

The Economy of Pure Beer

Beer is a food and a tonic. The nutrition of malted barley is easily assimilated. Hops have a nerve soothing and appetizing effect. The little alcohol (3 1/2%) benefits without over stimulation. No other beverage is such a health builder.

But Poor Beer Risks Health

Beer is a saccharine product. It is easily contaminated by germs. Most rigid cleanliness is necessary to keep it pure.

Beer must lager or age to complete fermentation. It costs money to let it lie for months in storage. So it is cheaper to send it to market "green."

It is Better to Get Schlitz Than Take Chances

We go to extremes in cleanliness.

Our materials are chosen from among the best grown by one of our partners.

Our brewing is watched by another. The beer is cooled in filtered air. It is aged for months in glass-lined steel tanks. Every bottle is sterilized.

There are no impurities, no green beer, no bad after effects.

GOOD ROADS PLEA

LOSES TO COFFEE

Unemployed Have More Hunger Than Ambition.

MENTION OF WORK SADDENS

Prof. Charles Wills Unable to Compete with Ham Sandwiches and Hot Coffee at Meeting of Loyal Unemployed—Congress as a Goal Proves Uninspiring.

"I tell you, gentlemen, that if we can persuade Congress to pass a good roads appropriation bill providing for adequate commercial highways throughout the United States, you will all have plenty of work," said Prof. Charles Wills, in a ringing voice.

None of the members of the Union of Unemployed gathered at the People's Church last night seemed to be profoundly interested in this fact. One of the unemployed coughed gently behind his hand and glanced toward the door through which the aroma of hot coffee was wafted.

"Good roads, gentlemen, mean work to all of us," continued the professor in the same ringing voice, but a bit more anxiously.

Born in the Union.

One of the members looked as if he had been born into the Union of Unemployed, and therefore had to wish to leave it. He was a sad-faced man, the sadness increased by a drooping and dispirited moustache of the walrus type.

"How about them Eyettians?" he asked.

"Italians," said the professor stridently, "cannot force good Americans out of work."

"Hurrah!" yelled somebody in the back of the room. The sad-faced man was moved not a whit.

"But they're doing it," he persisted.

The professor passed this point gently and continued his address.

"Now, look at the way they're pouring water on the desert," he requested.

Silence Only Reply.

There was a general silence, caused principally by the fact that nobody knew what particular desert the professor was talking about, or who was pouring water, and why.

A plumber who had done some plumbing in 1876 and had lived on his reputation since that time arose.

"Did you wish to make a remark?" asked the professor.

"Yes," said the plumber, glancing over the assembled unemployed, "I want to get a cigarette."

He got one and started out toward the hall, explaining that he would be back soon.

"Gentlemen, we must get Congress to make that good roads appropriation," said the professor in that same ringing tone.

"How kin we get out to where they're swine to build them roads?" inquired a plaintive voice in the back of the room.

"Without gittin' pinched for hoboin'," supplemented another voice.

"The point is to get Congress," said the professor, "and if we are to get Congress we must stand together."

"Seems to me there's a blamed sight more chance of Congress gittin' us if we try any monkey business around there," said a tough man with an aggressive jaw and a fierce eye.

Pause Proves Disastrous.

"Now, there is plenty of work out West—" The professor paused for a moment, and during the pause his remarks were permanently disrupted.

Somebody came in with a trayful of ham sandwiches, and behind, radiating hospitality and good cheer, came Mrs. Georgia Ferguson, pastor of the People's Church, with a pot of coffee.

The Union of Unemployed gallantly rose as a man to do his duty. It did not care a whoop whether it "got at" Congress or not. What it wanted to do was effectually to "get at" the coffee and sandwiches. Sandwich after sandwich, and cup after cup of coffee vanished beneath the heroic treatment of the unemployed.

"We must get a Congress, gentlemen," cried Prof. Wills, in a voice of despair.

Well lined with coffee and sandwiches, the Union of Unemployed adjourned, merely wondering in a vague, uncertain sort of way whether the professor expected them to sandbag Congressmen individually or cope with the Capitol to attain the desired end.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC ASSAILED.

Clergymen and Temperance Workers Speak at Mass Meeting.

Urging co-operation between the church and the Women's Christian Temperance Union in the latter's endeavor to abolish the liquor traffic in the District, and especially in Georgetown, Miss Mabel Callahan spoke on "The need for prohibition" before a mass meeting at the West Street Presbyterian Church last night.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Zed Copp.

Rev. Charles Pate opened the meeting with prayer. The welcoming address was delivered by Rev. James T. Marshall, pastor of West Street Presbyterian Church. Addresses were also made by Mrs. Don P. Blair, Mrs. Clinton Smith, and Dr. F. B. Howden, of St. John's Episcopal Church.

