

DISTRICT DEBT PLAN NOW BEFORE HOUSE

Bill Favored by Judson May Come Up Next Monday.

PROVIDES GRADUAL REDUCTION

Measure Allows Commissioners to Extinguish Bonded Indebtedness Out of Combined Revenue Fund by Annually Estimating $975,408 for Interest and Sinking Fund.

The House District Committee yesterday reported favorably the bill advocated by Maj. Judson, Engineer Commissioner, providing for the gradual reduction of the entire debt of the District of Columbia and the adoption of a permanent plan of improvements. Maj. Judson appeared before the committee at the regular weekly meeting and made an argument for the bill.

An effort will be made to have the measure taken up and disposed of in the House next Monday. Former Commissioner George E. Truesdell also advocated the bill before the committee.

The bill provides that the Commissioners shall allow for the extinguishment of the bonded indebtedness of the District, out of the combined revenue fund, by annually estimating $975,408 for interest and sinking fund, until the bonded indebtedness shall be paid off, and thereafter they shall include in their estimates only the sum, $487,704, to be paid wholly from the revenues of the District, to be applied to any indebtedness remaining and due the United States.

The bill also provides for a graduated scale of estimates to be submitted by the Commissioners for extraordinary improvements, including the reclamation of the Anacostia flats.

Two of the proposed public improvements, a high water pressure for the fire department and the provision for public wharves, were stricken from the reported bill, as it was believed opposition to them would endanger its passage.

Under Mr. Judson's plan the bonded debt of the District would be cleared in twelve years, and the twenty-five remaining indebtedness paid in twenty-five years, while the public improvements would go on under a well-regulated plan.

JAIL AND WORKHOUSE FUND.

Maj. Judson Recommends Appropriation Before Committee.

Maj. Judson, Engineer Commissioner of the District, and Supt. Ladow, of the Department of Justice, appeared before the House Appropriations Committee yesterday morning in support of an estimate of $197,200 in connection with the removal of the jail and workhouse prisoners from the District to the penal institutions in Maryland and Virginia and the establishment and maintenance of these institutions.

The item is intended to replace a former estimate of the Attorney General of $275,000. Of the new estimate, it was explained, $120,000 is to cover the cost of the removal of the prisoners and maintenance during the transition period. This includes salaries for superintendents, guards, clerks, cooks, &c. The additional amount is for necessary improvements to the jail at an estimated cost of $77,200.

LOCAL BILLS REPORTED.

District Committee Sends Several Measures to House for Action.

Several bills of local interest, reported last week by a subcommittee, were favorably reported to the House yesterday by the District Committee. These include Representative Slayden's bill requiring the establishment of passenger elevators in Union Station.

The Smith bill, authorizing the Commissioners to make regulations governing the use of lights by vehicles; the bill to license the drivers of passenger vehicles, and the bill amending the District game laws were also reported.

SHIP SUBSIDY PROBE.

Special Committee's Work to Go Over Until Next Session.

There will be no report at this session of Congress from the committee of which Representative Olcott, of New York, is chairman, which has been investigating the ship subsidy scandal. Mr. Olcott said yesterday that the committee will meet during the recess and make its report to the House at the beginning of the next session.

FREE SAMPLE AIDS OLD MEN

The sudden change from years of activity of both body and mind to the quiet of later years causes the human system to undergo many changes, chief of which is in the digestive organs.

It becomes harder and harder to get the bowels to move promptly and regularly, and in consequence many elderly men suffer, not only from the basic trouble, constipation, but from indigestion, headache, belching, sour stomach, drowsiness, and similar annoyances. It is first of all necessary to keep the bowels open and to tone the digestive muscles so as to get them to again do their work naturally.

A violent cathartic or purgative is not only unnecessary, but harmful, and something mild will do the work just as well. After you have got through experimenting with salts and pills and waters of various kinds, and have become convinced that they do you no good at all, then try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a mild, gentle, pleasant-tasting, laxative tonic, but from indigestion and the requirements of old people, women, and children, and yet is effective enough for yourself or family members, has handled it successfully for a quarter of a century, will sell you a bottle for fifty cents or one dollar, but if you want to make a test of it before spending any money, send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell, and he will gladly send you a sample bottle free of charge.

This remedy is rapidly displacing all other forms of medication for the cure of stomach, liver, and bowel troubles and families like Mr. O. F. Wisner's, of Syracuse, Ill., and Mrs. Carrie Culler's, of 22 N. Notre Dame street, South Bend, Ind., are now never without it in the house. They have tested it and know its genuine value to every member of the family.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family members, and to the stomach, liver, or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter, and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise.

Dr. Caldwell's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 623 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

WILLIE AND JOHNNIE.

