Special Sale of First Quality Metal Beds.

OLIVER Metal Beds have for years held the reputation—and justly so—for being the finest quality beds made. The Oliver standard of Heavy Brass construction has been maintained for years, and their success is due to this superior construction. As distributors in Washington of these beds, we have always found them absolutely satisfactory—without a peer in design, style, or quality.

This year the management decided to make changes, and to make them quickly they closed out their entire stock at a very low figure. We bought 80 beds; some all brass, others iron with brass trimmings, and place them on sale this morning at

One-third Off Regular Prices.

Most of these beds are shown in all widths; a few are in only one or two widths, but as no duplicates can be secured, the absolute necessity of early selection is evident.

The Wedding Ring.

The little circlet of gold, so dear to a woman as the token of the affection of the man she loves, has its origin in very ancient times. Its very shape, without beginning or end, is symbolic of constancy, and indicative of the true and lasting love which is the foundation of a happy union. Thus the gift of a ring has come to mean more than an ordinary gift of friendship with all nations, and so important an event as the giving of an engagement ring has in some districts given rise to superstitious observances.

In former times the ring as given at the betrothal, and was then worn on the fourth finger of the right hand, till the bridegroom transferred it to the fourth finger of the left, at the instruction of the priest, on the wedding day.

Resignation Justified.

From the Chicago Evening Star.
"So you resigned?"
"Yes, I couldn't stand the way the firm treated me."
"What did they do?"
"Took my name off the pay roll."

Be Frank.

During the engagement, as after marriage, perfect frankness should exist on both sides. This does not mean that disagreeable truths must be insisted upon or every trifling event and scrap of tittle-tattle retailed; but don't hoard up things, grow morbid over trifles, or, above all, jealous and suspicious.

If your fiancé has displeased you in any way, say so. Don't choose a moment of anger. Sleep once on your wrath, and then if, in the clear light of morning, you still find occasion for anger, have it out.

If you, on the other hand, have done anything you know he will not like, be the first to confess right away, and you will surely receive loving absolution.

IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

President Taft Guest Aboard Argentine War Ship.

HE ALSO ATTENDS HORSE SHOW

Mrs. Taft and Her Sister, Miss Herron, Go Shopping, Walking from the White House and Back—Date of the Camperio-Terry Wedding Has Not as Yet Been Set.

President and Mrs. Taft, accompanied by Mrs. Taft's sister, Miss Herron, and Capt. Butt, occupied a box at the Belasco Theatre last evening.

The President and Mrs. Taft and Miss Herron occupied a box at the horse show in the afternoon, going there from the large and brilliant tea and reception given by the Argentine officers on board their war ship, Presidente Sarmiento. The President was also on the war ship at the luncheon given by the officers preceding the reception. The other guests were Secretary Knox, Assistant Secretary Oliver, who is Acting Secretary of War; Assistant Secretary Winthrop, Acting Secretary of the Navy; Gen. Leonard Wood, Admiral Garcia, of the Argentine navy, and Charge d'Affaires of the Argentine Republic M. Villegas, Capt. Archibald Butt, Commander Fliess, captain of the war ship; and his naval aide, Mr. John Barrett, director of the Bureau of American Republics, and Lieut. Commander Palmer, naval aide to the President.

Mrs. Taft was out shopping yesterday morning with her sister, Miss Herron. They walked from the White House down through F street to the shops on that thoroughfare, in cosmopolitan fashion. Mrs. Taft wore a costume of dark blue cloth, made in the modified modern style, with a black hat trimmed with white osprey plumes. Miss Herron, who is a strikingly good-looking woman with white hair and an erect figure, wore a handsome black suit with hat of black and white. After completing their shopping tour the distinguished sisters walked back to the White House. Miss Helen Taft, who remained in New York over the week-end, will return to the White House to-day.

Miss Eleanor Terry and her fiancé, Lieut. Filippo Lamperio, who spent the week-end with Mrs. Terry's cousin, Mrs. Henry Norris, of West Chester, Pa., as members of her house party, returned to Washington late last evening. The date for their wedding has not yet been set, and will not be until Lieut. Lamperio receives word of the sailing of his brother-in-law and sister for this country.

Mr. William Bowie Clarke, who with Mr. James Crawford, was injured on Friday in an automobile accident, is sufficiently recovered to be out, but is still under the doctor's care. Mr. Crawford, who was injured about the head, left on Sunday for the home of his sister, in New Orleans. The accident happened after Mr. Clarke and Mr. Crawford had taken some young ladies home from the theater, and they distinguished location at the corner of Sixteenth street and Columbia road.

Mrs. Joseph R. Williams and Miss Dorothy Virginia, who are in an apartment house in Brighton until December, when their new home in I street will be completed, Miss Williams will leave Washington to-day for a series of visits in Chicago, New York, and St. Louis.

