

TURKS RETIRING ON MAIDOS AND TOWARD THRACE

British Drive Them from the Forts on European Side of Dardanelles.

LOSE ENTIRE BATTALION

Interior Fortifications Badly Damaged and Land Batteries Grow Weak.

SMYRNA AWAITS ALLIES' ATTACK

Queen Elizabeth's Guns Have Done Terrible Execution in Enemies' Trenches Before Maidos, Say Witnesses.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald. London, May 2.—The English have driven the Turks out of all the forts along the European shore of the Dardanelles straits and the British flag is now flying over the captured positions.

Large forces of Turks have been routed and are retiring on Maidos, where a desperate battle is now raging, while other bodies of Turks are falling back toward Thrace. This is the information telegraphed from Athens by the correspondent of the International News Service and London Daily Telegraph tonight, based on advices received there from Smyrna.

Turkish Battalion Taken.

This report further relates that an entire Turkish battalion was surrounded by the allies and taken prisoners in the land fighting on the narrow neck of the Gallipoli peninsula. Contradictory reports calculated to discount claims of success by the British and French forces continue to emanate from Constantinople. Received from this source during the day by way of Berlin were unofficial and official statements that the British forces have been driven to the beaches where they landed, on the Saros shore, while at the tip of Gallipoli the Turkish gunfire has made the position of the British landing force untenable.

Land Batteries Weakening.

Opposed to this is another dispatch from Smyrna, which reports that the bombardment of the Dardanelles continues incessantly. The interior forts have been severely hit and the reply of the land batteries is weakening.

Eye Witnesses from Imbros state that the guns of the Queen Elizabeth have done terrible execution in the enemy's trenches before Maidos. Many of the enemy troops have been buried by the tremendous displacement of earth caused by the shell fire from the superdreadnought.

Turks Claim Victory.

Berlin dispatch via London, May 2.—Constantinople reports: "On the evening of the 1st, the left wing of the enemy was several times attacked by us from positions near Kabatepe and was driven back in a northerly direction near Asburnum.

"TOO MUCH VEAL" IS CHARGE.

Woman Files Unique Maintenance Suit Against Husband. New York, May 2.—"Too much veal" is given as the reason for a separate maintenance suit filed against William Krack, Brooklyn clothing merchant, by his wife, Augusta.

Schiff Hurt While Motoring.

New York, May 2.—Jacob H. Schiff, banker, sustained lacerations about the head today as the automobile in which he was riding crossed the New York Central Railroad tracks near Pleasantville, N. Y. The rear wheels struck a rut, causing the car to bound upward. Mr. Schiff was thrown from his seat and his head came in contact with a stave in the automobile top.

Germans Plan Winter Campaign.

London, May 2.—The German government has ordered all preparations for another winter campaign, according to the correspondent of the Daily Mail at Bucharest, who attributes his information to a thoroughly trustworthy, a neutral diplomatic source.

"BABY" SAYRE'S NAME INCLUDES "WOODROW"

Child's Mother Pleads and Has Her Way—Presidential Party Will Return This Morning.

Springfield, Mass., May 2.—Having enacted his role as Godfather to "Baby" Sayre, President Wilson tonight is speeding back to the White House. A surprise was given the President at the christening in the shape of a new name for "Baby" Sayre. He no longer is Francis Sayre, but Francis Woodrow Sayre, thus sharing the name of his distinguished grandparent.

President Wilson had been strongly opposed to having his grandson "burdened with my name," but Mrs. Sayre finally won his consent to its use.

The christening was held at 2:30 p. m. in St. John's Episcopal Church. Rev. Dr. J. Franklin Carter officiated. Besides President Wilson, Prof. John Nevins Sayre, of Princeton University, acted as Godfather, while Miss Agnes Winter, of Philadelphia, a close friend of Mrs. Sayre, stood as godmother. Others present included Miss Margaret Wilson, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Mrs. Robert H. Sayre, Dr. Cary T. Grayson, and Dr. and Mrs. Adrian Severance.

President Wilson attended service in Williams College chapel this morning. Afterward the choir sang college songs in his honor on the steps of the chapel. The Presidential party left Williams town at 4 p. m., and will reach Washington at 7 a. m.