When the boss suggests to Willie that he do this chore or that, Willie goes a-hustling to it, quicker than a circus cat, and he acts as though he liked it; when one little job is through, he comes loping back inquiring if there's nothing else to do. And the boss, whose heart is weary of incompetents and drones, says: "He's earning better wages—I must see he gets more bones." When the boss remarks to Johnnie, "Go and sweep the ceiling now," Johnnie goes about the business with a dark and gloomy brow; in a weary, listless fashion he performs his little chore, always looking, always squinting at the clock above the door. And the boss, whose heart is harrowed, sizes up that languid boy, and remarks: "That blooming youngster isn't worth three whoops in Troy." Oh, the mantle of Elijah falls upon me now and then, and I gaze into the future, see the boys grow into men; and I mark the rise of Willie to the shining heights of fame, and I'm onto little Johnnie losing out at every game. RANDOM REMARKS.

By THE OBSERVANT PHILOSOPHER.

Over in New York they're happy because Mayor Gaynor has signed what is popularly known as "the jag law." It provides for the establishment of a commission to deal with inebriates, and a hospital and an industrial home to be used by the commission to break topers of the habit of getting "sozzies."

The mayor doesn't think that the new law will do much toward correcting drunkenness, and he gives rather a naive reason. He says:

"The substitution of light beers for strong drinks has done much to do away with drunkenness. It might also be mentioned that the general introduction of machinery, and especially electricity, has done much to reduce total abstinence from intoxicating drinks, for only sober and alert men are fit for these employments."

Here is another advantage that is to come from the act that is about due, when all the work in the world will be done by machinery. It will be a strange age, for as Charlie Gaston used to say, "What's the use of a man working in a town that's voted dry—what can he spend his money for, anyway?"

One of the hardest things that have ever been said about Col. Roosevelt was sprung on him by the chancellor of Cambridge University when he presented the colonel with his degree. For greater solemnity on this auspicious occasion, the whole proceeding was in Latin—and that, except Col. Roosevelt's part—and the chancellor had to huddle around to find out how to render "the Rough Rider" in the vulgar. But he finally got it, and referred to the regiment the colonel commanded in Cuba as "equites voluntarios duri in armis genus." It sounds like pretty rough language to use to an American ex-President, but the lion hunter stood it without blinking an eyelash.

Talk about foolish questions. A contributor to The Washington Herald asks, "What has become of Thomas W. Lawson?"

In these days of trouble and turmoil in the divorce colony at Reno, there are still many women who could say with Mrs. Glenn Currier: "I would rather have a real live husband than be the widow of the man who attempted to fly from New York to Chicago."

Whatever else they may say about President Taft they can't deny that he is a perfectly good lawyer, and on one point nearly every one will agree with him—that is when he declares, by inference—for he doesn't use much slang—that the lawyers have got things into a deuce of a pickle.

Charlie Gaston says that he is dead against the Board of Trade or the Chamber of Commerce offering any money reward for the aviator who flies from New York to Washington. He declares that any man ought to be glad to get to such a city as this any way he can.

Do not be aggrieved over the fact that the salaries of the opera singers are to be cut next season. Cut them as you may, it will be a long time before they get down to the European level and, anyhow, if opera singers won't save their money let them sign the petition for a contributory retirement fund.

The best proof that Judson Harmon stands for the masses as a Democratic candidate for President is the strenuous support John R. McLean is giving him. No, Champ Clark did not inspire this thought.

One cannot readily see the force of the petition signed by the senior class at Yale, asking for the pardon of Morse, the bank wrecker. Morse was tried fairly at a great expense to the state; fairly convicted and sentenced without rancor. Since he has been sent to prison many hundreds of poor devils who, perhaps sorely tempted, have ventured to steal have also been sent to prison, but neither Yale nor Harvard nor any other institution of learning is interested in getting them pardoned. The probability is that the young men of Yale, President Taft's son among the number, who signed this petition knew or cared very little about what they were signing. They were asked to sign and did so, and if any one of them was asked to give a sane and logical reason why he affixed his signature, he would be unable to do so. It may be, of course, that the spectacle of a man of large affairs, big mind, and good antecedents in a common prison

MOVED THEM TO PITY.

If so, it is quite mistaken pity—it is the sort of pity when expressed by these Yale men for a man who was one of their class which helps to strengthen the hands and the arguments of the extreme radicals and socialists. It is an infinite pity that for the protection of society some men must be sent to prison, but there should, in reality, be more sympathy for the poor wretch who steals through necessity than for the big criminal who has so much brain that he thinks he can "get away with it."

It is passing strange that, in spite of all the recent blustery, rainy, almost freezy and quite unseasonable weather, no one so far has pulled that much-abused quotation, "Oh, what is so rare as a day in June."

The man in Hammond, Ind., who took kind seeds sent to him by his July Congressman, mistaking them for pills, is almost a match for the Ohio man who got seed potatoes from the Department of Agriculture and fed them to his children; and the man from Michigan who requisitioned a few thousand black hoes to stock a stream with, and ate them fried.

Rather a pity that young fellow, William Pittman, got caught laying explosive mines in the way of the Nicaraguan fleet, for it affords too good an opportunity for the "dingo," who is always with us, to inveigh against the "outrage," if anything should be done by Nicaragua. Already the wires are working; the young man's friends are politically active, and:

"The Department of State feels sure that the note it sent to Commander Gilmer, of the Paducah, yesterday, instructing him to see to it that the Madriz people know that this government will make the severest reparation, in case anything of the kind happens to any man, will save the brave American."

