ABE SLUPSKY STUCK HIS ROLL ON CHEST

St. Louis Politician Is Back from Reno Fight.

SAFE WAY TO CARRY MONEY

"Big Mill Drew Choice; Bunch of Strong-arm Guys and 'Dips' that Ever Got Together," Says Picturessque Character, Who Paid $12 to See Jeffries Playing Cards.

St. Louis, July 8.—Col. Abe Slupsky, picturesque St. Louis politician, who has won fortunes betting on Presidential and other elections, and was made famous by the New York Sun, returned to his new home among the multimillionaires here to-day, from Reno, Nev. He tenderly moistened two porous plasters stuck on his chest and from under them took $3,000 in yellowbacks.

"It was the only safe way to carry money in Reno," Slupsky earnestly explained. "I would a' stuck it on my back, but there was nobody I would trust to do it for me."

Drew Choice Bunch. "Say, the Jeffries-Johnson fight drew the choicest bunch of strong-arm guys and 'dips' to Reno that ever got together. The evening of the Fourth I kicked twenty empty pocketbooks off the plank walk. Whenever an easy thing staggered out of a saloon a woman would up and sting him. And if he squealed a man on hand would ask why the devil he was insulting his sister."

"I didn't sleep two hours all the time I was there. I knew my roll was stuck on me, but I did not feel safe. When I wanted to eat I went out into the suburbs and bought a glass of milk and a sandwich from a faroody else to know it went into a restaurant there and came out with his roll."

"This is Guggenheim's money," and Slupsky affectionately patted the $3,000. "In Lawlor's pool room we made the bet. I put up $1,500 to win it. In all I won $3,655. That left me $30 unplaced, and I'd have bet the fat $30 against a car ticket on the coast."

Jeff Like Sauerkrant. "Not that I think the negro is good, but Jeffries was so much worse. He came into the ring like a barrel of sauerkrant. The only thing attractive about him was the mess on his chest. He walked like he was sawed off at the knees. After the fourth round there was nothing to it."

"And what could you expect of a prize fighter who trains by fishing? Why would not Jeffries spar? Because he knew he did not have the wind, but he did not want anybody else to know it. I said $2 to go out to his camp in an automobile and found Jeffries playing cards."

"They're making a great holler about the money that was waiting in St. Louis to go down on Jeff. Believe me, if there had been any here Slupsky would never have gone to Reno."

Explains Faulty Armor. Ship Yards Officials Say Plate Was Temporary. Quincy, Mass., July 8.—At Fore River ship yards to-day an official made the following statement relative to the defective armor plate on the battle ship North Dakota.

"The story is a year-old, and is not news at all. Last summer difficulty was experienced at the ship yards because of the nonarrival of some of the armor plates from the Midvale Steel Company of Pennsylvania. Two of the plates that did come were faulty. New plates were ordered, but the delay was so prolonged that the North Dakota was held up on her trial trips. Finally the delay became serious, and as the ship was all ready for her trip the Midvale Steel Company, the Fore River Company, and the government reached an agreement whereby the two faulty plates were placed on the ship for the trial trip only with the understanding that when the new plates arrived the expense of tearing off the old ones and substituting the new ones would be borne by the Midvale Steel Company."

Brownlow Victim of Bright's Disease. Representative Dies at Soldiers' Home Hospital. Bristol, Tenn., July 8.—Representative Walter Preston Brownlow, of the First district of Tennessee, for twelve years a member of Congress and one of the most influential Republican Representatives from the South, died at the hospital of the National Soldiers' Home, twenty miles south of Bristol, at 5:50 o'clock this evening, after an illness of several months of Bright's disease.

He was taken critically ill ten days ago, and for days it has been known that the end was but a matter of a short time. Mr. Brownlow had secured more than $8,000,000 in appropriations for his district, including the $2,000,000 Soldiers' Home in Washington County, of which he was local manager.

He was Republican National Committeeman from Tennessee until four years ago, and several times received the Republican vote in the Tennessee legislature for United States Senator. He was a nephew of former Gov. Parson Brownlow.

For two years Brownlow had been contending with the Evans faction in Tennessee for the patronage, this wing of the party having ousted him as State boss some two years ago.

TALK OF THE TOWN. Those in charge of the parks of the city evidently think that the statues in Lafayette Square have attained a state of dirt and depravity that is not comparable with their proud position, for a squad of men has been at work on them for some time making the pedestals and seeing that the shoes of the figures are well shined.

It is to be hoped that the fortune that will come to Robert St. George Dreyfus, if he does not do a lot of things mentioned in the will of his father, will be sufficiently large to give him the pleasures after he reaches the age of twenty-eight that he will have been denied before that time. If not, it is feared that he will think that he has received the wrong end of the bargain.

When the captain pulled his little schooner up to the docks one could have guessed that he had something big up his sleeve from the grin. Upon seeing the big smile slit across the face of the general skipper, all the fishermen, loafers, and boat masters in the immediate vicinity collected around him.

