

THE WASHINGTON HERALD

SPORTING SECTION

THE BEST
SPORTING SECTION
IN THE SOUTH.

ALL THE
AMATEUR SPORTS
AND GOSSIP.

WASHINGTON, D. C., SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1910.

Virginia Is Humbled by the Best Georgetown Football Team in Years

BLUE AND GRAY SWEEPS RIVALS OFF THE MAP

Virginia Goes Down to Defeat in Annual Football Game.

By WILLIAM PEET.
What's the matter with Georgetown? They're all right.
What's the matter with 'Ginia? They're too light.

The foregoing couplet, part of one of Georgetown's songs, just about tells the story of yesterday's great victory on the Hilltop.

Virginia was not only too light, but knew less football, and went down to defeat outclassed, man for man, in every department.

The 15 to 0 score does not begin to show how strong was Georgetown's team in comparison.

Virginia put up a wonderfully plucky fight in the face of overwhelming odds. Virginia always fights to the last ditch. This much was expected of them, and they sure did make good.

There is no telling just how high the score would have been had the Hilltoppers not been content to let Costello drop-kick field goals; and right here something should be said about Costello, for the youngster gives promise of developing into one of the greatest little men that ever wore the Blue and Gray.

Costello's field goal in the third period from the 45-yard mark was something never before seen on the Hilltop. His other kicks from shorter distances were just as clever, and the way he took his time for deliberate aim sent shivers up and down the spines of the faithful. Costello also added some great broken-field running.

OLD-STYLE FOOTBALL.

Those who attended the game expecting to see a lot of the so-called new-style football were disappointed. Only once was an on-side kick tried, and the forward pass was attempted twice by Georgetown and once by Virginia. Virginia's only attempt at the long fling resulted in Furey getting the ball, and one of Georgetown's passes was recovered by the wrong man, the other falling plump into the arms of Honaker, who nearly got away from the bunch.

Outside of the brilliant work of the Georgetown backs, three men in the line stand out prominently. Capt. Dalley was a terror to Virginia, breaking up play after play and nullifying the runner. Skip Wymard made Capt. Geyer look like a schoolboy, and opened up holes big enough to drive a cart through. Hegarty and Barriello also did yeoman service.

Virginia's interference didn't amount to a handful of cowbells, while the work expected of Honaker and Todd failed to materialize. Once Honaker got the ball and made a pretty run for 47 yards, but he was dropped on Georgetown's 25-yard mark.

Scenes at the Field.

The big game was attended by all the people the grounds were ever intended to hold, and then some—no say nothing of the good fathers and clerical "ministers," who made it a point to pace up and down the portico of the main hall, telling their beads, and stopping now and then before they turned to er-er-see if anybody was hurt.

