SILK-LIKE 50c Shirts and Drawers

Mercer—the name of the man who has done next to transform the baser metals into gold—Mercer has made cotton to look and feel like silk. Exemplified in this "Mercerized" Athletic Underwear for men. It's really of white madras, but it seems silk. While costing only 50c per garment, the wear is superior to that of plaited silk, or that spun from short ends.

ACCORDION HALF HOSE, 35c

The accordion, the musical instrument, expands and contracts. So with these half hose, and thus two colors, such as black and blue, are made possible. The effect is new and attractive. Note that 50c is the standard price for the pure thread silk half hose, and that they are here at 35c.

LEATHER BELTS ONLY 25c

All sizes in black, tans, and grays. A little price—25c—for so good a belt.

BRITISH AVIATOR MARRIES AMERICAN

Guests at Marriage of Claude Grahame-White and Miss Dorothy Taylor Come in Aerob.

London, June 27.—A romance of the air resulted to-day in the marriage of Miss Dorothy Taylor, of New York, to Claude Grahame-White, the famous English aviator who won the international trophy for England in 1910, at Wilford Church in Chelmsford, Essex. Mr. Grahame-White had planned to fly from London to Chelmsford with his fiancée, but bad weather prevented so they had to make the trip by automobile. However, a number of fellow-aviator guests, few to the church to-day. At frequent intervals the whir of motors was heard as an aeroplane came to earth in the churchyard before the quaint and ancient little village.

Montague Grahame-White, brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Mary Rovee was the bride's maid. After the ceremony the couple left on their honeymoon. They will make a long yacht cruise.

Miss Taylor, who is the daughter of Mrs. Leroy Taylor, of New York, had read of Grahame-White's exploits in the air long before she met him. When they were introduced on the steamship Olympic last December a wish which Miss Taylor had long secretly cherished in her heart was fulfilled. It was a mutual case of love at first sight.

MRS. ASTOR, MRS. THAYER, AND MRS. WIDENER FORM A "LOVING TRINITY"

New York, June 27.—Drawn together by their common grief in the loss of their husbands in the Titanic disaster, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. George D. Widener, and Mrs. John B. Thayer have just sealed a lifelong compact of love and friendship. Although she has lived secluded from practically all of her New York intimates and society friends since the disaster, and subsequent funeral of Col. Astor, his young widow has given up an entire week for a visit with Mrs. Thayer and Mrs. Widener at their homes in Philadelphia, having returned this week to her Fifth Avenue home. Mrs. Astor has just revealed the facts of the "loving trinity" to her intimate friends.

As if to disprove the report concerning a break in her health, due to her expectant condition, Mrs. Astor drove up and down Fifth Avenue this afternoon in an open automobile with her mother. Her condition is the cause of much concern to her friends.

Rapidly recovering from the attack of acute indigestion which forced him to go to Providence Hospital several days ago, Representative James L. Post is expected to leave the institution early next week. His condition is not serious.

ON FIFTH AVENUE IN TROUSERETTES

Porto Rican Joan of Arc Arrives to Arouse New York Women.

New York, June 27.—Louisa Capetillo, a young writer belonging to one of the most prominent families in Porto Rico, and called by many of the progressive women of the island the "Porto Rican Jeanne d'Arc," arrived in this city last week with the avowed declaration that she was going to awaken New York to a real sense of freedom in politics, dress, and matrimony.

To-day she appeared on Fifth Avenue in a trouserette costume of the sensational sort guaranteed to stop traffic on any thoroughfare, and which she is trying to have the local suffragettes adopt as their symbol of emancipation. It consists of a dainty lace and linen coat, full length, thrown carelessly over striking bloomers, which reach from an inch or two above the ankle to the waist.

When Miss Capetillo left her new residence, at 75 Lexington Avenue this morning, the coat was allowed to fly with the winds. At Fifty-second Street the crash of carriages, taxis, and limousines became so bad that a policeman had to ask her to pin down the front of her coat, as far as her knees at least, or else he would have to call another sort of conveyance and put the matter of progressive feminine styles up to higher authorities. So Miss Capetillo pinned it down.
