OPPOSES SUNDAY WORK.

Rev. John MacMurray Pleads for Sanctity of Sabbath.
Rev. John MacMurray, speaking at Union Methodist Episcopal Church last night on "The Commemoration of the Sabbath as the Greatest Menace of the Working Man," referred to the "will resulting to the working man from the using of Sunday for business purposes and for doing ordinary work, since the tendency was to make a working week for the man who works to earn his daily wage at a six-day-a-week wage."
He said that he and others wondered by what authority a firm of contractors working on the new Interior Building was permitted by the district authorities and the United States government to run their dirt dumper and dirt cars all day on Sundays and late into the night.

What Every Mother Knows.

Every Mother knows that during the trying period before baby comes the use of Mother's Friend, a dependable external remedy, obtained of druggists, is absolutely necessary so as to avoid the pains caused by undue tension upon the cords, ligaments and muscles resulting from muscular expansion. Under the surface is a network of fine nerve threads and by applying Mother's Friend all these are soothed and helped. Expansion is natural and pains are relieved. In many cases nausea, morning sickness and other distresses are avoided.

WOMAN SUSPECTED IN ARMOUR THEFT CASE

Is Held With Three Men Who the Police Say Accomplished the Hold-up.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—"We have four men and a woman arrested for the robbery of the Armour town house," said Chief of Police Healy today. "They are the right men. The woman is the wife of one of the four and is implicated with them. There is no mistake. The arrests were made as the result of conversations overheard before and after the robbery."
Those held in custody are Mr. Joseph Carlisle, Joseph Carlisle, her husband; William McLain, "Don" McLain, brother of William, and George Comrie.
"One of the prisoners was a member of the gang that aided 'Toddy' Webb, the automobile bandit, in some of his most notorious exploits. Another was at liberty on $1000 bond. He was indicted for robbery. Another man is the chauffeur of the automobile which took the robbers to the Armour house and took them away after they had held up Mrs. Armour and escaped with $250 worth of jewelry."

Mint Sauce and Roast Lamb Mystery Solved

A run on the palatable dish known as roast lamb with mint sauce has been noticed by Washington restaurateurs recently, and yesterday the reason therefor was discovered.

Government clerks and officials for the past week or two have been sniffing about their offices an appetizing odor which subtly suggested lamb and mint sauce, and forthwith were moved to go forth to lunch or dinner and indulge. Yesterday Sherman Allen, Assistant Secretary of the Federal Reserve Board, solved the mystery.

The Government Printing Office is using a new adhesive preparation for the flaps of the official envelopes used in all government departments, the various animal and vegetable ingredients of which produce the odor.

WARNS AGAINST VICE HERE.

Rev. Dr. Drew Says Hundreds of Dives Must Close.

Before 3,000 persons in Cosmopolitan Baptist Church yesterday, Rev. Dr. Simon P. W. Drew declared that vice is as prevalent in Washington today as in New York and other cities twice the size of the National Capital. He called upon the colored people of the city to make a concerted effort "to stamp out vice, which is sapping the life of the best of our people and ruining our race."
He referred to a recent raid on a club, in which more than 100 were caught purchasing whisky on Sunday, as an excellent example of the vice in the District. He warned the congregation that there are hundreds of similar dives in the city which should be closed.

Dr. Drew's sermon, which marked the opening of a forty-day revival meeting, was "The Handwriting on the Wall." He will be assisted in the revival by a number of colored ministers of this city and Richmond, Va.

SURGEONS WILL STUDY WAR'S NEW PROBLEMS

Military Men Meet Today at Raleigh Hotel—Interesting Topics Planned.

Methods of treating wounds inflicted in modern warfare will be discussed by the convention of the Association of Military Surgeons, which opens at the Raleigh Hotel at 9 o'clock this morning. The convention is regarded as significant at this time when the administration is mapping out a plan for preparation for the possible attack of a foreign power.

This morning's session will be devoted to business. The scientific discussion will begin at 2 o'clock this afternoon and will be held tomorrow and Wednesday afternoons. "Gases in Warfare," by Medical Director George A. Lang, U. S. N., and "The Submarine, Its Campaigns in Time of Peace and War," by Assistant Surgeon W. H. Halsey, U. S. N., are two interesting subjects that will be discussed by the convention.
"This meeting," said Gen. Samuel C. Stanton, the secretary, yesterday, "is essentially a working meeting. Little time will be given to the banquet. The scientific program will be unusually instructive and attractive. The papers will deal with up-to-the-minute subjects relating to military surgery and medicine in time of peace and war."
At 9 o'clock tonight a reception will be held at the Raleigh in honor of Col. Jefferson H. Keane, medical corps, U. S. A., president of the association.

Commissioner Brownlow will deliver an address in behalf of the District government at an open meeting in the banquet hall of the hotel tomorrow evening. Tomorrow afternoon the women who are accompanying the delegates will be taken on a sight-seeing tour of the city, stopping at the summer home of Dr. W. Charles M. Richardson, Grant road near Chevy Chase.

Two of the topics to be taken up are "The Relation of the Army Medical Corps to the Army Medical Corps and the Medical Corps of the Organized Militia," by Maj. W. O. Owen, U. S. A., and "Preparations of the Medical Department for Battle," by Surgeon A. Farenholt, U. S. N., Medical officer of the Public Health Service will present papers on cholera, plague and other diseases that attack armies in the field.

