INDICTED BANKER RIXEY DENIES DEATH, SAY PHYSICIANS

Serious Diseases Cause Little Hope of Recovery.

FORFEITS BOND OF $40,000

Consultation of Doctors Follow Court Hearing.

Hardening of Liver, Softening of Brain, and Heart Trouble Cause Complications—Baltimore Doctor Called—Rest is Necessary—Arguments Set for April 21—May Return Bond Money.

Announcement was made last night at the residence of C. Jones Rixey, indicted Alexandria, Va., banker, 909 Sixteenth street north-west, that little hope is held out for Mr. Rixey's recovery.

PHYSICIANS CONSULT. The announcement was made following a consultation of physicians at the Rixey home yesterday afternoon, at which Dr. W. S. Thayer, of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, and Dr. George F. Freeman, of Washington, were present. Mr. Rixey is suffering from a complication of diseases, hardening of the liver, hemorrhages, and softening of the brain. It is not believed he will ever be able to appear in Alexandria for trial. In fact, the announcement last night carried with it the intimation that Mr. Rixey cannot survive more than a few weeks at the most.

Rixey's bond of $40,000, in a case resulting from the closing of his bank, was declared forfeited yesterday, when he failed to appear in court.

Counsel for the president of the Virginia Safe Deposit and Trust Corporation, which went into the hands of receivers on December 29, 1910, appeared in the Corporation Court of Alexandria, yesterday, to ask for postponement of the trial. The court also issued a writ of habeas corpus for Rixey, and a writ of certiorari for the return of his property.

Illness is Serious. The affidavits of Rixey's physicians states that he has been confined to his bed for the past week, in his home 909 Sixteenth street; that he shows evidence of sclerosis of the arteries, has enlargement of the heart, and a slight paralysis of the left side of the body, and that the only hope of improvement lies in a prolonged rest and freedom from mental excitement or physical exertion.

Dr. Freeman testified that it would be very dangerous to remove Rixey. The court, however, ordered that the bond be renewed, as requested by the attorneys, but issued a writ, returnable April 21, to argue the forfeiture of bond.

A special grand jury returned nine indictments against Rixey last Tuesday. The strain resulting from the closing of the bank and the investigations since are said to be the cause of Rixey's breakdown.

'SWAN SONG' SUNG BY SENATOR YOUNG

Leaves Senate When Legislature Adjourns.

The Senate held a short session yesterday and adjourned next Thursday. Consideration of a resolution by Senator Jeff Davis, of Arkansas, calling for information from the Post-office Department concerning the withdrawal of certain mail privileges from a St. Louis publication for women and a Denver periodical published in the interests of the mail carriers occupied most of the so-called morning hour. It was followed by the "swan" song of Senator Lafe Young, of Iowa, who leaves the Senate tomorrow on the adjournment of the Iowa legislature.

Senator Davis called strenuously for the passage of his resolution to get information from the Post-office Department. In the course of his remarks he paid his respects to newspapers in general.

The Davis resolution passed after more than an hour's debate. As a result the Postmaster General will soon be given the appointment of a resolution by Senator Jeff Davis, of Arkansas, calling for information from the Post-office Department concerning the withdrawal of certain mail privileges from a St. Louis publication for women and a Denver periodical published in the interests of the mail carriers occupied most of the so-called morning hour.

VETERANS OF '61 ASK A MONUMENT

Clark, Col. G. C. Kniffin, E. W. Woodruff, E. J. Sweet, Rev. George E. Barbee, and Col. John A. Joyce.

Visit the President.

Promptly at 2:30 o'clock the bugler tooted several ta-ra's, the officers waved their swords, and the long line of parade came to a halt on the east side of the White House. The veterans, in hacks and carriages, clambered out and formed in line to shake hands with the President.

Mr. Taft was glad to see them. He said so in a nice little speech. He shook hands cordially with each of the scarred band and congratulated them not only for being there, but for their performance on the field of battle and on their efforts toward good citizenship since the war.

