NOVEL SLIPPERS FOR THE SUMMER

Chief Ornamentation Buckles of Rhinestones, Jet, Cut Steel, and Enamels.

The woman of fashion is paying more and more attention to the details of her toilet, and with the summer months are shown a bewildering display of footwear. The slippers, especially, are becoming more ornate and varied, and during the past seasons their chief ornamentation has been displayed in elaborate buckles of rhinestones, jet, cut steel, and enamel.

Now in the dance, or when the foot is displayed, flashes of color or a dazzling sparkle is emitted, which adds to the brilliancy of the costume. And the jewelry most harmonious as well as the color of the slippers themselves, and a gown that hints of golden hues has slippers made of cloth of gold with buckles and heels of gold lacquer, encrusted with topaz. If the gown is blue, a buckle, developed of a single sapphire, surrounded by rhinestones, carries out the color scheme, and a slender row of amethysts runs between two of rhinestones is the proper complement to accentuate a green motif. Jet and rhinestones also are a popular combination to be worn with black gowns.

Real Necessity. It is a real necessity that all jeweled settings upon footwear should be of good workmanship, because any bit of metal that is not perfectly flat and smooth endangers the material of the skirt and may be the means of pulling and destroying the fabric. So for this purpose the stones are cut instead of held in place by prongs, and the edges are all well finished.

Jeweled heels are treated in different ways, and, therefore, vary a good deal in price. The most expensive ones that were first shown were carried out in real jewels. The artisan created dainty traceries in silver or platinum, and set small diamonds, and this completed design was then fastened in place of the slipper heel.

Amber is at the top notch of popularity. This is significant, in view of the fact that champagne is the popular spring color in Paris for gowns, hats, and shoes. Amber is so well thought of in this country.

In point of fact, however, amber has been slowly, but surely, winning public favor for a year or more. Starting with mere spark, this favor gradually increased to a flame, then became a blaze, and now bids fair to finally amount to a positive conflagration.

THE STORY OF PANAMA

"Learn One Thing Every Day"

No. 6. THE CULEBRA CUT

(Copyright, 1913, by The Associated Newspaper School, Inc.)

Culebra Cut might well be termed "The Grand Canyon of the Canal"; for as stupendous will it appear when completed and the water let in that the most vivid imagination can scarcely imagine it the work of man. For nearly a century it has been the dream of nations that some day man would succeed in tearing asunder the mountains forming the continental divide, allowing the waters of the Atlantic to flow across the isthmus and join the Pacific. The French, assured by De Lesseps of the possibility of uniting the two oceans by means of a canal across the Isthmus of Panama, began work in 1854. For a number of months his brave followers strove to lower the great mountains; but the result was a mere scratch upon the surface, compared with the immense canyon.

Every day a different human interest story will appear in The Herald. You can get a beautiful, up-to-date reproduction of the above picture, with five others, equally attractive, 7x10, inches in size, with this week's "Meator." In "The Meator" a well known authority covers the subject of the picture and stories of the week. Readers of The Herald and "The Meator" will know Art, Literature, Science, and Travel, and own exquisite pictures. On sale at The Washington Herald office. Price, 10 cents. outfit left by the French, our country replaced it with modern steam shovels and hundreds of dirt cars hauled by American locomotives. The great hills shrank and the jungles echoed the roar from the explosion of thousands of pounds of dynamite, used to tear away the face of the mountains to allow the shovels to nose their way through on their slow but sure journey to the Pacific. Since 1905, an army of workers, guided by the ingenuity of American engineers, has blown apart, shoveled up, and carried away 80,000,000 cubic yards of earth from Culebra Cut. Today the work is 90 per cent completed.

The best view of the cut is to be had from the top of the bank opposite the town of Culebra. More than half a mile across to the opposite bank, hundreds of feet below are the shovels, dirt trains, and hundreds of men at work. From this great height they look like tiny specks.

Through several yellow fever epidemics and constant tropical diseases and the intense scorching sun, the men on the job have labored steadily day after day to accomplish this wonderful work, until now it is practically finished. This excavation is so immense that any ship crossing the Atlantic Ocean today could easily be buried in it.

DANIELS AGAIN ADVENTIST HEAD

Elder Is Re-elected President of General Conference for Four Years.

OTHERS ALSO RE-NAMED People's Church of Northwest Washington Becomes Part of the Older Body.

Just before the adjournment of the afternoon business session of the conference of Seventh-day Adventists, at Takoma Park, the committee on nominations submitted a partial report covering the officers of president, secretary, and treasurer. Elder A. G. Daniels, of Takoma Park, who has been president of the general conference for twelve years, was re-elected for a term of four years. Elder W. A. Spicer, of Takoma Park, who has been secretary for the same period of time, was also re-elected, and Elder W. T. Knox, who has been treasurer for the general conference for two years, received a re-election for four years.

