She asks interest from May 1 last. She is represented by Attorney A. S. Worthington.

WINCHESTER RIFLE

FEATURE OF TRIAL

William Jones Charged with Killing J. A. McPherson.

FORMER CLAIMS SELF-DEFENSE

Attorney for Accused Asserts Client Fired to Save Life After Being Threatened by Man He Killed—Attorney for Government Claims McPherson's Rifle Was Used as Cloak.

Whether or not a Winchester rifle had blood between it and the floor when it was found beside the dead body of John A. McPherson, in the farmhouse of William Jones, in the Bates road, is one of the mooted points in the trial of Jones in Criminal Court No. 1, on a charge of murder in the second degree.

According to the contention of the government, as outlined in the opening argument yesterday by Assistant United States Attorney Turner, Jones fired the fatal charge from his shotgun, and then placed McPherson's empty rifle beside the body as a cloak to his own guilt. Mr. Turner contended that McPherson's blood was spilled first, and the gun placed in it afterward, and exhibited the Winchester, with dark red stains on both sides of the breech, as proof of his argument.

To Save His Life.

Attorney George P. Hoover, who, with Attorney R. W. Wells, is handling the defense, declared to the jury that Jones fired to save his own life. As he explained the shooting, Jones had sent McPherson, a hired man, to the city to get medicine, and McPherson had returned in an intoxicated condition, breathing threats and defiance. On being told by the house-keeper, Ann E. Willard, that the hired man was in an ugly mood, Jones, according to Attorney Hoover, took his shotgun and went down stairs, where he found McPherson struggling with the lever of his Winchester in an effort to shoot.

According to Attorney Hoover, Jones fired in self-defense, and McPherson's rifle, when it fell to the floor, was bathed in blood from above, but protected a clean surface beneath it.

John Burgess, William Reiser, and John Bass, neighbors, testified yesterday afternoon that there was no blood underfoot. Testimony was also given by the defense to show that Jones was sober on October 11 last, when the shooting occurred, and that McPherson was intoxicated.

An effort of Attorney Hoover to bring certain evidence into the case from James R. Thomas, an aged employe on the Jones farm, was blocked by an objection from Mr. Turner, which Justice Gault sustained. Mr. Thomas had testified that he was in the room upstairs in the Jones house when he heard a shot fired, and immediately afterward heard Jones' voice calling to him to come down. When he entered the room below, said Thomas, he found McPherson lying on the floor "pretty well done for," with his fingers twitching slightly, as a final evidence of life. He died a few moments afterward.

Mr. Hoover asked Thomas to tell what Jones said to him when he entered the room. It is understood that the witness wished to show that the accused man made some remark to indicate he had shot in fear of his own life. Mr. Turner objected on the ground that the remark was not part of the fatal transaction, and was, therefore, inadmissible.

WOULD PLACE A BAN ON WANDERING CATS

The health department is collecting information as to the regulations in other cities with regard to cats, with a view to having them restricted from running loose and unlicensed in this city. A large amount of data has been obtained by Deputy Health Officer H. C. McLean and embodied in a report submitted to Health Officer Woodward.

Several years ago steps were taken to place cats under the ban, and cat owners made protests, arousing the Animal Rescue League, which threatened to fight all action pointing to the banishment of felines.

MAY DISINTER BODIES.

Commissioner Came to Aid of Abandoned Cemetery.

Henry G. Freitag, who enlisted the sympathy of some of the District officials and aroused the wrath of others, when he bought an abandoned cemetery in Southeast Washington in the belief that he was buying building lots, may now have the laugh on his side, for a bill has been drafted by the corporation counsel giving power to the judges of the District Supreme Court to order the disinterment of bodies.

If the bill is adopted by the Commissioners, to whom it was presented yesterday, and is passed by Congress, Mr. Freitag will be able to get rid of bodies which for many years have lain in the old burying ground. When Freitag discovered the nature of his land, he tried to have the bodies disinterred, but no regulation could be found giving authority. The new bill will not only help Freitag out of his trouble, but will cover all cases of disinterment of bodies that may arise in the future.

The suit is brought by the complainant's next friend, Charles E. Lane.

The complainant says he was struck by a car in East Capitol street, at the intersection of an alley between Third and Fourth streets, sustaining a fracture of the left leg between the knee and hip, and serious and permanent injuries to the spine, back, and shoulder. The suit was filed by Attorneys W. E. Ambrose and C. S. Hillier.

SUITS ARE NECESSARY.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Gives Opinion on Automobile Tax.

According to an opinion of Assistant Corporation Counsel F. H. Stephens, submitted to the Commissioners yesterday, the only way in which the District can collect the annual automobile tax provided in the last District appropriation act is to bring separate suits against those who refuse to pay.

As there are about 2,000 automobiles in the city, and practically all owners are opposed to the new tax, the recommendation of the assistant corporation counsel, if carried out, would entail much expense and loss of time. It is pointed out by the Commissioners, but the reply is that there is only one way to make collections under existing conditions.

The opinion of Mr. Stephens is the result of a meeting with Assessor W. P. Richards, who complained to the Commissioners that he was unable to get payment and knew of no means of enforcing the act. The matter then was referred to the corporation counsel's office.

The Only Certain Remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all Stomach Troubles

NOURILEAN

THE GREAT DYSPEPSIA REMEDY

(Guaranteed under the Pure Food and Drug Act of June 30th, 1906)

NOURILEAN DOES THE BUSINESS CERTAINLY AND QUICKLY

Nothing in it to hurt even a child. No family should be without NOURILEAN—when wanted it's wanted quickly and acts quickly to relieve Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Etc.

This is the Short Story of a Big Cleveland Manufacturer. (Name and address given by mail on request)

He was laid up for months with aggravated dyspepsia or indigestion—unable to leave his room. He thought it was about the end of all things for him. A Chicago friend sent him a box of Nourilean while the doctor was still tinkering with his case. In a week he wrote his friend: "I feel like singing Hallelujahs to you this morning. Nourilean has done the business for me." A month later he went to Chicago, gave a royal dinner, partook royally himself, and was his old hearty self again. He is one of Nourilean's most enthusiastic advocates, and always carries the capsules in his pocket for the relief of his friends.

It contains no artificial sugar, no alcohol, no opium, no calomel, no strychnine or other poisonous drug, and is absolutely free from all narcotics. The U. S. Government would prohibit our use of the mails if this were not so. Do not accept a substitute. There is nothing like it—nothing that will produce the same result. When necessary it will be sent direct by mail.