The President was impressed with the age of the survivors. He told them if their appearance justified their age, they would have been received at the Executive Mansion in the days when Abraham Lincoln lived there. The old soldiers, it might be said, are proud of their gray and time-worn aspect, although there are still vigorous "lads" among their ranks.

The small band looked happy when they left the East Room, where Mr. Taft had received them. Their faces were wreathed in smiles as they talked about their President in a way that would have made him happy could he have heard them.

"He treated us like brothers," they said in unison.

Take Up March.

Clambering back in the vehicles, the veterans started down to the District Building to see the "city fathers." The band played some more martial music and the boys of the National Guard picked themselves from the roadside, while they were enjoying a little period of "grass sitting" in the building.

Commissioner Rudolph and Maj. Judson received them in the assembly hall, on the fifth floor. Thinned though the ranks may be, there were enough to fill the hall.

Stopping in front of the District Building, the veterans left their conveyances and disappeared in the building.

After complimenting the Commissioners on the work they had done to beautify the city, Capt. Powell said he could remember the time when the streets were filled with mud holes, the curb stones were broken, and the National Capital was not "The City Beautiful." He referred to Gov. Shepherd as the man who had rehabilitated the Capital, and told of the great municipal work accomplished by him.

Powell Wants Statue.

Capt. Powell saved a mild bomb until his closing remarks. "The Commissioners," he said, "there are in this city statues to generals and distinguished civilians. Every State has erected like statues to its honored ones. The District of Columbia has entirely ignored the volunteers of '61."

"These dead heroes' graves are unmarked by monuments, and, as voicing the sentiment of my compatriots, I ask if some action cannot be taken to erect in Washington a suitable memorial to the soldier dead of our organization."

Capt. Powell's plea met with hearty approval on the part of those present. In his address, Mr. Rudolph did not answer the question which means they asked, so much to the veterans.

Commissioner Rudolph said in part:

"April 19, 1875, a group of seventy 'embattled farmers' opposed themselves in arms against oppression, and fired the shot heard 'round the world, as an act of protest against the policy of the mother country toward its American colonies."

District Has Heroes.

"No less heroic was the conduct of the volunteers from the District of Columbia, who, on the 10th of April, 1861, and immediately thereafter, offered their services to the government of the United States and were sworn into the military service as the first defenders of their country in its hour of need."

"It is hard to realize the embarrassment to which the defenders were exposed, or the resolution required on their part to hazard the loss of property, business, friendships, and life in a cause whose outcome was then so precarious. To their honor be it said that they did not hesitate, but, like the fathers of old, offered on the altar of duty their lives and fortunes and their sacred honor, and they deserve the most effective recognition that their country can bestow."

After the ceremonies at the District Building, the parade marched down Pennsylvania avenue to the City Hall, where it disbanded. The veterans hurried to their homes to catch a little rest before the banquet.

The parade formed at Fifth and H streets and began to move at 1:30 o'clock. Hundreds of persons witnessed the procession. In the lead were five of "Washington's finest," then came the National Guard escort, consisting of the First Infantry Regiment and the First Field Battery.

HERALD BUILDING SOLD.

Purchaser Found for Property as Soon as It is Occupied.

The F. H. Smith Company has just consummated a sale of the handsome new five-story fireproof building, 1222 New York avenue northwest, which was erected in 1910 by Capt. C. C. Calhoun, one of their clients.

The lot, and the dwelling upon it, was sold to Capt. Calhoun by the F. H. Smith Company about one year ago for Mrs. Annie O. Thompson, who had occupied it for many years as her home.

The Smith Company, as agent for Capt. Calhoun, leased the building, first and second floors of this building to the Washington Herald Company, under a lease of five years, and the third, fourth, and fifth floors are under a lease for a similar term.

It is understood that the combined leases yield a handsome return upon the purchase price of the property, which is at present withheld.

HARDMAN IN COURT.

Case Continued to Await News of Accused's Father.

Carl M. Hardman, alias Fred Coogan, alias C. M. Hunter, was yesterday arraigned in the Police Court on a charge on making false pretenses, arising from an alleged transaction whereby Hardman endeavored to pass a worthless check for $75.00.