SAYS CREATOR MADE BOTCH OF MARRIAGE

"Why Pestle the Deity About Our Love?" Asks Emma Goldman. "It's Futile."

"If God created the marriage institution he made a terribly botched job of it," declared Emma Goldman yesterday afternoon in response to a question put by a heckler at the conclusion of Miss Goldman's lecture, "Misconception of Free Love," at the Pythian Temple. The anarchist attracted an audience that filled every seat in the house.

"One marriage in every ten ends unhappily," added Miss Goldman. "I don't think much of a divinely created marriage arrangement under which man and woman throw dishes at each other."

"What is to become of the children in free love unions?" asked another heckler.

"Children resulting from real love will never be mistreated and will never want for anything," answered Miss Goldman. "I have seen more neglected, starving and abused children among those legally married than among advocates of free love."

"How about the children in orphan asylums?"

"Those are the children of accident, not of free love," declared Miss Goldman, launching upon an exposition of birth regulation.

"What recourse has a woman under a free love arrangement if the man deserts her?" demanded a feminine heckler.

Miss Goldman replied that even under legal marriage a deserted woman has no recourse whatever.

In the course of her lecture, Miss Goldman delivered the following epigrams: "Why throw stones at the Magdalenes? Business men, politicians, teachers, and newspaper reporters prostitute their talents. They dare not tell the truth."

"Prostitution is the keynote of society today."

"Compared with various other professions, those practicing prostitution are angels."

"Women must become free to mould their own lives, instead of being sex commodities and parasites."

"Free love will lift man and woman to the pinnacle of truth and justice."

"Why bother the Deity about our love? Why ask its blessing. It's been pestered for thousands of years—and without avail."

"The most immoral thing a married couple can do is to 'try to live together' after love is dead."

"The limitation of offspring" was the subject of a lecture in Yiddish given by Miss Goldman last night at Pythian Temple.

WILSON MAY AID VETERANS.

Expected to Grant Request for Employment Vacations. It is expected that President Wilson will issue an order granting the request of friends of the civil war veterans that the old soldiers in the employ of the government will be excused from duty with pay to enable them to attend the encampment of the G. A. R. in this city next September. Senator Kern, of Indiana, has been active in soliciting the request.

The veterans in the local departments, in presenting the appeal to the President, contended that since many of the veterans are in the government service, and that vacation periods could not be arranged for the same time, the greater part of the remainder of the old army would be prevented from attending.

Churchill Visits Hospital.

London, May 2.—Winston Churchill today visited Duchess of Connaught's Canadian hospital at Clevedon, Waldorf Astor's estate, and talked to many of the patients, some of whom but recently arrived, wounded, from the Ypres battle.

PEACE IS NOT IN SIGHT, SAYS TAFT

Believes Adequate Defence Necessary for Tranquillity in United States.

JAPS DO NOT THREATEN

Thinks Our Stimulus in Business Is Artificial—Care Needed to Prevent Disaster After War.

By WILL C. MURPHY. Special to The Washington Herald. New Haven, Conn., May 2.—The present stimulus in business in the United States is artificial. The war in Europe has caused it. Manufacturers are busy turning out material for the belligerents. No man can say for certain that a sudden end of the war might throw the country back into a condition as bad, if not worse, than it was before hostilities began.

In these words former President William H. Taft appears for the first time in the role of a pessimist. If not exactly a pessimist, at least, he is not optimistic enough to look at the future of the United States after the war is over except through a glass darkly, unless there should be decided change in the public policy that as guided the United States under the Wilson administration.

No indications of peace. Between "professing at Yale," as he puts it, writing for the magazines and swinging around the country on speaking junkets, Mr. Taft is a very busy man. But he turned from the preparation of an article on "Coast Defenses" today in his office in the Taft Hotel here long enough to grant an interview to The Washington Herald in which he indicated plainly that:

There is no indication of peace in Europe in the near future. When peace does come, the United States must play an important part in bringing it about.

Universal peace is possible, but the time has not arrived when wars will be eliminated entirely.

An adequate national defense is necessary for the future tranquility of the country.

The conditions abroad affect greatly the business conditions of the United States.

Democrats Fall in Mexican Matter. The Wilson administration has bungled affairs in Mexico and there is no solution of the Mexican difficulty in sight.

The Japanese are not trying to establish a foothold in Mexico for the purpose of threatening this country.

A conservative reaction for the policies of President Wilson has set in and is growing more pronounced with a hopeful outlook for the success of the Republican party.

Surrounded by piles of manuscript, Mr. Taft chatted easily and informally about national and world affairs and plainly showed that his multiple duties have made no difference in the inner spirit of the man. He still radiates good nature. He still has the rollicking laugh.

Whether it is good digestion that waits on appetite or innate philosophy, the former President appears in better health than he has in years and his billowing amplitude is actually giving way to a near approach to a waist line.

Policies Not Decried. Mr. Taft chuckled when asked what he believed would be the paramount issues of the 1916 campaign. He at first said he could not discuss the subject and seemed to find it very amusing.

"You don't expect me to say anything about that do you?" he inquired, with twinkling eyes. "I don't believe they are defined clearly. The issues will be greatly affected, as they always are, by the conditions of business at that time."

"Do you believe President Wilson's policies are a failure, and that the people are tired of experimenting?"

Thinks G. O. P. Will Win. "Well, now," he replied after a hearty laugh. "Well, now, I will say that a conservative reaction has set in. The outlook for Republican success is very hopeful, and it is growing more pronounced every day. It manifested itself in the last election."

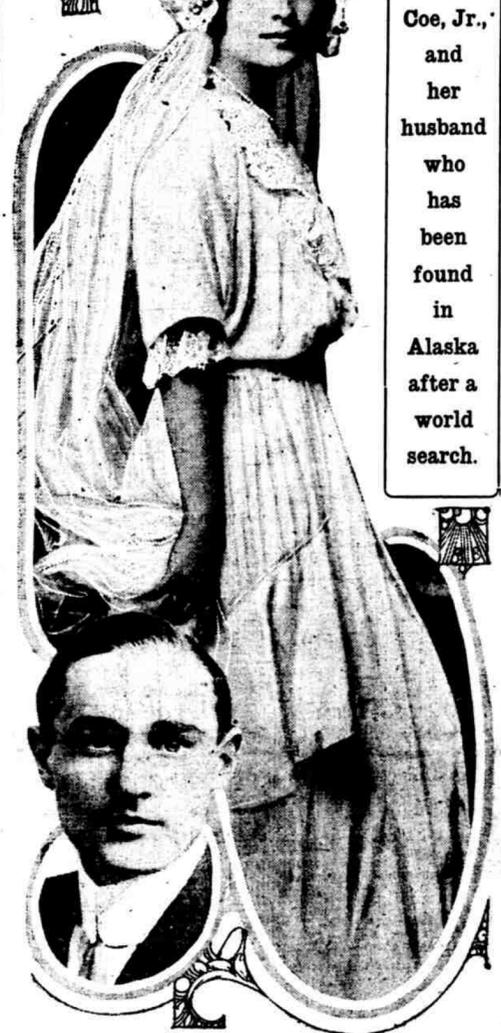

Lionel Harvard Will Go to War. Boston, May 2.—Lionel de Jersey Harvard, who graduates from Harvard University next month, has just announced that he intends to offer his services for the war. He is a direct descendant of Thomas, second cousin of Rev. John Harvard, who founded the college 278 years ago, and the first of the name to be educated at Harvard.

Greek Parliament Dissolved. Rome, May 2.—The Greek Parliament was dissolved yesterday, and, following the general elections on June 1, the new Parliament will open on July 10, says a dispatch from Athens. The Greek press is indignant over the refusal of the allies to guarantee compensations to Greece on the condition of her intervention.

Edison Inherits $100,000. New York, May 2.—Robert Edison, the actor, who made "Strongheart" famous, has just inherited $100,000 through the death of his uncle, William Henry Edison, of Louisiana. The estate consists of extensive rice lands and personal property.

