Under the Bryan standard organized opposition will be offered the administration's program for increased army and navy expenditures in the next Congress. Small army and navy Democrats hope that Claude Kitchin, of North Carolina, the majority leader of the House, will organize and lead the fight.

Plans now are being laid for a caucus of the "unpreparedness army" in the House to be called a few days before the convening of the forty-fourth Congress and to bind its members to united opposition to the administration's program.

Democrats who are organizing the opposition unofficially are doing it with a full realization that a party split, such as they hope to bring about, probably will result in the defeat of 1916 candidates.

These are statements of fact, not conjecture. They are based upon statements made by a representative of the House, The Herald by Warren Worth Bailey, Representative in Congress from Johnston, Pa., and recognized as the leading Democratic member of the House. Bailey based his predictions upon personal correspondence with those of his Democratic colleagues who have been elected through their votes in the last Congress as small army or small navy men.

In a statement issued yesterday Mr. Bailey announced that he had addressed upward of sixty of these members, asking them "whether, in their opinion, events has so shaped themselves in the interval (between March 4 and recently) as to warrant a change in their attitude with respect to increased appropriations for the army and navy."

Mr. Bailey's statement proceeded to quote the replies of the members. "Practically all the members addressed have replied to the Bailey letter, most of them declaring without reservation that they are prepared to renew the fight they made to safeguard the Treasury against what they classify as the 'jingo raiders.'"

CARRANZA RECOGNITION URGED BY CONFREES

Secretary Lansing last night authorized the statement that the conference was unanimous in recommending that Carranza be recognized as the legitimate government of Mexico.

It is also stated that inquiry made in Latin-American quarters here disclosed the fact that all the other governments could undoubtedly be counted upon to follow the lead of the United States and the six Latin-American members of the conference.

El Paso, Oct. 9.—The war has just begun and before it is done the nations which recognized Carranza will learn to their sorrow that they have supported a weakling.

From the platform of his special car he waived to a group of soldiers standing by. "I will have thousands of men like those following before long," he said. "Henceforth it will be a war of extermination like the one our enemies have pursued. I will give no quarter nor ask for it. I will feed my men and horses on the provisions of the country I traverse, and when I have no money to pay I will seize it by force of arms. The command is to march on with me. They know I am fighting for them."

I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and each received a cure as every rheumatism, and I feel a cure every time.
