HOUSE PUTS BAN ON BELVOIR TRACT

District Reformatory Must Be Located Elsewhere.

TOO NEAR MT. VERNON

Carlin Amendment Prohibits Institution on Site Bought.

By Vote of 112 to 42 Lower Branch of Congress Passes Proposal to Prohibit Establishment of Any Jail Either in Maryland or Virginia Within Ten Miles of the Home of George Washington.

The House, by a vote of 112 to 42, yesterday prohibited the location of a reformatory for the District on the Belvoir tract, three and a half miles from Mount Vernon and the tomb of George Washington. The site has already been purchased and paid for by the Commissioners. The House went even further than the mere turning down of this proposition.

By a large majority, it adopted an amendment to the District appropriation bill prohibiting the location of any penal institution, either in Maryland or Virginia, within ten miles of Mount Vernon.

CARLIN AMENDMENT UP.

The question came before the House on the amendment of Mr. Carlin, of Virginia, offered last Saturday, prohibiting the expenditure of any appropriation provided in the bill for the establishment of a reformatory within a radius of ten miles of Mount Vernon. It was manifest from the start that the question commanded deep interest, as there was an unusually large attendance of members, even for Monday.

The debate of several hours was more than spirited; it was in some phases rather personal, and it was plain that the feeling on both sides of the question had somewhat of a bitter tinge. The supporters of the Belvoir site taunted the opponents with being "sentimentalists," while the latter retorted that the other side would sacrifice revered tradition and hallowed reverence to the "mighty dollar."

In behalf of the Carlin amendment, Mr. Douglas, of Ohio, cared not if the money for the effort had been paid. He urged the House to set its face against any prison near the tomb of Washington. It was proposed to violate the sacredness of the most revered place in this land; the home whence George Washington went to take command of our armies in the struggle for our liberty; the home to which he returned from successful warfare, and which he again left to become our first President. After his service as President, he retired to Mount Vernon to pass his remaining days.

Taylor Defends Purchase.

Mr. Taylor, of the committee, made a carefully prepared speech in behalf of the Belvoir site, but it was evident that the sympathy of the House was against him. He declared, for himself and the Appropriations Committee, profound admiration for the ladies of the Mount Vernon Association. He entered into a detailed account of all the proceedings and negotiations that had resulted in the purchase of the Belvoir site, and stated that all the arguments in support of that plan that have been advanced by the District Commissioners and the Appropriations Committee. He said that about $28,000 had been paid and reiterated the declaration that the proposed reformatory should be absolutely shut off from the view of or unpleasant proximity to Mount Vernon. He once more gave the distance between the reformatory site and Mount Vernon. Mr. Hull, of Iowa, chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, opposed the Belvoir site in an earnest address. He objected to the location of any penal institution in the vicinity of Mount Vernon. Then Mr. Pearce, of Maryland, took the same view. "The government," he said, "cannot prevent the operation of a bear garden at Marshall Hall, which is privately owned; it cannot prevent the presence of a jail in Alexandria, because it has no jurisdiction, but it can prevent the erection of a penal institution within a little over three miles of Washington's tomb."

Appeals to Patriots.

"I appeal," said Representative Sims, of Tennessee, "to every man of the North, the East, the South, and the West who has a drop of patriotic blood in his veins not to vote against the Carlin amendment. This amendment costs, not measured by dollars and cents, nor mentioned in the same breath with money. The same views were expressed by Mr. Graham, of Illinois; Mr. Gaines, of West Virginia; Mr. Garrett, of Tennessee, and Mr. Cooper, of Wisconsin.

Chairman Taylor and Mr. Bowers, of Mississippi, representing the Appropriations Committee, tried in vain to stem the tide, and the fight was practically over when Representative Carlin, author of the amendment, closed the debate. He said that he had offered the amendment so that the proposition could be permanently killed and not come back from the Senate through a legislative trick.

Frances Splendid Work.

