

Get in Early Today While the Selection Is Best

Probably These Shirts Can Never Be Bought At Such Prices Again

Actual $2, $2.50 $3 and $3.50

Quaker City Shirts

$1.20

ALL BRAND-NEW 1915 SPRING PATTERNS. EVERY SHIRT GUARANTEED PERFECT—NO SECONDS.

We are very safe in saying that never before was such a shirt-buying opportunity offered the men of Washington. In an effort to get a big slice of our business and to establish a big reputation in Washington at the same time the makers of these shirts gave us the lot at a price which can never be duplicated.

The patterns are new, live and mighty nobby. The materials are the very finest that can be put into high-grade shirts and the tailoring and fit are perfect in every detail.

THREE WOMEN TO SEE MAYO

Former Stenographer Brings Action, Demanding Support of Child.

MAGNATE FREE ON BAIL. Scranton and New Haven "Wives" Also Said to Contemplate Recourse to Courts.

New Haven, March 15.—Three of the six women whose lives have been so strangely interwoven with that of Virginus Mayo, have begun, or are on the point of beginning action against the wealthy New Haven manufacturer.

Susie Wahlers, of New Haven, who alleges Mayo is the father of her two-year-old daughter Hazel; Mrs. Florence Weeks Mayo, of Scranton, Pa., who asserts she and her three daughters were deserted by Mayo, and Mrs. Wilhelmina M. Mayo, the New Haven "wife."

Mayo admitted father of two little girls in Brooklyn and alleged father of three children in Scranton, in addition to a grown daughter by his first marriage, was arrested today on writ sworn out by Susie Wahlers, she demands that her husband be held.

It is announced a separate suit for $25,000 will be instituted tomorrow by the young woman.

Formerly mercantile James F. Piggett, of New Haven, has been retained to press the claims of Mrs. Florence Weeks Mayo, of Scranton, that she is the legal wife of the wealthy manufacturer.

An unverified report is that Mrs. Wilhelmina Mayo, known as the Dixwell avenue wife, is also planning a court action.

Mayo was taken into custody at the office of the Mayo Radiator Company late this afternoon by Sheriff Sheriff Gustav Ull. Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Mayo made no statement and disappeared in the direction of Bridgeport as soon as the time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

Russians Capture 50,000 Austrians in Two Days

Petrograd, March 15.—The Galicia Austrian prisoners have been pouring in steadily at the rate of about 1,500 daily for several days. It was unnumbered since the Thursday to Saturday total between 40,000 and 50,000 and many others were caught in minor skirmishes.

THOUSANDS GAZE AS WOMAN FIGHTS TO DIE

Broadway Crowd Electrified by Struggle in Window; Breaking Away. Woman Plunges Five Stories.

New York, March 15.—A great throng stood electrified this afternoon at fifth avenue and Thirtieth street, they watched a great-haired woman struggling fiercely before a window on the fifth floor of the Holland House. Frightheness creeps above the hum of the traffic. Then by an effort the heavier of the women wrenched herself free, mounted the window sill and plunged headlong down.

Her body crashed upon a glass canopy which spanned the sidewalk, paused for a moment and then amid a shower of broken glass dropped heavily to the pavement. The woman was Miss Theresa J. Nicholson, of Little Neck, Long Island, sister of J. J. Nicholson, the head of the hotel. The woman who had fought to prevent the leap was her sister, Miss Mary Nicholson, of St. Paul.

At 2 p. m. the women had engaged a room for a few hours stating that they would be there only until J. J. Nicholson called for them. Miss Mary Nicholson said that her husband had been ill and was to be taken to a sanitarium.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

The women had been in their room but a short time when frightened shrieks rang through the hotel corridors, followed by sounds of the struggle which was witnessed from the street. The head of the hotel, Gustav Ull, Mayo summoned his automobile and they went first to the office of his lawyer, Benjamin Slade. Later the party appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin C. Land. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the formal pleading postponed until Saturday, March 20. The bond was furnished by lawyer Slade.

DAUGHTER OF ACTRESS HELD FOR 'DOPE' FRAUD

Dorothy Russell Forged Prescription to Obtain Morphine, New York Police Charge.

New York, March 15.—Miss Dorothy Russell, identified by Dr. D. H. Stetson, of the Hotel Flinders, as the daughter of Mrs. Alexander Moore (Lillian Russell), tonight was locked up in West Forty-seventh street police station, charged with having forged a prescription for morphine. Arthur B. Taylor, who lives at the Court Hotel, was placed under arrest as her accomplice.

The arrest followed an alleged attempt to pass the prescription at a Broadway drug store. Taylor brought the prescription in, and the clerk who received it became suspicious when he saw it was unnumbered, since the new Harrison law provides physicians shall number all morphine prescriptions.