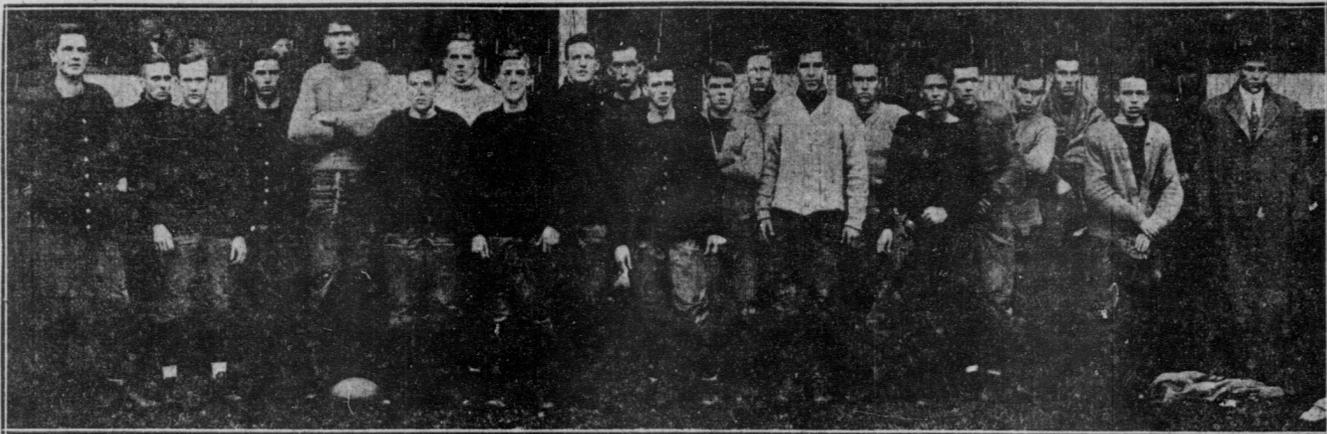

"Six thousand," said one man, after taking a glance at the banked-up grand stands and the spectators lined two deep along the ropes on all four sides of the field. But counting in those sitting on the slope to the north of the field and the automobiles at the other end, breaking their necks peering over tonneaus, it is doubtful if the management would have cashed in on the basis of 6,000 spectators.

From the standpoint of the locker on the weather was all that any reasonable person could ask. Toward noon it had shown signs of clouding up, but this passed away and by the time the game was called the weather had definitely settled down to be nice. There was just enough snap in the air to give Mabel an excuse to bring out her furs and to nip a little rosy spot in her two cheeks, and yet not enough to start her talking about the steamer rug. The players possibly might have objected that the ground was rather soft, although with the new rules of football in force it is no longer as necessary as it was to have the field frozen so hard that a player bounces when he tumbles.

As usual, the Georgetown adherents were seated on the west of the field, with the visitors to the east. Opposite the 30-yard line the cheering sections were located, with the "fussers" and the college widows on the right-hand and the left, the Georgetown girls wearing violets (at 23 a hundred of somebody's money), while Virginia's flower was the chrysanthemum.

Two brass bands and hundreds of megaphones and cowbells helped out on the noise. The Georgetown boys had most of their old songs, as well as several new ones. One old football song, however, was lacking. That was "We'll Lay Poor Old Virginia in Her Grave." Since the death of Christian on the Georgetown Field a year ago no one has suggested singing this piece, although, aside from its title, it is of no more murderous tenor than, say, the Yale foot-

THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA'S 1910 FOOTBALL TEAM, SUBS, AND COACHES.

—Photo by the National Press Association.

LEFT HALF BACK COSTELLO.

RIGHT END HEGARTY.

HARRY COSTELLO, Scored nine points himself.

RIGHT HALF BACK FUREY.

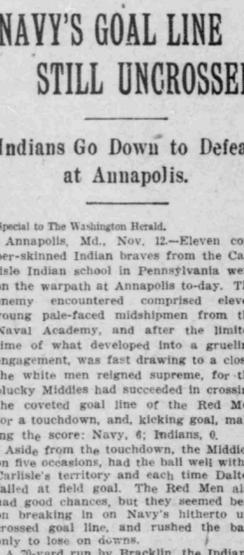

LEFT TACKLE BRYANT.

HERE'S THE MAN BEHIND. COACH FRED NEILSEN.

Responsible for Georgetown's splendid team. He has accomplished something no other coach could do in the past nine years.

NAVY'S GOAL LINE STILL UNCROSSED

Indians Go Down to Defeat at Annapolis.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Annapolis, Md., Nov. 12.—Eleven copper-skinned Indian braves from the Carlisle Indian school in Pennsylvania went on the warpath at Annapolis to-day. The enemy encountered comprised eleven young pale-faced midshipmen from the Naval Academy, and after the limited time of what developed into a grueling engagement, was fast drawing to a close, the white men reigned supreme, for the plucky Indians had succeeded in crossing the coveted goal line of the Red Men for a touchdown, and kicking goal, making the score: Navy, 6; Indians, 0.

Aside from the touchdown, the Midshipmen on five occasions, had the ball well within Carlisle's territory and each time Dalton failed at field goal. The Red Men also had good chances, but they seemed bent on breaking in on Navy's hitherto uncrossed goal line, and rushed the ball, only to lose on downs.

