ST. PATRICK'S BOYS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Premiums Are Awarded for Class Work Excellency.

The commencement exercises of St. Patrick's High School were held yesterday afternoon in New Carroll Hall, adjoining the church.

Three boys received their diplomas, while a number of awards for class work were made. The medal for the best essay on the subject assigned by the committee for Maryland Day was conferred on Lee Lopez Townsend, of the graduating class. This prize was competed for by all of the parish high schools of the city, and was emphasized by Rev. Dr. William T. Russell in his address to the graduates.

An interesting feature of Father Russell's speech was his reminiscing on his personal intimacy with the late Father Tabb, the blind poet of Maryland, and the late Charles Warren Stoddard, the lecturer.

The graduates were John Bernard Doan, Hugh Bernard Fegan, and Lee Lopez Townsend.

The following premiums and special mentions were awarded:

Testimonials for class standing: George Mudd, John I. Sullivan, Edmund Deeds, Jerome Sebastian, James Maloney, Edward Niland, Arthur Fitzgibbons, James Conlon, Eugene Moore, Gardner Moore, and Percival Harbin.

RAIN PREVENTS PLAY

All Fresco Shakespeare Postponed Until To-Night

ON THE WHITE HOUSE LAWN

With Clear Skies Coburn Players Will Present "Twelfth Night" in Afternoon and "As You Like It" in Evening for Benefit of Washington Playground Association.

"Twelfth Night" will be given on the White House lawn at 4:30 this afternoon, and "As You Like It" at 8 o'clock, the weather permitting.

In the event of rain this afternoon, "Twelfth Night" will be postponed until Saturday afternoon at the same hour and place. If rain also prevents "As You Like It" tonight, that performance also will go over until Saturday night.

If rain should prevent either or both of the postponed performances on Saturday, the audience and actors will adjourn to the ball-room of the New Willard Hotel instead of the Music Temple. The program at half past one on the Evans Building west tower will be the signal for a postponed performance.

Last night's rain checks will be good for any performance, but if an afternoon performance is desired instead of an evening, reserved seat coupons must be exchanged.

SCHEDULE OF POSTPONED PERFORMANCES.

After coquetting with the sun all day, the clouds hovering over Washington concentrated themselves into one mass of lanky blackness at 4 o'clock this night, and the downpour put an end to aspirations of the Coburn Players, and the Playground Association. As a result, the performance of "As You Like It" on the White House lawn, was postponed until this evening.

It was a case of the minority ruling, with a vengeance. Mrs. Taft had given her permission, T. Arthur Smith had disposed of several thousand tickets, the Playground Association was waiting and anxious, with a sharp eye on the horizon, the Coburn Players were letter-perfect in their parts, and the public, expectant, but a little dubious, was more than willing.

Weather Man Was Not. But the Weather Man was not Shakespeare, playgrounds, actors, and audience are all the same to him, so in his obnoxious way he turned on the spigot and the majority was swept away in the deluge. The combined anathemas hurled at him and his waterworks seemingly cannot penetrate his impervious hide.

What's the use, anyway? If it doesn't rain—and the most effulgent oracles declare no hope that it will not—performances will be given, one at 4:30 and the other at 8.

"Twelfth Night" will be given at 4:30 o'clock and "As You Like It" at 8, on the White House lawn, the new Willard hotel room has been placed at the disposal of the Playground Association, but as the Coburn Players have succeeded in cancelling their engagement in Auburn for Saturday night, it rains to-day both plays will be given to-morrow out of doors. This is in response to numerous demands, as the real beauty of these performances lies in the sylvan surroundings, with the trees and shrubbery of the White House lawn so admirably offered.

Rain checks, which were issued last night, will be good for either of the postponed performances, either to-day or Saturday, but if the holder desires to attend an afternoon instead of an evening performance it will be necessary for him to exchange his reserved seat coupons at T. Arthur Smith's, 1417 P street northwest, as the seats which he holds for the evening performance may be held by some one else for the afternoon.

In the event of postponement to-day, the public will be attended by the pennant on the wireless tower of the Evans Building being placed at half-past.

During the evening, the President and Mrs. Taft received Mr. and Mrs. Coburn before they had taken off their costumes of Orlando and Rosalind.
