

MINISTERS UNITE TO HONOR PRELATE

Bishop Galloway Eulogized by Men of Other Creeds.

MISSISSIPPI SOCIETY ATTENDS

Late Clergyman Landed as Stoutest Bridge Across Narrowing Gulf Between the Two Branches of the Methodist Episcopal Denomination at Mount Vernon Place Church.

The memory of Bishop Charles B. Galloway, whose death on May 12 took from the Methodist Episcopal Church South the services of one of the most ardent workers, was honored at a memorial service yesterday in the Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South.

Describing the deceased bishop not only as one of the greatest men the State of Mississippi has produced, but as "the stoutest bridge across the narrowing gulf between the two branches of the denomination," speakers in the church and out paid tribute to the man who from his early manhood was one of the most picturesque and progressive figures in the church.

The Mississippi Society of Washington attended the service in a body and contributed one of the speakers, Harry Peyton. After the offering of prayer by Dr. William E. Jenkins, Rev. J. Howard Wells, pastor of the church, gave a brief eulogy of Bishop Galloway, in the course of which he said:

"I suppose there was no man more influential in welding the bonds of understanding and comity between the two branches of the Methodist Episcopal family."

Characterized as Militant.

Mr. Peyton characterized the dead prelate as "that powerful, militant, cavalier bishop." He spoke of "Galloway, the man and the Mississippian," and declared that in his knowledge there was no man who possessed more compelling oratory and more magnetism than the eloquent man who was chosen to the episcopacy from the editorial staff of a newspaper.

"I often think," said Mr. Peyton, "if Bishop Galloway had lived in the days of the Crusades, what a magnificent knight he would have made! Like Henry of Navarre, his white plume would have waved at the forefront of battle for his God. It was so in his own day, in a modern way."

"But Bishop Galloway was more than a bishop. He was an aggressive citizen. He entered prominently into the fight in Mississippi against the saloon, and the State to-day, cleared from end to end of the liquor traffic, has no man to thank so much as Bishop Galloway."

Introduced by Mr. Wells as a representative of the other branch of the denomination, Rev. Dr. John W. B. Sumwalt, District superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church, spoke of the influence the dead prelate exerted in healing the breach between the two branches.

"All Methodism knew and loved and honored him," he said. "Since the news of his death came, the Methodist Episcopal Church has mourned with an sincere, genuine, and profound a sorrow as the members of the church he chose to serve. Methodism has lost one of her leaders in his going from us. He was one of those who, after the separation and the strife, reached out his hand, seeking for a common ground on which we all might stand, and now across that narrow, narrowing gulf he is one of the stoutest bridges."

"He was a man; and what a privilege and a help it is to know such a one—a man whom office cannot deflect, who can effectively carry on the cross and damn his flatterers without a flicker of fear."

Fidelity is Praised.

Dr. W. V. Tudor, the first pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Church, spoke of the fidelity to duty of Bishop Galloway, and of his sincerity and approachableness in his high office.

"He was the youngest bishop in the record of our church," said Dr. Tudor. "He was elected in his thirty-seventh year. Clergymen have been known to aspire to high office as a gratification to their ambitions, but such ambition could not grasp, and did not grasp, Dr. Galloway. When he was elected to the position he did not consider that the highest point in his career was reached, but looked upon it as a vantage point from which he could make his influence for Christ more widely felt, and could more effectively carry on the constant battle of his life for his Master and his God."

A quartet composed of Mrs. Charles Bayler, Miss Marjorie Folin, Miss Florence Keen, and Mrs. Salome W. Sanders sang "Into the Silent Lands" and "Abide With Me." A contralto solo, "There is a Land," was sung by Miss Eva Whitford, with violin obligato by Mr. Meisinger.

Funeral services for "Eddie" Coyle. Funeral services for "Eddie" Coyle, Washington correspondent for the Detroit Free Press and Grand Rapids Herald, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of his sister, Mrs. Herbert E. Martyn, 622 East Capitol street. The pallbearers will be Maurice Splain, Harris M. Crist, John Shriver, James P. Hornaday, and two newspaper men from Baltimore. Memorial services were held yesterday afternoon in Baltimore at the Journalists' Club. Several Washington newspaper men went to Baltimore to attend.

Cold Storage for Carpets and Rugs. Absolutely Germ and Mould Proof. MOSES F and 11th Sts. Founded 1861.

TAFT SEES A CHRISTENING.