Surely here is another fine opportunity to wave the flag, and quote: "Who harms a hair of that brave young head. Dies like a dog. March on, he said."

What possible right have "the Madriz people" to catch young Pittman? As it were not the inalienable right of any man to lay a few explosive mines where they will do the most good.

There can be no doubt about the inauguration of the policy of retrenchment in Washington, when they can't even try the national colors on the new Municipal Building because of lack of funds.

Are you reading Mr. Frank A. Munsey's "Newspaper Discussions"? It is excellent reading and most safe, sound, and sane advice. The wonder is that he doesn't put it into practice with some of his many newspapers. Just as an experiment.

MASS MEETING HELD.

Republicans of Alexandria County Organize and Elect Delegates. A Republican mass meeting, the largest and most enthusiastic ever held in Alexandria County, assembled last evening at Ballston, on the call of Owen E. Gray, county chairman, for the purpose of electing a county chairman, county committee, and four delegates to the Eighth Congressional district convention, which will be held in Alexandria City, June 20, when a candidate will be nominated for Congress in opposition to Representative C. C. Carlin.

The election resulted as follows: County chairman, W. H. Duncan; county committee, C. J. Costlow, Thomas L. Donnelly, and John B. Duncan; delegates to the convention, C. A. Mason, A. J. Porter, and Joseph Walker, and alternates, L. E. Northrop, A. D. Viceroy, and John B. Duncan. J. W. Slack was elected permanent secretary, the meeting being conducted by William Duncan, temporary chairman, and Edward E. Wilson, temporary secretary.

FIRST RECOGNITION OF WORTHY CLAIMS

House Committee to Report Favorably on Bill.

The Claims Committee of the House ordered a favorable report yesterday on an omnibus personal injury award bill carrying $20,000 for distribution among twenty-four beneficiaries.

This is understood to be the first systematic recognition of the claims of civil employees of the government for personal injuries sustained in line of duty.

In his report urging the passage of the bill, Representative Prince, of Illinois, chairman of the Claims Committee, recited a number of the distressing circumstances involved, including the case of Lars P. Peterson, of Illinois, who was so badly injured while on government work that his only means of employment at the present time is fancy sewing. Among other beneficiaries are former government employees at Willits Point and the Boston Navy Yard.

The bill allows a year's additional pay as the compensation the injured person received at the time of the accident.

Republican Caucus Selects Carl D. Loeffler.

The Senate adjourned at 4 o'clock yesterday to permit the Republican Senators to hold a party caucus to elect an assistant doorkeeper.

A vacancy was created several weeks ago by the resignation of Alonso Stewart, who had held the office for fifteen years, and had come to be regarded as one of the fixtures of the Senate. He was a protégé of Senator Allison, of Iowa.

Since the resignation of Mr. Stewart there has been a lively contest among some of the minor employees on the Republican side, and the matter was finally settled in the party caucus by the election of Carl D. Loeffler, who came into the Senate as a page a few years ago.

Mr. Loeffler is a son of Maj. Charles Loeffler, U. S. retired, who for many years was the private doorkeeper of the President, having served in that capacity under Presidents Harrison, Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt, and Taft.

WILL GO ON CRUISE.

Naval Militia to Be Distributed on Fleet Battle Ships.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Winthrop has instructed Rear Admiral Schroeder, U. S. N., commanding officer of the Atlantic fleet, to make arrangements for placing several thousand members of the naval militia organizations on board the various battle ships of the fleet this summer.

The practice cruise for the naval reserves will be during the last week of July. The Pennsylvania militia will be quartered on the battle ship Kansas at Philadelphia. The Vermont will be used by the Massachusetts militia, the naval reserves of Maine will board the battle ship Louisiana at Provincetown, Mass., and the Connecticut civilian sailors will embark on the Georgia. The Rhode Island militia will be instructed on board the Mississippi and Idaho.

The other battle ships of the fleet—Connecticut, South Carolina, Michigan, New Hampshire, Minnesota, Rhode Island, Nebraska, and Virginia—will carry the New York naval reserves.

The Senate adjourned at 4:30 p. m. until today at noon.

SUNDRY CIVIL BILL PUT ASIDE FOR DAY. River and Harbor Conference Report Discussed. The Senate was in session four hours yesterday. When it convened, Senator Hale, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, came forward with the sundry civil appropriation bill. The absence of Senator Cummins, of Iowa, who had gone home for the elections, caused Senator Bristow, a fellow-insurgent from Kansas, to interpose obstacles in the way of the passage of the sundry civil bill, because it was understood that Senator Cummins wanted to discuss the feature of the bill relating to the tariff board. Senator Bristow called for the reading of the bill in full. After the reading had gone on for an hour, he withdrew his demand, and, by agreement, the Senate took up the consideration of the conference report on the river and harbor bill. Several Senators are opposed to the report, and the rest of the afternoon until 4 o'clock was occupied with speeches on the report. Senator Nelson, who submitted the report, spoke in favor of it while Senator Burton, of Ohio, and Senator Newlands, of Nevada, opposed it. At 4 o'clock the report was laid aside to permit the Republican Senators to hold a caucus.
