RED CROSS WILL RE-OPEN MISSION IN NAVAL BATTLE

Surgeon General Stokes Pictures Ocean Engagements of Future.

LOSS OF LIFE GREAT Foreign Delegates Report on Work at Morning Session of Conference—Recommendations.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME.

10:30 a. m. Statement relative to the rights and privileges of scientists of the Red Cross in general, by Serbian Red Cross Society.

2 p. m. Functions of Red Cross in civil war or when state of insurrection exists, by Joshua R. Clark, Jr., Solicitor Department of State.

Measures for communicating quickly to belligerents the intentions of the Red Cross to send sanitary missions upon battlefields, by International Committee of the Red Cross.

That the Red Cross will attain its highest mission in the great sea battle of the future—a battle in which mighty fleets will be annihilated and a veritable host will be touched by the hand of death...

It may safely be assumed there is a general tendency toward concentration of sea between single vessels or small units and becoming respectively infrequent and of lessening importance.

Painful Battle Pictures. "It is quite conceivable the next great naval battle will involve from 100 to 150 capital ships, and the difficulties presented in the immediate care of the wounded during battle and their prompt evacuation and subsequent treatment are stupendous.

The Surgeon General suggested that a number of individual combats at sea between single vessels or small units are becoming respectively infrequent and of lessening importance.

Medical Department Inadequate. Gen. Torney said in part: "Even in times of peace the personnel of the medical department of the United States Army has never been adequate for the needs of the service; therefore, it will become imperatively necessary for the War Department to accept the voluntary assistance offered by patriotic soldiers for the care of the sick and wounded of the military establishment in time of war."

Foreign Delegates Report. Surgeon General Stokes, who is attending the conference as the representative of the Austro-Hungarian Minister of War, told the delegates how the Red Cross movement is conducted there. Military precision and careful training seem to be the keynote of first aid in that country.

Number of reports of foreign delegates were read which showed what steps European governments are taking to prevent the abuse of the insignia and name of the Red Cross. These reports were read by representatives of the governments of Switzerland, Austria-Hungary, Norway and Greece. Reports from Cuba and Argentina were also read. The reports of the American Red Cross were presented by Maj. Gen. George W. Davis, U. S. A., retired.

Gen. Davis touched upon the fight made by the society to prevent the insignia being used as a trade mark or in connection with advertising.

Dr. St. Albans' address was on the progress of Red Cross work in Switzerland. He asked that a blackboard might be furnished to order that he might make chalk diagrams. No blackboard could be found in the building, but Miss Mahan, Red Cross secretary, in the room, sending a friend in an automobile to secure the loan for the requisite board. One was finally found, Dr. St. Albans brought into the hall before Dr. St. Albans finished his remarks.

C. OF C. TO ALTER MEMBERSHIP RULE To Consider Constitutional Amendment Allowing Retail Association Additional Privileges.

An amendment to the constitution of the Chamber of Commerce which will permit the election as members to the Retail Merchants' Association business men who are not members of the Chamber will be considered at the regular monthly meeting to be held next Tuesday night.

Under the present provisions of the constitution of the Chamber of Commerce no member can be elected to the merchants' association unless he is a member of the former organization. The constitution provides that, with the consent of the board of directors, any number of members, not less than ten, who may desire to associate themselves together as a board, association, or committee, for the purpose of promoting more effectively the special trade or industry in which they are interested, may form such committee or association.

It was under the provisions of this section of the constitution that a number of merchants formed the Retail Merchants' Association. If the proposed amendment is adopted the constitution will then provide that such committee or association "may elect in and associate with them, as members of such board, association, or committee, any number of other persons, firms, or corporations, not members of the Chamber of Commerce, but not exceeding the number of those who are members of the Chamber."

Pursuant to the provisions of a resolution adopted at the last monthly meeting of the Chamber, a copy of a resolution urging the business men of Washington to give local printers an opportunity to bid on their printing has been forwarded to every member of the Chamber, along with the notice of the May meeting.

Police Believe Miss Myrtle Lissen Ran Away with the Circus. BALTIMORE IS NOTIFIED

Missing from her home since Monday last, pretty Miss Myrtle Lissen, fifteen years old, a freshman at Business High School, member of the basketball team, and one of the most attractive and popular students in her class, has created a sensation at the school, provoked her foster parents, and furnished the police with a baffling mystery by her sudden disappearance.

