

HOSTS TO GREET PAPAL DELEGATE

Cardinal Vannutelli Arrives Here To-day.

WILL CALLON PRESIDENT

Thousands of Children for Welcome at Station.

Distinguished Catholic Dignitary, Who Is Personal Representative of Pope Pius, to Be Guest of Clergy of Washington for Two Days—Elaborate Programme Planned for Entertainment—Children to Sing.

More than 10,000 Catholics of the city will greet Cardinal Vannutelli, personal representative of Pope Pius X, who arrives at 10:25 o'clock this morning to be the guest of Washington clergy until Saturday. An elaborate programme arranged for the entertainment of the pontifical party includes a reception by President Taft at the White House.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO SING

At the Union Station, thousands of Sunday-school children representing every Catholic church in Washington, will be gathered to extend a reception to the cardinal. They will assemble at the end of the east concourse of the station and will be drawn up in two lines through which the cardinal and his party will pass from the President's room to their carriages.

Accompanied by his secretaries and a suite, including Mr. Prince De Croy, Mr. Tanpier, and Bishop O'Connell, Cardinal Vannutelli has been touring the United States since the adjournment of the Eucharistic Congress at Montreal. His visit to the Capital will be of especial interest because of the fact it is the first time the holy father's personal representative has been received by the President.

Immediately after luncheon, the cardinal and his party will be escorted on a sightseeing tour by a committee of Washington clergy. They will visit the Capitol and Library and other places on interest. This evening, at 7 o'clock, Mr. Falconio will be dining at the cardinal's suite and a few Washington pastors.

Will Visit Universities. Georgetown and Catholic universities will be visited after luncheon Friday afternoon. Cardinal Vannutelli has manifested much interest in Catholic educational institutions in this country, and will make a special report on these universities to the Holy Father.

Rev. William T. Russell will be host to the visitors Friday evening, when a dinner and reception will be held at St. Patrick's rectory. All the Catholic clergy will be received by the Cardinal before the dinner. Following the dinner the cardinal benediction will be given by Cardinal Vannutelli in the church.

SEES INSULT TO ARMY.

Gen. Funston Resents Bellhofs Wearing Captain's Insignia.

Fort Leavenworth, Kans., Sept. 28.—"Yes," said Gen. Frederick Funston at his home here this evening. "It is true that after being two hours in the hotel Baltimore at Kansas City last Monday I paid my bill and walked out after notifying the hotel that I did not propose to stop at a house where bellhops were attired in the insignia of United States army captains."

"I deplore that the incident has become public, and I admit that I might have been a trifle hasty, yet I think I was right. "I had always been friendly with the hotel people, and hoped that the incident would be dropped, and felt sure that the management would change the uniform. It is no more than natural that an army officer should take pride in his uniform and resent it when the uniform is ape'd."

DOWN JURY DISAGREES.

Baltimore, Sept. 28.—Apparently hopelessly blocked, the fourth Downs jury was discharged by Judge Duffy at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. State's Attorney Owens says he will prepare for the fifth trial of the accused at once.

A majority of the members of the jury declare the final vote was 11 to 1 for acquittal, but two men—Jurors John T. Thompson and Jacob Sussman—told State's Attorney Owens, during a conference in Mr. Owens' office, that the final vote was 11 to 0 for conviction.

For nearly 100 hours the twelve jurors who were to decide whether the former city stock clerk was guilty of larceny of municipal funds had contended among themselves as to the merits of the evidence, and for the best part of this time they were of the opinion that nothing could bring them to one mind.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For the District of Columbia and Maryland—Fair with moderate temperature to-day and to-morrow; light to moderate northerly winds, becoming variable.

MAY CUT OFF NAPLES.

Steamship Lines to Prevent Spread of Cholera.

New York, Sept. 28.—Naples will be soon shut off from communication by the liners with all cities of the civilized world, according to the agents of all steamship companies in this city, whose vessels touch at Italian ports.

The spread of cholera in Naples and its neighborhood which the Italian government, the dispatches from Europe say, is trying to minimize, has inspired the steamship companies to steer clear of the infected districts.

There are more than a dozen lines operating ships between this port and Naples including the Hamburg-American and the North German Lloyd. The situation is serious, from the commercial viewpoint of the various lines. It means the shutting out of probably 15,000 Italian immigrants from Naples in a month, and the absolute death of the Malaga grape industry, Almeria, the port from which the grapes are sent, being in the cholera district and thus quarantined.

PARDON ASKED FOR BANKER.

