USES NAILS IN UNIQUE SERMON

Dr. Bruner Shows How Habits Will Prevent Entering God's Kingdom.

"CHRISTIANITY IS FUTILE"

Pleads to Young People Against Liquor, Cigarettes, Smoking, and Immoral Methods of Dress.

The first week of the evangelistic campaign being conducted in the National Capital by Dr. Weston Bruner, superintendent of evangelism of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, came to a close yesterday at the Fifth Baptist Church, when more than 700 youths listened with rapt attention as Dr. Bruner preached what was probably the most unique sermon ever delivered in Washington.

Each of the young people present had been asked to bring a nail to the service, and the nails were heaped in a big pile on one of two tables in front of the pulpit.

Dr. Bruner took as his theme the "Kingdom of God," and how, when they were shaken off, the kingdom was at hand. Christianity cannot save, he said, when one is carrying the loadstones of strong drink, immodest dress, smoking habits, and gambling.

Dr. Bruner showed how these things held one back from attaining the "Kingdom of God," and how, when they were shaken off, the kingdom was at hand. Christianity cannot save, he said, when one is carrying the loadstones of strong drink, immodest dress, smoking habits, and gambling.

June Assault Made With Talcum Can Dated July 11, So Lillian is Guilty

"Judge, I didn't hit that woman with no blackjack," Lillian Fleming, colored, a resident of Anacostia, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, sat nonchalantly in the witness box in Criminal Court, No. 1, and wagged her head with emphasis as she looked up at Chief Justice Covington.

"No, saire, Judge, it wa'n't no dangerous weapon a-tall. What I struck that woman with was nary thing but a box of talcum powder, so help me. I'll show you, I will. You see, Judge, when I goes to dances or barbecues or festivities of like character I carries with me my little vanity bag. Here it is."

Lillian held "exhibit A" high above her head.

"In my little vanity bag I always carries a box of talcum powder to adjust my twilight with, you understand. Here it is."

Lillian then held "exhibit B" high above her head.

Well, Judge, this is what I hit that woman with, and you know, Judge, talcum powder ain't no dangerous weapon.

"Is that the talcum powder box?" asked his honor.

"The very same box."

"Let me see it," said Chief Justice Covington. He scrutinized the little box with the minuteness of a Sherlock Holmes. Then he asked:

"In what month did this assault occur?"

"June."

"Well," remarked the court, "the date on the revenue stamp on the end of the box is July 11."

The jury returned a verdict of guilty.

PRAISES SOLDIERS FOR HEROISM THEY EXHIBIT

Dr. Van Schaick Cites Patience, Forgiveness and Modesty as Attributes of Europe's Fighting Millions.

In the first of a series of sermons on "The Great War Virtues," in the Church of Our Father, last night, Rev. John Van Schaick, Jr., lauded the heroism and modesty of the men fighting in Europe.

Dr. Van Schaick recently returned from abroad. Alluding to his trip he said: "My months abroad have not weakened my faith but have strengthened it. I have seen, not simply the brutality of

GIVES $3,000 FOR MASONIC TEMPLE

Kentucky Grand Lodge Aids Work of Raising Washington Memorial Funds.

OTHER STATES APPROVE

Alexandrians Would Erect Structure Costing $1,000,000 in George Washington Park.

Alexandria, Va., Oct. 31.—A contribution of $3,000 has just been made by the Grand Lodge of Masons of Kentucky towards the erection of the million-dollar memorial temple to Washington in the Mason, which it is proposed to erect in Alexandria. The Grand Lodge of Colorado has also contributed $500 to the project. It is believed that the other states will follow the lead of the first installment of a larger sum from that lodge.

Both these grand lodges have subscribed their quota of members to the honor roll, costing $100 per member. The first $100,000 raised came from these memberships.

The grand lodges of Mississippi, Arizona, New Mexico and Arkansas have approved the project, and will be represented at the next meeting of the association here on February 22.

It is probable that at this meeting a site for the memorial will be chosen. The site picked by the local committee is in George Washington Park.

LAUDS EXCISE BOARD FROM CHURCH PULPIT

Dr. MacMurray Says Capital Will Be Better Place to Live With Fewer Saloons.

Praise for the Excise Board for the manner in which it handled the recent hearings and its final decision, which it reduced the number of saloons in the District, was voiced by the Rev. John MacMurray in his sermon at the Union Methodist Episcopal Church last night.

Dr. MacMurray took as his theme "Our Brother's Keeper" and said that we cannot evade the responsibility imposed upon us of looking after the welfare and best interests of our world brothers and sisters, since we are all of one great family.

