CIGARETTES STIR PITTSBURG WOMEN

Both Sides Heard at Animated Club Meeting.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 22.—The report that Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, formerly Miss Alice Roosevelt, is in the habit of smoking cigarettes was brought up at this afternoon's meeting of the Pittsburg Playground Association, which was attended by the leading club women of Pittsburg.

Some rather pointed remarks were made in favor of and against Mrs. Longworth. Among the clubs represented were the Woman's Club of Pittsburg, Daughters of the Revolution, Daughters of Pioneers, and the Women's Southern Society.

Mrs. J. H. Armstrong provoked a storm by announcing that she looked on a woman who smokes as a woman who bleaches her hair with suspicion.

"The higher the position a woman holds, the more womanly she should be, and I am surprised at Mrs. Longworth, if this report is true," said Mrs. Minnie O. Roberts, who was applauded.

"I think any woman has a right to smoke cigarettes if she wants to, so long as she doesn't tread on the toes of any one else," said a little woman, a member of the Women's Southern Society, and the meeting began to buzz.

Mrs. Dale, of the Daughters of the Revolution, rose at this point and said: "We women of Pittsburg needn't get up our feathers because Mrs. Longworth smokes cigarettes. Let us not forget that our maternal ancestors in Pittsburg smoked corncob pipes."

The meeting adjourned at this point in good order, though several women were on their feet, wanting to talk.

HAMILTON OUT WEST

Spending Summer in Montana with Geological Survey.

George Hamilton, brother of "Burley" Hamilton, the star right half back on the George Washington University football team last fall, is spending his summer in Harlem, Mont., as a member of a surveying party sent out by the Geological Survey. He sends word that he is having the time of his life out there among the sand hills. For the last two years Hamilton has been the mainstay of the Blue and Gray, on the cinder path and on the gridiron. He is a fast man in the dashes and is one of the best pun-kicker artists in the high schools, having been picked as a member of the all-high school eleven last year. When he returns from his trip to the "wild and woolly West," he will be in the pink of condition and ready to take up his duties in the school and on the gridiron.

Rev. Mr. Browning Visits Brother.

Rev. Robert E. Browning, of St. John's University, Shanghai, China, formerly assistant rector of the Church of the Ascension, this city, is spending the summer with his brother, Dr. A. J. Browning, at Portland, Ore. The Rev. Mr. Browning will return to his work in China on October 1.

COW IS THE GOAT.

Dr. Woodward Suggests Healthier Form of Milk Supply.

Would you solve the milk problem? Then get a goat. At least that is the suggestion offered by Health Officer Woodward to those contemplating a solution of the affair.

Dr. Woodward says that in the care of infants it is advantageous to supply the child with plenty of goat's milk. The consumer can be absolutely assured that the milk from the animal aptly termed the poor man's cow is clean.

He goes on to say that the food given to the baby of the man who owns a goat is not stale or contaminated. Then, too, he claims the goat is free from disease and is an inexpensive animal. A permit to keep a goat is not required in the District.

G. A. R. SEEKS NEW HOME.

Must Vacate Present Quarters in Pennsylvania Avenue.

The Department of the Potomac, G. A. R., must vacate its present home in Pennsylvania avenue, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, shortly, as the property is to be torn down by the government.

Department Commander Johnson has been looking around for suitable quarters and says he has been unable to find a place that will properly house the organization. He believes it would be a good idea to buy a place large enough to house all patriotic bodies of the city.

"There is more than one reason why it would be well to have the G. A. R., the Army and Navy Union, the Marines and Sailors, the Spanish War Veterans, and the different women's auxiliaries meeting in one large building," said Commander Johnson last night.

GIRLS IN BALL GAME

Novel Feature of Georgetown Playground Athletics. HUNDREDS WITNESS SPORTS

Chariot Race with Tots as Drivers and Horses Interesting Number in Big Programme—Field Events for Youngsters Reveal Future Greats. Secretary West Present.

Spectacular was the scene at the Georgetown playgrounds, Thirty-fourth and Q streets northwest, yesterday from 3 to 5 p. m., when an athletic exhibition of playground work was given in the presence of several hundred enthusiastic onlookers.

There was the extreme novelty in the baseball game between girls. The feature of the evening was a chariot race, in which two girls were driven to the vehicle by a third girl, winning the event over eight similar entries.

The Georgetown playground is under the management of Edward E. Miller, in charge of the boys' grounds, and Mrs. Agnes Stewart and Miss Marie Pearce, looking after the girls.

James E. West, secretary of the association, was on the ground and took an active interest in the proceedings.

The Young Shamrock team defeated the Elks team in the ball game. The contest between senior and junior girls resulted in the score of 22 to 13 in favor of the Seniors. The closing feature was the folk dance by 400 little girls, who afterward marched around the flag, saluting and singing "America."

Elks and Knights of Columbus Practicing for Fray. E. J. Murphy, chairman of the joint committee of the Knights of Columbus and Elks, is making great preparations for the baseball game to be played between teams representing these organizations at the American League Park, August 12. The proceeds will go to St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum. James O'Shea, manager of the Knights' team, reported numerous changes in the personnel of his players, and he expects to have a big surprise for the Elks.

A committee was appointed last night by the Knights of Columbus to entertain a delegation of 100 members of the order who will be coming to New Orleans from the convention in Quebec. The delegation will be here early in August.

Reptile Coils Tightly Around Her Neck Until Beaten Off. Pittsburg, July 22.—Miss Katharine Conway, nineteen years old, is at the Mercy Hospital here in a serious condition from fright after a battle she had this morning in the cellar of her home, in Bradock, with a great black snake. Physicians say the young woman's nerves are so shattered that she will hardly recover.