W. W. Ramsey Was President of German National of Pittsburgh. Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 28.—The State Board of Pardons to-day heard application for a pardon for W. W. Ramsey, president of the German National Bank of Pittsburgh at the time of the municipal graft exposure, who is serving a sentence of eighteen months for bribery.

SEARCH FOR JEWELS LEADS TO CAPITAL

Munich Police Ask Aid of Maj. Sylvester.

SWINDLERS FLEE BAVARIA

Elaborate Circulars Printed in Several Languages Received in Washington and Request Authorities to Look Out for Two Men Sought in Every City of the World.

Maj. Sylvester yesterday received a communication from Baron von der Heydt, president of the royal police department, at Munich, asking that a search be made in Washington for two men who swindled jewelry valued at 142,800 marks, from Court Jeweler Otto Koch. Baron von der Heydt believes the swindlers have escaped from Bavaria, and he has sent circulars to police chiefs all over the world asking that a look-out be maintained for the fugitives.

Maj. Sylvester also requested to institute a search for the missing jewels, which are minutely described in circulars issued by Baron von der Heydt. The circulars are the most elaborate ever received at police headquarters in this city, being printed in several languages and containing large designs of the stolen gems and photographs of the fugitives.

Search Wide World.

The men for whom the world-wide search is being made are Don Cirilo Jose de Elorduy and Emil Becker. The former is supposed to be a real estate owner of Mexico. He is between thirty and thirty-five years old, about five feet seven and one-half inches tall, slim, with a long face and sharp features, dark complexion, greenish gray eyes, large nose, closely-cropped hair, and beardless. The finger nail on the middle finger of the left hand is missing. He does not speak German, but can converse in English and French.

At the time of his disappearance he was elegantly dressed, and usually wore a stiff, black felt hat, dark blue suit, white gaiters, blue or white cravat, with a pearl scarfpin, and frequently a smoking suit, with a black silk hat or a blue-silked Prince Albert coat.

Emil Becker is supposed to be an art expert from Chicago, also posing as a dealer in precious stones, water, or retired gentleman from San Francisco. He was born in 1894 in Pforzheim, Bavaria. Becker is 5 feet 7 1/2 inches tall, strongly built, round face, dark blonde, long, parted hair, without beard, and always dressed like Elorduy, but less elegantly. Becker speaks German with a Baden accent. He posed as Elorduy's secretary and traveling companion.

Forged Check Given.

The swindle for which the men are sought was committed the afternoon of September 10 at Frankfort-on-the-Main. They got an introduction to Court Jeweler Koch by alleged false impersonations, and finally established business relations with him. They purchased the missing jewelry from him, and in payment gave a check drawn on the deposit branch of the German Bank in Wiesbaden. It later developed, it is alleged, that the check was forged.

The stolen jewelry consists of a diamond necklace, consisting of thirty-eight round stones, weighing seventy-six karats; a pearl scarfpin, consisting of a large white rose glistening pearl, set on a gold pin and weighing twenty grains; a similar pin set with a more valuable pearl; a lady's diamond ring, set in platinum, consisting of one diamond weighing 2.54 karats, set in a crab setting, and eight smaller diamonds set on the band of the ring.

Officer Held as Spy.

Portsmouth, Sept. 28.—Lieut. Seifried Helm, an officer of a German regiment, who was arrested while making sketches of the fortifications here in the early part of this month and to-day committed by a magistrate for trial, was afterward released on $5,000 bail.

AVIATOR IN LAKE.

Ballooning Probably Perished After Making Parachute Drop.

Calumet, Mich., Sept. 28.—Homer Hazard, of Lansing, a balloonist, is believed to have drowned last night in Portage Lake, between Houghton and Hancock.

Hazard was the aviator whose exhibitions were to have been a feature of the Copper Country Fair. He ascended shortly after 6 o'clock last night, a light wind carrying the balloon over the lake. He made a parachute drop into the lake, being unable to clear the water, according to farmers who saw him.

It is believed he miscalculated the velocity of the wind and height of the drop. Searching parties have been unable to locate him, although the balloon was found in the lake about two miles from Houghton to-day.

One farmer who saw Hazard drop says he called to the aviator while the latter was in the water, but Hazard said he needed no assistance, but he has not been heard from since.

CABINET SHAVES ARMY ESTIMATES

Total Is $10,000,000 Less Than Last Year.

ECONOMY PLAN AGREED UPON

Reorganization of Methods in Government Department Intended to Save Uncle Sam $10,000,000 Annually—Frederick A. Cleveland Heads New Bureau of Experts.

