CALLS WASTE OF GAS A DISGRACE

Dr. Holmes Declares Country Has Outgrown Constitution and Document Will Be Changed.

Addressing the members of the National Academy of Science yesterday afternoon on the subject of the national phases of the mining industry, Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, Director of the United States Bureau of Mines, made the statement that the United States has long since surpassed the most sanguine hopes and anticipations of the framers of the Constitution, and that the Constitution will in the future be interpreted and changed to meet our national and international relations.

The director illustrated the need of greater safety and efficiency in the mining industry, and called attention to the fact that within the last ten years more than 20,000 men have been killed, and more than 60,000 injured in the mining and quarrying operations of this country. He said during the past year 260,000,000 tons of coal had been left underground in such condition as to make it practically unrecoverable.

Referring to the Sherman anti-trust law, Dr. Holmes said: "A general law now upon the statute books, by preventing practical co-operation among the coal operators of the country, has developed and exhausted the resources of the nation, and is to-day in a measure responsible for the present dire straits of coal and loss of life in our coal mining industry."

"WORD" CONTEST IS GREAT SUCCESS

Hundreds Take Advantage of Opportunity to Witness First Game at Expense of Merchants.

Thousands of eager Washington Herald readers took early advantage of the offer of fifteen of Washington's leading merchants to give two grand stand seats to the opening game at the local grounds to-day to those readers of the Herald who were so enterprising as to be the first to leave at the place of business of the respective merchants the advertisements which appeared on the "Fans' Own Page" in yesterday's Herald with the correct missing word supplied.

That the offer was cordially received and the challenge met with the true American spirit of "getting there first" was evidenced by the large number of replies each of the fifteen advertisers received, and the haste each participant showed to "get there first."