Death of Mrs. McCraw.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Lynchburg, Nov. 19.—Announcement of the death of Mrs. Virginia C. McCraw, at Winston-Salem, N. C., was received here today. Death was due to heart trouble. She was the mother of O. L. McCraw, joint passenger agent at Lynchburg; J. E. McCraw, of Winchester, Va.; Mrs. D. C. Coles, of Baltimore, and Mrs. A. W. Schaum, of Winston-Salem.

Joseph M. Catlett died at his home in the West End today, after a brief illness of pneumonia.

TWO PHYSICIANS HURT.

Ambulance Struck by Car and Overturned—Injuries Not Serious.

Two physicians at Casualty Hospital were badly bruised last night, and the ambulance was almost demolished, when it was struck by a Capital Traction car on Pennsylvania avenue. The two physicians hurt are Drs. H. W. Moffitt and W. D. McInery. The horse was uninjured.

Following a call from the hospital, which proved to be unnecessary, the two doctors were returning north. As they approached Pennsylvania avenue the car approached at half speed. A moment later the ambulance was overturned by the car and its occupants thrown to the ground. Both were cut and bruised about the head and body.

GIRL'S FATHER DUE TO-DAY.

Parent of Miss Catherine Porter Will Settle Financial Difficulties.

W. F. Porter, formerly a member of the Nebraska State senate, and secretary of the State until a few years ago, whose daughter Catherine was arrested in Washington recently for passing an alleged worthless check, will probably reach this city today to take charge of the girl.

The father has wired Inspector Boardman that all bills and other expenses will be paid, and asked the police to see that his daughter was properly cared for until his arrival. Miss Porter became involved in the "check" business because of her money and business methods. She was arrested after she had run away from the Virginia Woman's College, in Roanoke, Va., and came to Washington. A representative of the college, who was in Washington yesterday, endeavoring to obtain the return of the girl to the college, failed in her efforts. The police will hold Miss Porter until her father arrives.

WITHDRAWAL HELD INVALID.

Surrender of Army and Navy Charters Illegal.

At a joint meeting of the President's Own, Barry, Buchanan, and Porter regiments of the Army and Navy Union last night in G. A. R. Hall a letter from National Commander Browne was read, in which he held that the action of certain members of Barry Garrison in surrendering their charter was not legal, and that it would be returned to those members who were not present at the meeting when it was voted to disband.

The idea of disbanding and organizing one large garrison in the District has been dropped, and there was organized at the joint meeting a department of the District of Columbia which will be the governing body of the five regiments now in existence. Capt. J. Walter Mitchell, past commander of the Spanish War Veterans, was elected commander of the department, with full authority to appoint subordinates.

WOMAN'S PRESS CLUB MEETS.

Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood Reads Report of Work Planned.

Members of the Woman's National Press Club held their regular meeting and social last night at the residence of Mrs. Grace Porter Hopkins, 125 Park road northwest.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Ruth M. G. Pealer, president. Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood read a report as chairman of the plan of work committee, followed by a series of entertaining papers on "Vacation notes," by Mrs. J. O. Estabrook, Mrs. Ellen S. Cromwell, Mrs. Mary Wright Johnson, and Mrs. Cora Bacon-Foster.

Mrs. Rachel Tongate read an original essay entitled "The City Beautiful," and Mrs. A. D. Melvin sang an original composition. New members admitted last night were Mrs. J. O. Estabrook and Mrs. Annie E. Wood.

OFFERS MANY OPPORTUNITIES.

Thomas Barbour Makes Address on Possibilities in New Guinea.

Financial returns from New Guinea, based upon the development of resources at present untouched, were declared to be assured by Thomas Barbour, in his address before the National Geographic Society at the New Masonic Temple Auditorium last night.

In telling of his experiences in his lecture, which he entitled "In savage New Guinea," Mr. Barbour dwelt upon the opportunities for capital and inventive brains working jointly in this little-known field. Opportunities in agriculture, other fields, he said, exist to-day for the enterprising man who cares to direct his energies to developing a new country.

MEETING IS POSTPONED.

District Democrats Will Nominate Commissioner at an Early Date.

The fall meeting of the District central Democratic committee, scheduled for last night at Costello's Hall, failed to materialize, owing to a misunderstanding.

Walter Costello, a member of the committee, said that due to an unauthorized statement, which appeared in a local paper, some friction had arisen, and to eliminate any possible ill feeling the meeting had been called off at the last minute. He said that at some early date the committee would meet to transact routine business and to consider the political situation in the District.

It is probable the committee will make recommendations and suggestions to President Taft in the matter of choosing the new District Commissioner to succeed Commissioner West.

CHANGES APPOINTMENTS.

Virginia Methodist Ministers Are Assigned Again.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Newport News, Va., Nov. 19.—Several of Bishop Morrison's appointments of the Methodist ministers for the coming year, made here Tuesday, caused some dissatisfaction that the bishop has made several changes.

Rev. E. T. Dadmun, pastor of the Trinity Church, this city, who was assigned to McKendree Church, Norfolk, has been made the presiding elder of the Farmville district, and Rev. George Westley Jones is transferred from the presiding eldership of that district to the Clay Street Methodist Church, Richmond.