President Taft and members of his Cabinet yesterday continued the process of shaving the estimates of the several departments for the next fiscal year. No announcement was made of the result of the two days' parings, but it is known that the President has strong hopes now of holding the total estimates within the figures presented last year. A good deal of the time yesterday was spent on the estimates for the War Department, and after the day's work was over it was found that the total estimates as they stand at present are $10,000,000 less than the total amount appropriated for the department at the last session.

The estimates for the Navy Department are less than the estimates made last year. The Post-office Department, which is always one of the heaviest drains on the Federal Treasury, has shown about the same percentage of increase in its estimates for this year as it did last. This, of course, is accounted for by the continuous growth of the service.

Plan for Economy.

The President and his official family yesterday agreed upon a plan for the reorganization of the methods of the government in the transactions of its business, which will include every department and probably will save Uncle Sam $10,000,000 annually.

Secretary Norton, who will carry out the plan, under President Taft, said yesterday that it is not for the purpose of throwing superannuated clerks out of employment, but to eventually help them by providing more up-to-date methods of doing the work.

President Taft has established a bureau, to be headed by Frederick A. Cleveland, director of the bureau of municipal research, of New York. Mr. Cleveland will be assisted by four or five expert business men, selected by Mr. Norton, who will form a body of advisory and supervisory experts, with powers of original investigation. They will report to the President as to the methods and work of each department.

Postal Savings Outlined.

Postmaster General Hitchcock yesterday presented to the President the complete plans for the new postal savings bank system which the postal experts have been working on during the summer. By the law creating this banking system the government is only allowed a quarter of 1 per cent to operate the system. The present stamp represents a loss to the government, but it is considered by the authorities that the stimulus to open an account will make up for the loss.

John F. O'Rourke, head of the O'Rourke Construction Company, who thinks he can raise the Maine from Havana harbor, called at the White House yesterday afternoon but could not see the President. Mr. O'Rourke, however, had a long talk with Attorney General Wickham and Acting Secretary of War Oliver and Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff.

His scheme for raising the Maine will receive serious consideration, but according to White House officials, has not been determined upon finally.

It is likely that the Cabinet will remain as President Taft's guests until tomorrow, as they have expressed themselves as exceedingly satisfied with the President's plan for doing business at the White House.

President Taft spent yesterday morning discussing departmental matters with individual members of the Cabinet and went to the executive office at 11 o'clock for the regular daily session of the Cabinet.

Archbishop Ireland, Senators Dick, of Ohio; Penrose, of Pennsylvania, and Warner, of Missouri, and Representative Moorehead, of North Carolina, were among the visitors during the day.

THOUSANDS FOR IRELAND.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 28.—In less than an hour the resolutions urging the raising of $150,000 for Ireland were adopted by the fifth biennial convention of the United Irish League. The delegates at the closing session to-night in convention hall raised $15,000 and gave assurance of any other amounts needed to strike a final and successful blow for Irish home rule.

The closing session was one of unbounded enthusiasm. There was a riotous scene when Michael J. Ryan, of Philadelphia, consented to a second re-election to the presidency. Almost in an instant 200 Irishmen were standing on their chairs cheering like Indians. All the other officers of the league were re-elected.

BIG FIELD SEEKS ROCHESTER PRIZE

Seven Candidates Since Governor Declined to Enter.

HAVENS THE STRONGEST

New Yorker Feared Coalition of Hearst and Roosevelt.

Edward M. Shepard Not Seriously Considered, Owing to His Corporation Affiliations—Murphy Is Apparently in Contest, But He Declines to Announce Himself as Favoring Any Candidate—Free-for-all Event with Nomination.

Rochester, Sept. 28.—These candidates in the field to-day for the Democratic nomination for governor, and it is likely that the names of most of them will be submitted to the convention: James S. Haven, Rochester. Thomas S. Osborne, Cayuga. Edward M. Shepard, Brooklyn. William Sulzer, New York. Justice James Gerard, New York. Martin Littleton, Brooklyn. John A. Bessel, New York.

The choice rests with Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader. He is the real State leader, and it is admitted by every one here that the candidate he decides to support will be nominated. He has at least 186 votes behind him from New York, Kings, Queens, and Westchester counties, and can also command the votes of the delegates from Chemung, Cattaraugus, Warren, Duchesne, and Cheroquo counties, which will mean that he will have more than a majority of the votes of the convention.

Has No Preference. Murphy, however, refuses to make the slightest intimation as to the candidate he is likely to support. He is taking the stand that this is not a year for individual preferences, and that the candidate to be picked by the convention should be the choice of the majority of leaders of the convention.

The declination of Mayor Gaynor to accept the nomination was unexpected by Charles F. Murphy, Norman E. Mack, William J. Connors, and other leaders who have reached here. They frankly admitted yesterday that, despite the mayor's letter of Monday, in which he stated that he was not a candidate, they fully expected that he would take the nomination if it should come to him.