Catherine Stansbury Rapley Baptized in All Souls' Church.

Few children have the honor to be christened in the presence of the President of the United States, and Miss Catherine Stansbury Rapley, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph R. Rapley, is one of the few. She was christened in All Souls' Church yesterday morning, and no one paid stricter attention to the ceremony than President Taft.

The baby is the granddaughter of the late W. M. Rapley, first proprietor of the New National Theater. In his sermon Rev. Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce said the chase of false gods under the names of culture, ethics, and dogmatism is the most pressing danger to the true religious thought.

ADVENTISTS FAVOR PROHIBITION LAWS

Resolution Pleading Votes Indorsed by Delegates.

HAS POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE

Boys Day Spent at Takoma Park Camp, and Matters of Business Are Considered at Each of the Morning and Afternoon Sessions. Second Coming is Predicted.

A resolution embodying the request that members of the Seventh-day Adventists' Church engage in a campaign for total abstinence was indorsed at the Takoma Park conference yesterday, which pledges that denomination to vote for "entire prohibition."

Whereas the liquor traffic is a gigantic evil, essential to the health of the nation and to the maintenance of the moral and political character of the people...

Whereas it is destructive of law, order, and the moral character of the people...

Whereas it is destructive of law, order, and the moral character of the people...

Politics in Discussion.

When the question of the liquor traffic was first broached at the camp several days ago, a number of the delegates urged that no action be taken inasmuch as any definite declaration would bring the church into politics.

Following the reading of the resolution at the morning session several of the delegates briefly discussed it, and almost unanimously favored its adoption.

K. C. Russell, the first speaker, said: "Representing a people who stand uncompromisingly against the liquor traffic, and in the interest of temperance reform, it seems to me that it is our duty to speak strongly upon a matter of this character."

Declaring that the denomination owed a debt of gratitude to the temperance people, G. B. Pierce explained the necessity of the present struggle for the prohibition movement.

George I. Barber was especially strong in his remarks. He said: "There is no church or body of people that has stood so manfully and uncompromisingly against the liquor traffic as has this church. Now that we are divided by some with the saloon element, I think we should better speak in thunder tones, that the world may know that it is not we who are now for our political expediency."

Now, the great movement we have seen in the last few years among all the States. It seems to me there is nothing that would better advertise us among those that are inclined to temperance and abstinence than to speak for us to take a strong stand in behalf of this movement. When the General Conference in session here speaks on the subject, I think there is no question as to what we as a people should stand for.

Urged Due Consideration.

S. B. Horton said: "We ought to be careful how we deal with the question, so that we shall not be arrayed with the question from the political standpoint, but rather from the standpoint of principle alone. I trust this resolution will be not only adopted, but earnestly carried out."

Elders J. O. Corlies, L. R. Conrad, R. A. Underwood, C. M. Wilcox, L. W. Graham, W. A. Colcord, and G. W. Reaser also spoke on the pending legislation, and expressed hope that the general conference would pass the resolution.

The services at the encampment yesterday began with an interesting reference to Fiji Island experiences, cited by J. E. Fulton, superintendent of the East Tennessee mission. He related many instances showing that the heathen people are ready to receive the gospel, as well as more enlightened nations.

Mr. Fulton reported the conversion of the Fiji chief, who, after his conversion, preached to his people. A number of converts were reported. A diet was shown to the audience in which, at various times, was served up the flesh of human beings for food for this cannibal people.

The speaker reported 12 organized churches, 40 Sabbath keepers, a training school, with thirty-five young men enrolled, and a girls' school. As an illustration of the length of words needed to express a mission, Mr. Fulton said the Fiji chief said the seven-day Adventists: "Na Lotu Sa Vakabautia Na Kavitu ni Siga ka Vakabautia na Nona Lako Vakabautia."

From 8 to 9 o'clock the twelve departments took up the special lines of work assigned to each. The subject in the medical department under consideration was "Diet from the Bible standpoint," conducted by A. W. Semmens, in the missionary department, Prof. H. R. Salisbury led the study on the subject of "Importance of educational features of the missionary work of the church." In the Religious Liberty department the subject of study was "Religious Liberty campaign and how to conduct them," led by K. C. Russell and J. O. Corlies. In the large pavilion a meeting of all the divisions of the foreign work was conducted.

Foretells Second Coming.

At the 3 o'clock service Elder George B. Thompson preached a sermon on the "Second coming of Christ," in which he said, "All signs foretell that redemption is drawing nigh."

