BRYAN ADDRESSES PRINTERS.

Secretary of State Conducts Thanksgiving Day Observance.

Observance of Thanksgiving Day by religious services is not enough to express from citizens of the United States, according to Secretary of State Bryan. He holds that they should offer thanks to the men who have helped to make this a great country and those who are thankful should show it by helping to make the country and the world better year by year.

These sentiments were expressed yesterday noon by the Secretary of State when he addressed the employees of the Government Printing Office at their Thanksgiving services at the printer's.

The landing of the stairs between the sixth and seventh floors was used as a speaker's stand. Probably 2,000 heard Mr. Bryan's address, the halls and adacent rooms serving as an auditorium. Mr. Bryan was introduced by Public Printer Ford. The chorus was under the direction of Benjamin A. Lineback. Miss Grace C. Jenkins was accompanist.

STATUE HELD TO BE SCULPTURE.

The feelings of Anna Haaker, who recently imported a marble statue which was held up by the customs house at New York on account of a duty disagreement, yesterday were solved by the United States Customs Court of Appeals. The statue represents the winged figure of a woman and was assessed by the collector partly as sculpture and partly as a manufacture of marble. The importer protested that the statue should have been assessed as sculpture only. The court sustained her contention giving the importation the more artistic designation.