At first blush, when the Creelman letter was read here on Tuesday night, it was thought that the mayor, knowing, as does every one who understands the policy that John P. Mitchell would take if he became the actual mayor, he really declined to take the nomination, because of feeling of faithfulness to his subordinates in the city government, nearly every one of whom would lose his head if they were left to Mitchell, and Mitchell has taken no particular pains to conceal this fact, either; but after sleeping over the letter a good many politicians seemed to think that the Saratoga convention had a lot to do with the mayor's letter.

Probably Feared Hearst. The trend of their talk to-day was that a wire that William E. Hearst would combine with Roosevelt against him, Mr. Gaynor had decided to quit, particularly as he would be handicapped in being unable to make a stump campaign because of the condition of his throat.

Mr. Shepard's friends are talking loudly for him, but there does not seem much possibility of his nomination. The opinion was frequently heard around the hotel corridors to-day when Mr. Shepard's name was mentioned that it would be bad policy for the Democrats to nominate him. The comment was made by one of Mr. Murphy's advisers, and it would seem, therefore, to reflect Mr. Murphy's opinion.

"There seems to be no question, from what we hear from Saratoga, that Roosevelt will nominate Henry L. Stimson as the Republican candidate. When Stimson was United States attorney in New York he conducted the prosecution against the sugar trust, while Mr. Shepard is not only a corporation lawyer, but he is closely identified with the Pennsylvania Railroad's interests; so what kind of a show could he make on the platform when it gets down to appealing to the popular vote?"

Havens in the Lead.

The issue seems to lie between Shepard, Havens, and Osborne, and the indications are that Havens will have the greater number of votes on Friday. The managers of Havens' campaign said to-night that even before Mr. Gaynor withdrew there were sure of eighty-one of the 69 votes in the convention, and that as a result of conferences they had during the day with different county leaders they were now sure of not less than 115 votes. Two hundred and twenty-six votes are required to nominate, and the confident assertion was made to-night by the Havens men that they would have no difficulty in swinging to their side the other votes they would need to bring about the nomination of Havens.

In the case of the naming of Havens the second place on the ticket would of course go to a man from down State. Talk was heard that Mr. Sulzer might be induced to take the nomination for lieutenant governor. When Mr. Sulzer was asked as to this possibility he declined to commit himself.

All Unite for Murphy.

It was also talked heard of Acting Mayor Mitchell and John A. Bessel, of the board of water supply, being nominated for second place, but all these reports were based on nothing more than speculation, and it is certain that every report which goes out of this town until Charles F. Murphy has made up his mind will also be speculation. The situation here to-night may be properly described as State Chairman Norman E. Mack

Put it to-night, as being entirely up in the air, but, with Mr. Murphy in a position to control the convention and to dictate the nomination. William Sheehan said to-night:

"It is a matter of making a choice from the herd of candidates, but there will be no selection made until Murphy, Connors, Mack, and the other leaders who are now here have a chance to get into conference with the county leaders, all of whom will be here to-morrow."

State Chairman Dix said this afternoon that he thought that a ticket headed by Shepard and Havens would be a good one, but that combination was knocked on the head when Havens, on being informed of what that said, remarked: "You can say for me that I will not take the second place on the ticket. Further, I have not the slightest doubt that I shall be the nominee of the convention for governor."

Tammany Reaches Town.

Tammany waltzed into town to-night, careless-like and free. Band after band played the braves from the depot to hotels, while red fire sputtered and corridor statesmen left their highballs on the bar and beat it to the curb.

Rochester is one of the places where hard things are seldom said about the Murphy guards. Rochester rather likes to have Tammany around the house. The best proof of that is that the Chamber of Commerce went to Mr. Murphy to-day to ask that Tammany parade in war paint to-morrow night, and the leader said he would provide a glittering but highly moral entertainment that the city would talk about for years.

It looks now as if the convention would wind up its business before very late on Friday afternoon. According to the present programme everything should be ready for the nomination of candidates and the balloting by Friday noon. There is no intention of a sharp slash on platform utterances, and there are no contest fights to take up the time.

STIMSON VICTORY MR. TAFT'S HOPE

SUGAR TRUST CASES AFFECTED

Politicians in Washington Speculating on Predilection of Roosevelt When He Campaigns for Stimson, Who Was Chief Counsel in Combine Proceedings.

Congratulations from Taft.

