TO REVISE PLAYING RULES

President Johnson Gets Busy with Baseball Code.

SEVERAL IMPORTANT MATTERS TO BE STRAIGHTENED OUT, BUT NO RADICAL CHANGES PROPOSED.

New York, Jan. 21.—At the request of President B. R. Johnson, of the American League, his secretary, Robert McCoy, and A. J. Planner, are engaged in a thorough revision of the playing rules code, primarily with a view to correcting mistakes that have been discovered and to avoid apparent conflicts and misinterpretations through imperfect wording.

Incidentally, changes not of a radical nature will be suggested at the joint rules committee meeting in Pittsburgh on Monday. Two rules which have caused some trouble in the major leagues and a lot of misunderstanding among the amateur and professional fans are these relating to a base runner overrunning first base and the substitution of players, particularly the present rule governing the player who overruns first base is not clear, and is subjected to different interpretations even in the big leagues. This matter will be straightened out, and a better definition of the question as to when a player is actually in the game will also be framed.

Both Presidents Johnson and Lynch say there will be no radical changes in the playing rules. Mr. Lynch has several new rules to govern players on the field which he is anxious to have adopted. They are calculated to suppress roving on the part of substitute players sitting on the benches—an evil which Mr. Lynch says must be nipped in the bud—and unnecessary personal remarks by players on the coaching line.

Referee Pat O'Connor's Decision Hissed—Americus Throws Dan McLeod, of Canada.

OFF-SEASON BASEBALL

It is the captain's duty, according to Lynch, to report changes in the line-up, and for every omission to do so he is to be fined.

Gus Dorner, the old Boston National pitcher, was married the other day at Hagerstown, Md., to Miss Ruth Harper, of Chambersburg, Pa.

While cornering the market with baseball talent is getting to be a delightful pastime with the magnates, is there any excuse for one or two clubs to hold players for bartering purposes?

President Lynch, of the National League, has decided that in the future before a substitute player can actually be reported to the umpire, just as is done in football.

John Schutte, for several years one of the leading infielders of the New York State League, has forsaken the professional field as a means of livelihood and is at present representing a Cincinnati business house in Boston.

Manager Stallings, who is in Georgia, sends word that the ball park at Athens, Ga., where the Highlanders will train, has been put in apple-pie order, and that the training quarters at a leading hotel will be up-to-date in every respect.

Secretary Thomas Davis, of the New York Americans, has sent twenty-four contracts to players to be signed forthwith. Hal Chase, Pitcher Carroll, of Akron, and Pitcher Fisher, of Hartford, have already attached their signatures to the club's contracts, and the other men will soon be in line.

Hans Wagner, the famous Flying Dutchman of Pittsburgh, universally recognized as the greatest all-round ball player in the world to-day, will be thirty-five years old next month. He has always kept in condition, wasting none of his strength. He lives on a small farm near Carnegie, just out of Pittsburgh, and his principal recreation of late years has been automobiling, a sport of which he is an enthusiastic devotee.

Cleveland has always contributed its share of the star players in the major and minor leagues of the country. Look for illustration, at the ball game and the elections Cleveland has given to the country at large—Tommy Leach, Billy Bradley, Lave Cross, Billy Honka, Jimmy Austin, and others. Look at the representatives Cleveland will have on the major league teams in 1910—Steve Evans, of the Cardinals; Rube Marquard, of the Giants; Jim Delahanty, of the Tigers; Tommy Leach, of the Pirates; Charley Smith, of the Red Sox; Paddy Livingston, of the Athletics; George Paicker, of the Reds; Jimmy Austin, of the Yankees, not to mention Earl Moore, of the Phillies.