The case was continued until tomorrow, as Hardman's father, who is reported to be a wealthy resident of Marietta, Ohio, has been informed of the charge, but has not as yet replied.

TAILORING TALKS.

By J. FRED GATCHELL, 928 Fourteenth Street (Opposite Franklin Park).

It doesn't make any difference how great the improvement is in ready-made clothes, they'll still be "ready-made," and lack just that vital feature only the custom tailor can give you—Clothes that show THEY WERE MADE FOR YOU.

And talking about character in clothes, do you know I consider it just as much a part of my service to you to pilot you in the right direction in style as to see that you are perfectly fitted? Every model doesn't look well on every man. What is becoming style for you may be anything but style for some other gentleman. It's getting the right effect, the proper balance, the right pattern. In a word, it's giving you WHAT YOU OUGHT TO HAVE and not what has been made up in advance by somebody who never saw you.

Tailors' prices are harped upon as if they were high. I'll take your measure, make you a Suit, guarantee it to fit and be becoming—and you won't pay me any more than you'll have to pay for the same grade of goods ready-made. Only the workmanship will be in mine, and the style and individuality. Let's compare notes—you and me.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS TO HOLD CAUCUS

Will Gather To-night to Decide on Programme.

RECIPROCIITY TO COME FIRST

Ways and Means Committee Forms Tariff Legislation, but is Willing to Take Up Canadian Treaty Ahead of Other Matters—Senate Democrats Will Hold Another Caucus.

If the House Democrats in caucus to-night accept the recommendations by the majority of the Ways and Means Committee, the Canadian reciprocity bill will be submitted to the House and passed in advance of any other tariff legislation. The Democrats of the Ways and Means Committee decided last night, after an all-day session, upon a tariff programme which starts off with Canadian reciprocity.

This action on the part of the Democrats of the Ways and Means Committee is particularly gratifying to President Taft, who has been urging that reciprocity be taken up and passed as a separate proposition. While the Democrats have taken the President at his word in promising them fair play on other legislation, and will act first on his legislative measure, they will lose no time after it is out of the way in passing several tariff revision measures.

Plan to Lower Duties.

The day after the Canadian reciprocity bill is reported to the House the majority of the Ways and Means Committee, according to the plan to be submitted to the caucus to-night, will offer a bill lowering duties on agricultural implements and on supplies which the farmer is obliged to buy. There will be about a hundred articles in this bill, nearly all of the reductions designed chiefly for the benefit of the farmer. The items will be taken from a number of schedules, and will include boots, shoes, reapers, plows, harness and saddlery, harvesters, trawls, bagging, and many other articles that draw upon the farmer's pocketbook in the course of the year.

It was originally planned first to attempt a revision of the woolen schedule, but on second thought the Democratic leaders have decided to recommend the introduction of a sort of "companion piece" to the Canadian reciprocity bill. It will be a measure compensate the farmer for the concessions that he is supposed to make in the proposed reciprocity agreement. The Republican insurgents in the Senate found themselves in an embarrassing fix in the last session of Congress as regards reciprocity, and the Democratic method of handling the subject is likely to put a much severer test upon their sincerity.

A revision of the woolen schedule will not be undertaken until the measure

WOMEN TO CONFER WITH LABOR UNION

Employees After More Pay Seek Organization's Aid.

Arrangements for a conference between the women employees of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the executive committee of the Central Labor Union was reached last night by a meeting in Typographical Temple.

Interesting developments are expected in regard to an increase in salary for the women. The bureau question was discussed at considerable length. A resolution to endorse The Washington Herald for its work in behalf of labor unions was unanimously passed, and referred to the executive committee.

ADVERTISING TALKS.

WRITTEN BY WILLIAM C. FREEMAN.

An advertising booklet was dropped on my desk recently. I cannot recall now from whence it came, for I would like to give due credit to its author for the following gem which I clipped from its pages:

"No—advertising is NOT a game—

"Nor is it A GAMBLE.

"It is the powerful essence of selling, which, when handled in a practical, SANE manner, creates MORE BUSINESS, lowers SELLING COST, eliminates the time-wasting introductory work of your salesmen.