Washington, Sept. 28, 1910. Hon. Henry L. Stimson, New York City:

It gives me the greatest pleasure to hear that you have been chosen as the Republican candidate for governor of New York. I sincerely hope and believe that you will be elected. You certainly will be elected if the people of New York wish to have as their next governor a citizen of the utmost civic courage and disinterested patriotism, a lawyer of eminent ability, and a man of the highest character. WILLIAM H. TAFT.

STIMSON IS NAMED FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Col. Roosevelt Places Name of the Winner Before New York Republican Convention.

PLATFORM IS A PROGRESSIVE ONE

Senator Root as Permanent Chairman Outlines Policy of Progress and, After Clash, Majority Report Is Adopted.

Saratoga, Sept. 28.—The Republican State convention, at its final session to-night, nominated the following ticket:

Governor—Henry L. Stimson, of New York City.

Lieutenant governor—Edward Schoeneck, of Syracuse.

Secretary of state—Samuel S. Koenig, of New York City.

Comptroller—James Thompson, of Valley Falls.

State treasurer—Thomas Fennell, of Elmira.

Attorney general—Edward R. O'Malley, of Buffalo.

State engineer and surveyor—Frank M. Williams, of Oneida.

Associate judge of the Court of Appeals—Irving G. Vann, of Syracuse.

Messrs. Koenig, O'Malley, and Williams are renominated.

A successor to the late Edw. G. Bartlett, associate judge of the Court of Appeals, will be selected by a committee after the nominations for these two places on the Court of Appeals bench have been made by the Democratic State convention at Rochester.

Mr. Root called the final session of the convention to order shortly after 6 o'clock to-night. There were no more skyrockets, no more fuss and feathers, but all hands got down to business, as a vast majority of the delegates wanted to start for home at 10 o'clock to-night.

The roll call for nomination for governor brought forth Kingsbury Foster, of the Nineteenth New York County, who nominated Representative William S. Bennet. Mr. Foster extolled Representative Bennet, telling what a fine man he was, how he had been instrumental at Albany in pushing the employers' liability law, and Mr. Foster added that Representative Bennet's energy and industry in promoting the work of the Federation of Labor and his loyalty to organized labor and the great popularity among Jew and Gentile had made him the "Sir Galahad" of the people. H. B. Fullerton, of Orange County, also said fine things of Representative Bennet, but when Nassau County was called on the roll, up stepped Col. Roosevelt to the platform:

Col. Roosevelt: Nominates Stimson.

"I have a genuine regard and respect," said the new leader of the Republican party, "for Representative Bennet, but the situation calls for another man at this time. I rise to nominate Henry L. Stimson, of New York. He is a very good man. As President of the United States I appointed him United States district attorney of New York. It was necessary to have an honest man in that place, a man of truculent integrity. I conferred with Mr. Root at the time and we decided that Mr. Stimson was the man who must act against the most powerful combinations of business interests in the world. I believed that Mr. Stimson as United States district attorney would be called upon to meet the very ablest lawyers the corporations could employ. Mr. Stimson made good. He was pitted against the best lawyer of the land. It was his business to bring to book the sugar trust, which had defrauded the government out of enormous sums, literally a vast fortune. Mr. Stimson convicted man after man in the sugar trust. He proved his case so true that the trust threw up its hands and restored an enormous sum to the government. Mr. Stimson is a man of trenchant ability, and I have the greatest pleasure in nominating him for the high honor of governor of the State of New York."

SECOND'S STIMSON'S NAME.

John E. O'Brien, of Buffalo, also a United States district attorney, appointed when Col. Roosevelt was President, seconded Mr. Stimson's nomination. There were no other nominations.

When the roll call for votes was announced Albany County, through William Barnes, Jr., announced "Albany County casts 27 votes for Mayor James B. McEwan, of Albany, one delegate not voting."

When Columbia County was reached Louis F. Payn cast 7 of that county for Mayor McEwan. When Livingston County was reached, Frank K. Cook arose and shouted: "We have never seen this man Stimson, but we sling him 33 votes."

There were 7 votes in the Livingston County delegation and the other 4 were absent. When Monroe County was reached, George W. Aldridge cast the 23 votes for Thomas B. Dunn, the present State treasurer. The total vote for those named for governor was as follows: Stimson, 68; Bennet, 24; Dunn, 23, and McEwan, 33.

New York for Bennet.

Early in the day the New York County assembly district leaders held a caucus, and 28 yeas for Bennet and 3 for Stimson.

The Kings County delegation gave 113 votes for Stimson and 23 for Bennet.

Immediately after Permanent Chairman Root announced the result of the ball, Mr. Foster, Representative Bennet's spokesman, moved to make Mr. Stimson's nomination unanimous. Speaker Wadsworth, head of the Livingston County delegation, did likewise. And so