MAN SHOT BY POLICE IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Richard Miller Undergoes Operation. Surgeons Extract Bullet Which Pierced Vital Organs.

Richard Miller, 35, colored, was shot early yesterday by Policeman B. C. Kuehling, of the Fourth precinct, was operated upon at Casualty Hospital. The bullet entered the left side and was extracted from his left hip. It had passed through several vital organs. Miller is in a critical condition.

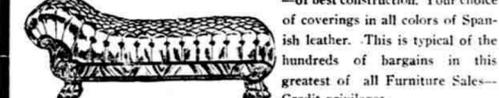

Kuehling is exonerated for the shooting by his superior in the precinct. Statements from bystanders corroborate the policeman's declaration that he shot only after his position was precarious. He was arresting Miller for "unlawful assembly." Miller resisted, grabbed the policeman's club and entangled his arm in the cord. It is said.

Stabbed Man Refuses to "Squeal"

Special Correspondent of the Washington Herald.

New York, Sept. 12.—Lloyd Newton, old friend, has been the victim of a busted romance. He has left the Hotel Vanderbilt with sorrow in his bearing and the light of a hopeless love in his eyes. It is all over.
Lloyd Newton is really Ernest William Andrews and lives right here in New York City. He came over from England a week or so ago with Miss Eleanor Campbell, a handsome Manhattan girl. He brought her a card which read: "Lord Norton, No. 12 Grosvenor square." She was a New York wife and jollied him along in a perfectly ripping way.
When he arrived he picked out a $20 suit at the hotel and began to sash around like a regular fellow. He tipped his hat—Broadway says—when he borrowed $2 from a carrier started off. A pseudo lord had some friends who got him out of the police station.

When reporters saw him they inquired if he knew Miss Campbell had money. "Oh, yes," he replied. "I can always tell a rich New York girl"—and then after a slight hesitation, "but I can't tell her much."

Maud Allan has brought home the news that has confirmed the direct suspicions. The one-step has won its way around the world. For two years she has been circumnavigating the globe with her classic dancing. She has found the tango, turkey trot and one-step were becoming a hysteria in all the foreign countries.

R. M. Brinkhoff, who used to draw cartoons in Toledo, Cleveland and Cincinnati, has joined the staff of the Evening Mail, where he will shine with gold-braids.
The cartoon job was first allotted to E. A. Bushnell, but after a few days "Bush" decided that the West was calling him and so he is going to the Frisco fair on some special assignment work.

Several superstitious young ladies have resigned their jobs in a Broadway theater as ushers. An astute management decided that the ushers should wear knickerbockers. Immediately the ladies walked out. Don Marquis sympathizingly suggests that perhaps they only lacked adequate understanding.

The Automat has had a thrilling romance. Al Shean, the actor, dropped in the other day for a quick cup of coffee between rehearsals. Across from him sat a boy and girl in full view of the nickel inserters and food absorbers. They were oblivious to all but themselves. He looked like a Lyndecker collar model and she wore her hair like Mrs. Vernon Castle. His coffee grew cold as he pleaded and she by eating the luncheon grew aware of the fact that something interesting was going on.

Shortly after the colored boy pulled a tiny square red morocco box from his vest pocket. Excitement in the Automat by this time was at a fever heat. At last the girl smiled and put out her hand and the lid slipped the ring on. Then the buzz of diners and the clatter of china was resumed.

Port Chester has a scandal. A well-known writer there was driving from his New York office. He caught up with three ladies and asked them to ride. Believing there was safety in numbers and anxious to escape a long walk, they consented. One of the ladies left an overcoat and another an umbrella in the automobile and now the owner of the car has a wife who does not speak to him and talks of divorce. And the husband himself says he cannot blame her much.

McAlpin Chief Talks of Ducks.

Chief Edouard Pancharod, of the Hotel McAlpin, was yesterday shown a Washington dispatch propounding a query from T. Gilbert Pearson, an authority on game birds, who is in Washington to tell the Attorney General there are too many fall migratory ducks in evidence in the fall migratory trade.
"When you go into a hotel and look down the bill of fare to the place where it says 'Ducks' it is a question of how are you to know it is 'wild'?" asked Mr. Pearson, who in the next breath declared "you can't tell."
"It is very well known," said Chief Pancharod, "that canvasbacks have been off the market for three years, and consequently, absent from high-class hotels and restaurants bills of fare for the same length of time, for the game laws of the country make it illegal to hunt them. There is a report, by the way, that the coming season will find them on the 'open' list for sportmen. But," continued the chef, "when one reads 'wild duck' on a first-class hotel menu, he is safe in placing a good wager that it is exactly as stated, for there are still mallards and teal to be had in season. It is proper to suggest that a tame or domesticated duck could be placed before an enticement who in the habit of ordering such a dish, and paying $6 for it, for the dark meat and gamy flavor cannot be substituted by any art in the culinary line. The head of a duck is always served with the bird, which is a guaranty for one who knows.

"I don't know what might happen in the beanery," but imagination points to a young athlete who spends his days in chasing and teasing the barnyard variety of duck until he is really wild.
"The French have a way of ordering such a dish, and giving $6 for it, for the dark meat and gamy flavor cannot be substituted by any art in the culinary line. The head of a duck is always served with the bird, which is a guaranty for one who knows.