D. H. Kress, of the Washington Sanatorium, addressed the medical meeting at 5 o'clock, choosing as his topic "Alcoholism: its results and its causes." "The fact that we are in the midst of an epidemic of crime, I maintain may be attributed largely to the errors in eating, which cultivate a craving for strong drink. In the removal of the causes must first be recognized and removed. When this is done, when the craving for drink is removed, it will be a simple matter to close up the saloon," said he in conclusion.

The following delegates were seated yesterday: C. L. McMeedy, from the Levant Mission; Elder Meade MacGuire, of the Central Union Conference, and Dr. W. R. Randall, of the Pacific Union Conference. While you think of it, telephone your want ad to The Washington Herald, and it will be sent you at 1 cent a word.

NOT GOOD AFTER MAY 30, 1909.

IN THE WASHINGTON HERALD'S VOTING CONTEST THIS BALLOT IS GOOD FOR

VOTE 1 VOTE

For M.....

Address.....

District No.....

This ballot replaces the Ten-Vote Coupon, which has been discontinued. The conditions remain unchanged, the only difference being in the number of votes this coupon represents. However, we ask that more care be taken in the clipping out and the filling in of the blanks. Write as plainly as possible, and do not forget to state from what district candidate is entered.

A FEW MORE DAYS OF EXTRA VOTE PERIOD

Keep Busy Every Minute from Now Until Midnight of June 1.

LOTS OF VOTES TO BE HAD BY THAT TIME

If You Are Ever Going to Wake Up, Now Is the Time to Do It.

Are you content to sit idly by while your more aggressive brothers are using every talent, every effort to advance themselves? Why do you not join them in the struggle? Is it that you are not interested, or do you lack backbone? It is a sad thing to be lacking in this, but then you don't lack it half as much as you think you do. What you need is something to wake you up, to open your eyes to what is going on about you.

For instance, now The Washington Herald's contest is probably the greatest opportunity you ever had to raise yourself above your present level, and instead of being quick to take advantage of it, some of you are totally lacking in interest. This should not be. The man who recognizes every opportunity and who never lets one escape him is bound to do more than the man who is asleep half the time or half asleep all the time. Special vote periods, extra votes, magnificent prizes seem not to interest some of you at all, while others are quick to see the possibilities thereof and are even now working harder than they have been since the contest started. These, however, are few, and from the looks of things, there will be more than enough grand prizes to divide among them.

As for the work that is being done in some of the districts, it is hardly worth mentioning. So few contestants are working in these districts that from the present outlook there is hardly hope to be reimbursed for the first prize. We shall hope, however, that it may be that there will be an awakening, and that something will really be done in consideration for the four prizes which we are offering in each district.

But if there is to be an awakening at all, it should occur before June 1, as on that date this extra vote period will expire. Don't let June 1 pass without having done something toward winning your prize.

STUBBORN FIRE IN SOUTHWEST

Blaze Destroys Automobile and Four Sheds.

Brisk Flames Near Water Front Do Damage to Property to the Extent of $3,200.

A fire in the southwest yesterday afternoon destroyed four sheds and an automobile, resulting in more than $3,200 damage. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

The blaze was discovered about 1:20 o'clock in sheds in the center of a block bounded by Tenth, Eleventh, D, and E streets, and an alarm was sounded from box 423, bringing several engine companies to the scene. A quantity of oil spilled by the blaze could be seen for more than a mile. The general belief prevailed that the fire was burning, as the scene of the blaze is only a few blocks from the water front.

The fire started in a shed in rear of 423 Tenth street, occupied by William Carrion, and quickly spread to adjoining sheds, rear of 411 Tenth street, occupied by George E. Wyne, and 425 Tenth street, occupied by Mrs. Sadie R. Brown.

The fire jumped across a small alley to a shed rear of 42 Eleventh street, occupied by George E. Barber, coal and wood dealer. Barber used the shed as a garage and stored a quantity of oil in the structure. An automobile valued at $2,700 was in the shed, and caught fire before its owner could remove it to the street.

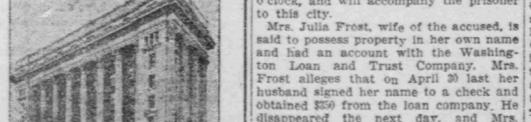

When the firemen arrived the blaze had spread to sheds in the rear of 44, 46, and 48 Eleventh street. They extinguished it after fifteen minutes' work. The entire block was endangered by the blaze, and a serious loss would have resulted had a strong breeze been blowing.

