AN ADVANCE DISPLAY IN OUR EXTENSIVE COTTON DRESS FABRIC SECTION OF THE
New Weaves, Designs, and Color Treatments for Spring and Summer Seasons.

THIS presentation should be of especial interest to those preparing for tours and spending their winter at Southern and Western resorts.

Women seeking the new and approved in exquisite novelty and stable cotton dress fabrics will find their expectations fully realized in our early display. In completeness and in variety and newness we have never presented such a strikingly distinctive showing at such an early date.

Our own importations of European novelties from many different sources bring us the greatest number of distinctly different effects, which we believe all women will take keen delight in viewing because of their charm and beauty.

Crepes in a variety of qualities embroidered and printed effects, in all-over border and fancy designs.

Voiles, printed, striped, bordered and plain colored; there are great possibilities in the varieties embraced.

Ratines and Eponges again assume a very foremost position in new fashions. The plain weaves, checks, plaids, and those ornamented with jacquard and fancy patterns, are very attractively woven, and are everywhere demanded by fashion.

Congressmen Relate Lively Adventures in Canal Zone

Representative Byrns Colors His Report by Telling How "Toboga Bill," Man Eating Shark, Broke Up Happy Party in Swimming Hole.

Reports of Congressional committees are usually important, but rarely do they make popular reading. Desiring, as a rule, with facts, figures and recommendations, they are lacking in those touches which probably always will attract and hold the attention of the average citizen with far greater success than the profoundest reasoning or the most elaborate collection of statistics.

But if it were customary for committees to incorporate all the experiences of their members in connection with their duties, many reports would make decidedly interesting reading. Take for example the experiences of those members of the House Appropriations Committee who went to Panama recently for the purpose of holding hearings on the estimates submitted by the engineers who are putting the finishing touches to the canal.

One of the committee members, Representative George White, of Ohio, found the trip down to Porto Bello from Colon "twenty-one miles of wonderland." He and his wife, by the way, proved to be good sailors and saw some sights that the poorer mariners in the party missed. "It was more impressive," said Mr. White, "with the tremendous activities of the United States at Panama by a single sight right there than by any of the finely finished and perfected feats of engineering. It was where great slides of earth had come down upon the piles which are keeping the Pacific out, and had turned by their terrific pressure one end of these great stone works and there left a projecting point striking sharply from the canal waters. Rather a negative way of realizing the depth from the out, perhaps, and a matter which will be remedied immediately, but it showed me what a vast undertaking had been accomplished in the damming up of so much force."

Representative Borland, of Missouri, brought out the fact that the committee went through the canal in a boat, being the first committee which has done this. "The Congressman got a native boy to row them out to a sheltered cove while on one of their trips which was well known as a swimming pool. It was Mr. Byrns, of Tennessee, who happened to think of sharks, and he called the boy to learn if there were any about. Not understanding the question the boy waved his arms and cried out brokenly, "Toboga Bill, maybe him around here." Toboga Bill was a notorious shark with a championship rating for size and ferocity.

"The boy brought a young panther. Never was there such fuming and fussing and scrambling as the swimmers did to make record time to points of safety. The boy meanwhile, realizing that the men thought open-jawed Bill was within tasting distance, kept crying out and waving them away. "Is Toboga Bill a man-eating shark," asked Mr. Byrns, breathlessly, as he came up on the rock where the boy was standing guard. "Oh, yes," was the nonchalant reply, "but he no eat you," which, when explained, was meant to be reassuring rather than uncomplimentary.

PLEDGES ANNOUNCED BY G. W. U. SORORITIES

Three University Societies Send Out Bids Following Gayeties of Social Season.

Following the brilliant social events of the Christmas season and the subsequent bids for new members, the three Greek-letter sororities of George Washington University formally have announced their new pledges.

Prior to Christmas the nonsorority students at the university socially were ignored by the Greek-letter co-eds, in accordance with the stringent rules adopted by the sororities. The object of this action was to deflect until the Christmas holidays the intense rivalry and the social struggle for additional members.

On Christmas the ban was lifted, and the long programs of social events were ushered in. There were tango breakfasts, progressive luncheons, slumber parties, theater parties, receptions, tango teas, hikes, and dances. Finally the festivities came to an end, and the formal bids for new members were sent out by the sororities.

The following are the pledges announced by the sororities: Pi Beta Phi—Miss Margaret Bell, Mrs. Richard C. Burleson, Miss May Roper, Miss Marion True, and Miss Hester Irene Munger.

Chi Omega—Miss Helen Hotchkiss, Miss Dorothy Kimball, Miss Pearl Schwarzman, Miss Florence Wingate, and Miss Genevieve Thomas.

Sigma Kappa—Miss Mildred Phoebus, Miss Meta Neumann, Miss Anna McCosch, and Miss Margaret Wilson.

RUSH FOR BOOKS STARTS AGAIN

Since Announcement Was Made that Offer Will End Soon Every-body Wants One.

Only a few days remain in which to take advantage of The Herald's great Panama presentation. If you do not want to be among the disappointed ones, you had better act quickly.

A new impetus has been given to the distribution since making the announcement that the offer will close next Saturday. Now that it looks as though there is only one chance left, everybody wants to join the fortunate ones who possess this beautiful big red volume—"Panama and the Canal in Picture and Prose."

There is no more timely book for home, school, or office use. It is necessary to purchase school books every year, but at the end of the school year they are cast aside, when new school books are required for the next year. This Canal story will last forever and will always be of untold value for the student, a book that will always be referred to and will never grow old. The Herald will present a copy of this volume to all who comply with the conditions explained in the certificate printed elsewhere in this issue. It is being distributed throughout the country by leading newspapers on an educational plan of national scope.

Remember that only a few days remain, as the distribution closes as soon as the balance of the books are disposed of. Bring in your certificate as soon as possible.