The wedding of Miss Mary Barbour Rixey, daughter of Mrs. Rixey and the late John F. Rixey, former Representative from Virginia, and Dr. Robert P. Compton will take place Tuesday, November 8, at the home of the bride's mother, near Charlottesville. Dr. Compton is a member of the medical faculty of the University of Virginia.

The charge d'affaires of Switzerland, Mr. Henri Martin, left here yesterday for Long Island. He went to attend the aviation meet at Belmont Park for the remainder of the week. He will then go to New York, to remain until the arrival of the Minister and Mme. Ritter, about the middle of November.

Mrs. Clinton Harrison has issued cards announcing the marriage of her granddaughter, Miss Edith Olvin Emerson, to Mr. Charles Edwin Wagner, Jr., on Saturday, October 22, at noon, at St. John's Church. This was one of the most interesting weddings of the autumn. The bridegroom is a member of one of the oldest and most distinguished families of the city, long prominent in judicial and medical circles. The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Emerson, and, until her father's death, she lived with her grandparents since the death of her parents. She is a graduate of Western High School, and is a young woman of many accomplishments and much beauty. Mr. Wagner is the youngest brother of Miss Isabel Hagner, known in society for some years, and who was secretary to Mrs. Roosevelt throughout her regime as mistress of the White House. The bride and her sister, who was her maid of honor, were tailed suits. The ceremony was followed by a breakfast for the families only. They will live at the Oakland after their wedding trip.

Mrs. J. Eakin Gadsby has as her guests at her home, in Georgetown, Mrs. Hallock B. Day, of Portland, Me., and Mrs. Isabel Isaacson, of New Orleans. They will be at home Thursday afternoon, October 27.

The wedding of Miss Mary Loretta Moran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Moran, and Mr. Clarence A. Young, of Charlottesville, Va., took place last evening at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's aunt, Rev. A. J. Carey, performed in the presence of a large and distinguished gathering of relatives and friends. The house was artistically decorated for the occasion with quantities of palms and white chrysanthemums, and during the ceremony a string orchestra played the wedding music. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a handsome bridal gown of white messaline satin embroidered in chrysanthemums, and draped with Irish point lace. She wore a tulle veil caught with a cluster of orange blossoms, and carried a bridal bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Her only ornament was a diamond and pearl brooch, a gift of the bridegroom. Mrs. McDonald, an aunt of the bride, was her matron of honor. She wore a gown of canary messaline satin, draped in princess effect, and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Cecilia Borger, Miss May Hirsch, Miss Bessie Slison, and Miss Irene Rocca were the bridesmaids, who wore dainty gowns of white mousseline, trimmed with effective touches of pink chiffon. They carried pink chrysanthemums. They wore the bride's gifts to them, silver buckles for their slippers. Mr. Young's brother, Mr. David Young, of Charlottesville, Va., acted as his best man, and the usher was Messrs. Lewis Wehrle, of Charlottesville; Dr. Herbert J. Bryson, Magruder McDonald, and Bernard Dickman. Following the ceremony a reception was held from 7 to 10 o'clock, at which the bride and bridegroom left Washington for a honeymoon trip in the North. The bride wore for traveling a tailored suit of tan cloth, with a large black hat trimmed with white willow plumes. They will make their home in Charlottesville, Va., where they will be at home to their friends after December

Monday evening the bridegroom entertained the entire bridal party at a box party at the National Theater, and had the play at supper at the New Willard.

The marriage is announced of Miss Georgia Lackey and Mr. Leland S. Poole. The ceremony was performed yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the parsonage of the Pentecostal Church, the pastor, Rev. H. B. Hoesley, officiating. Only the relatives were present.

Baron von Heyl zu Herrenshelm, second secretary of the German Embassy, who succeeds Ferdinand von Stumm, recently transferred to Stuttgart, has arrived in Washington.

Miss Lily Cordery Hawkins, whose marriage to Leon Ulman, of Salisbury, Md., will take place to-morrow evening, entertained at a farewell tea yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at her residence, in Q street. Assisting in receiving the guests were the bride-elect's sister, Mrs. Watson L. McMorris, and Miss Sarah Ulman, of Salisbury, sister of the bridegroom-elect. Mrs. John Elliott, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. William H. Wagner presided at the daintily appointed tea table in the dining-room, which was effectively adorned with yellow chrysanthemums and yellow-shaded candles. Miss Hawkins received her guests wearing a handsome gown of buff satin, veiled in peacock blue traveling with a deep border of peacock blue satin on the skirt and touches of embroidery on the yoke and sleeves. Mrs. McMorris wore pale blue satin, and Miss Ulman white pleated mull.

Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston is spending a few days in Loudoun County, Va., but will be at home Thursday.

