

Men Welcome Mother's Friend

A Duty that Every Man Owe to Those who Perpetuate the Race.

It is just as important that men should know of progressive methods in advance of motherhood. The suffering incident to child-bearing can be easily avoided by having at hand a bottle of Mother's Friend.

This is a penetrating, external application that relieves all tension upon the muscles and enables them to expand without painful strain upon the ligaments.

"LOBBY" PROBE STARTS MONDAY

Senate Committee Soon to Be Ready to Hear Charges of President.

EARLY REPORT EXPECTED

Interest is Taken at the Capitol in the Rumor that Mr. Wilson May Try.

The investigation ordered Thursday by the Senate into the charge by President Wilson that a lobby, "numerous, industrious, and insidious," is busily at work at the Capitol trying to bring about passage of the Underwood tariff bill.

Senator Overman of North Carolina, who is acting chairman of the Judiciary Committee in the absence of Senator Culliver, who is ill, yesterday called a meeting of the committee for this morning at 10:30 o'clock, at which plans will be made for the investigation.

These interrogatories, it is expected, will be prepared with a view of eliciting information whether Senators have been approached by any lobbyists and whether representations have been made to Senators with a view of influencing their action on the bill.

There is no disposition to have President Wilson appear before the committee. If he appears, it will be voluntary, of course, and there was unusual interest at the Capitol yesterday in the prospect that he may come before the committee at the very beginning of the hearing and supply information and names that will cause the investigation to take on an interesting aspect from the start.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa has a bill on the subject which excludes from such registration former Senators and former Representatives in Congress. Some of President Wilson's close advisers in the Senate expect him to make some recommendation on the subject to Congress.

FAVOR BRYAN'S PLAN FOR PEACE

INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION, THE CONTRACTING PARTIES AGREEING NOT TO DECLARE WAR OR BEGIN HOSTILITIES UNTIL EACH INVESTIGATION IS MADE AND REPORT SUBMITTED.

Eight nations have up to this time responded favorably, some indicating the principle and others that they have accepted the principle in regard to the details, others replying that the proposition is received sympathetically and expressing a willingness to consider details.

The Bryan peace plan as it is now proposed does not contemplate the voluntary imposition of a limitation upon increasing armament. The plan as originally outlined proposed not only such a limitation by the contracting parties during the investigation of the controversy, but also contemplated an agreement that there should be no strategic disposal of armed forces by either nation during the progress of the inquiry into the facts.

It was decided that such a provision might be similar in case one of the parties to the proposed agreement was involved in a dispute with a third nation. Mr. Bryan, however, has said that the United States is ready to negotiate a treaty with any other nation which shall contain the provision temporarily limiting armament.

Mr. Bryan concluded his announcement of developments in his peace negotiations characteristically in the following way: "I have recently discovered," said Mr. Bryan, "that the signature of a treaty requires the Secretary of State to have a personal seal. All previous Secretaries of State have made use of some such device, and for my purpose I have an ancient Macedonian coin of the era of Alexander the Great. The reverse side of the coin bears the figure of a man holding his hands aloft with a bird alighting upon it. The presumption is that it is a falcon, but I have taken the liberty of assuming that it is the 'guy' of peace, of which the newspapers and the cartoonist have had so much to say of late."

PAGANT COMMITTEE SECURES CHILDREN

Fourth of July Procession Will Have in Line 750 Girls in Greek Costumes.

Circulars of invitation, addressed to the principal and teachers of each public school, and to the heads of the Catholic parishes, these circulars accompanied by a package of pledge slips sufficient to supply every pupil, are being distributed from Independence Day headquarters by the pagant committee in order to secure the names of all children and young people in the schools who will march in the procession on the Fourth of July.

The 750 girls in this group will wear Greek gowns, 20 of them in red with white wreaths in their hair, 20 in white with red wreaths in their hair, and 20 in blue with coronets bearing a single gold star.

The 750 boys will be costumed alike, in white duck trousers, soft white shirts, with collars, white neckties, but soft, and with a soft red or blue neck scarf and sash to correspond. Their hats will be red, white, and blue, of cockade design.

H. H. HILTON CAPTURES BRITISH GOLF TOURNEY

Royal Liverpool Club Player Wins the English Amateur Championship.

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 30.—Hector H. Hilton, of the Royal Liverpool Golf Club, today won the English amateur golf championship, defeating Robert Harris, of Scotland, six up and five to play over the thirty-six hole course. This is the first time in twelve years that a player representing Scotland has contested with a Scotchman in the final round.

