have not been lost. Anything may happen between now and the 3d of July. Look out for yourself; and that's what the other contestants are doing. As long as you are working, your votes will be increasing. They won't, however, unless you attend to it. Don't let another day pass without getting every subscription possible. Don't be satisfied with one, two, or three. No matter how many you get in the morning, see what you can do in the afternoon. When you are through work for the day, begin to think of the contest and how many subscriptions you are going to get before you go to bed. That's the way to work, and just such work is going to be the means of your winning your prize. Don't stop to rest now. You have waited too long already. Now is the time to put in your best work. You can catch your opponents napping if you will only keep your eyes open.

SECOND PERIOD WILL CLOSE JUNE 15
