NO TARIFF BILL WILL BE ADDED TO RECIPROCITY

Agreement Will Be Passed as Submitted by Mr. Taft.

DEMOCRATS GIVE PLANS

Revision of Tariff Schedules in Separate Bills.

The Ways and Means Committee Will Meet To-day—The Woolen Schedule is to Be Lowered and the President Will Be Asked to Approve the Reduction—Representative Underwood Gives Views.

CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT.

President Taft's Canadian reciprocity agreement will be passed by the House as it comes from the President. There is talk that the Democrats may tack it on to some other tariff bill, requiring the President to accept or reject both. This plan is opposed by some leaders, and has not been seriously considered. The Democrats are in favor of reciprocity, and will not take steps that may result in its defeat.

Representative Underwood, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and leader of the Democratic majority on the floor of the next House, stated yesterday that the reciprocity agreement will be passed as it came from the President. He also stated that the President has been informed that the Democrats will undertake the revision of some of the tariff schedules, notably wool, cotton, and steel, during the extra session of Congress.

IMPORTANT MEETING TO-DAY. The Democratic Ways and Means Committee will begin consideration to-day of legislative plans for the majority during the special session of Congress, which opens April 4.

In a statement issued yesterday, Chairman Underwood, of the committee, announced with emphasis that there is to be no tariff revision legislation passed by the House. This is in answer to President Taft, who intimated in a Southern speech the other day that there might be nothing more done at this session than the passage of the Canadian reciprocity pact. "The President was assured by both Mr. Clark and myself," says Mr. Underwood, "that the Democratic majority if called into special session would undertake a downward revision of the tariff, cutting the schedules to a tariff for revenue basis. There could have been no misunderstanding about this. Mr. Clark in his recent speeches and interviews, has been telling his listeners there is to be tariff revision during the special session."

Attack Woolen Schedule.

The first schedule to be ripped open and subjected to the cutting process will be the woolen schedule. The Democrats believe the President, having condemned this schedule, will be ready to sign a revised schedule with much lower rates of duty. They look for assistance in its passage from the progressives in the Senate, who fought the Aldrich-Payne schedule. This is to be followed by the cotton and textile schedule and the steel schedule.

Taft to Aid Democrats.

President Taft may assist the Democrats in their work of reducing the duties on wool and woollens. It is reported he will have his tariff board prepare a preliminary of its investigations into this industry and send it to Congress shortly after the opening. The board has given much study to this schedule. While its investigation is not complete, the results are sufficient on which to base definite conclusions.

The effect of such a movement by the President would be not only to assist and encourage the Democrats in their work of framing a new tariff, but would demonstrate the effect of a permanent tariff board or commission in constant and intimate touch with business and the tariff.

President Taft's Canadian reciprocity agreement will be passed by the House as it comes from the President. There is talk that the Democrats may tack it on to some other tariff bill, requiring the President to accept or reject both. This plan is opposed by some leaders, and has not been seriously considered. The Democrats are in favor of reciprocity, and will not take steps that may result in its defeat.

Shape of Vesuvius Changes.

Rome, March 12.—The shape of Mount Vesuvius, which it will be recalled, was changed by the last eruption, has been altered again by the collapse of a huge spur of lava. The latest change is ascribed to earthquake disturbances. The rim of the crater is now much lower than it was, and is truncated in appearance.

Maxim's New Explosive the Most Deadly Known

Boston, March 12.—That the United States government controls a brand new explosive which will prove the envy of every nation in the world, was the declaration of Hudson Maxim, the inventor, to-night. "This new explosive," said Mr. Maxim, "will prove a revelation in warfare, and will do almost everything, except perhaps, blow the whole crust off the earth. The value of this explosive lies in the fact it will send a projectile through any armor, and the explosion will not take place until after this projectile has passed through the armor."

Frantic Mother Remains at the Bedside of Lad.

Running in Front of Car Going South, Youngster is Tossed in Front of Army Officer's Machine Which Passes Over Body—Eyewitnesses Declare Accident Thoroughly is Crowded.

While playing in front of his home, Belt road, near Forty-first street northwest, yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, five-year-old Allen R. Pyles, son of Samuel J. Pyles, was knocked down by an automobile and seriously injured. He was hurried to Georgetown University Hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a fracture of the left leg and a probable fracture of the skull. While his condition is serious, physicians at the hospital stated last night that his injuries would not prove fatal.

FIRST AUTO VANISHES.

According to the story told by the police, the boy had been romping in front of his house. Hundreds of automobiles were passing, going to and from Chevy Chase. Without thinking of the danger, the lad ran into the road and was struck by an automobile, the occupants of which are unknown. They did not stop.

Col. Trumbo Admires His Art Gallery to the Last.