He eulogized the splendid work of the ladies of the Mount Vernon Association, who had saved the homestead without asking a dollar of government money. "Yonder," he said, "only a short distance away, we have expended millions of dollars for the erection of a monument second to none in the world, in response to this sentiment which you would destroy. (Applause.) Now you come and say that, although you have spent the people's money for these great structures to commemorate his memory, we will put near his home where rest the remains of the only woman he ever loved, and where rest his sacred bones, this reformatory that it may stand and smell in the nostrils of the American people." (Applause.)

Bill as Finally Adopted.

As finally adopted the bill prohibits the location of a reformatory within a radius of ten miles of Mount Vernon, in

R. N. HARPER.

R. N. HARPER IS FIFTY

Anniversary of Head of District National Bank.

OTHERS OBSERVE BIRTHDAY

Charles A. Douglas, of Law Firm of Douglas & Baker, is Forty-nine to-day—George Alfred Townsend Was Seventy Yesterday and Will Soon Publish Poem.

Friends of Robert Newton Harper, president of the District National Bank, will take advantage to-day of the opportunity which his fiftieth birthday affords of wishing him a happy return.

It just happens in connection with the moving of the bank into its new home that both events have come about so closely.

President Harper was born in Leesburg, Va., on January 31, 1861, and Leesburg is very proud of the fact. Though his interests have long been closely identified with those of Washington, he has always been a member of his home town at heart, and is now officially connected with banking interests in Leesburg as well as in Washington.

From 1888 to 1895, Mr. Harper, who is a graduate pharmacist, conducted a Washington drug store. He was also president of the District Pharmaceutical Association, and for many years president of the Chamber of Commerce, of which he is yet an active member.

Mr. Douglas is Forty-nine.

Another citizen who will celebrate his birthday to-day is Charles A. Douglas, of the firm of Douglas & Baker, attorneys-at-law. Mr. Douglas and Mr. Harper are close friends.

Mr. Douglas was born in Winnsboro, S. C., just one year after Mr. Harper, in 1862, and Winnsboro is proud of the fact. In 1891 Mr. Douglas removed to Columbia, S. C., where he practiced law until he came to Washington in 1895. He was a member of the firm of Douglas & Douglas until the present firm of Douglas & Baker was formed. In his general practice he has gained a favorable reputation, though he is better known for his success as a criminal lawyer.

A Sprightly Correspondent.

George Alfred Townsend, one of the best known war correspondents in the country, celebrated his seventieth birthday yesterday with a luncheon at his home, 22 First street northwest. A number of his newspaper friends were present to congratulate him.

Mr. Townsend, who is soon to publish his poem, "Herod," has earned a wide-spread reputation in literary circles. The guests yesterday included Mrs. Robert Hootroy, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Deal Howard, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Young, Miss Young, Maj. Alfred Stoffer, Miss Stoffer, Mrs. W. A. Gibbs, Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Robbins, Miss Maud Dakin, and Mr. Alfred Hootroy.

CURFEW WILL TOLL IN THE CAPITAL

for it allows children to be on the street when accompanied by parent or guardian and would be a benefit in every way."

Favors District Law.

Rev. J. Howard Wells, pastor of Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South, said: "I am most heartily in favor of such legislation, and think the curfew would materially benefit the District, and would keep children off the streets at night, where idling and immoral influences prevail."

Rev. William D. Moss, pastor of Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, said: "It seems to me that the curfew system is obsolete in this present day civilization. Some other solution might be had for the remedying of the evil, but the curfew should be deferred as a last resort."

Rev. Dr. C. Ernest Smith, rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, said he regarded the curfew law as a most excellent thing. "We have an urgent need of such a law in this city and in every other city in the country as well," he said, "and I sincerely hope that it will be carried out. Personally, I am lending every effort to have it become a law."

Rev. Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, said that he was not familiar with the law as it was proposed, but was in favor of it on general principles.

