JOE BOEHLING NOW IN FOLD

THREE-YEAR CONTRACT

Dixie Flinger Comes to Terms in Short Order—Other Sport News and Comment.

By WILLIAM PEET.

Joe Boehling, the Richmond southpaw, signed his signature to a Washington contract yesterday for a term of three years, and, in the process, the usual amount of daily business at his office and still shall care to the winds.

More than a month ago Griff sent for Boehling, who paid a brief visit to the Capital, was given three different contracts to sign and then remained as usual at the provincial office.

Boehling became tired of waiting and decided to take the bull by the horns, so he signed a "letter" to Richmond yesterday, signed by Boehling and transacted business in connection with the Nationals three days' stay next month, according to lodge his club at Murphy's Hotel while the Richmond series is on. The deal was returned home on a late train last night.

According to reports, the Abeam-Lewis team in Cuba will draw a $50,000 gate. That is the strongest draw in the world that the islanders are incapable of selling.

Dean L. R. Briggs, of Harvard, writes in this regard, "The question of the propriety of an athlete writing for contracts in an entertaining manner in a report just submitted to the head of the university. Disparities exist out from Cambridge announced that Dean Briggs is thoroughly opposed to students writing on the subject of athletics, and a complete statement of the report, which is the impression that he is not unopposed to the practice, after all."

Expressing the opinion that the headmax out on articles written by students, often misleading and contrary to the views of the authorities.

Dean Briggs' opinion is based on the fact that a student who writes for a contract is not writing for the sake of the money, but for the sake of the money, and the money is not the only thing that he is getting out of it.

ATHLETES AWAIT STARTER'S GUN

Stage Is All Set for Big Indoor Track Meet Tonight at Convention Hall.

OLD RIVALS TO CLASH

Georgetown and Virginia to Compete in South Atlantic Championship. Large Crowd Expected.

With the stage set, the athletes gathered, and indications of an immense out-turning of spectators, everything is in readiness for the opening tonight at Convention Hall of the seventh annual indoor track meet of the George Washington University.

Prof. S. C. Beckett, physical director at the Y. M. C. A., and official starter of the big affair, will fire the pistol for the beginning of the opening event promptly at 7:20 o'clock. The opening number of the program will be the 50-yard scholastic race and thirty-seven other events will follow.

All of the preparations have been completed and officials of the affair impatiently are awaiting the opening hour. Indications are that the affair will be the most successful ever conducted by the Hatters. More than 300 entries will participate, four big South Atlantic intercollegiate championship events are scheduled, and seventeen well-matched and intensely interesting relays are featured.