San Francisco, March 12.—Col. Isaac Trumbo, who made a fortune as counsel for the Mormon Church, and who lived in Amelia Palace after Brigham Young's death, was evicted from his old home yesterday, to satisfy a loan of $10,000, made twelve years ago, on which no interest has been paid. The German Savings Bank, which loaned the money, gave Trumbo ample opportunity to pay, but when the amount reached $15,000, the bank foreclosed.

MEMORIAL PANE IS UNVEILED TO FORMER PASTOR

Memory of Rev. M. Ross Fishburn Is Eulogized.

TRIBUTE PAID HIS LIFE

Services at Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

Entire Congregation Hears High Tribute Paid to Departed Minister by Rev. Frank J. Goodwin, Rev. S. M. Newman, and Deacon F. S. Peck at Special Exercises in Connection with Unveiling of Window.

Marked by solemn and impressive ceremonies, the entire congregation of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church joined in the exercises of unveiling the memorial window to the late Dr. Moshem Ross Fishburn, pastor of the church for many years, yesterday morning.

Loyalty and love and respect for their departed pastor was the keynote throughout the services. There was none of the funeral—just simple words of reverence for the man to whom the church is indebted for so much. His life and work was eulogized by the pastor, Rev. Frank J. Goodwin, Rev. S. M. Newman, and Deacon F. S. Peck. All spoke of Dr. Fishburn as a man of steadfast courage, who never wavered in the face of difficulty, and whom all loved as an exalted leader.

Music was furnished by the choir. Sacred and of charming and touching simplicity, it brought tears to the eyes of the vast audience, which occupied every inch of seating and standing room.

Pays Loving Tribute.

After the usual service and the offering, Deacon Peck, who has been identified with the church since it was founded, spoke. He emphasized the dismay that the officers felt at the loss of the leader, who was ever a co-worker with his officers and vestrymen, and paid a loving tribute to Dr. Fishburn, whom he said, loved the children and every member with a supreme devotion that endured during his time on earth.

Deacon Peck quoted the following from the last address Dr. Fishburn delivered to his congregation: "As individuals and in groups you have made me aware of your love and loyalty in words, in gifts, and in kindness, without number and without limit. Is it any wonder that I daily, yes, many times a day, thank God for the privilege of working among his choicest ones, and that I oft make mention of you in my prayers?"

Dr. S. M. Newman, whose ministry during the year following Dr. Fishburn's death did much to keep the congregation together, followed Deacon Peck.

Dr. Newman dwelt on the splendid and the last address Dr. Fishburn delivered to his congregation: "As individuals and in groups you have made me aware of your love and loyalty in words, in gifts, and in kindness, without number and without limit. Is it any wonder that I daily, yes, many times a day, thank God for the privilege of working among his choicest ones, and that I oft make mention of you in my prayers?"

WOODROW WILSON HAS BRYAN AS GUEST

Democratic Leaders Deny Political Significance.

Princeton, N. J., March 12.—William J. Bryan this evening dined with Gov. Woodrow Wilson at the Princeton inn. When it was learned that Gov. Wilson had not short stay in Atlanta, Ga., and hurried North in order to arrange the meeting with the former leader of the Democratic party, it was supposed that there might be some political significance in this dinner, but both men denied that anything of a political nature had been discussed. In the afternoon Mr. Bryan made a speech of a religious nature to a crowd of 1,500 people, who completely filled Alexander Hall, on the Princeton University campus.

The subject of Mr. Bryan's speech was "Faith." He said that he always enjoyed speaking on religion more than anything else, because he could accomplish something if he only convinced a few people, whereas on a political subject he had to secure the concurrence of a majority of the people, a thing which he had never been able to do.

Mr. Bryan said that he had begun talking religion six years before he gave his consideration to governmental affairs. He said that, although he had made politics the business of his life and expected to devote his attention to it for many years to come, he knew he would be talking religion long after he was out of politics. Mr. Bryan gave the impression that he by no means considered himself yet out of politics.

MARRIAGE NO BAR.

Women May Enjoy School Privileges in Washington.

Marriage is no bar to the public schools in Washington. A woman, young or old, may enjoy the classroom privileges extended to boys and girls. In fact, during the last five years more than a hundred married pupils have been enrolled in the graded schools in different sections of the city.

Following the announcement that a girl twelve years old had been prohibited from attending school in Cincinnati because she had a husband, it was learned that no such law prevails here.

Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey, vice president of the board of education, said last night that she had known of several cases of married women attending school.

BROTHER OF GIRL KILLED BY LOVER

Assailant Wounded in Duel with Revolvers.

Newport, Tenn., March 12.—Kidwell McSweeney, only son of Col. W. J. McSweeney, State Democratic committeeman and noted lawyer, was killed, and John Pritchett, a young railroad switchman, was probably mortally wounded at 4 o'clock this morning. Miss Emma McSweeney, aged eighteen years, Col. McSweeney's daughter, and Pritchett became lovers following a flirtation.

