

SCRIBES "SCOOPED" IN CHARITY GAME

Chamber of Commerce Team Wins by 12 to 11.

BIG CROWD SEES CONTEST

Errors at Critical Stages Responsible for Downfall of All-News-paper Outfit After They Gave Lead More Than Once—Bunched Hits Turn Trick in Eighth Inning.

"Scoop" said nine husky newspapermen when the celebrated Chamber of Commerce—All-News-paper baseball game came to an end at American League Park yesterday afternoon with the score 12 to 11 in favor of the scribes.

The Chamber of Commerce team did not "scoop" the newspapermen, however; the scribes did it themselves. Errors at critical stages were responsible for their downfall after they had gained the lead more than once.

President Taft, Vice President Sherman, and other dignitaries were invited to attend the game, but could not get away from their duties. A good crowd of leather-lunged partisans were in the stands, however, and made things interesting.

Good Sum Netted. The game was for the benefit of the Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, and a good sum was netted, the sale of tickets going well up into the thousands.

When Capt. Phil King, resident in a Princeton jersey, led his men on the field for practice, the Chamber of Commerce team was sized up for an easy winner. The newspapermen, in particular, were confident that they would win. The Chamber of Commerce started the scoring in the second after two were down. Bull walked, and Smith was hit. Sheckell booted the ball into the outfield, who capered about for some time, overran the ball, dodged back, and grabbed it with one hand, and dropped it. Bull scored. The All-News-paper team got the tally back in the third, when Ball walked. Sheckell tried to nab him off first, but threw the ball into the bleachers. Ball got to third. He scored a moment later on Keane's single.

Becker Cleans Up. Two more came to the Chamber line in the third. Phil King got a life on Ball's bad throw to first. Charley King singled, and Becker cleaned up with a sizzler to center. It was fast ball from then until the sixth, when the seasaw started working good.

In the opening half of the chapter the Newspapermen got three, when Milliken was hit. Whitlock walked, and Hart and Ball singled. Sheckell retired in favor of Becker in this inning, after issuing the free tickets and allowing one hit. Capt. King's men pulled the seasaw up again in their half, with two tallies. Bull walked, Smith singled; both advanced on Elliott's error, and scored on Elliott's error of Lowe's grounder.

As a pleasant surprise to Becker, the scribes jumped on him for three runs in the fifth, on a bunt. A bunt was sent for Sheckell to return. Before the onslaught was stopped two men had walked and two errors had been made, along with a clean single, putting the newspaper men in the lead 7 to 5. Chamber players couldn't see the score that way and tacked on three more in their half. Phil King was hit, Becker singled, Quinn got to first on Walter's error, and Smith cleaned the bases with a triple.

Five Singles in Row. Four more came to each side in the eighth. Five singles and a walk did the work for the scribes, and their rooters went wild when the score stood 11 to 8 in their favor. The Chamber team came back just as strong and put the game on legs with four tallies. Three singles, a walk, and a double did the trick.

The newspaper men couldn't even things up in the ninth, a fast double play denying any chance they might have had. Rawlins was chased from the game after facing one batter, the Chamber of Commerce team claiming he was a "ringer."

Ball's batting was a feature, the clever shortstop getting his base every time up. Four singles, a walk, and a base on an error gave him a fine record for the day. A flying catch by "Ty Cobb" Hart in right field was spectacular, and robbed Charley King of a home run. The Chamber of Commerce team claiming he was a "ringer."

Phil King shoved his men around some until he struck the happy combination that gave his team the game in the eighth. As near as can be ascertained the game, figuratively speaking, was something like this:

CHILD ESCAPES INJURY.

Auto Crashes into Bicycle, Throwing Rider to Ground.

Violation of the law in driving on the wrong side of the street resulted in an accident last night, when an auto belonging to Chang Yin Tan, the Chinese Minister, and driven by Oliver Paul, collided with a bicycle ridden by Alexander S. Brewer, of 1107 Rhode Island avenue northwest, and upon which he was carrying his two-year-old daughter.

Brewer had arranged a seat for the child on the handlebars. Upon turning around the south side of Scott circle the machine crashed into him without warning, throwing him to the pavement, but luckily tossing the child upon the grass.

Brewer refused to accept the offers of assistance from the driver, and took the child to the official garage on Jenner, 1115 Rhode Island avenue northwest, where it was found that she had not sustained serious injuries.

BOXER UPRISING IS MENACE.

Trouble Has Only Commenced, Says Mrs. George Barnett.

Foreign Legations in Immediate Danger in China, While Government Promises No Relief.

Foreign legations in China are in immediate danger, and the rumored Boxer uprising is a menace to every white person in the empire, according to Mrs. Barnett, wife of Col. George Barnett, U. S. M. C., stationed at Pekin.

Mrs. Barnett reached Washington yesterday, on her way to her estate in Virginia, after two years in China. She declared emphatically that the Boxer trouble has only commenced, and that if they should attack the legations no foreigner would survive.

"No one knows what would happen," said Mrs. Barnett. "The European and American Ministers to China know nothing. The imperial government is non-committal. But one thing is certain, the trouble has just begun."

"Every foreign woman in China is living in constant suspense. The men, even, are apprehensive. They know that if the uprising comes the legations would have little chance. It would be wholesale slaughter."

Mrs. Barnett was probably the best-known woman in the Orient during her two years' visit. When she left Pekin she was accompanied by several legation attaches of the several legations tendered her a reception, and gave her a beautiful tribute to keep the memory of her visit to China green.