Rev. W. T. Green is moved from the Farmville Church to McKendree Church, Norfolk, and Rev. R. M. Chandler is transferred from the Clay Street Church to the Farmville Church.

Date for Lynchburg Poultry Show.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 19.—The Lynchburg Poultry and Pet Stock Association has decided to hold its first show beginning January 4, and continuing for three days. R. L. Simmons, of Charlotte, N. C., will judge the classes. The show will be held in a Main street building.

Luray Girl Weds Englishman.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Luray, Va., Nov. 19.—Harry Howard, of England, and Miss Sallie Cameron, daughter of Charles E. Cameron, of this county, were married in Luray today. Rev. J. A. Huffard, of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, officiating. Mr. Howard has been in America eighteen years.

MADE NO PROMISES

Judge Not Committed to Kelley's Appointment.

STATEMENT BY LEGAL DIRECTOR

Virginia's Next Attorney General Declares He Will Give Preference to Confederate Soldier in Appointing His Assistant—Bibb Is Veteran. Thought Kelley Would Get Plun.

Tazewell, Va., Nov. 19.—Judge Samuel W. Williams, of Wythe, attorney general-elect of Virginia, in a statement here today denied that he ever promised the appointment of assistant attorney general to Samuel L. Kelley, of Richmond. He did not say, however, that he has finally appointed former State Senator Bibb, of Louisa.

Early in the week, while in Richmond, Senator Bibb announced that he would be appointed assistant attorney general of the State. This announcement created much political surprise, as friends of S. L. Kelley, of Richmond, have been claiming ever since Judge Williams' nomination that the Richmond lawyer would get this much desired legal plum.

Judge Williams has been out of telegraph reach and his statement today is the first he has made since Senator Bibb's announcement.

In speaking of the impression that S. L. Kelley would be appointed, Judge Williams said that he made no promise to individuals during his canvass and never indicated his choice for any office. He said that in every speech he delivered if elected attorney general he would seek to find a Confederate veteran who is in every way capable of performing the duties of assistant attorney general, and if one could be found he would give him preference.

Judge Williams said Senator Bibb made application for the appointment, and as he is a Confederate soldier, a good lawyer, and qualified for the position, his application will be very favorably considered.

In saying that he never promised the appointment to Mr. Kelley, Judge Williams declared that Kelley never mentioned the matter to him nor he to Kelley.

WEDDING BELLS SILENT.

Bridgroom at Food Show Incapacitated—Prize Awards Made.

There was a case of "waiting at the church" at the Food Show last night, when the bride-elect, Miss Pauline Williamson, whose wedding to William C. Hall was to be the feature of the show, waited patiently until some time after the hour was set for the appearance of the bridegroom. When he did come he caused the wedding to be called off. The bride soon consoled herself with an ice cream cone and a drink of fizzy water.

There was a big baby show in the afternoon, when the voting contest which had been going on for several days was brought to a close. President H. I. Meader, of the Grocers' Association, made the announcements of the prize winners as follows: Frank Rhodes, 424 G street northeast, first; Virginia May, 125 Eighth street northwest, second; and Margaret H. Gibson, 706 New Jersey avenue, third. Others who received votes were Evelyn Humphrey, Lois L. Hardwick, Max Fischer, Boland Durham, Frank Shull, Jr., Irwin Yowell, Helen Stevens, Constantina Zurra, Alice Lee, James Wilkins, Richard C. Davis, and Eleanor T. Phillis.

A crowd gathered at the Tolman Laundry booth last night, when the seal was broken on a jar of ivory soap chips which had been sealed by W. C. Haskell, sealer of weights and measures, when the show first opened. Prizes were given to those guessing nearest to the weight of the chips. Winners of the contest were as follows:

Miss L. Hodgson, 517 E street southeast, first ladies' prize, a damask linen set.

Mrs. Moore, of 422 O street northwest, second prize, box of ivory soap.

Z. A. Wattlek, the Calbarne, first gentlemen's prize, half dozen fine shirts.

J. C. Brady, 189 Kalamora road, second gentlemen's prize, three dozen collars.

Awarding of prizes in the doll show of the White House Coffee, will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The doll show will be followed by an Old Glory parade.

The show will close with a grand ball, beginning at 9:20 o'clock, to continue until 11 o'clock.

Notice to Our Readers.

We wish to call the attention of every reader of The Washington Herald to the advertisement of Dr. Blosser's Catarrh Remedy, which appears in this issue. Dr. J. W. Blosser, 291 Walton street, Atlanta, Ga., the discoverer and proprietor, is a man of such character that his claims for the remedy and his promises may be relied upon in every particular.

As he offers absolutely free a trial sample of his Catarrh Remedy, it is certainly well worth the while of every sufferer to write him and give the remedy a trial, at least to this extent. It is evident that unless the remedy was a good one he could not afford to make this offer.
