U. S. LAWLESS IF HOUSE FILIBUSTER

A bare quorum of the Rules Committee in town—three Democrats, two Republicans, and one Progressive—Representatives Poy, Garrett, Foster, Democrats Campbell and Leavelle, Republicans and Kelly, Progressive. If the three minority members should determine to play Mann's hand out to the bitter end, the Rules Committee would remain deadlocked until about Democrats could be recalled. Of course, the affair would not be carried further than to embarrass the Democrats as much as possible without seriously hampering the routine governmental activities.

Another Complication.
Desiring to dodge alike the suffrage question and general prohibition measure, the Rules Committee has entered into a gentlemen's agreement not to hold any further meetings at this session. Suffragists who smoked the committee out yesterday were told that there would be no further meetings. Thus, a further complication is added.

The legislative bill will be before the House again today, with the village item still in dispute. The Senate yesterday refused, by a vote of 55 to 7, to recede from its amendment restoring the 2-cent a mile allowance, while the House had cut down to actual expenses for each member. It is possible that the House will give in on this point today, but the bill will not be passed until Mr. Mann an excellent opportunity to waste time for the benefit of his filibuster.

VIRGINIANS WANT NEW BRIDGE OVER POTOMAC

Alexandria County Civil Association Favors Entering City at Twentieth Street.

The executive committee of the Alexandria County Service Association met at Clarendon last night to consider the question of a commercial bridge to connect the county with the District of Columbia, and the committee went on record as heartily endorsing the plan to enter the city at Twentieth street, thereby placing Clarendon and other points on the two electric lines ten or fifteen minutes nearer the heart of the city, avoiding the change of cars at Thirty-sixth street and the ride through the narrow streets of Georgetown.

It was denied that the construction of the bridge at this point would injure business in Georgetown or inconvenience patrons of the electric lines, for since the question of a commercial bridge to Alexandria County and the establishment of first-class stores, much of the business that formerly went to Georgetown is now being done in Alexandria. The claim was made that it was within the power of the State corporation commission to refuse to allow passenger trains to leave the State over the reported unsafe Aqueduct Bridge, and if speedy action was not taken the cars of the Washington and Old Dominion Railway might be forced to seek another entrance, possibly by building a spur track and going in by the Highway Bridge.

Residents of Georgetown are getting ready for a protest against the removal of Aqueduct Bridge. A large attendance is expected at a mass meeting to be held in the Potomac Savings Bank Building. Leaders in this fight to save the bridge are O. W. Ottum, P. T. Morgan, William King, Isaac R. Nordlinger, C. T. Simpson, George W. Ray, Vincent L. Toomer, J. A. Oliver, B. A. Bowles, M. Baer and E. S. Greenwell.

NOT WIFE'S RELATIVE.

Senator O'Gorman Indignant Over Report Concerning Appointment.
Senator O'Gorman denied yesterday with indignation the statement published in New York that he had selected a relative of the Senator's wife as stamp deputy in the internal revenue service. The Senator denied that John Dreyer, who was selected, is a relative of Mrs. O'Gorman, and said he considered it unfair to bring in the name of a member of his family. Senator O'Gorman related that he had not secured the appointment of Dudley Field Malone as collector of the port, and that Mr. Malone's status politically with the administration was fixed by Mr. Malone himself.

Officials Approve Plan to Stage Army-Navy Football Event in Potomac Park.

CONGRESS LIKELY TO ASSENT

Washington business men and officials of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday were elated to hear of the favorable report made by officers of the War Department on the plan to stage the annual Army-Navy football game in Washington. Report was made to the proper committee of Congress yesterday by the War Department that Gen. Klumpp, chief of engineers, and Col. W. W. Harris, superintendent of public buildings and grounds, had declared the project entirely feasible. All that is lacking now is authority by Congress for the War Department to erect stands for the spectators on the Potomac Park polo field, west of the embankment. The War Department also plans to make the financial arrangements of the games and charge a price for seats which will cover expenses.

The annual Army-Navy game, if staged here, will attract 20,000 visitors to Washington, according to conservative estimates. It is also estimated that a crowd of this size would spend not less than $250,000 in Washington during the time it remained here.

South's Suffrage Leader Here to Boost Her Cause

Miss Kate Gordon, President Southern States Woman Suffrage Congress, Supports Mr. Wilson in Stand That Question Is Not a Federal Issue.