Mrs. Eldridge Jordan will go over to Baltimore this week for a stay of several weeks with her mother.

Miss Helen Cannon is in St. Louis, where she is visiting Mrs. Daniel C. Nugent, after a short visit to Hot Springs.

Dr. and Mrs. William J. Pettus and Miss Charlotte Pettus are at their home in Chevy Chase, after spending the summer and fall traveling in Europe. They will come to Washington late next month.

Mrs. Flora Dennison Dyer left Washington yesterday for Philadelphia, where she will attend the marriage of Miss Florence M. England to Dr. Wharton, which will take place to-day. Mrs. Dyer will then go to Atlantic City, to remain until Sunday. The bride and bridegroom will sail for Europe on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. William Henry and their young daughter, Miss Anita Henry, have returned to Washington and opened their home, in R street, for the season. They spent the summer months at Atlantic City and in the Adirondacks.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hague, who spent the summer in Europe, landed in New York yesterday. They will go to Newport before coming to Washington in November.

Mrs. Lehr, wife of Dr. Louis C. Lehr, left Washington yesterday for Richmond, Va., where she has gone to be the matron of honor at the wedding of Miss Mary Evelyn Hickok, daughter of Mrs. John James Hickok, to Hamilton Goodwin Boykin. The ceremony will take place this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the Second Presbyterian Church. Following the ceremony at the church, a large reception will be held at the home of the bride's mother, in West Franklin street.

Miss Susan Elliott Tomkins, daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Elliott Tomkins, of New York, and Mr. Henry Lloyd Aspinwall, son of Rev. John A. Aspinwall, of this city, will be married in Philadelphia to-morrow. The ceremony will be performed by the bride's uncle, Dr. Floyd W. Tomkins, with whom she has made her home since her parents' death. Dr. Tomkins will be assisted by Mr. Aspinwall's father, and the marriage will take place at 12 o'clock in Holy Trinity Church, Hittentown street, to be followed by a small breakfast at the rectory, 1904 Walnut street. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends have been invited. Owing to the fact that Miss Tomkins is in mourning she will have no attendants. Mr. Louis M. Aspinwall will be best man for his brother, and Mr. Livingston Rutherford and Mr. Lawrence Aspinwall, his cousin, both of New York, will be the ushers. After an excellent wedding journey the couple will come to this city to make their future home.

Mrs. George T. Mary, who has been spending a few days in Baltimore, returned to Washington last evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Reid Hunt arrived in New York Monday from Europe, where they spent the summer, and will come to Washington to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hershman, of 2733 P street northwest, will be at home in honor of the marriage of their daughter, Fannie, to Mr. Phillip M. Rieflin, Sunday, October 23, from 7 to 10 o'clock.

Holy Comforter Church was the scene of a pretty wedding yesterday morning, when Miss Sadie L. McNally, of Worcester, Mass., became the bride of Mr. Gerald F. McMillan, of this city. Rev. Clarence E. Miller performed the ceremony and a large mass was celebrated. The matron of honor was Mrs. Rose J. McCann, and the best man Mr. Charles F. Donnelly. The bride was gowned in old rose crepe de chine, hobbled with yoke and sleeves of Persian lace, and wore a picture hat of black satin, trimmed with plumes. She carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. McCann wore turquoise blue laces. After a reception in the dining-room, the bride and groom left on a Southern trip.

Dr. Charles Augustus Simpson and Mrs. Simpson (nee Farlington) have returned from their wedding trip and will be at home at the Northumberland.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Needham and Miss Needham have returned for the winter and taken an apartment in the Netherlands.

HEART and HOME TALKS by Barbara Boyd

Perhaps if we knew all the laws of physics and chemistry, this question of likes and dislikes would be explained. For it is a queer question, and bothers many of us. Admirable people there are, who by all codes of sense and ethics we should like. But we don't. And regular rascals there also are, who by all codes we should despise. But, to ourselves, we admit a sneaking liking for them.

Why is this? we ask wearily. But no answer comes.

In the physical realm we know that like attracts like. May not some such law prevail in the seemingly more intangible, insubstantial realm of mind and spirit?

Perhaps those people who are apparently all we should admire have underneath their surface virtues, certain qualities that repel. And those who so apparently all we condemn have hidden away certain good qualities that are making their unseen appeal.

It is said that we should obey our intuitions more, intuitions evidently meaning those feelings which we cannot give weight and measure by physical laws or examine under a microscope. Would it not be well, therefore, to try to discover if, under these emotions we call intuitions, there is not some sound law that will guide us inflexibly and help us to choose rightly when swayed by these apparently inexplicable likes and dislikes.

Some of us yield blindly to likes and dislikes, others refuse to yield, but are guided by surface indications of character, and shape their course by these. In both cases many come to wreck. If there is some unknown law there which we can use to our profit, why not find out and let it light our path instead of proceeding in the dark?

