Deputy Fire Chief to Appear Before Commissioners Thursday.

STATEMENT IS ISSUED

Friends of Employe Whose Retire ment Is Desired Will Plead Good Record.

Deputy Chief Andrew J. Sullivan, of the fire department, will be given a public hearing before the Commissioners Thursday morning at 19 o'clock.
Yielding to the city-wide demand, expressed by numerous petitions of firemen and prominent citizens in all walks of life, and by the press, the District Commissioners yesterday made this announcement. Commissioner Siddons, at the conclusion of a "star chamber" probe into the recent American Five and Ten Cent Store fire, informed Deputy Chief Sullivan eleven days ago that a request for retirement with pension would be welcomed by the Commissioners.

"Acting upon information adduced in an inquiry conducted for the Board of Commissioners by Commissioner Siddons, the board, through Commissioner Sidthe board, through Commissioner Sid-dons, ten days ago suggested to Mr. Sul-livan that if he would apply for retire-ment on the pension allowed by law it would be ordered. Mr. Sullivan responded to this suggestion by requesting a pub-lic hearing, which the Commissioners to-day decided to hold, for the purpose of enabling Mr. Sullivan to present any additional information he may have, if any, which should be in the possession of the Commissioners before they take final action on the question of responsi-bility for the injury and narrow escape from death of the five firemen caught in he collapse of the Five and Ten Cen Lemmon G. Hine Succumbs to Pneumonia in Battle Creek Sanatorium.

GAVE AWAY HIS FORTUNE

One-time Commissioner Was Know as Philanthropist and Discoverer of Ottmar Mergenthaler.

After an illness of many weeks, forme District Commissioner L. G. Hine died at Battle Creek, Mich., yesterday noon Pneumonia was the immediate cause of his death, news of which was received in Washington by members of his family living here. The body will be brought for burial.

In the death of Mr. Hine the Capita here for burial.

In the death of Mr. Hine the Capital loses a phllanthropist, for he was known the country over for his charitable work. His death recalls how he befriended and brought to the front Ottmar Mergenthaler, inventor of the linotype machines, the advent of which revolutionized the newspaper and publishing world.

When Mergenthaler was but a hardworking machinist in the employ of the Hall Machine Works in Baltimore, former Commissioner Hine learned of his efforts to build a typesetting machine. Brainy men and world inventors laughed at the idea of the machinist to build a machine to do the work he expected of it. But Commissioner Hine befriended him and financed his efforts. Mergenthaler then startled the world by his great invention, making it possible for newspapers to print great editions quickly, accurately, and with a tremenduous saving of time and labor. Some of Mergenthaler's early patents he assigned to Commissioner Hine in appreciation of his friendship. Mr. Hine was the first president the Mergenthaler Company, the Commissioner Hine in appreciation of his friendship. Mr. Hine was the first president of the Mergenthaler Company, the stock of which has risen from almost the begging point to a high price. He was president of the National Typographic president of the National Typographic Company which merged with the Mer centhaler Company.

In 1862 he came to Washington from Ohio. From 1869 to 1883 he practiced law and twice was president of the local Bar Association. During the early days of the Metropolitan Club he was president and under his administration the club greatly prospered and its membership grew into the hundreds.

Gave Away Wealth.

At one time he was wealthy, but died practicelly a poor man. He spent great amounts in benevoient and charitable work. For the past ten years he spent his winters in Florida.

At the time of his death Mrs. Hine was with him. Besides his widow he is survived by four daughters, Mr. F. A. Fenning, of Cleveland Park; Mrs. Mary Hine Neviti wife of Coroner, I. Ramsey Nev. Nevitt, wife of Coroner J. Ramsey Nev itt; Mrs. E. P. Mertz, of this city; Mrs. J. Milton Boone, of St. Clair, Pa., and one son. Oliver C. Hine, of Brooklyn.