Dr. Stetson, whose name appeared on the order, was called on the telephone and said he had written no prescription for morphine. Taylor was arrested, and asserted he had merely brought the prescription for a woman acquaintance, who proved to be Miss Russell.

At the police station she explained that she had been ill for a long while and had been accustomed to morphine to relieve her sufferings. Sunday morning she called Dr. Stetson to the Hotel Victoria, where she is living, and he gave her a small quantity of the drug, leaving a prescription for a hypodermic needle. It was this prescription that she had added the line calling for morphine from the drug store. Dr. Stetson bore out her assertions.

Miss Russell exonerated Taylor. Although she described herself as Miss Russell, she is really Mrs. Edward O'Reilly, having been married six months ago, she said tonight that she and her husband were separated.

Several disputes occurred between the Kaiser and his son soon after the outbreak of the war. These finally culminated in a violent quarrel. As the result of a proclamation issued by his father, the Kaiser banished his son to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany. The Emperor's fury against his son was so great that he ordered his son to be banished to a remote castle in Germany.

MANY a mountain o' trouble turns out to be a mole hill after all when viewed calmly through the haze o' pipe smoke. Includes image of a man and a pack of VELVET tobacco.

WAR OFFICIALLY REPORTED BY THE RIVAL CAPITALS

FRENCH. Paris, March 15.—Tonight's official statement says: "The day has been marked by various actions favorable to us. In the vicinity of Lombardie our artillery effectively bombarded the German works. The Germans endeavored to retake a small fort but were repulsed, leaving about fifty dead on the field."

"South of Ypres the British army, which yesterday was attacked by the Germans and compelled to fall back beyond St. Eloi, recaptured that village and almost all the neighboring trenches, despite several German counter-attacks."

"North of Arras a brilliant French infantry attack carried three lines of trenches on the spur Notre Dame de Lorette and reached the edge of the plateau. We captured 100 prisoners, including several officers, destroyed two machine-gun positions, and blew up an ammunition depot."

"Further south, in the region of Escurie and Rocqucourt, near the road from Lille, we blew up several German trenches. In the vicinity of Albert the Germans exploded a mine under one of our trenches and occupied the excavation. We drove them out, but they again installed themselves there. A fresh counter-attack, however, enabled us to retake the position."

"Near Casselles, north of Souvren in the valley of the Aisne, two German companies suffered very heavy losses. In Champagne we made further gains. We repulsed two counter-attacks northeast of Meunil, before a bridgehead was established. Near Baguellette two German counter-attacks were repelled and a counter-attack of our own has established ourselves on the site."

"At Vauquois, our infantry attacked an underground position of the Germans, taking numerous prisoners. At Lepeux woods, near Fontenoy, the Germans blew up two of our advanced trenches which were completed yesterday. After the explosion we drove two of the first trenches and half of the third."

GERMAN. Berlin, March 15.—The total number of Russian prisoners taken by the Germans in the fighting north of Augustow Forest, in Poland, is 2,000, according to an official statement given out by German headquarters today. The statement follows: "Western theater of war—Westende Rains was shelled yesterday without effect by two gunboats of the enemy. German attacks against the heights south of Ypres, held by the English, have met with success. French attacks north of Les Meunil, in Champagne, were repulsed with heavy losses. In the Vosges engagements continue at several points."

"Eastern theater—The number of Russian captives taken in engagements north of Augustow Forest has been increased to 2,000. Russian attacks north and northeast of Przasnysz have all failed, the enemy suffering heavy losses. South of the Vistula River there is no change."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—The general staff tonight issued the following statement: "On the whole Przasnysz front, from the Mlawa Railway to the Orzhitz River, we progressed, fighting all the way. German counter-attacks everywhere were repulsed. The guns of the Ostrovice Fortress have put out of action several siege batteries which had been installed within range of the fortress."

"On the left bank of the Vistula there has been no fighting. In the Carpathians the situation is unchanged. Austrian attacks in the direction of Baligród and German attacks on the hill near Kooovonka have been repulsed. In East Galicia the Russians threw back the enemy in the region north of Oshryn. There are artillery duels only at Przasnysz."

TURKISH. Constantinople, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

RUSSIAN. Petrograd, March 15.—(via Berlin and Amsterdam.)—More warships of the allies have been damaged in their operations at the Dardanelles. It was officially announced here today: "The statement follows: "The enemy's torpedoes yesterday bombarded at intervals forts Sedyd-El-Bair and Kirm-Kale, but their fire was ineffective. A light flotilla attempted to approach the mine fields, but was driven off by the Turkish batteries. Some of the hostile ships were damaged and compelled to retire from the battle line."

</