"Shorn of the mystery that many attempt to put about it, advertising, without waste and extravagant theories, is your greatest trade builder.

"FORGET the idea that it takes big money to advertise.

"SWEEP ASIDE the awesome veil that makes a valuable trade builder seem a mystery.

"INVESTIGATE advertising as you would investigate the claims of a big salesman covering the wide world as his territory.

"Then you'll be starting on the right track.

"You'll see that judicious advertising is PRACTICAL AND PROFITABLE."

That is sound doctrine.

And let me add to the above the following from Mr. JOHN WANAMAKER:

"If there is one enterprise on earth that a 'quitter' should leave severely alone, it is advertising.

To make a success of advertising, one must be prepared to STICK like a barnacle on a boat's bottom.

"ADVERTISING DOES NOT JERK; IT PULLS. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power."

What's the use of people talking foolishly about advertising?

IT ALWAYS PAYS WHEN IT IS DONE RIGHT.

Why should not every man who has something to sell advertise?

And don't forget that advertising creates a market for brains as well as for things to eat and to wear.

Professional men will advertise some day—just as successful MERCHANTS do to-day.

NEWS OF ALEXANDRIA

Harrington Returns from York with Wife.

HUSBAND PAID FINE THERE

One of the Three Women Who Figured in Sensational Elopement, Mrs. Powers, Remains in Jail in Pennsylvania Town—Colored Men Sentenced to One Year Each.

A. S. DONIPHAN, News Agent. KING AND COLUMBUS STS. Alexandria, Va. The Washington Herald delivered to any address in Alexandria at the following rates: Daily and Sunday, 40c per mo. Daily only, 25c per mo.

Alexandria, Va., April 10.—Mrs. F. Harrington, wife of Samuel Harrington, of this city, one of the six who eloped last week to York, Pa., returned here this morning accompanied by her husband. Mr. Harrington went to York last night and paid the wife's fine. According to reports, Mrs. William Powers, sister of Mrs. Harrington, is still held by the York authorities in default of her fine. She is the only woman of the trio still in custody. It is also reported that the three men who eloped with the women also are still held in default of their fines.

Mr. Harrington, under his own signature, had the following statement published in an afternoon Alexandria paper to-day concerning the affair:

"I went to York, Pa., yesterday, and from the recommendations from the officials at York, I feel that I was justified in taking the step I did. I am proud, indeed, to have my wife back home with me. The papers in their statements of the affair did not give the absolute facts, and I am in a position to furnish positive proof of my assertions. There was no trip to Norfolk, and my wife did not have any companion on route, as stated. She had worried over the trouble of her sister, and was persuaded by the trio to accompany them to York, but she regretted her action that same night, and wanted to send for me at once, but was prohibited. We are going to live Christian lives and expect to put our trust alone in Jesus. He will all our sorrows share, and we hope in time to regain our friendship. Pray for us fraternally yours, S. HARRINGTON."

One year each in the penitentiary was the sentence pronounced on three colored men in the Corporation Court this afternoon. They entered pleas of guilty. The men are Theodore Jones, alias Bamby, breaking and entering a storehouse and committing larceny therein; Walter Steward, breaking and entering a dwelling house and committing larceny therein; and John Wilson, petit larceny, third offense.

Jesse Turner, who was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by the Alexandria County authorities at the instance of W. P. Husted, charging him with disposing of a wagon and harness, was arraigned this morning before Justice I. C. Burrell, of Alexandria County, and released upon promising to restore the wagon and paying the costs. Turner was given thirty days in which to make restitution.

Nora Green, colored, with one arm, was fined $5 in the Police Court this morning on a charge of selling liquor on Sunday. Two pint bottles, partially filled with gin, were the evidence against the woman.

William B. Cora's funeral took place at 10 o'clock this morning from St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Services were conducted by Rev. P. P. Phillips, rector, and burial was in St. Paul's Cemetery. Those serving as pallbearers were W. J. Boothe, G. L. Booth, Love Turner, Christian M. Kinney, W. B. Smoot, and Douglas Stuart.