At a special business session of the North American division conference, which includes all of the United States and Canada, and was organized a few days ago, the committee on nominations submitted a partial report covering the officers of president and vice president. Elder W. A. Spicer, of Takoma Park, and more recently the vice president of the general conference for the Atlantic division, was elected vice president of the North American division conference, and Elder O. A. Olson, of Chicago, the secretary of the North American foreign division, was elected secretary of the North American division conference. The term of these two officers will be four years.

Independent Church Joins. The acceptance into fellowship of an independent church in Northwest Washington, the reports of missions and conferences in South America, and an address on "The Church and Legislation" were other features of the business sessions yesterday.

The regular order of the conference was dropped yesterday long enough to hear a letter read from the People's Church of Northwest Washington, asking to be received into the denomination. A few years ago the church decided to sever its connection with the District of Columbia Conference and had been conducting its work independently. Its pastor, Elder Lewis C. Sheaf, who presented the letter from his church, told the conference that reflection and experience had convinced the congregation that the severance of organic ties had been a mistake, and by an almost unanimous vote the congregation had made request to be received back into the denomination. After expressions of gratitude by numerous delegates for this church, on behalf of the church, the conference passed a vote of hearty welcome to the church, and referred its request to the District of Columbia Conference in formal action.

GALLINGER PROPOSES PROMPT EXAMINATION

New Hampshire Senator Would Have Births Reported Earlier to Secure Proper Eye Treatment.

A favorable report upon the bill of Senator Gallinger providing for better reporting of births in the District of Columbia has been sent to Congress by the Commissioners. The District heads believe that blindness among infants might be greatly reduced if the parents were required to report to the Health Office within twenty-four hours, as Senator Gallinger's bill would require. Under the present regulations, it is possible for a period of several days to elapse before the health department obtains knowledge of a birth. Prompt reports of all births will enable proper inspection of the condition of the baby's eyes, and diseases which are the common cause of blindness can be immediately treated and cured. Eleven days after birth, health authorities say, the damage is often so far gone as to be irremedial.

Mother of Pearl Cloak. A white net cloak has a pattern of mother-of-pearl beads gleaming with different prismatic hues, and mixed with the finest of convave gold paillettes. Part of the embroidery being worked on silk and part on chiffon. A bonnet of white moire and gaufrated frills of net and lace complete the scheme.

No Need Being Old or Wrinkled Before 75

Lillian Russell says any woman who has wrinkles before she is seventy is herself responsible for them. Sunshine and fresh air she considers more valuable as complexion preservers than nutriments and cosmetics. The chief objection to cosmetics is that at least they only temporarily cover up defects. There are certain true aids to Nature, which may be applied with directly opposite effect. Ordinary mercurized wax, for instance, actually removes a bad or old complexion, by gradually, almost imperceptibly, melting off the worn-out dead skin. Just one ounce, procurable at any drug store, will soon unveil an entirely new and natural complexion with an exquisite girlish color. Of course, cutaneous ailments, like pimples, freckles, fine lines, moles, patches, liver spots, etc., appear with the discarded skin. To prevent or remove wrinkles, a face bath which also produces similar results, is made by dissolving an ounce of powdered axolite in a half pint of water. This is immediately effective and gives no untoward after-effect.

15 INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Akron, Ohio, May 30.—Fifteen persons were badly injured and many slightly hurt when the Cleveland trolley line collided eight miles from here this morning, between Wyogo Lake and Pufferill Station. The cars were following each other closely. The trolley wire broke, stalling one car and allowing the other to crash into it and telescope it. Both cars were loaded with holiday travelers going to Cleveland for the ball games.

APPEAL TO PRESERVE OLD FORT STEVENS

W. V. Cox, in Memorial Day Address, Urges that Congress Buy Site.

EXERCISES AT THE CEMETERY

An urgent appeal for the preservation of Fort Stevens, scene of the defense of Washington against the attack of Gen. Jubal Early and his Confederate force, was made yesterday by W. V. Cox, in an address delivered at the Memorial Day exercises held at the Battleground Cemetery. He proposed the acquisition of Fort Stevens and the surrounding battle ground by Congressional action.

The history of Washington's peril from the Confederate armies under Gen. Early, of the successful defense and the final repulse of the besiegers, and of the part played by President Lincoln in the memorable battle and at Fort Stevens was recited by Mr. Cox.

The Confederate stronghold occupied by Gen. J. C. Breckinridge and his men has been saved by Congress, he said, which should save the Federal part of the battlefield up to and including Fort Stevens, where Lincoln, the successful candidate against Breckinridge, was in command. This ground should be acquired without delay and made a part of the Walter Reed Hospital grounds, humanely typifying a reunited country.