BILL PROVIDES RIFLES FOR USE OF SCHOOLS

Kahn Will Present Measure Today Asking Loan of U. S. Arms to Encourage Target Practice.

CAPT. CLARK'S CASE TAKEN UP

Representative Julius Kahn, of California, chairman of the National Defense League, tomorrow will introduce in the House a bill authorizing the Secretary of War to issue to civilian rifle clubs organized under the rules of the national board for the promotion of rifle practice, and to schools of all kinds where military training is taught, United States magazine rifles, equipment, and ammunition, free of cost, for target practice purposes.

The bill has been in preparation for six months and has the approval of Secretary Garrison, official of the War Department and the national board for the promotion of rifle practice, of which Assistant Secretary of War Breckenridge is president.

The measure is designed to stimulate rifle practice among civilians and in military schools, and is one of the National Defense League's plans for improvement of the means for national defense throughout the country.

Members of the House and Senate Military Affairs Committee and the administration favor the bill, which is expected to become law before the end of this session of Congress.

Chairman Kahn has taken up with Secretary Garrison and the administration the case of Capt. Thomas R. Clark, pay department, District of Columbia National Guard, who resigned his commission because of a ruling by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Williams, that time taken for National Guard service would be checked against Capt. Clark's efficiency record. Mr. Kahn is endeavoring to obtain an executive order from the administration which will settle for all time that a government employ shall not be discriminated against in his efficiency record for time lost from his office duties when such loss is spent serving his country as a National Guardsman. In view of the fact that Secretary Garrison and the administration are working to increase the efficiency of the National Guard, it is believed an executive order covering Capt. Clark's case and all other similar cases which may arise in the future will soon be issued by President Wilson.

PRAISE FOR PEOPLE OF 400 YEARS AGO

Secular League Speaker Draws Comparison Between Old Conditions and Those Now Prevailing.

The principal feature of the meeting of the Washington Secular League at Pylthian Temple yesterday afternoon was an address by James Hugh Keeley, entitled "Four Hundred Years Ago and Now." He made a comparison between conditions of four centuries ago in Europe and those of the present time, and while asserting that more progress has been made in the last sixty years than in all previous time, he was inclined to rate our ancestors of four hundred years ago much higher than is ordinarily done. He questioned whether, in comparison with what they knew and the facilities they possessed, the people of that period, or many of them, were not superior to and more courageous intellectually than the people of the present.

Prof. Hyland C. Kirk, who led the general discussion, said that history is the record of the past and the criterion of the future, and therefore, it is of the greatest importance to know the truth of history. On this point he called attention to an effort of his own to correct the history concerning the great navigator of four hundred years ago, Christopher Columbus, who, he contends, the evidence shows to have been a Jew by race and religion and a native of Spain. Others who took part in the discussion were Dr. J. J. Shively, A. B. Johnson, Donald Macpherson, Julian Pierce, and Mr. Kelsner. The latter recited an original poem emphasizing the importance of freedom, entitled "The Suppression of the Ages."

On the map the area of Canada seems to be double that of the United States, whereas Canada has 3,735,660 square miles as against 3,628,730 of continental United States without Alaska.

The New Social Dances: The Waltz: Lesson 2

By Mlle. Anna Pavlowa

They Who Hesitate Are Not Lost—In the Modern Waltzes.

(This is one of a series of articles especially written for this newspaper by Mlle. Anna Pavlowa, the greatest living premiere danseuse, who has posed with her dancing partner, Laurent Novikoff, for each figure. The dances to be explained and illustrated are those now in vogue in society ball-rooms.)

I mentioned, at the conclusion of the article immediately preceding, that two courses are open to the dancers when they start out in the waltz, and directly after the first step, which the lady takes forward with her right foot and the man backward with his left.

The modern waltz being a hesitation affair, replete with pauses and poses, the dancers may now either continue the first three steps in regulation time, as formerly done, or use the second and third counts—which come on the weak accents of the music in three-four time—standing quietly on one foot while the other is deliberately brought up close to the other.

So many dancers follow this latter course that it will be well to show a photograph now, for there is a slight opening of the position which may be made more effective by a slight lowering of the arms, as is evident in the illustration. Personally, I often change my weight from the right to the left leg, taking time to make the necessary change before recommencing the steps.

There is no objection, however, if the partners so wish, to begin the waltz—which is now played by musicians at a decidedly faster tempo than formerly—with a series of straight one-two-three waltz steps, swinging to the right and making several revolutions before introducing any of the hesitation element.

The Hesitation Step May Come on the Second or Third Beat

one-step, says that a finished ballroom dancer will invariably vary his beginning methods to suit the conditions, for if there be a crowd close at hand it would be inadvisable, if not positively unsafe, to rush ahead with the swiftness which is now demanded in completing the one-two-three step in the brief space of time allowed.

As may be gathered the hesitation step, or pause, is really useful aside from its visual appeal for getting out of awkward positions on a dance floor. But apart from this, it is to the hesitation waltz what the pose is to the tango. In the next article we will consider the first open position in the waltz.

PLANS TO BID IN PROPERTY.

Arlington Hotel Company Wants Vermont Avenue Plot.

It is the plan of the Arlington Hotel Company to bid in property at H street and Vermont avenue northwest when it is put up for auction January 29, according to information regarded as authentic. This property was to have been the site of a $5,000,000 hotel, but it is to be sold in default of payment of interest on a $500,000 loan procured by the Arlington Hotel Company from the Equitable Life Insurance Society, of New York. The plot of ground was purchased by the company in March, 1911, and in August, 1912, the loan was negotiated.

It is said that the reorganization committee named last summer to complete the financial plans now has almost enough money to go on with the construction, and that after the repurchase the work will be taken up.