The interest in the tournament was materially lessened yesterday when W. Heinrich Schmidt, of Worcester, Massachusetts, was defeated by Hilton by one stroke at the nineteenth hole.

SISTERS HURT WHEN HORSE RUNS AWAY

Mrs. A. J. Clapp and Mrs. John Lloyd Thrown from Their Buggy.

Mrs. A. J. Clapp and Mrs. John Lloyd, both of 187 L Street, Northwest, figured in a thrilling runaway of a horse last evening at 3:30 o'clock at Eighteenth Street and Massachusetts Avenue Northwest. Both women were thrown from the buggy in which they were riding. Mrs. Clapp received a fracture of her left wrist, and Mrs. Lloyd a number of painful bruises about the hands and legs. A broken trace caused the runaway.

Both women were sent to the Emergency Hospital. Dr. John E. Walsh, of 202 East Capitol Street, the family physician, was called and sent the broken horse to Mrs. Clapp's arm, and also dressed the bruises received by Mrs. Lloyd. The women are sisters.

SUFFRAGISTS TO MARCH IN BALTIMORE TODAY

Four Hundred from the Capital, Led by Miss Alice Paul, to Take Part.

Washington women will march for the "cause" again today. They will gather at Fifteenth Street and New York Avenue this afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock, more than 400 strong, and will leave for Baltimore at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Four electric cars will take the suffragists to Baltimore. In Baltimore, Miss Alice Paul, the leader of Washington suffragists, will lead the city's delegation in a carriage. Mrs. C. T. Owens is marshal of the Washington company. She has her women well drilled, and marching orders are already issued.

After the suffragists will hold a mass meeting in the Lyric Theater, Baltimore. Following the mass meeting Mrs. Hemmick's play, "Woman," will be given again by the same players who have taken the city by storm. For the mass meeting a box has been reserved for the Washington leaders. In it will be Miss Alice Paul, Miss Lucy Hanna, Mrs. C. T. TREATY AFFORDS NAVAL STATION

Base Off West Coast of Nicaragua Would Be Secured by Pending Treaty.

RATIFICATION IS LIKELY

Instrument Also Would Give United States Exclusive Right to Canal Construction.

The United States will secure a perpetual and exclusive franchise for the building of an interoceanic canal through Nicaragua, and several small islands on the Pacific coast.

This is insured through the decision just reached by the Wilson administration to support the treaty negotiated together with several small islands on the Pacific coast.

It was learned yesterday that Secretary Bryan has asked the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations to ratify the treaty, which would give the United States a perpetual and exclusive franchise for the building of an interoceanic canal through Nicaragua, and several small islands on the Pacific coast.

Through the ratification of this treaty the Nicaragua route will be forever closed to every nation except the United States. While there never has been a serious project of a European nation to revive the old Nicaragua canal plans and construct an interoceanic highway to compete with the Panama Canal, talk of this character has emanated from Europe off and on. These reports, while not taken seriously by officials in the United States, have had a bad effect in Central America. They have received considerable credence there and have been used as a basis for many schemes by which it was sought to advance the interests of some Central American revolutionary faction or state.

The Taft administration decided that the best way to prevent such a project from being carried out was to obtain the exclusive privilege. The belief is held by many that at some future time it may be found practicable and profitable to construct across Nicaragua a canal for fast draft vessels only.

The concession for naval bases in the Bay of Fonseca, on the West coast, is not of more immediate importance even than the exclusive grant for the canal right of way.

The Gulf of Fonseca is one of the few bodies of water on the West coast of the North American continent which affords ample and deep harbor facilities. It often has been called the "key" harbor or constellation of harbors on the West coast of the Western Hemisphere.

The waters of this gulf washed the shores of three Central American republics—Honduras, Nicaragua, and Salvador. The gulf is about fifty miles long and thirty wide, with a double entrance from the ocean on the west side. It is filled with a number of small islands of volcanic origin. From any point in this bay easy access may be had to the shores of any of the three republics.

Peace of naval bases on the Gulf of Fonseca is regarded as of vital importance to the naval interests of the United States. In view of the approaching opening of the Panama Canal, upon the completion of which the United States battleship fleet will spend about half of each year on the Pacific Coast. At present there is no place to which the fleet can repair and obtain fuel for maneuvers, target practice, or other exercises which affords anything like the proper facilities. In view of the expectation that the attention of the navy is to be more and more taken up with affairs in the neighborhood of the Panama Canal, the possession of an adequate naval station, with good anchorage, on the West coast of Latin-America is most desirable.