"Unless Fort Stevens, the Union stronghold, is saved within a limited time, the work will have to be done by others; it remains undone. It is our hope that Congress will complete the work begun by the citizens, and that the republic will not prove itself ungrateful to the memory of the commander-in-chief of the Union armies, Abraham Lincoln, and of the brave defenders of Washington in war time."

"If we care for history, let us for history's sake do our part to save the Federal part of the battlefield as a tribute to Lincoln and the American soldier, North and South."

George Francis Williams outlined the events of July 10 and 11 and dwelt upon the importance of the battle of Fort Stevens, in view of the great blow to the Federal cause which the loss of that battle would have been. He declared that the number killed and wounded on the Union side was 400 and on the Confederate side 800.

The singing of patriotic songs by pupils of the Brightwood, Brightwood Park, Takoma, and Potomac public schools was one of the distinctive features of the memorial exercises. The chorus was under the direction of John G. Keene. Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read by Harry Bunker, and the prayer was delivered by former Representative David H. Mercer of Nebraska. He paid a glowing tribute to the memory of those on both sides of the great conflict who sacrificed their lives on the battlefield.

A solo was sung by John Schrider, and Mr. Schrider, Vincent Long Anthony, and Mrs. Rose Vincent sang a quartet selection. The school children sang "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" and "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground." The entire assembly joined in singing "America" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee." The Rev. William V. Tudor, former pastor of the Mount Vernon Methodist Church, pronounced the benediction.

The exercises were closed with the firing of the school children over the graves of the dead soldiers and the playing of taps by the entire Soldiers' Home Band, under the direction of J. S. M. Zimmerman.

The exercises were conducted by Capt. Newton M. Brooks, past department commander G. A. R., and Louis P. Shoemaker. Capt. Brooks read the usual memorial day order of the G. A. R., directing the observance of the day. The introductory address was made by Mr. Shoemaker.

Net Petticoats Are the Accepted Ones for Summer

Net petticoats are made in tempting variety. They are most of them made without ruffles and are made at the bottom, with bands and insertions of lace and ribbon. Some of them are decorated with scalloped edges of wide plaited net, lace, and ribbon, and trimmed with cut-work and satin bows in every fashion and color. These are worn with undergarments of fine linen, lace, and silk, and are also worn with lingerie frocks.

Petticoats which bid fair to gain popularity are imported garments made of figured lawn of which the stiff and gauzy sprigged designs suggest the days when lavender dress in every garden and park. These are made with narrow ruffles, scalloped with cotton matching the color of the flowers in the lawn.

Lovely skirts are made of pure white net arranged over flesh pink chiffon. These waists are made with wide revers, turning back from a tucked waist and edged with knitted ribbed trim. A small sailor collar finishes the net. The waists are worn over pink satin under-pieces of a shade a little deeper than that of the chiffon.

A lovely parasol for the shade is made of natural color pongee lined with faded sage green silk. The light brown wood handle is decorated at the end with a white rose of enamel and sage green enamel leaves. A wrist band of sage green silk finishes the handle.

Angora card cases of the white handkerchief linen are made of galles and white lingerie calling frocks or with white serge, eponge, or other white coat suits. They are scalloped in fine scallops around the edge, which might have been marked off around half a good-sized pocket. They are decorated with conventional designs done in English eyelid work. A blue or pink silk foundation, made up over cardboard or crinoline or some other moderately stiff material, brings out all the beauty of the embroidery.

Some of the short coats or two-piece suits of cotton vivette, cotton eponge, stamine, and other thin cotton material are fastened at the waist with a single large glass button. These buttons are made with beveled edges and are ready

CORRECT COSTUME LINES.

Correct costume lines.

The straight silhouette with a slight inward curve at the hips is an ideal which can be attained by people whose shoulders are broad in proportion to the hips. The coat is made of moire, lined with satin, and has a velvet girdle closed with buttons and loops made of the moire.

The skirt is of cloth and satin, the latter being pleated as shown in the picture.

Latest Princess Slips.

The Balkan Mouse dresses were scarcely launched on the market before a separate lining, in the form of a slip, was made to take care of this new requirement.

These new garments are cut on perfectly straight lines. They hang from the yoke line to the skirt edge, with no curves appearing under the arms. Being quite snug-fitting around the hips, all bulkiness is eliminated in the dress, while extra fullness for the Balkan Mouse is supplied by gathering in the top of the slip at the yoke line, from which point it falls to the hips in the soft, blouse effect which is now so fashionable.

Starch for Laces and Muslins.

Mix a small quantity of corn flour smoothly with cold water. This will be found excellent for lightly stiffening all delicate and lace fabrics, including veils and neckwear of sheer materials.