Rev. U. G. B. Pierce, rector of All Souls' Church, said that he would not give an opinion on the curfew, as he said he was giving the matter deep study in order that he might give an impartial view of the problem.

Urges Study of Situation.

Rev. E. T. Mowbray, pastor of McKendree M. E. Church, urged a most careful consideration of all phases of the proposed law. He yesterday said: "Having lived in this city only since last April, I know but little concerning municipal conditions. The only place where I ever had occasion to particularly notice the workings of the curfew system was in Hagerstown, where I must say it proved a thorough 'dead letter.' Though I am heartily in favor of all movements toward the uplifting of the moral character of children, I hesitate to state whether I can freely advocate the proposed legislation until I learn more concerning prohibitive merits."

Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, pastor of St. John's Church, while in accord with the spirit, said that the question of enacting such a law for the District was far too complicated, until thorough investigation of conditions by experts showed it to be the wisest thing to do. It means, he declared, the taking away of responsibility from the home and placing it under the state. He warned those attempting to secure the enactment of the law to carefully consider every phase of the question, as it would produce results that they would probably regret.

City Most Orderly.

"Washington is the most orderly city I have ever seen," said Rev. Lloyd C. Douglas, pastor of Luther Place Memorial Church, in discussing the curfew law.

"Children are almost always courteous, even in the worst sections of the city, and I find that they are usually well behaved in the streets. Certainly there is no conduct that would attract attention to them."

While not exactly favoring every point of the curfew law, Rev. Mr. Douglas is of the opinion that its purpose is good, and would do a great deal to solve many of the problems facing the city to-day.

Rev. Earle Wilfley, of the Vermont Avenue Christian Church, said that the curfew law was a good measure, and that all children under sixteen years should be in their homes by 8 o'clock in the evening.

Rev. Charles Wood, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, declared that the passage of a curfew rule in the District would be a serious thing.

He said that he has made no study of the question, and although something should be done in a great many cases, he preferred to study the matter thoroughly before making any statement.

Railroad Is Fined.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was advised yesterday by the United States attorney at New Orleans of the first conviction since the amended railroad act went into effect, in 1908, of a carrier for charging more than the published rate. The case is that of the commission against the Texas and Pacific Railway Company.

Virginia or Maryland, except the workhouse at Occoquan, and authorizes the removal of jail and workhouse for prisoners from the District to that institution.

To make the bill complete and binding, as the majority willed it, the word "sites" was stricken out and "site" substituted and the whole was limited to the acquisition of a site for a workhouse. Under this form the appropriation of $28,000, of which $10,000 is to be immediately available, was authorized. The bill was then passed.

Short Changed by Huckster.

The price of eggs went up with a jump yesterday for Mrs. H. Griffin, of 203 F street northwest. She purchased two dozen eggs from a huckster and gave him a $2 bill in payment. She received 50 cents in change. The case was reported to police headquarters and a description of the dealer is in the hands of the police.

Face's Non-support Charge.

Joe Taylor Sutcliffe, forty-eight years old, a paperhanger, was brought to Washington from St. Louis yesterday by United States Marshal Regenshardt to answer a charge of non-support. Sutcliffe formerly lived at 506 Sixth street northwest. His wife, Grace Taylor Sutcliffe, lives at 87 Fifth street northwest.

COLDS INSTANT RELIEF

Now is the time to treat a cold if you have one. Get rid of it today. Tomorrow it may be pneumonia. I regard a Cold as the most dangerous of all diseases. It is the father of grippe, influenza and consumption. I consider my Cold Cure better than a Life Insurance policy. A few doses of Myer's Cold Remedy will break up any cold in a few hours, and will prevent pneumonia. It relieves the head, nose, throat and lungs almost immediately. These little sugar coated pellets may be conveniently carried in the vest pocket for use any time or anywhere.—MUNYON.

If you seek medical advice, write Munyon's Doctors. They are at your service day and night. Address Prof. Dr. J. C. Munyon, 242 and Jefferson Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.
