New Patterns in Open-stock Dinnerware.

THE greatest number of new patterns we ever displayed are now shown in Open-stock Dinnerware from European and American makers. The well-known quality always associated with Woodward & Lothrop wares is very evident in these selections.

We invite especial attention to a pattern just received in a very dainty pink floral decoration, gold traced from one of the leading German China factories. Very attractive design, moderately priced.

"Anco" Pottery—

An Imitation of Old Ivory.

This very odd and unique ware is of great decorative value, closely resembling in appearance the richness and beauty of old ivory. The effectiveness of this pottery when used in a room fitted in mission or weathered oak, or in dark furniture of any kind of simple design, is really remarkable when consideration is given its inexpensiveness.

Now that cold weather makes it necessary for plants to be brought indoors, many will discover needs for Jardinières that they had not anticipated. We have provided well for this occasion, however, and the attractiveness of our widely varied lines will escape no woman's attention.