The police were unable to learn the origin of the fire. It was thought the blaze was of incendiary origin, but G. E. Barber, who was one of the first to see the fire, believes its origin was accidental. Persons living in houses rear by are of the opinion the fire started from a lighted match dropped among refuse.

About an hour after the blaze was extinguished, No. 1 Engine Company responded to an alarm for fire in a chimney in the house of Mrs. Jennie Bonoparte, 1627 K street northwest. The fire was extinguished without property loss.

Fire was discovered in the house of Alexander Carroll, 1127 Sixteenth street northwest, about 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon. The blaze started in a rear room on the second floor, and was extinguished by inmates, with a loss of about $10. The origin of the fire has not been learned.

Capital and Surplus, $2,200,000

Preparing for Foreign Travel? Have Union Trust Co. 12th & H sts., supply you with funds in the most convenient form. Travelers' checks issued in various denominations—usable everywhere.

Put your surplus money to work in this company's banking department. Interest paid on all accounts, subject to check.

Edward J. Stellwagen, President.

WIFE CHARGES FORGERY.

Carpenter, Wanted by Police, Located in Norfolk.

Accused of forging his wife's name, Leroy Frost, forty years old, a carpenter, living at 1933 Potomac avenue southeast, was arrested yesterday afternoon in Norfolk at the request of the Washington police. Detective Charles Evans will leave for Norfolk this morning at 5 o'clock, and will accompany the prisoner to this city.

Mrs. Julia Frost, wife of the accused, is said to possess property in her own name and had an account with the Washington Loan and Trust Company. Mrs. Frost alleges that on April 30 last her husband signed her name to a check and obtained $50 from the loan company. She disappeared the next day, and Mrs. Frost grew suspicious, as she knew her husband did not have a large sum of money with him. Investigation showed that $50 had been drawn from the loan company on a worthless paper, it is alleged.

A warrant was issued for Frost and he was located yesterday by the police of Norfolk. His arrest followed.

CALVIN PORTRAYED AS A MAN OF GOD

Presbyterian Churches Honor Their Founder.

TRIBUTE BY DR. RADCLIFFE

Four Hundredth Anniversary of Theologian Who Inspired Reformation in Scotland and Sent the Puritans in Search of Religious Freedom Celebrated in Capital.

John Calvin, who set Europe by the ears, theologically and socially, when hardly out of his teens; who inspired the reformation in Scotland, stiffened the backbone of the Dutch against the Spaniards, tempered the resolve of the Puritans under Cromwell, sent the Puritans to unknown shores in search of religious freedom, and left his stamp on the Constitution of the United States, was honored yesterday by the Presbyterians of Washington.

At the suggestion of the presbytery the four hundredth anniversary of his birth was celebrated in a number of the churches of the faith here. The date of his birth was July 16, 1509. Some of the churches of the city have already celebrated the anniversary, and some are planning to hold special services next Sunday.

The most general observance, however, was held yesterday. Rev. Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, devoted his sermon to a study of Calvin's life and influence. At the morning service the choir sang the only hymn known to have been written by Calvin. It was discovered in an old prayer book, and translated and published in 1908.

At the evening service the pastor took for his subject "Calvinism, Withered, and America." Speaking of the timelessness of the recent unveiling of a monument in Washington to John Withered, Dr. Radcliffe declared the sturdy Presbyterian clergyman and signer of the Constitution was a distinctive example of the inspiration the great thinker of Geneva left behind him after his death, for other generations and for other men.

"John Withered," said the pastor, "was saturated with the thoughts of Calvin. He was free in the most complete freedom—the freedom of religious belief—and was fearless in the face of kings, armies, and overwhelming odds. It was such men as he that made Valley Forge possible, and that drew the admiration of the world to the half-starved soldiers under Washington."

Referring to the influence of Calvin on American institutions, Dr. Radcliffe said that the spirit which carried the Mayflower to the shores of this country came from Geneva, and the resolve that drew up the Constitution as a model for all nations could be traced to the teachings of Calvin.

Referring to the impression entertained by Calvin's detractors, that he carried the doctrine of predestination to the point of oppressiveness, Dr. Radcliffe declared he was the intellectual genius of his age, and the enunciator of the common school, the free church, and the modern democratic form of government. He said in part:

"If I were to ask the passing man in the street about John Calvin, he would tell me he was a lean, lank, sour-visaged man, who lived long ago in Geneva, who wrote a book teaching that God created all men in order to save a few and destroy all others, who burned Servetus, and believed all infants on dying are lost."