H. C. Coe, Jr., Found; Missing Since Jan. 30; Alive in Alaska Town

Mrs. Henry C. Coe, Jr., and her husband who has been found in Alaska after a world search.

Telegram from Fairbanks Tells Father and Wife World Wide Hunt for Boston Man Is Over.

New York, May 2.—Henry Clarke Coe, Jr., society man of New York and Boston, who disappeared on January 30, is alive and well in Fairbanks, Alaska, according to a telegram received by the Boston office of the Burns Detective Agency.

Dr. Henry Coe, of No. 8 West Seventy-sixth street, the wealthy father of the young man, who has spent a fortune trying to locate him, returned last night from a hurried trip to Boston, where he was summoned by the detective agency. He stated that he had received a telegram on Thursday from Boston which read:

"Important clue in the Northwest. Avoid publicity until definite." Dr. Coe lost no time in getting to Boston, and there inspected the original telegram. It contains a Fairbanks date and reads:

"Henry Coe, Jr., here in good health. The disappearance of young Coe was one of the strangest mysteries that the detectives ever had to solve. He is 25 years old, married but a short time, and apparently perfectly happy. He left his home, at 1200 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, on Saturday morning, January 30, for his office, after affectionately kissing his wife good-by. That was the last seen of him. He did not reach the office of the Standard Oil Company, nor did he go to any of the places that he usually frequented.

On March 26 a baby girl was born to Mrs. Coe. It was their first child. Mrs. Coe was the daughter of A. A. Abnie, of Boston. Much publicity was given the birth of the child in the hope that if the father read it and was purposely remaining away, he would return to see his baby. But no word was received from him.

His business affairs were in excellent condition. His disappearance was one of the strangest mysteries that the detectives ever had to solve. He is 25 years old, married but a short time, and apparently perfectly happy. He left his home, at 1200 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, on Saturday morning, January 30, for his office, after affectionately kissing his wife good-by. That was the last seen of him. He did not reach the office of the Standard Oil Company, nor did he go to any of the places that he usually frequented.

On March 26 a baby girl was born to Mrs. Coe. It was their first child. Mrs. Coe was the daughter of A. A. Abnie, of Boston. Much publicity was given the birth of the child in the hope that if the father read it and was purposely remaining away, he would return to see his baby. But no word was received from him.

His business affairs were in excellent condition. His disappearance was one of the strangest mysteries that the detectives ever had to solve. He is 25 years old, married but a short time, and apparently perfectly happy. He left his home, at 1200 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, on Saturday morning, January 30, for his office, after affectionately kissing his wife good-by. That was the last seen of him. He did not reach the office of the Standard Oil Company, nor did he go to any of the places that he usually frequented.

On March 26 a baby girl was born to Mrs. Coe. It was their first child. Mrs. Coe was the daughter of A. A. Abnie, of Boston. Much publicity was given the birth of the child in the hope that if the father read it and was purposely remaining away, he would return to see his baby. But no word was received from him.

His business affairs were in excellent condition. His disappearance was one of the strangest mysteries that the detectives ever had to solve. He is 25 years old, married but a short time, and apparently perfectly happy. He left his home, at 1200 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, on Saturday morning, January 30, for his office, after affectionately kissing his wife good-by. That was the last seen of him. He did not reach the office of the Standard Oil Company, nor did he go to any of the places that he usually frequented.

On March 26 a baby girl was born to Mrs. Coe. It was their first child. Mrs. Coe was the daughter of A. A. Abnie, of Boston. Much publicity was given the birth of the child in the hope that if the father read it and was purposely remaining away, he would return to see his baby. But no word was received from him.

His business affairs were in excellent condition. His disappearance was one of the strangest mysteries that the detectives ever had to solve. He is 25 years old, married but a short time, and apparently perfectly happy. He left his home, at 1200 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, on Saturday morning, January 30, for his office, after affectionately kissing his wife good-by. That was the last seen of him. He did not reach the office of the Standard Oil Company, nor did he go to any of the places that he usually frequented.

MRS. CARMAN IS READY FOR TRIAL

Second Prosecution for Murder of Mrs. Bailey Will Begin Today.

HER COUNSEL CONFIDENT

Knows New Information Which State Will Present at Mineola—Celia Coleman to Testify Again.

