NAVAL MILITIA STARTS ON ANNUAL CRUISE TONIGHT

Citizen-Sailors from District, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey Will Go to Bermuda, Which, According to Pamphlet and Anna Held, Is a Veritable Wonderland.

By IRWIN BARBOUR.

Bermuda, take it from the steamship folder which rests upon your desk, is the crowning jewel of the Atlantic's diadem, the pearl of the Western Ocean. In Bermuda, we are informed by the veracious pamphlet, you will find a beautiful new world filled with unusual wonders and unequalled opportunities for bathing, fishing, sailing, bicycling, tennis, and every out-of-door sport.

But then, again, there is no use of us dilating upon the glories of Bermuda. The same steamship folder informs us that "everybody agrees upon the beauty of Bermuda. Poets have sung about it. Artists have painted it. And when artists and poets have done that, there is nothing left for us to do. The artists and poets have done it all.

Painted Too—Red! There are certain advantages in being an author and poet, apparently,—also in being a naval militiaman. The artists and poets are down to Bermuda and sing about it and paint it, and the naval militiaman, at least the District naval militiaman and some of their brethren from North Carolina, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, are going down to Bermuda, and since they are going on a battleship, and a drouth struck the navy on July 1, they'll probably paint it too—red.

Two days' shore leave in Bermuda is one of the principal attractions of the annual cruise of the naval militia organizations of several Eastern States, which starts today. The District Naval Militia and reserves, approximately 100 men from North Carolina, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, will be on the battleship Rhode Island, until lately Admiral Fletcher's flagship in Mexican waters, on a practice cruise. Two days' shore leave at Hamilton, Bermuda, will be given to the militia on the morning of the 6th.

But as to the District naval militia—again we refer to the steamship pamphlet. "Flowers," it says, "which at home you have seen only in hot-houses, grow wild in Bermuda. The Easter lilies which beautify the churches and the streets are maintained in the courts. In the end I believe the decision will be in favor of Bermuda, and that it will be a sound and lasting effect on the building up and developing of our merchant marine."

"Imagine yourself floating in a glass-bottomed boat over a huge out-door aquarium, the Rhode Island. Just inside the coral reef, stocked with fish of fantastic shape and rainbow hue, all in a water so clear that the bottom is visible. The caves are great natural caverns in the coral rock of which Bermuda is fashioned. With their countless millions of curious inhabitants, the caves resemble nothing so much as the work of Jack Frost with icicle and window pane.

Further down the list, it says: "The women of Bermuda are blessed with the most beautiful backs in the world. And Anna Held, who will march in formation to the Norfolk steamer where supper will be served."

THE REED FAMILY.

The Reed and Read family in America—Numerous first settlers. The signer of the Declaration, George Reed—The Frazier and Fraser family—Something about the Henshaws in England and in America.

County Monaghan, Ireland, in 1708. He left Ireland with his wife, when he was twenty-six years old and arrived in Philadelphia, where he prospered as a merchant and farmer. Any of the name of Fraser in this country are descended from this John Fraser.

Request from N. L. H. for the Henshaw of John A. Henshaw, of the name Henshaw in England, although the spelling Henshaw is more correct. It is said to be a compound of the Anglo-Saxon words "Hens" and "Haw", and would therefore mean the hawk or woodpecker, frequently by the woodcocks. There is a township so called in Northumberland, England, and there are parishes bearing the name in Lancaster, Cumberland, Hants, Hunts, and other English counties.

The progenitor of the family in this country was Joshua Henshaw, who was born in Lancaster, England, in 1643. Joshua and his brother were abducted through fraud and were sent to New England in 1662. Joshua was nine years old. It is supposed that they were under the care of Rev. Richard Mather, in this country. Joshua married Elizabeth, daughter of John A. Henshaw, who was born in Lancaster, England, in 1643. Joshua and his brother were abducted through fraud and were sent to New England in 1662. Joshua was nine years old. It is supposed that they were under the care of Rev. Richard Mather, in this country. Joshua married Elizabeth, daughter of John A. Henshaw, who was born in Lancaster, England, in 1643.

There have been numerous first settlers of the name in this country. There was a William Reed, who was born in England in 1567, who settled in Dorchester, Mass. Another William Reed, a native of Ireland, settled in Delaware late in the same year and it is to be traced to the Reed family in England in 1603, settled in Weymouth, Mass. A Matthew Reed, born in England in 1585, settled in New England. His great-grandson, Joseph Reed, was a member of the Boston tea party. The family to which George Reed, the signer of the Declaration of Independence, belongs was established in this country by John Reed, who was born in Dublin in 1688.

Answers to Correspondents. Request from L. F. S. for information on nomenclature, and it is probably about the Frazier family. The name Frazier is not found in British formation of the Scotch surname spelled Fraser, which had a Norman origin. The Frasers were first in the south of Scotland, but later they went to the north of Scotland where they became a clan. There are some genealogists who claim Celtic origin for the name. They give the origin as a combination of the two Celtic words "frith" and "stio" meaning forest race. This is probably not correct. The name has been variously spelled in Scotland, Fraser, Frisell, Friselle, Friselle, and Frisale.

There is a saying in Scotland that: "As lang as there's a sock in the north, there's a Fraser in Pallis." The Phlorth, County Aberdeen, is the seat of the Fraser family to which the lords Saltoun belong. The coat of arms of this branch of the family are described thus: quarterly, first and fourth argent, three frazes argent, for Fraser. Second and third argent, a lion rampant, gules for Ross. Crest: A strich's head holding a horseshoe proper. Motto: In God is our trust.

It is very difficult to find record of the Fraser or Frazier family in this country, although the name is well known. It is said that they were offshoots of the Scotch Fraser family. In the records of Salisbury, N. H., there is a record of one Benjamin Fraser, who moved to Deerfield, N. H., when a child with his parents. He married a wife Mary and then went to live in Salisbury, N. H. There he built a log house later succeeded by a more pretentious structure where Mr. Benjamin Fraser was famous for his lavish hospitality.

Another Fraser family in this country, although the name is well known, is that of Glasgow, Ireland. He was probably born at Inverness about 1660. He married Margaret Clifton, or Carlton, the wife of John, who was born in Glasgow, Scotland.

OSCAR OLIVER RECOVERING. Oscar Oliver, 312 K street southeast, was taken to Casualty Hospital suffering from knife wounds in the face and neck, which he claimed to have received by an altercation Friday night with William H. Harper, a colored man, who was returned to the hospital by physicians to be much improved last night. Harper is held at the Fifth Precinct station, pending developments in Oliver's condition.

LIGHTNING STRIKES WOMAN. Miss Ella Ornell, of 1202 N street northwest, was struck by lightning while standing on the pavilion at Marshall Hall last evening. She was hurried back to the city and taken to a hospital. Physicians who treated her said that she was severely burned on the left side and arm.

SPEAKS IN BROOKLYN BUILDING IS WRECKED

House Leader Declares It Is Citizens' Patriotic Duty to Build Up Merchant Marine. Police Believe It Was Meant for Use at Rockefeller Estate July 12.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 4.—In his Fourth of July speech at Prospect Park today, Oscar W. Underwood, the Democratic leader in Congress, made a powerful appeal for the restoration of American commerce.

The tariff act as drawn up by Mr. Underwood and passed by the present Congress is the most discriminatory tariff in favor of goods brought in American ships. This was a revival of the old Democratic practice, which existed in 1890 until 1904, and which made the United States commerce the most vigorous and prosperous in the world.

President Wilson nullified this provision in favor of American ships by executive order because he believed to offend foreign nations with which we have treaties of commerce. Representative Underwood in his oration today said:
