CARRANZA BASES HOPES ON ARMS

Delay in Answering Peace Note Construed as Intention to Await Progress.

OFFICIALS ARE AMAZED

First Chief Asks Latin-American Diplomats Whether They Were Authorized to Act.

That First Chief Carranza intends to proceed with great deliberation in framing a reply to the Latin-American proposal that he assist in the restoration of order in Mexico by entering a peace convention with the other factional leaders is indicated in an announcement made last night at the Carranza agency that Carranza has instituted inquiries to determine whether the representatives of the seven signatories were empowered to act by their respective governments.

This is taken to mean that the first chief is playing for time in the hope that within the near future his present military movement will result in the utter defeat of his enemy. By direction of Carranza, military leaders of the constitutionalists, including the general, are being urged to demonstrate by conquest that the success of their movements. The first chief, according to advices received at the Carranza agency, is confident that with a show of arms he will be able to demonstrate by conquest that the success of their movements. The first chief, according to advices received at the Carranza agency, is confident that with a show of arms he will be able to demonstrate by conquest that the success of their movements.

Carranza's Spunk Admired.
Latin-American diplomats in Washington are disposed to admire the boldness exhibited by Carranza in answering inquiries to Mr. Lansing, who acted for the United States, and to the diplomatic representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Bolivia, and Uruguay, asking if they entered the conference in their individual capacity or as the official spokesmen of the governments named. According to an announcement made at the Carranza agency a copy of the interrogatory addressed to Secretary of State Lansing was handed to Consul John R. Silliman at Vera Cruz, with the request that he forward it to Washington without delay. Carranza acknowledges the receipt of the pan-American note and bluntly asks whether it was initiated informally or by express authority of the governments concerned.

This is the first time Carranza has sent forward under date of August 11, the suggestion was made that responses would be expected ten days after the date of delivery of all the Mexican leaders. Carranza is concerned, and he apparently is determined to withhold his response for several days. It was said at the State Department yesterday that as the note had to be dispatched by courier to leaders located in remote sections of the Mexican Republic, the ten-day limitation was not yet effective.

Conflicting Reports Made.
Conflicting reports have been made public by the two Mexican juntas in Washington relative to the outcome of recent battles between the contending forces south of the United States. The Villistas claim that they are winning right along. The Carranzistas insist that the fight will be all over in a short time. Carranza agency recently put forth the claim that its forces are now in possession of Durango. Advices received at the State Department are to the effect that this town has been retaken by a Villa army.

A State Department advices from Mexico were summarized as follows: "John R. Silliman telegraphs the department that mail for Mexico City should be routed via Vera Cruz. In this connection Carranza wishes to announce that it cannot hereafter undertake to forward private letters in the diplomatic pouch. Shortages in connection with the article wanted by Vera Cruz state that quiet prevails at these places. Reports from the west coast of Mexico indicate no change in conditions there except that the food situation at Acapulco is serious. According to a report from Guaymas, fifty Americans and other foreigners desire to leave Hermosillo for the United States. As there is no train service from Hermosillo north, they will have to depart via the coast. The British and Argentine ambassadors yesterday had conferences with Secretary Lansing. It is understood that they aimed mainly to ascertain actual conditions in Mexico.

Would Confine Navy Program to Submarines, Torpedo Boats and Mines.

A naval increase limited to submarines, torpedo boats and mine-laying apparatus was the slogan announced here yesterday afternoon by Representative Claude Kitchin, majority leader in the next House as Representatives, who said he would fight stubbornly "all big army and big navy propaganda."

That the United States may insure itself against attack by investing $20,000,000—the cost of a super-Dreadnaught—in submarines and mine-laying apparatus was asserted by Kitchin. "I shall oppose all these propositions to spend $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 for a big navy and big army."