A 70-yard run by Bracklin, the Indians' left half back, in the opening period, was the feature of the game. When tackled by Loftin he fumbled on Navy's 30-yard mark and a Middy recovered the ball. In scoring their touchdown, Navy carried the ball 60 yards, a brilliant dash for 30 yards by Dalton contributing largely to the result. Line-up:

Navy. Positions. Indians.
Hamilton, Ingram, left end; Jordan, Hamilton, Ingram, right end; Jordan, Douglas, Davis, left tackle; Lonestar, Wright, center; Sweetcorn, Wynn, Brown, Myers, right guard; Hard, Loftin, right tackle; Powell, Gilchrist, right end; Kennedy, Scell, quarter back; Honer, Dalton, left half back; Bracklin, Clay, right half back; Wiselock, Rhodes, McLeary, full back; Neesdale, Arson, Rhodes.
Touchdown—Brown. Goal from touchdown—Brown. Referee—Mr. Tansig. Umpire—Mr. C. R. Williams, University of Virginia. Field judge—Mr. Torrey, University of Pennsylvania. Line judge—Mr. Sigman, of Lafayette. Time of periods—15 minutes each.

CORNELL WINS LONG RUN.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 12.—The eleventh annual intercollegiate cross-country run here to-day, was an easy victory for Cornell, with a score of 27 points. Harvard won second place, with 70 points, and Yale a close third, with 73. The other seven colleges finished as follows: Michigan, fourth, 86 points; Massachusetts Institute of Technology, fifth, 120 points; Princeton, sixth, 171 points; Pennsylvania, seventh, 183 points; Dartmouth, 211 points; Columbia, 230 points; College of the City of New York, 235 points. The time for the winner, 33 minutes and 32 seconds, was not fast for the distance of a little over six miles. This was due to the fact that there was a strong wind blowing. The ground was firm.

SCORED NINE POINTS HIMSELF.

Berns, of Cornell, last year's winner, was beaten this year by his team mate, T. S. Jones, by 8 seconds. Following these came Lawless, Harvard; Jacques, Harvard; Gray, Yale; Withington, Harvard; Case, Yale; and Wolfe, Pennsylvania.

FOOTBALL RESULTS.

At Princeton—Yale, 5; Princeton, 2.
At Cambridge—Harvard, 15; Dartmouth, 0.
At Philadelphia—Pennsylvania, 6; Michigan, 0.
At New Haven—Harvard Freshmen, 14; Yale Freshmen, 2.
At Lombard—George Washington, 5; V. P. L., 10.
At Providence, R. I.—Rhode Island State College, 6; New Hampshire State College, 6.
At West Point—Army, 13; Villanova, 0.
At Portland, Me.—Tufts, 0; Bates, 0.
At Orono, Me.—University of Maine, 0; Bowdoin, 0.
At Providence—Brown, 50; Vermont, 0.
At Schenectady, N. Y.—Union College, 0; Hamilton, 0.
At Columbia, Mo.—Missouri, 27; Washington, 0.
At Syracuse—Columbia, 11; Syracuse, 6.
At Holoken, N. J.—Swarthmore, 25; Stevens Institute, 6.
At New York—Columbia (score), 2; Staten Island, 1.
At Amherst, Mass.—Amherst, 9; Williams, 0.
At Memphis—University of Mississippi, 44; University of Memphis, 0.
At San Francisco—California, 25; Stanford, 6.
At Knoxville, Tenn.—University of Tennessee, 13; Maryville College, 0.
At St. Louis—St. Louis, 9; Kentucky, 0.
At Columbia, Mo.—Missouri, 27; Washington, 0.
At Northrup, Minn.—Minnesota, 28; Wisconsin, 0.
At Evanston, Ill.—Illinois, 7; Northwestern, 0.
At Lincoln, Neb.—Nebraska, 12; Ames, 0.
At Annapolis, Wis.—Lawrence, 27; Northwestern College, 0.
At Oklahoma City—Oklahoma, 6; Carnegie Tech, 0.
At South Bethlehem, Pa.—Lehigh, 25; Carnegie Tech, 0.
At Middletown, Conn.—Wesleyan, 9; New York University, 6.
At Worcester, Mass.—Holy Cross, 0; Worcester Tech, 0.
At Cleveland—Case, 0; Kenyon, 0.
At Columbus, Ohio—Ohio State, 6; Ohio Wesleyan, 0.
At Des Moines, Iowa—Des Moines College, 6; Monmouth College, 0.
At Urbana, Ill.—Illinois (score), 4; Chicago, 1.
At Rockington, Ill.—Illinois Wesleyan, 15; Milliken, 0.
At Terre Haute, Ind.—Notre Dame, 41; Rose Polytechnic, 3.
At Culver, Ind.—St. John's Military, 5; Culver, 0.
At Fayetteville, Ark.—Arkansas, 6; Missouri State School of Mines, 2.
At Memphis, Tenn.—Mississippi, 44; Memphis, 0.
At Birmingham, Ala.—Serrano, 40; Alabama, 0.
At Atlanta—Georgia Tech, 6; Vanderbilt, 23.
At Lexington, Ky.—Transylvania, 9; Georgetown, 0.
At Iowa City, Iowa—Iowa, 21; Duke, 0.
At Annapolis, Md.—Navy, 6; Carlisle, 0.