They continued to meet after Pritchett had been forbidden to enter the McSweeney place. Col. McSweeney, in desperation, placed his daughter in a convent at Nazareth.

Six weeks later she escaped to a relative's home in Knoxville, Tenn., where Pritchett met her last Friday. Her family heard she and Pritchett were married and the couple boarded a train at Knoxville last night for Newport "to face the music."

The girl was met by her brother and her uncle. Young McSweeney followed Pritchett to a stairway leading to his rooms, where McSweeney, it is alleged, opened fire with a .25 automatic revolver. Pritchett returning the fire with a .32 automatic, holding a .25 automatic in reserve in his left hand, the duel was in the darkness, Pritchett having the advantage of being several stairsteps above his foe. There were no eye-witnesses.

MAJ. GEN. WOOD TO TAKE CHARGE OF "MANEUVERS"

Change of Plan Held to Be Significant.

LEAVES IN TWO DAYS

Chief of Staff Is Due by Wednesday at Latest.

Heavy Rains Convert Camp Into Sea of Mud, Impeding Working of Detraining Arriving Troops and Supplies and Effectually Dampening All "War" Enthusiasm—Col. Roosevelt's Arrival Awaited.

San Antonio, Tex., March 12.—Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood will assume command of the troops massed on the Mexican border within a day or two.

Gen. Wood is expected to arrive here Tuesday or Wednesday from Washington to personally conduct the so-called maneuvers.

This is regarded as a significant change in plans, as it was at first announced that Gen. Wood would remain at Washington and direct operations from there.

GET BUSY TO-DAY. Monday morning will see every man in camp, and there will no longer be any excuse for not taking up the work outlined. The preparations being made by the quartermaster general and the commissary general indicate the stay of the soldiers in Texas will be four months, or longer, instead of two months. The indications are that the men will not move back to their posts before August 1, at the earliest.

The interest at the maneuvers camp now really centers in the visit of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Monday morning. He will be accompanied by Gov. Coakley and his full military staff. The rain precludes all possibility of a review in honor of Col. Roosevelt. He will simply visit the camp, calling at headquarters, and paying his respects to Maj. Gen. Carter. The other generals in camp will be at headquarters to greet him. He will be met at the hotel by one of the brigade generals, yet, to be detailed, and will be escorted to the camp, guarded by a squadron of cavalry. A few of the leading citizens will accompany him. The doughty colonel will make the trip on horseback, spurring the use of a carriage, which had been provided for him. The customary salute for ex-presidents will be fired in honor of Col. Roosevelt.

Will Inspect Camp. After a visit to the headquarters, he will make a tour of inspection of the camp. The coming of Maj. Gen. Carter has not served to dispel the mystery of concentrating so close to the Mexican border 20,000 men armed with ball cartridges and supplied with pontoon bridges which are sufficient to throw the entire army across the Rio Grande. In view of the fact there are few streams of importance in Texas and that the majority of these are now dry, due to a lack of normal rain for several days, lead to the conclusion the pontoon bridges were certainly not intended for use in the proposed maneuvers toward Galveston.

Early this morning heavy showers turned the dust at the maneuver camp, Fort Sam Houston, into a sea of mud. The sun came up on a shivering, damp, and disgusted 15,000 men. The heavy hauling and pitching of tents had cut the ground up like a plowed field, and the rain made the mud in many places over a foot deep.

Rain Dampens "War" Enthusiasm. Fortunately the camp had been well ditched and drained. This prevented the conditions being worse. More than 10,000 of the soldiers arrived yesterday and last night. Those arriving last night were detrained this morning. Their route to the maneuver grounds and into camp was over especially muddy streets, and the officers and men presented a bedraggled appearance as they came onto the field. Aside from the stifling heat and terrific dust of the past two days, this is the first touch many of the soldiers have had of what real war might be.

In the camp are many of the "bureau" officers, who have been holding down desk jobs. The mud and rain have changed their costly and tailored uniforms into a sight and their well-shined shoes and polished leggings are all to the bad.

This rain has caused considerable dampening of the "war" enthusiasm which has been manifest for several days.

Fill Up Bog Holes. When work had first begun early this morning Capt. Normoyle, of the Quartermaster's Department, at Fort Sam Houston, who is the overworked officer, having all the details of the detraining in charge, has put a double score of Mexicans and negroes at work filling the bog holes with mesquite brush and draining off the worst of the standing pools. Even at that the widest range of army vocabulary had to be invoked all day long by the mule wranglers before the bog was completely conquered by the plunging animals.

There into the midst of the flooded yards came the Second Battalion of the Third Field Artillery, comprising Batteries D, E, and F, and all the way, from