Man Sent from God.

"He was a man sent from God. He was the intellectual genius of his age. He was the theologian of his time, and his life gave the germ for the common school system of to-day, in placing over his university the words, 'The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.'"

Speaking of the word "Calvinism" in connection with the doctrines of the Geneva Dr. Radcliffe said: "Two lines of thought control all religious thinking. One announces grace absolute, the other grace relative. One speaks of man dead in sin, the other of man ill in sin. One says God and man, the other man and God."

"The former is the uncompromising call of Calvin. Much that men call Calvinism has passed away, but the true Calvinism is not dead, and cannot die. The center of the modern necessary idea of Calvinism is not predestination, but divine authority. Paganism seeks God in the creature; Islam isolates God from the creature; Romanism interposes the medium of a church, with priests and hierarchy, between the creature and the God. Calvinism presents the immediate, uninterrupted fellowship between God and creature."

"As no other system, Calvinism has taught the supremacy of the individual. It has dignified man. It has disenthralled conscience. It endows with masterful energy. It has put iron into the blood. It has made the soul humble before God, resourceful among men, bold before believers the common school, the free church, the ballot, Protestantism, the open Bible, the Mayflower, the American republic, and the glory of his imperious God."

At the Gurley Memorial Presbyterian Church Rev. Dr. J. Russell Verbruyke spoke at the morning service on "The life, character, work, and influence of Calvin. He held Calvin's church, with its three distinct doctrines, the systematizing of theological ideas, the separation of church and state, and the participation of the laity with the clergy in the government of the church."

At the Gurley Memorial Presbyterian Church Rev. Dr. J. Russell Verbruyke spoke at the morning service on "The life, character, work, and influence of Calvin. He held Calvin's church, with its three distinct doctrines, the systematizing of theological ideas, the separation of church and state, and the participation of the laity with the clergy in the government of the church."

WIFE CHARGES FORGERY.

Carpenter, Wanted by Police, Located in Norfolk.

Accused of forging his wife's name, Leroy Frost, forty years old, a carpenter, living at 1933 Potomac avenue southeast, was arrested yesterday afternoon in Norfolk at the request of the Washington police. Detective Charles Evans will leave for Norfolk this morning at 5 o'clock, and will accompany the prisoner to this city.

Mrs. Julia Frost, wife of the accused, is said to possess property in her own name and had an account with the Washington Loan and Trust Company. Mrs. Frost alleges that on April 30 last her husband signed her name to a check and obtained $50 from the loan company. She disappeared the next day, and Mrs. Frost grew suspicious, as she knew her husband did not have a large sum of money with him. Investigation showed that $50 had been drawn from the loan company on a worthless paper, it is alleged.

A warrant was issued for Frost and he was located yesterday by the police of Norfolk. His arrest followed.

WIFE CHARGES FORGERY.

Carpenter, Wanted by Police, Located in Norfolk.

Accused of forging his wife's name, Leroy Frost, forty years old, a carpenter, living at 1933 Potomac avenue southeast, was arrested yesterday afternoon in Norfolk at the request of the Washington police. Detective Charles Evans will leave for Norfolk this morning at 5 o'clock, and will accompany the prisoner to this city.

Mrs. Julia Frost, wife of the accused, is said to possess property in her own name and had an account with the Washington Loan and Trust Company. Mrs. Frost alleges that on April 30 last her husband signed her name to a check and obtained $50 from the loan company. She disappeared the next day, and Mrs. Frost grew suspicious, as she knew her husband did not have a large sum of money with him. Investigation showed that $50 had been drawn from the loan company on a worthless paper, it is alleged.

A warrant was issued for Frost and he was located yesterday by the police of Norfolk. His arrest followed.

TO-DAY "OPENING." Summer millinery—Paris hats are here for as much as $100. Too dear—blame the French milliners and the tariff. Why not let a Palais Royal milliner reproduce the one you fancy at less than half the price of the imported hat?

THE PALAIS ROYAL. $2.48 $3.25 $4.98. 53 Hats. 54 Hats. 55 Hats. Opening souvenirs—Black Neapolitan Straw, White and Cream Milan, Tuscan, Panama, and French Chip Hats, smallest to largest, including latest rolled side and flat shapes.

