Decline in Wheat Largest of Present Year.

BOUNTIFUL PROSPECTS CAUSE

Selling in Chicago and Other Centers is on Immense Scale, and Cotton is Looked for to Make Similar Drop—Placing of Bond Issue with France Another Development.

New York, May 26.—Although there were many noteworthy financial developments today, the event of far more importance than all others was a decline in the wheat market of greater proportions than in the present year. For at least a fortnight signs of chronic and underlying weakness have been evident in the market for grain and a general slow crumbling of prices has taken place throughout. The substantial reason for this, of course, the continued prevalence of favorable crop weather all through the spring and winter wheat sections for a considerable time the strong speculative party that has been successful during the past eighteen months in holding up the price of grain fought to the utmost of its power against the natural declining tendency of the staple. There is very little doubt that lately the leaders of this party made up their minds that it was useless to continue the struggle further and began the task of extricating themselves from the situation with as little loss as possible.

Selling on Large Scale.

To-day efforts in this direction passed into the uncontrolled stage and there was open selling of wheat on an immense scale by the old-time bull leaders in Chicago. The result was a break in wheat prices from 4 1/2 to over 5 cents in the prominent options, a fall that carries the price of grain to a point within hailing distance at least of the level at which a normal export trade in it can be carried. The drop was accentuated by renewed advices from the crop district as to excellent weather there and it was accompanied by declines not only in corn but in provisions and in practically all other agricultural commodities. It would be very surprising if a sequel to the chapter of history written in this respect to-day will not occur in due course in a smash in the cotton market.

True conditions in cotton are a little different than they are in grain, but it is also true as regards cotton in even greater degree than was the case with wheat, that speculation for the advance price and simple raised the price of cotton, and still maintains it at a level much higher than that at which it ought to be placed upon a genuine supply and demand basis.

Big Bond Issue Placed.

Furthermore, to-day came the official announcement at last of the placing of a bond issue of $25,000,000 francs with French investors by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company. Time money to-day was lower, sterling exchange was again weak, and the Bank of England's weekly statement of conditions was fully of the sort looked for; that is to say, it again exhibited the influence of causes making for a temporary tightening of the English money market. Probably the stock market would have rallied to-day anyway in a natural recovery from yesterday's foolish and unjustified break, but the general griet of good news helped on an advance that was otherwise logically started, and should welcome sort as these have currently presented, there is little doubt as to the course that will be followed by security prices in consequence, whatever may be the disappointment met with by speculators for the rise who from time to time endeavor to hurry the market along faster than it properly should go.

LOCAL FINANCIAL GOSSIP.

Col. O. G. Staples, having returned to the city, was asked yesterday to confirm the reports that he had acquired a controlling interest in the Columbia National Bank. He said he was not willing to discuss the matter further than to say he had disposed of a portion of his holdings in the stock of the bank to some well-known local financiers who have had large experience and success in the management of financial institutions. Col. Staples thought that in the new acquisitions of stock the bank would be measurably strengthened. It is thought likely that a reorganization of the board of directors will be effected, though the present management of the bank would not be disturbed in the usual course of events until the annual meeting of the stockholders next January.

Business on the local stock exchange yesterday was rather small and confined to a few securities. Gas sold a little lower than the recent transactions. No attention was given to the railway shares, trading being made up largely of sales of small lots of several bank shares. Bonds of the Colonial Beach Company were first listed on the board of the exchange yesterday. The amount of bonds listed is $100,000. Interest being at 5 per cent.