DARTMOUTH TEAM BADLY BEATEN

Harvard Eleven Crosses Goal Line Two Times.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 12.—All Dartmouth was in the stadium to-day, scattered among the 25,000 persons within the big cement inclosure, but the Crimson triumphed by the score of 18 to 0, and the Hanoverians were sad.

The Dartmouth men did not expect to witness the defeat of the powerful Harvard eleven, but they did pin their faith on Barends, the goal-kicking full back, to boot the leather oval between the goal posts from placement at least once. Accordingly they bet their money on Barends. He had one try at his specialty, and his kick was blocked.

Line-up and summary:

Harvard.	Positions.	Dartmouth.
Lewis	left end	Daley
McKay	left tackle	Shorlin
Mind	left guard	Whitmore
Parkins	center	Needham
Fisher	right guard	Elock
Widdington	right tackle	Levey
L. D. Smith	right end	Ryan
Wigwagsworth	quarter back	Ingersoll
Campbell	left half back	Morgan
Wendell	right half back	Hoben
Morrison	full back	Barnes
Scott	left half back	Scott
Wendell	right half back	Fisher

Goals from field—Lewis, Wigwagsworth. Substitutes—Harvard, Felton for Lewis, Faine for Felton, Han for McKay, Bickett for Mind, Huntington for Parkins, P. D. Smith for Huntington, Keys for Fisher, Bush for Widdington, Felton for S. D. Smith, Gardner for Wigwagsworth, Corbett for Campbell, Campbell for Corbett, Graustein for Campbell.

GEORGETOWN'S NEW COACH.

Who will handle the Hilltoppers' baseball team next spring.

GEORGETOWN NAMES COACH

Jim Sprigman Will Handle 1911 Baseball Team.

First-class Material at Hilltop Is the Report and Strong Nine Expected.

Manager J. F. Crosby, of the Georgetown baseball team, announced last night that James Sprigman had been engaged to coach the Blue and Gray nine next spring.

Mr. Sprigman will be given complete charge, and with the wealth of material reported at the Hilltop, Mr. Sprigman should be able to turn out a team well up to the standard of former Georgetown nines.

"Sprig," as he is familiarly known, enjoys the reputation of being one of the best baseball coaches in the District. He turned out a winner at Western High School several years ago, and last season gave Central one of the best nines in the history of the O street school.

Last year Georgetown's nine was very much of a joke, but it was due in a great measure to lack of first-class battery material. It is understood that there are a number of good twirlers and catchers now in college, and with the veterans from last spring, the new coach should have little difficulty in turning out a strong aggregation.

John T. Brush has offered 30 cents for the entire Cubs' team. John T. always was considered thrifty, and we cannot understand this threat of extravagance.

YALE TRIUMPHS OVER PRINCETON BY 5-TO-3 SCORE

Tigers Stunned by Old Eli's Fierce Attack—Pendleton Kicks Goal.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 12.—Princeton received a cruel body blow to-day when Yale won the big football game by the score of 5 to 3. As a bolt of lightning from a clear sky came this victory for the New Haven eleven, just at a time when old Nassau's sons were ready to celebrate a triumph.

Torn to tatters a week ago by Brown University, Yale reorganized, and with characteristic pluck went into to-day's battle with few if any confident supporters. The Tigers were regarded as certain winners, so that when the struggle ended with the bulldogs on top a great crowd of Princeton men and women filed out of the wooden stadium with bowed heads and broken hearts.