Miss Conway was in the cellar when the snake which had been coiled around one of the rafters, dropped down, and wrapped itself around her neck. It began a death squeeze. Help finally came and the snake was driven off, making its escape into the old stone wall. Some days ago a large snake thought to have been the mate of this one was killed in a cellar near-by.

MORNING CHIT-CHAT. "THEN you don't trust me." "My dear, you know perfectly well that I'd trust you anywhere, and that I feel you are as safe with Carl as you would be with your own brother."

"Then, why on earth, mother, can't he come to call on me even if I am going to be alone in the house. I think it's perfectly absurd." "Because it won't look well, Dorothy, and we live in a world of other people."

"Looks, looks, looks—Oh, I am so sick of hearing about 'looks.' What difference do appearances make if I do what's right?" "As I listened to that conversation the other day between one of my friends and her eighteen-year-old daughter, I wondered if there were a mother in this land of convention-hating young folks who had not had a somewhat similar conversation with her particular Dorothy."

Again and again, both in my own and other people's homes, and in my letters, I've met the substance of that impatient question of Dorothy's— "What difference do appearances make, if I do what's right?"

Just the difference between a clean, good road and a rough, uneven road, strewn with obstacles, just the difference between a fair wind and a continually opposing one, on the highway to success and achievement. Sometimes the rebels against convention say, "But if it is a question between conscience and convention, between doing right and appearing to do right, isn't it much better to be true to yourself?"

Absolutely and always "Yes," if you are sure that what you think is right, is right. But I don't believe that problem will arise more than two or three times in a lifetime.

The choice is far more often between convention and pleasure, between doing what is morally right, but conventionally wrong, and what is both morally right and conventionally right.

And when that question arises why not win for yourself at the sacrifice of a little pleasure, a temporary inclination, the clean, good road and the fair wind that comes from standing well in the opinions of your fellow-men.

Satisfy yourself first always. That's right. But after that try to satisfy your fellow-men, too, for that is expedient, and expediency has its place in this world as well as morality.

"My character is my own, but my reputation belongs to any old body who enjoys gossiping more than telling the truth." I read the other day in a book of epigrams.

Like most epigrams, it sounds good, but it isn't wholly true, for your reputation is also your own if you take the pains to keep it so.

The Chinese have a proverb— "Do not pull up your stockings in a melon patch or straighten your hat in a peach orchard; any one seeing you may think you are stealing." Expressed in more straightforward fashion, we find the same thought nearer home— "Avoid the appearance of evil."

ROOSEVELT GETS 2,034 INVITATIONS

Shows Impossibility of Accepting All of Them.

HERBERT PARSONS A CALLER

Representative and State Senator Wainwright Discusses Politics, but Decline to Make Comments Later. Colonel Looks Over Plans for Raising the Wreck of the Maine.

New York, July 22.—Even the elevator boys in the Outlook office appear to be getting used to the colonel's days in town. The unusual excitement that almost swept Dr. Lyman Abbott and his associates off their feet is wearing away. There was scarcely a thrill to-day, even though Col. Roosevelt did meet a few political callers who went away without saying anything. In fact it was quiet.

After he had got through seeing several delegations who always come in the colonel put in several hours with Representative Herbert Parsons, formerly county chairman, and State Senator J. Mayhew Wainwright. They had luncheon with him and after that was over came back to the office and discussed things. Neither Parsons nor Wainwright cared to say what they talked about. Of course they talked politics. The colonel admitted that, but he said later he had no comment to make on their visit.

Salzer and Cobb Call. Representative Salzer, who is prominently mentioned as a Democratic nominee for governor, and Senator Cobb, of direct primary fame, were two other callers attracting a bit of attention. They did not arrive together. Mr. Salzer came with Mayor Douglas, of Niagara Falls, and Col. Isaacs, of Buffalo. All he wanted was to ask the colonel to make a speech at the National Good Roads Convention during the latter part of the month. The colonel refused. He simply cannot do it.

In order to emphasize the utter impossibility of his making any more speeches for a long time, Col. Roosevelt said that by actual count up to late in the afternoon he had received 2,034 invitations to talk. Secretary Harper computed the list. It dates from June 18, the day he got back from Europe. If the colonel made a speech every day, including Sundays, and as he is requested to do, he would have to be on the job steadily for over five years. Now, of course, not even T. R. could do that.

Col. Roosevelt showed a good deal of interest to-day in looking over some plans for raising the wreck of the Maine. John O'Rourke, president of the O'Rourke Engineering Construction Company, had drawn some blue prints and he showed them to the colonel, who studied them for some time. Mr. O'Rourke believes that his scheme for raising the wreck out of Havana harbor is practical. The colonel did not say whether he thought so or not.

Among the persons who saw Col. Roosevelt were Liston L. Lewis, who, as chairman of the Lincoln Birthday dinner committee of the Republican Club, asked the colonel to be the guest of honor at the annual dinner next winter. The colonel accepted this invitation, which he has had under consideration for several weeks. The dinner will be held February 13, 1911, because Lincoln's birthday falls on Sunday.

Among the other callers who saw the colonel were Representative Calder, of Brooklyn; C. Hildreth, of Franklin; Walter Page and F. M. Doubleday, Peter A. Jay, United States diplomatic representative in Egypt; William F. Morgan and Dr. Charles McKenna, of the American Society of Chemical Engineers, and several minor delegations who had requests to make for speeches and visits and things.

The colonel stayed at the Outlook office until late in the afternoon. He motored back to Sagamore Hill, saying that he will be very quiet until Monday at least.

BAKING SUCCESS DEPENDS to a great
