

SOCIETY

PERSONALS.

Continued from Page Two.

Senator Smith is in Michigan during the interim between the two sessions of Congress. Mr. Smith entertained at luncheon in honor of her house guest on Wednesday and had a company of young people to meet her. On Thursday morning William Alden Smith, Jr., arrived from St. Mark's school, in Somerville, Mass. He brought with him a schoolmate, Farwell Winston, grandson of the late Senator Farwell, of Illinois. He will spend the vacation with the Smiths. Young Mr. Smith will have another good week-end, Alfred Hoyt, of New York, another school chum, who arrived yesterday. To-day Mrs. Smith will entertain at a little dinner party of young people and have in addition to her house party Miss Marie McRae, of Detroit; Miss Lucy Hawk, of Battle Creek, and Miss Violet Thayer, of Southboro, Mass., daughter of the head master of St. Mark's school, who is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Rev. and Mrs. Roland Cotton Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson are sailing next month for a summer visit in Europe. They will, of course, spend some time in England, probably with Mrs. Gibson's uncle and aunt, Sir John and Lady Harrington, in London, during the coronation festivities. They will take their interesting and beautiful young son with them.

Miss Gladys McMillan, of Detroit, who has spent the winter with her grandmother, Mrs. James McMillan, has sailed for Europe last week with Baroness von Kettler, formerly Miss Ledyard, of Detroit, who had also been a guest of Mrs. McMillan. Miss McMillan will visit the baroness in her home in Germany and will visit her aunt, Lady Harrington, in England, who will, however, return to this country for the summer.

Society is deeply grieved at the transfer of Lieut. Charles Russell Train, U. S. N., who has commanded the President's yacht, the Sylph, for two seasons, to Boston, previous to taking command of the Waikiki, when it is placed in commission. Lieut. and Mrs. Train have been factors in the social affairs of the young people in Washington for two years, and will be greatly missed. Mrs. Train was formerly a great belle, Miss 1907, and her husband, one of the most prominent of resident circles. She and Lieut. Train and their interesting infant daughter have been with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brown, during the two seasons, and were at Beverly Farms during the summer.