It was not until last night that her father by adoption, David G. Mount, the well-known contractor, whose residence is at 221 Warder Street Northwest, after searching two days in vain, appealed to the police to find her.

Detectives detailed to the case as soon as it was reported at police headquarters stated after a preliminary investigation that they believe Miss Lissen has been induced to join the circus which was shown in Washington this week, and it is probable that the Baltimore police will be requested this morning to search the show grounds for the girl.

Devoted to Girl. Her voice tremulous with emotion, Mr. Mount last night related how he and his wife have devoted years of their life to the girl and are now grief-stricken by her disappearance. "I have not the slightest idea where Myrtle has gone," said Mr. Mount. "The case has presented to me nothing but a wall of mystery. I made every effort to find her before I appealed to the police, and it was only in desperation that I forced myself to call upon them for aid."

Miss Lissen was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Mount when three years old. Her parents are said to live at Capitol Heights, Md. The pretty girl, with her attractiveness, was loved by Mr. and Mrs. Mount, and she was a devoted daughter. When the girl entered high school, at the beginning of the term which soon closed, she at once gained a large circle of friends, and was considered one of the most popular of freshmen.

According to her foster parents, Miss Lissen had many friends among the boys, but never had a "sweetheart." Mrs. Mount said: "Myrtle was too young to have a beau. I am sure she is not engaged, and I cannot imagine that she has eloped. From a school friend with whom she talked on Monday, the last day she attended school, I have learned that Myrtle made inquiries about Denver. It is possible she has gone to Colorado, but for what reason I cannot say."

Some harm must have befallen the child. She was always sweet, obedient, and lovable, and her unexplained absence has driven me almost to distraction. If the Washington Herald can aid us in locating Myrtle it will have my everlasting thanks."

Saw Girl Tuesday. According to Mrs. Mount, a boy student at Business, the son of one of the teachers, who lives at Takoma, saw Miss Lissen at Ninth and G Streets Northwest on Tuesday. Where the girl went after she was seen by the boy has not been learned, but the information seemed to cheer Mrs. Mount, who appeared to be glad to learn that Miss Lissen is still alive.

The girl left her home for school on Monday morning, wearing a blue and white broad brim, yellow picture hat with a sweeping black feather, and low tan shoes with brass buckles. The costume was very becoming to the girl, who has blue hair, blue eyes and what is called a "cream and peach" complexion. Miss Lissen weighs a little more than 125 pounds and is five feet five inches tall.

When Mr. Mount reported the girl's disappearance at the Tenth Precinct Station he requested the police to watch moving picture theaters to learn if the girl had been seen there, and to employ a representative in one of the show houses. Recently Miss Lissen has manifested much interest in moving pictures, and her father believes that if she had left home intentionally she may have sought employment among the amusement managers.

Full and proper ventilation is a preventive of tuberculosis, it is urged by the District Health Department in its weekly bulletin, made public yesterday afternoon. During the past week sixteen deaths in the District were due to pulmonary tuberculosis.

"Tuberculosis is due to a germ, and is communicable," reads the health bulletin. "Close, stuffy rooms, either at home, or at places of business, little or no ventilation, and associated with these conditions a case or so of consumption form an excellent combination for increasing the victims of this disease. Certain trades, especially those accompanied by the production of dust, are particularly dangerous. Stone masons, cigar makers, glass cutters, and workers in metals are especially susceptible. It is advisable to have full and proper ventilation, with an abundance of fresh, pure air at all times."

Fourteen deaths during the week were caused by tuberculosis of the kidneys. Pneumonia and diseases of the heart each claimed ten victims. The total number of deaths was 112. This number is somewhat lower than the record for the corresponding week last year, which shows a total of 118. The general death rate during the week was 18.5, which is somewhat below the average for the general population.

Whooping cough cases increased from 228 to 274, and measles cases advanced from 144 to 211. Among the food stuffs condemned by inspectors were 165 pounds of fat, 16 pounds of raw eggs, 15 pounds of pork, and 11 crates of eggplants.