Special to The Washington Herald. Mineola, L. I., May 2.—Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, accused of the murder of Mrs. Louise D. Bailey in the office of the former's husband—Dr. Edwin Carman—in Freeport, on July 20, last, goes on trial for her life here tomorrow. This will be her second trial. The jury disagreed—ten for acquittal and two for conviction—last October.

"We have checked them before a move has been made," is the way George Morton Levy, chief of Mrs. Carman's counsel, put it tonight.

Mr. Levy's confidence was born of a rather mysterious flurry at the Carman home in Freeport today. Dr. and Mrs. Carman, Mr. Levy and his two legal associates, James M. Seaman and Harry G. Cook, and a photographer, participated in the conference. It is stated that a score of flashlight pictures of the doctor's office were taken and that the doctor and Mrs. Carman were photographed in several of the places described at the first trial by District Attorney Lewis J. Smith in his description of what happened on the night of the tragedy.

Knows Other Side's Case. Levy says that he has learned the new information the prosecution has and has taken steps to nullify its importance. District Attorney Smith will be assisted by J. E. Wilkinson, a New York lawyer who has been retained by William Bailey, husband of the murdered woman. Mrs. Carman is confident that the trial will be short and that she will be acquitted.

The State's most important witness will be Celia Coleman, the Carman's negro maid-of-all-work, who, at the first trial, testified that she saw Mrs. Carman leave the house just before the shot was fired and return directly afterward. She declared that Mrs. Carman confessed to her that she had done the shooting.

All the old sensations, such as the installation by Mrs. Carman of a dictaphone and of the face-slapping by Mrs. Carman of Elizabeth Varance, the nurse to whom the doctor gave $15, will be rehearsed.

PLATT'S SON TO GIVE TESTIMONY FOR T. R.

Gov. Whitman Will Go on Stand as Witness for Barnes in Libel Suit.

Special to The Washington Herald. Syracuse, May 2.—Frank H. Platt, son of the former United States Senator and "easy boss," arrived here tonight with a great volume of additional correspondence which passed between his father, while the Colonel was in the White House. Platt was subpoenaed by the attorneys for Roosevelt, who intend giving the complete record of this correspondence to the jury in the hope of justifying the relations between their client and the old-time Republican boss.

Roosevelt informed his attorneys that correspondence between himself and Senator Platt would clear up this phase of the case and for that reason Frank Platt was subpoenaed.

It became certain that Gov. Charles S. Whitman will be a witness for Barnes. Word has been received from the governor that he is willing to testify, and although the law does not permit that he be subpoenaed in such an action, an invitation will be sent to him by William M. Ivins, Barnes' counsel.

PASTOR'S FORD RUNS THOUGH NOT ON SYRUP

Somebody Plays Trick on Rev. William L. Davidson by Sending "Fine Lubricating Oil."

Special to The Washington Herald. New York, May 2.—"Yes," said Rev. William L. Davidson, pastor of the Fleetwood Street M. E. Church, in Brooklyn, tonight at his home, "my Ford is running again. That car had a strange experience.

"About Christmas I got a present of a gallon can of what I supposed was fine lubricating oil. Two days ago I decided to put some of it on my car.

"The car ran all right for about three blocks and stopped short. I couldn't get it to move, nor could two mechanics who came from a garage. Then they towed it away.

"I went home and decided to test the oil. It looked fine to me and I tasted it. It was maple syrup."

Pole Player Injured. Special to The Washington Herald. Baltimore, May 2.—E. Skiddy von Stade, New York man, polo player and crack amateur rider, is at the Hotel Delvidere suffering from a broken collar bone and two fractured ribs. He was injured at the race track at Pimlico Saturday while schooling a horse. Tonight Miss Kathryn Steele, accompanied by her mother, came to Baltimore to nurse Mr. von Stade, who is his fiancée.

Life-saving Collars to Sailors. Paris, May 2.—Every sailor of the French fleet is to be provided with a life-saving collar. Five thousand of these already have been delivered, following the sinking of the Leon Gambetta.