If we find ourselves liking some man or woman who by all recognized standards has qualities which we know we neither admire nor respect, let us probe until we see whether there are not hidden qualities which we do admire, or whether the other's undesirable qualities are not finding a response in some unknown traits in ourselves?

If someone has all the qualities the world acclaims good, and yet we feel a repulsion, let us try to discover if there are not "yellow streaks" there, which intimacy will reveal and which will cause unhappiness.

And if we discover that like has unfavourably attracted like, or unlike repelled, let us consider to what this points for us and abide by it. If it discloses for us something base in our nature, and a yielding to this liking means descent, we should resolutely turn our backs upon it. If it means that the one seemingly good has undesirable traits, let us heed the warning, no matter how faint the prospect may seem.

And if it points to as yet undiscovered or undeveloped good, let us march bravely forward to the happiness that is ours in spite of the unpropitious outlook.

But let us not yield blindly to likes and dislikes. Let us see if there is not a law back of them with a message for us.

LATEST FASHION.

BOYS SHIRT BLOUSE. All Seams Allowed.

The boy who goes to school needs a large number of blouses if he is to be neat and fresh every morning. The more simple these are the better, as anything fancy always suggests something girlish, and boys are very sensitive in this direction. A shirt like that in our illustration is as many as in our design can possibly be. The fronts are absolutely plain. The back has a small shoulder yoke, below which the material is gathered. If desired, the small patch pocket may be omitted, but boys like pockets, and it is as well that they should have them. The sleeves is the regulation wrist sleeve, with a band finish at the wrist. Percale, madras, cambric and other wash materials may be used in making this blouse. Flannel may also be used to good advantage. It may have either a turn-over collar or a white linen one, as preferred. The pattern (317) is cut in 7 sizes for boys from 4 to 16 years of age. To make the shirt in the 16-year size will require 1 1/2 yards of material 36 inches wide.

The above pattern can be obtained by sending 10 cents to the office of this paper.

Wool Embroidery.

Wool embroidery is the latest trimming for afternoon gowns. Some of the combinations seen are blue wool on white ground de sole, gray wool on gray tulle over satin of the same shade, and mauve wool on blue linen sole. The wool used is the same kind that is employed for knitting or crocheting. On heavier materials it is used in various bright colors in an Oriental effect, and is very striking.

To Cleanse Tinting.

Tinting cannot be properly washed to look as good as new, for it is almost impossible to restore the pigments to their natural shade. Soak the pieces in gasoline and while wet dust them with cornstarch. Wrap them in a clean towel and leave them for several hours. Beat the towel lightly, lift out the lace and shake it free of starch. Press the pigments into shape and iron lightly on the wrong side.

Clean Embroidery.

French chalk is excellent for cleaning embroidery that is too fragile to be washed with soap and water.

The chalk should be made quite hot and sprinkled thickly over the embroidery, which is then rolled carefully up, so that the chalk is inside.

Leave it in a dark place for a week or ten days, shake it out well, and the embroidery will be quite fresh again.

If the embroidery is in a hurry, the hot chalk should be rubbed through it as though it were being washed. This process should be repeated several times, and some hot salt remains use a little more chalk and leave it overnight, if possible.

Wool Embroidery.

A woman's shop in G street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, which prides itself upon its exclusive garments, has recently received some most attractive evening frocks for the young girl. They are of chiffon in white and colors, having hand-painted borders, which form the keynote of their trimming. Some of them are exquisitely dainty, and just the proper thing for the girl who is budding out into womanhood. The prices of these pretty dresses are an added attraction to those who must have a number of different gowns.

Wool Embroidery.

A new material which is much liked for children's kimono or bathrobe is known as "ducking fleec-down," and costs only 15 cents a yard. In a dry goods store in Seventh street, between D and E, some pretty patterns are exhibited, including the A-B-C, the chambric, the little chickadee, and designs which the little folks love.

In a furniture store in the Avenue, near Eighteenth street, $12 Smyrna rugs which are valued at $25.00 are now for sale at $19.75. Several patterns are shown at this special price, a solid green, with a red stripe in the border, or mixed pattern showing a combination of several colors, being among them.

Read Rosettes.

One of the newest fashions in hair ornaments is bead rosettes. These are worn instead of ribbon bows or flowers at the ends of filets and a very quaint effect they give.

As such ornaments are costly to buy all the girls are making them, and it is easy and fascinating work, nothing being needed but gold or silver wire, several sizes of needles and beads in various sizes and colors.

Stringing the beads as fancy dictates, being careful to keep the graduation even; that is, use the same number of beads of a certain size or color each time the form is repeated.

The wire should be cut long enough to form the desired ornament. It is trying to find one's work