When it comes to telling fish stories, Capt. Camillus Brown, of the schooner Augusta, holds the championship of the waterfront. The captain says that he went up the Occoquan yesterday morning about 5 o'clock, and fished until noon, having caught over 300 bass during that time.

When the captain pulled his little schooner up to the docks one could have guessed that he had something big up his sleeve from the grin. Upon seeing the big smile slit across the face of the general skipper, all the fishermen, loafers, and boat masters in the immediate vicinity collected around him.

Believing in returning good for evil, the captain made everybody a present of a little bunch of the nice fresh fish. This is the biggest haul made on the Occoquan in recent years.

WORKERS' SAFETY OBJECT OF STUDY Taft Names Commission to Get Liability Act Data.

Beverly, Mass., July 8.—When Congress sets the legislative mills to work again next December it will have some data on which to frame an employers' liability act, in all probability. Announcement was made at the executive office to-day that President Taft had named President W. C. Brown, of the New York Central Railroad, and Daniel L. Cense, editor of the Journal of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, to be members of a commission that is to investigate the question of employers' liability and workmen's compensation.

These two men have been notified by letter, and it was not known to-night whether or not they would accept. Senators Hughes, of Colorado, and Warner, of Missouri, and Representatives Denby, of Michigan, and Brantley, of Georgia, also are members of this commission. The four representatives were named by the Vice President and the Speaker of the House.

The commission has been named under a joint resolution of Congress passed late in the session. It is to conduct its investigations and report to the President. From this report legislation may be expected to be forthcoming, the resolution declares.

BEVERLYITES SPRUCE UP TO PLEASE THE PRESIDENT. Beverly, Mass., July 8.—This town has begun to spruce up since the President and his family came on from Washington. Natives were astounded to-day, however, when it was noted about the streets that I. Porter Brown, a North Beverly farmer, who has passed the seventy mark, was ensconced in a barber chair.

The crowd gathered in front and gazed, for the Porter Brown beard is known all over the North Shore. It has been growing for high on to fifty years without the touch of the razor.

"Ain't been shaved afore in fifty years," said Brown, as he stood upon the curb in front of the shop and softly stroked a chin that was white and unfamiliar to the Beverlyites. "Twelve years ago I come down here and got first part of my beard shaved. My family ain't forgot it yet. I could not stand the pressure, though. I want to see the President this year, and I reckoned I ought to get shaved first."

SHERMAN CARRIES SICK WIFE IN ARMS

Station Crowd Sees Deed of Vice President.

Baltimore, July 8.—Through a crowd of interested tourists in Union Station this noon, James Schoolcraft Sherman, Vice President of the United States, carried his invalid wife in his arms to the private car, "Columbia," which was waiting to bear Mr. and Mrs. Sherman to the North. The Vice President's wife has been a patient at the Johns Hopkins Hospital about two weeks, but it was felt to-day that she was strong enough to leave for their cottage in the Adirondacks.

The Shermans left the hospital about 11 o'clock in an automobile. No nurse or physician was in the machine, as Mrs. Sherman's condition has improved so much in the past few days that other attendance than her husband was deemed unnecessary. Driving with ease over the smoothest streets, the chauffeur piloted the car to the eastern end of the Pennsylvania Railroad station, arriving but a short time before the train was due.

JUDGE CARR STRICKEN. Aged Hyattsville Resident Suffers from Blood Clot on Brain.

Hyattsville, Md., July 8.—Judge Arthur Carr, for the past fifty years a justice of the peace in Anne Arundel and Prince George counties, suffered a stroke of paralysis at his home here this morning, and is now in a serious condition, according to Dr. Thomas E. Lattimer, the attending physician. The paralysis resulted from a clot of blood on the brain.

Judge Carr is seventy-three years old and the father of thirteen children, all but one being residents of Maryland. He came here from Friendship twenty years ago, and has been engaged in the real estate business. He has a large family connection and a host of friends throughout Southern Maryland.

CHARTON'S CASE ADJOURNED. Slayer of His Bride Does Not Appear in Court.

New York, July 8.—Porter Charton will remain locked up in the Hudson County jail, Jersey City, till August 11, at any rate. That much was settled to-day, when the hearing in his case came up in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Jersey City. The hearing was adjourned till August 11.

Charton was not in court. There was simply a three-minute whispered conference between County Prosecutor Garvan, Edwin Smith, of Edwards & Smith, the boy prisoner's counsel, and Judge Blair, at the termination of which the judge announced the month's adjournment.

ONE KILLED IN CAR WRECK. Many Persons Are Injured in Brooklyn Accident.

New York, July 8.—The controller of a Church avenue car bound for Canarsie slipped from its base to-night while the car was tearing around a curve in Brooklyn. A frightened motorman tried to jam it on again, but before he could do so the car jumped the track, smashed against an iron trolley pole, and piled fifty passengers in a heap. One man was killed outright and eighteen persons injured, some of them seriously.