Arrangements were completed this evening by the Alexandria Shriners, identified with Aca Temple, for the initiation of a large class of candidates Wednesday evening. The initiation will be followed by a banquet at Armory Hall.

IRENE LITTLE HURT BY STAY ON SAND

Divers to Examine Her Hull; Captain's Status in Doubt.

New York, April 10.—The North German Lloyd liner Princess Irene was towed to her dock in Hoboken shortly before 10 o'clock this morning uninjured by her eighty hours' stay off the Lone Hill Life-Saving Station, except for a broken rudder post. To-morrow divers will examine the plates and hull, and either to-morrow or Thursday she will be taken to the Newport News dry dock.

On the way up the harbor from the lightship, Capt. Letten-Petersen stood on the bridge, but the command of the liner was in the hands of Capt. Kummick, assistant superintendent of the North German Lloyd Company, who spent the afternoon in conference with the local officials of the line at the Broadway office. Capt. Letten-Petersen retired to his stateroom soon after noon for rest. The chief officer declared that the skipper had not slept a wink for four days and nights.

When the Irene was sighted in tow of the tug, all the craft in the harbor saluted by blowing their whistles, and as soon as she reached the pier a troop of husky workmen came ashore and the longshoremen started in to lift out the remaining cargo.

Capt. Letten-Petersen tried in vain to be jovial, he attempted to crack a joke by saying that his hair had not changed color, but as he left the pier, he said, in a tone of deep regret: "I have done my duty as best I could."

His report is in the hands of the steamship company and whether he will go back to Bremen as a passenger on some other vessel or take the Princess Irene across again has not yet been decided. In spite of the fact that his ship has not been badly damaged and that no injury was sustained by any passenger, it is not believed that he will retain his command of the Irene or that he will be bringing a vessel to this port for the North German Lloyd Company for some time.

Berlin, April 10.—An official of the North German Lloyd Line this afternoon said that Capt. von Letten-Petersen, of the steamship Princess Irene, which went aground on a sandbar off Fire Island, N. Y., Thursday, and was refloated Sunday, will be tried by a special marine tribunal upon his arrival. The company's attitude toward Capt. Petersen will depend upon this tribunal's verdict.

Capt. Petersen has been with the Lloyd line many years and has a fine record. It is believed that leniency will be shown him by the tribunal.

RINGLINGS ARE COMING.

Two-day Engagement to Start with Long Parade.

The Ringling Bros.' circus will come to Washington from Cumberland in eighty-five double-length railroad cars. The date of the exhibition is Monday and Tuesday, May 1 and 2. The show grounds will be at Fifteenth and H streets northwest.

This season the Ringlings present more exclusive European features than have ever before been gathered together by any circus. It is the first appearance in this country of the flying Greig family, the Bonessett troupe, Fellis' African horse circus, the Clark brothers, Alfred Loyd and his wonderful double somersaulting equestrian dog, Emory's troupe of performing baby elephants, the Deino family, the Cottrell-Powell company of Italian riders, the great Harris family, the Alex family, and the Zaldereilo company of Italian acrobats.

The engagement will be introduced with a street parade more than three miles in length. The cages and art vans employed in this feature are from the show's foreign workshops, at Stoke-on-Trent, England.

The big circus is now playing a three weeks' engagement in Chicago.

Democrats Decline to Abolish About Twenty-five Clerkships.

The Democrats of the House of Representatives, although economy is their watchword and retrenchment their guiding star, yesterday declined to abolish twenty-five committee clerkships and assistant clerkships of the House without investigation, merely on the plea of one of their number that the positions were useless and the incumbents never did any work.

Representative Frank Clark, of Georgia, who wants the Government Insane Asylum across the river investigated, and who is not on the best terms with the leaders of his party in the House, offered the resolution providing for the abolition of the jobs in question soon after the body met yesterday. He claimed the resolution was privileged.

Representative Underwood, the majority floor leader, insisted it wasn't. Speaker Clark took Mr. Underwood's view, and sustained a point of order against the resolution, referring it to the Committee on Accounts for consideration.

The Republicans seemed to enjoy the set-to between the two Democrats.