This naval base on the West coast will be the complement of the big naval station which the United States has in recent years established on the Atlantic coast. The United States battleship fleet will spend about half of each year on the Pacific Coast. At present there is no place to which the fleet can repair and obtain fuel for maneuvers, target practice, or other exercises which affords anything like the proper facilities. In view of the expectation that the attention of the navy is to be more and more taken up with affairs in the neighborhood of the Panama Canal, the possession of an adequate naval station, with good anchorage, on the West coast of Latin-America is most desirable.

Indications are that it will come from the committee about June 16.

SENATE MAY GET TARIFF BILL SOON

LEADERS ARE WORKING HARD

Extraordinary efforts will be put forward by the Democratic leaders in the Senate to report the tariff bill to the Senate not later than June 16. The plan contemplates the completion by the subcommittee of the majority of the Finance Committee of their work before the end of next week and allows a week or more for the consideration of the bill by the Democratic caucus and the full committee on Finance.

One of the subcommittees, presided over by Senator Stone of Missouri, and of which the other members are Senator James of Kentucky and Senator Thomas of Colorado, is hopeful of concluding its work by tonight. This committee was in session all day and made remarkable progress. It has the metal schedule, cartwheels, silk, and the free list. Senator Williams' subcommittee was in session all day considering the administrative features of the bill. Chairman Simmons divided his time between the two committees. The third subcommittee, presided over by Senator Johnson of Maine, had its work interrupted by the absence of the chairman, who went to Maine Friday night to attend the funeral of Representative Goodwin. This subcommittee has in charge the complicated chemical schedule, the cotton schedule, and other controverted matters, and will require probably all of next week to conclude its work. Senator Hoke Smith and Senator Hughes of New Jersey are the other members of this committee.

The impression is growing among Democratic Senators that most products and flour, which are now on the free list, will be restored to the dutiable list. It has been practically settled that the duties on the raw material and the finished product, in both cases, must be equalized, and the committee must choose between free listing live stock and grains, which are the farmers' products, or of restoring a compensatory duty on flour and meats, which it probably will accept the latter alternative.

Senator Gallinger, leader of the minority in the Senate, expressed the opinion yesterday that the tariff bill would not require too long in the Senate that has been popularly supposed. "I believe that after the bill has been debated for a month that there will be a disposition to allow it to pass," says the Senator, "for its provisions will be well understood by that time, and there will really be no legitimate excuse for holding Congress in session during the disagreeable summer months."

Residents of the Capital interested in the preservation of Belmont, the former home of the A. L. Barber family at Fourteenth and Belmont Streets Northwest, will meet at the New Willard at 10 o'clock this morning to consider plans for its purchase from its present owner, Harry Warman.

Use of the place as a park or playground, or as a home of children or retired school teachers is being advocated. It is probable that today's meeting will determine to what purpose the estate will be employed, if it can be acquired by the government or by some public organization.

Advocates of the acquisition of the property for its preservation and use for some public benefit said last night they expect to be able to "save Belmont."

Admiral Lowe is ill. Rear Admiral John Lowe, U. S. N., retired, suffered an attack of indigestion yesterday while walking near eighteenth and Calvert Streets Northwest. He was put aboard a street car and escorted to his home, 322 Woodley Place Northwest, by Policeman Foley, of the Tenth Precinct.

PRESIDENT SPENDS DAY IN MOTOR CAR

President, Mrs. Wilson and Party Drive to Baltimore and Back.

ARE NOT RECOGNIZED IN CAFE

President Wilson spent Memorial Day in one of the White House automobiles. Accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, Miss Eleanor Wilson, Mrs. Helen Bones, and young Fitzwilliam MacMasters, two White House guests, and Jack Wheeler, acting chief of the secret service men, accredited to the President, Mr. Wilson left Washington at 8 o'clock for a slow drive to Baltimore.

Slipping into the Monumental City unannounced, the Presidential party could not find a vacant table in the Dutch Tea Room, in North Charles Street, when they attempted to stop for luncheon, so they went to the Hotel Rennett and enjoyed a Maryland dinner.

Returning to Washington late in the afternoon, the President's party ran into a shower, which necessitated that a halt be made to put up the storm curtains of the automobile. It was stated at the White House last night that no one was wetted by the rain.

The length of time which the party consumed in driving the comparatively short distance to Baltimore was pointed out here as characteristic of the slow pace which White House automobiles have maintained since Mr. Wilson's inauguration as compared to that at which President Taft drove through Rock Creek Park and the country near Washington in the previous administration. Mr. Wilson likes to drive about twenty miles an hour or often less when the country through which he is passing is attractive. Mr. Taft nearly always wanted to maintain a pace of over thirty miles.