German Submarine Sinks U. S. Oilship; Three Lose Lives

Shock Kills Captain of Gulf Light and Two of Crew Drowned—President Wilson's Warning Against Destruction of American Lives Disregarded.

ACT RAISES GRAVE QUESTION

Is Considered by Diplomats the Most Serious of the Numerous Aggravations Offered this Government by Germany—On a Parity with Thrasher Killing and Cushing Attack.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald. London, May 2.—The American oil tank steamship Gulf Light was torpedoed off Bishop's Lighthouse, Scilly Islands, at noon on Saturday by a German submarine. The vessel was badly damaged and the crew was landed at Scilly by a patrol boat.

"Of the crew of thirty-six officers and men thirty-three were saved. Two men were drowned when they jumped overboard, and Capt. Alfred Gunter, her commander, died of heart disease, the result of the shock occasioned by the attack.

The Gulf Light was flying the American flag and every precaution had been taken to identify the ship as American and not belonging to any of the allies.

The vessel was picked up by steam drifters which towed it into Crow Sound, where it was beached.

The Gulf Light was laden with naphtha from Port Arthur, Tex., for Rouen.

The French steamer Europe also was torpedoed by a submarine and sunk off the Scilly Islands. The submarine ordered the crew to take to the boats and then fired several shells into the steamer. The ship did not sink from the effect of these, so the submarine launched a torpedo which sent her to the bottom. The crew of the Europe was picked up by a fishing smack and landed at Newlyn, Cornwall, England.

The Europe was bound from Barry to St. Lazaire with coal.

British Steamer Sunk. The British steamer Fulgent was sunk off Skelling Rocks, southwest of County Kerry, Ireland, in the dark early on Saturday morning, also by a German submarine. The master was shot and killed and his body taken into one of the boats. Later the boat was picked up by a trawler and its occupants landed at Killybegs. It is feared that the remainder of the crew, who occupied a second boat, which has not been found, have been lost. The Fulgent was of 1,202 tons, owned by J. Westoll, of Sunderland.

The Greek steamer Fotis, from Galveston and Norfolk for Rotterdam, has been taken into Blythe, England, by a British prize crew. It is alleged that she carried a cargo of contraband believed to be destined for Germany.

A Copenhagen dispatch says that the Swedish minister at Berlin has reported by telegraph to the release of nine coalers held by Germany. Only two Swedish coalers now remain in German ports.

Negotiations in Progress. It is understood that negotiations between Germany and Sweden in regard to the export of coal from England to Sweden are continuing, although it is feared that Germany will stop the transport of the cargoes to Swedish ports by way of the Baltic.

The Gulf Light was a steel vessel of 3,202 tons, 353 feet long, 51-foot beam, and 29 deep. She was equipped with wireless apparatus.

Lloyd's register gives two steamships under the name of Europe, both French owned. One is a twin screw steamer of 4,769 tons, 369 feet long, and 46-foot beam, registered at Havre. Her master was Capt. Enouff.

The other is of 2,026 tons, single screw, registered at Oron. Capt. Routin was her latest registered commander.

DIES TRYING TO ESCAPE. German Prisoner Shot by His Guards at Montreal. Montreal, May 2.—A German prisoner, attempting to escape today, was shot dead by guards.

One hundred and sixteen Germans, held as war captives, were being taken from central detention headquarters to be sent to St. Lawrence, when, at Bonaventure station, one broke from the ring of guards and attempted to dash to liberty.

The guards called upon him to stop. When he kept on running the order to fire was given. The Boiling man fell dead.

WAS WITH VON HINDENBERG. American Official in Philippines Saw Two German Retreats. New York, May 2.—Stephen Bonah, commissioner of public utilities in the Philippines, arrived today from Europe on the Patria. Mr. Bonah was the only passenger on the steamer Perseus in the Suez Canal when the Turkish army attacked that waterway.

"Sandbags were hung around the ship's hull as if for protection against Turkish bullets," he said, "but we continued our trip through the canal without incident."

After leaving the Perseus, Mr. Bonah went to Germany and was with Gen. von Hindenburg's army on the two occasions when the Russians were across the Prussian frontier. He declines to make any comment on the war situation on account of his official position.