Yale's new lease of life developed so unexpectedly that old football men rubbed their eyes in astonishment. Within the short space of six days the eleven had been remolded with apparent skill, and from all accounts the credit for the team's success belongs to the veteran Walter Camp and former Capt. Tom Shevlin. Out of the West came Shevlin recently with a new style of attack, which the Yale players perfected so well that Princeton's defense crumbled before it again and again. This attack was a puzzling shifting of the tackles from one side of the line to the other and a momentary pause by them, standing close together, before they jumped into the line of scrimmage a fraction of a second before the ball was put in play.

ATTACK PUZZLES TIGERS.

By means of this maneuver, the Tigers were sorely puzzled as to the direction of Yale's attack, while the back field was provided with a sort of interference that yielded much ground.

But when it came down to scoring, the points made by both elevens were indirectly due to blunders. Capt. Daly, of Yale, in the first period muffed a punt on his 20-yard line which turned the ball over to Princeton, and enabled Little Pendleton to kick a beautiful goal from placement. The score remained 3 to 0 until the third period, when Pendleton offset his achievement by dropping the oval when tackled after a run diagonally across the field, an error which put Yale in possession of the ball in midfield.

Then having worked the leather to Princeton's 25-yard line, Howe, the Yale quarter back, made an accurate forward pass squarely into the outstretched arms of the husky Kilpatrick, who, shaking off a tackler, rushed over the goal line for a touchdown. The try for goal was a fizzle, inasmuch as the punt received so much momentum that it was impossible to make a fair catch.

After this touchdown had been scored, the Yale players showed supreme confidence and held the dejected Tigers safe to the end. In fact, the last period bristled with safety work by the New Haven kickers, who seemed satisfied to let well enough alone and simply to prevent the Jersey men from doing further harm.

Although the Tigers started off well by taking advantage of Yale's muff, it was soon apparent that Daley's team possessed unexpected strength, although it could not be said that the eleven displayed real championship caliber. Still there was no doubt that Yale outclassed Princeton in practically every department of the game, a fact that dumfounded the army of Princetonians who had been led to believe that Old Eli was in for a sound thrashing.

Yale Best at Rushing Ball. Nobody expected to see Princeton so clearly outplayed. Reduced to figures it may be said that in straight rushing in the first half Yale gained 115 yards to Princeton's 15. In the second half the Blues gathered 66 yards to the Tigers' 45. The Tigers received 80 yards in penalties for violating the rules prohibiting interference with a fair catch, holding, hurdling, and off-side play. The Blues, on the other hand, received 50 yards in penalties, 47 of which were for holding.

Yale blocked two kicks, both goal trials from placement. Pendleton made five of these goal trials, succeeding with one, and Yale's solitary trial was a drop kick by Daly on the 42-yard line, the ball striking one of the uprights and bounding back upon the playing surface. Daly, Howe, Field, and Kistler made the long runs of the game, all of them due to Shevlin's shift, and in each case greatly aided by interference.

The Tigers had a royal chance for a field goal in the last period, when Pendleton made a fair catch on Yale's 38-yard line, but a moment before the ball was kicked it was discovered that a Tiger was off side and a 5-yard penalty moved the

TABLE SHOWING GROUND GAINED BY PUNTS AND RUSHES.

FIRST PERIOD.				SECOND PERIOD.				THIRD PERIOD.				FOURTH PERIOD.
Rushes.	Total.	Pts.	Tot.	Rushes.	Total.	Punts.	Total.	Rushes.	Total.	Punts.	Total.	Rushes.	Total.	Punts.	Total.
Georgetown	22	156	yds.	2	72	13	98	yds.	5	150	11	48	yds.	3	115
Virginia	4	15	yds.	2	85	3	9	yds.	3	9	yds.	10	124	yds.	4	103
Georgetown—Average of rushes, 7.7 yards; average of punts, 35.1 yards.				Georgetown—Average of rushes, 7.7 yards; average of punts, 35 yards.				Georgetown—Average of rushes, 4.4 yards; average of punts, 36.1 yards.				Georgetown—Average of rushes, 12.4 yards; average of punts, 25.3 yards.
Virginia—Average of rushes, 3.3 yards; average of punts, 42.1 yards.				Virginia—Average of rushes, 4 yards; average of punts, 35.1 yards.				Virginia—Average of rushes, 3 yards; average of punts, 29.1 yards.				Virginia—Average of rushes, 13.4 yards; average of punts, 24 yards.

Continued on Page 2, Column 1.

Continued on Page 2, Column 7.