VETERANS GIVE DANCE. Richard J. Harden Camp Entertains Families of Comrades. The annual musical and dance given last evening by Richard J. Harden Camp, No. 2, United Spanish War Veterans, at Eagles' Hall to the wives, sisters and daughters of the comrades was a notable success.

Over 200 were present to enjoy a program consisting of recitations and music, the trio from Trinity Church of Georgetown contributing several selections. The committee in charge of the entertainment was composed of Alexander C. McKelvey, chairman; Benjamin L. Tubman, William Henderson, William Dowling, Frank May, Commander H. B. Coulter, and C. E. Moninger.

CLUBWOMEN JOIN CAMPAIGN FOR MEMORIAL FUND

Contributions from All Sections of Country Being Received at Local Headquarters. Thousands of prominent women are responding to the appeal for funds for the erection of a monument to the victims of the Titanic disaster. Contributions from women in all parts of the country are being received by thousands at the headquarters of the fund in the Union Trust Building. "Woman's Tribute to Heroic Mankind" promises to be a startling success.

Among the well-known women who sent in subscriptions yesterday was Mrs. Marshall Field. Mrs. Field also indicated her desire to serve on the committee of the fund in charge of the fund.

Women's clubs are taking an especial interest in the memorial, and in many cities canvassing campaigns are being carried on among women's clubs. The Woman's Titanic Memorial has struck a responsive chord all over the country.

Announcement was made yesterday at the headquarters that so far no public entertainment has been authorized for the purpose of raising funds for the memorial.

Many offers have been made to the Woman's Titanic Memorial by professional entertainers and others to give their aid through public entertainments. On account of the pressure under which the Memorial Headquarters is working at present, it was decided to refuse all such offers for the time being, at least.

Between Are Large. The returns from the less than thousands of letters being sent out daily to the women of the country are coming in to the Memorial Headquarters in great numbers every day. The formal invitations to the thousands of women's clubs, labor unions, literary societies and similar organizations to support the Woman's Titanic Memorial project in their associations are being responded to, and in several instances collective contributions have been received. An example of the commendable response of this kind which has been received is that from Mrs. Thomas J. Smith, President of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, Frankfort, Ky. Mrs. Smith writes: "It will give me much pleasure to present the matter of the memorial arch to the convention of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, meeting at Mammoth Cave May 28-31, 1912."

Among the acceptances received yesterday for service on the Committee of One Hundred were those from Miss Marion Talbot, Secretary of Women's Clubs in the University of Chicago, and Miss W. C. Law, formerly President of the National Society of New England Women. Miss Law is now a resident of New York City. Miss Talbot is the first of several college women invited to accept membership on the committee.

A contribution has been received from Mrs. Marshall Field, of Chicago, with the request that it be credited to women inmates of a charitable institution of that city.

Among the interesting letters received to-day were those: Mrs. Simon writes: "Mrs. Abram Simon, wife of Rabbi Simon, 'Although I have not been solicited, yet the general appeal which has gone forth to memorialize a noble manhood has struck a responsive chord, and I want to add my little tribute to help bring into fruition the ideal now in the making. I sincerely congratulate the women who are fostering this movement, and hope the movement will soon be a living inspiration to an heroic manhood and a sweet increase to an exalted womanhood.'"

Mr. Isaac P. Minder, Savannah, Ga.: "I enclose you will find my contribution to this noble work. I have had your letter of appeal published in both the daily papers of my city, and have already had a few responses."

Lillian M. N. Stevens, of Portland, Me., president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, from the headquarters at the Willard Hotel, Octagon, Evanston, Ill.: "I have read with deep interest of the proposed memorial concerning which you write, and I am very glad to be counted among the subscribers."

VISITS NORTHWEST DEMOCRATS. Speaker Champ Clark Shakes Hands with Club Members. Speaker Champ Clark dropped in at a meeting of the Northwest Democratic Club last night in Lewis Hall, 205 Fourteenth Street, and as usual had a pleasant word and a cordial handshake for the members present.

On account of the severe storm only a few of the dried in the wool braved the weather, but they had an enjoyable session.

See Brewery for $10,000 Damages. The Christian Heurich Brewing Company is named defendant in a suit filed yesterday by Christopher J. Costelov for $10,000 damages. Plaintiff alleges that July 23 last, he fell into a "dip" at the defendant's bar plant and received serious and permanent injuries.