25c 50c 75c. 50c Flowers. $1 Flowers. $1.50 Flowers. French Flowers, the samples of New York's leading importers, were given us at complimentary prices, as an evidence of appreciation of past favors and others to come. They are passed on to the Palais Royal's patrons as "Opening" Souvenirs.

The Palais Royal, G St., 11th St. A. LISNER.

BUILDING CODE DENOUNCED. Engineer Humphreys Says New York Regulations Are Dangerous.

Richard L. Humphreys, engineer in charge of the structural investigation of the United States Geological Survey, declared yesterday that the new building code for New York City proposed by a majority of the New York commission was a dangerous proposition in that it did not provide for adequate security against a great fire.

It was really a step backward, according to Mr. Humphreys, and a serious blow to the effort to reduce the enormous fire losses.

BUSINESS NOTICES

A Good Business Tonic. EFFECTIVE PRINTING is a splendid business builder. Howard work is progressive, attractive, and producing. Facilities for executing booklets, folders, letters, and all other commercial work. Frank J. Jones.

Geo. E. Howard, 714 12th St. PRINTER, ENGRAVER, AND BOOKBINDER.

PAINT EXPERTS. Here to tell you the right paint to use and how to use it. Nothing better than our Model Paints for either outdoors or indoors. 15c Can. PAINT BRUSH FREE. HODGKIN'S FAMILY PAINT STORE, 913 7th St. N. W. Phone Main 296. Orders delivered.

H. K. FULTON. Established 1870. 314 9th St. N. W. Money to Loan. Watches, Diamonds, and Jewelry. BARGAINS AT RETAIL.

Christian Xander's Tennessee Whiskies. $1.00 full quart, 8 years old. $1.25 full quart, 15 years old. These two whiskies of unsurpassed quality are obtainable only at The Quality House, 909 7th St. No branches. Phone M. 24.

DIED. HEATON—After a long illness, BARRA C. HEATON, widow of David Heaton, and beloved mother of Margaret C. Blake, Mrs. William J. Quinn, and Francis J. Blake. Remains at chapel of Lee's undertaking establishment. Funeral Tuesday, at 9 a. m., from St. Peter's Church.

KEMPER—On Sunday, May 23, 1909, MARY ALLEN, wife of Charles E. Kemper, at 1522 Park road. Funeral services at Gunton-Temple Church, Monday, May 24, at 2 p. m. Friends invited.

REED—On Saturday, May 22, 1909, at his residence, 962 Twenty-first street northwest, JOHN A. REED, Intermittent in Philadelphia, Pa., on Tuesday, May 25 (Philadelphia Ledger and Evening Telegraph please copy.) ROUSE—On Sunday, May 23, 1909, at 1123 a. m., PHILLIP F., beloved husband of Ada A. Rouse, at his residence, 319 New York avenue northwest. Funeral services Tuesday, May 25, at 3 o'clock, from MacKendree M. E. Church, Massachusetts avenue, between Ninth and Tenth streets. Friends invited to attend.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS. GEORGE P. ZURHORST, 301 East Capitol Street. J. WILLIAM LEE, Funeral Director and Embalmer. Livery in connection. Commodious Chapel and Modern Crematorium. Modest prices. 223 Pennsylvania ave. sw. Telephone Main 1365.

FUNERAL DESIGNS. GEO. C. SHAFER, FLORAL DESIGNS. REASONABLE PRICES. "Phone Main 14th and Eye sts. sw."

FUNERAL FLOWERS. Of Every Description—Moderately Priced. G. UDE, 124 F ST. NORTHWEST. PHONE M. 674.

MONUMENTS. WE FURNISH MONUMENTS. Of the most durable stone known to science selected from the manufacturers, thus saving you the middleman's profit. 300 New Design to Select From. The Flannery-Phillipson Co., DELAWARE AVE. AND B. ST. SW. PHONE MAIN 223. S. SIDE U. S. CAPITOL.

LET US ESTIMATE ON YOUR CEMETERY work for Deception Day; finest display of stock to select from. Please order now and avoid disappointment. JOHN T. TRAPP, Lincoln ave. and T st.

Largest Morning Circulation.

Table with columns: City, High tide, Low tide, etc. Includes entries for Asheville, Atlanta, Baltimore, etc.

Condition of the Water. Special to The Washington Herald. Harpers Ferry, W. Va., May 23.—Potomac slightly cloudy and Shenandoah very muddy.