By MILDRED DILLON.
The leader of the flank movement which she terms the strategic suffrage situation of the day in America, Miss Kate Gordon, of New Orleans, president of the Southern States Woman's Suffrage Conference is in Washington, the guest of Mrs. Helen H. Gardner, 1828 Lamont street, and she will tell the District suffragists how the South is working for the cause.

One thing that she will mention which will not please the Congressional Union and other bodies of suffragists in Washington is that she is of the same mind with President Wilson on the suffrage question, being a State and not a Federal matter.

Miss Gordon is the recognized leader of suffrage in Louisiana, and as former president and an active worker for sixteen years in the Era Club of New Orleans, was instrumental in the installation of a sewerage system in that city when the men voted down the two-mill tax for the system.

"I consider that the South has a practical business problem to settle with the suffrage question," Miss Gordon said last night. "The people we want will not migrate South until the South realizes that women will not go to a place where they know that they will have to fight for the same rights they can enjoy in the North."

"The Southern States Woman's Suffrage Conference is primarily a State rights movement," Mrs. Gordon explained. "I am in hearty accord with the point of view that regards suffrage as a State right and not a Federal one."

"Suffrage is not a theory to be debated, but an issue to be met at the next Democratic convention by the party that

ALAS! THE BASTILLE'S FALL IS NOT HONORED
When Gardemes Heeded Not the Pop of Corks After Midnight Count Perreard Never Missed It.

BUT NOW—THAT EXCISE LAW!
You may well ask what the new excise law has to do with the fall of the Bastille, which will be celebrated by Frenchmen throughout the world today. It has something to do with it, and here is the proof:

Count A. L. Perreard, proprietor of the cafe at 513 Thirteenth street northwest, is a Frenchman, loyal to his native land, although a citizen of the United States since 1872—and just as loyal to his adopted country.

The count never missed celebrating the great French holiday until the new excise law went into effect here, July, last year. It was his custom to close his place at midnight on the 14th and have a party, exclusively for Frenchmen, to celebrate the anniversary of the storming of the Bastille.

But since the Works-Jones law became operative the pop of a cork might bring a score of gardemes to interrupt the affair.

Consequently, the day will be suffered to pass in this popular French rendezvous of the American Capital without any special celebration. Of course, Frenchmen will drop in during the open hours of the day for a smile with the proprietor, but that will be the limit.

Count Perreard seemed saddened last night. "I would love to do it like we did before the French law came in," he said. "Now we must even put off celebrating until after the opening time. I am proud of my adopted country, but I still love to celebrate the fall of the Bastille. Two has. Have to keep very quiet after 1 o'clock, you know."

CROPS SURE MUST BE BIG.
Fort Morgan, Colo., July 13.—Crops in the eastern counties of Colorado are so large this year that the farmers of that section of the State, most of whom are far from any railroad, have appealed to the officials of the Burlington Railroad to lend them old rails and ties that they may build a prairie line to connect with the Burlington system at St. Francis, Kans., near the eastern boundary of Colorado.

Shanghai, July 13.—Ten arrests were made today as a result of the explosion on board the Chinese gunboat Tung-Chi of the Kiang-Nan arsenal yesterday when thirty-five cadets were killed. The prisoners are charged with being in a conspiracy with the rebel faction in Southern China headed by Dr. Sun Yat Sen, former provisional president of China. More arrests are imminent.

TORNADO SWEEPS IOWA TOWN.
Shenandoah, Iowa, July 13.—Following the hottest day of the year, a tornado struck Shenandoah late last night. Trees were uprooted, store fronts blown in, roofs torn off and a blacksmith shop uprooted. The cupola was torn off the Congregational Church and a large stone of the Catholic Church crashed to the street. Crops were serious damaged.

Angora goats have been used with profit to keep fire lines clear of inflammable vegetation on national forests in California.

GUNBOAT EXPLOSION FRAME-UP.
Shanghai, July 13.—Ten arrests were made today as a result of the explosion on board the Chinese gunboat Tung-Chi of the Kiang-Nan arsenal yesterday when thirty-five cadets were killed. The prisoners are charged with being in a conspiracy with the rebel faction in Southern China headed by Dr. Sun Yat Sen, former provisional president of China. More arrests are imminent.