Referring to the decision of the Excise Board, Dr. MacMurray said: "Washington will be a cleaner and a better place as the result of the Excise Board's action in reducing the number of saloons."

POLICE TO BEGIN WORK ON THE CENSUS TODAY

Canvass of District Made Every Two Years—May Show Population of About 370,000.

The police department this morning will begin a canvass of the District on its biennial census-taking. It is believed the work will occupy a week or ten days. The department takes a census of the District every two years for its police records.

The census has shown an increase in the District's population of about 6,000 people annually. The last report was 353,297 inhabitants, of which 255,153 were white and 98,144 colored. If the increase during the past two years has been as heretofore, Washington will have a population of about 370,000.

MRS. GALT'S MOTHER ESCAPES; GIRL DIES

Occupants of Cordova Apartments Endangered by Death-dealing Gas.

One girl was killed and the lives of more than 100 other people were so endangered by odorless gas in the Cordova apartment house last night, that a warning and order was issued by Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt to have the big building thoroughly ventilated. Among those who were sleeping in the building and in danger were Mrs. W. S. Bolling, mother of Mrs. Norman Galt, mistress of the President, and her son, J. Randolph Bolling.

Miss Louise Roberts, 23, was killed by the gas, hydrocyanic, which arose from a mixture of insect poisoning. Two physicians and two women were made violently ill by the gas, restoratives being necessary in one case.

Miss Roberts, who lived in the Cordova, Twentieth street and Florida avenue northwest, was a guest in the apartment of Mrs. W. D. Baldwin in the same building. Shortly after they retired for the night, Miss Roberts complained of being ill.

Mrs. Baldwin telephoned for Dr. Ira W. Dennison. When the latter arrived, Dr. Baldwin had almost collapsed, so quickly did the gas work. Miss Roberts was beyond resuscitation.

Dr. D. C. Howard was called to the apartment, and when he arrived, Dr. Dennison was ill. Dr. Howard also was affected by the gas before the dying girl and weakened hostess were removed from the apartment.

Davidson Daniel, M. P., the new proprietor of the London Fall Mall Gazette, is also the owner of Reynolds' newspaper, a Sunday paper which for many years was rather malodorous in the minds of Londoners. It stooped to all sorts of violence in doctrines and got into trouble during the reign of Queen Victoria for proposing the setting up of a republic. During the war he has been a partner with Sir Arthur MacMahon, M. P., in a bookish agency answering Mr. Asquith and his ministers.

Dr. McKim Explains Split In Episcopal Board of Missions

Rector Indirectly Scores Bishop Harding and Others Who Quit Body—Says Action Is Outcropping of Antagonistic Anti-Protestant Movement.

Declaring the opposition to the sending of delegates to the Episcopal board of missions to the Panama conference must be taken in the same light as the attempt to "destroy the protestant character of the Episcopal church," Rev. Dr. Randolph H. McKim took sharp issue with Bishop Harding, of Washington, and the other bishops who resigned from the board last week in his sermon yesterday morning at the Church of the Epiphany. His sermon was delivered in these words:

"The public press has made you aware that there has been an acute difference of opinion in the board of missions on the question of our participation in the Panama congress to be held in February next and that after a stormy session five members of the board resigned from the board last week because three of them are Catholics and the remainder are Protestants. The conditions that he deplored exist largely in South America.

"But it is not necessary to attempt to proselyte Roman Catholics because three tens of thousands all over the country, who are not sheltered by that church, make, therefore, the following affirmations:

"First—The Panama Congress is not organized for regulation on ecclesiastical questions, or even on that of a missionary policy, but for the honest investigation of the problems of missionary work in Latin America and for full brotherly conference as to how the needs of Latin America can be most effectively met by the gospel of Christ."

"Second—It is not true that the predominant note in the congress will be anti-Roman."

"Third—It is not true that the Roman Catholic Church is excluded from the congress."

"Fourth—It is not true that the purpose of the congress is to proselyte members of the Roman Catholic Church."

Wide to Send Delegates.

"With this understanding of the spirit and the purpose and the scope of the Panama Congress, I think you will agree with me that it was wise and right and Christian to have the Board of Missions to vote to send delegates to attend that conference. We are already committed to missionary work in South America through our successful mission in Brazil under Bishop Lucien Kinsolving. We are, therefore, deeply concerned in the proceedings of this approaching congress, and in participating in it we are not entering upon any new enterprise, but only seeking light for the better prosecution of an enterprise already undertaken."

"I rejoice, therefore, and I believe you will rejoice with me, that at the meeting of the board on Tuesday last the proposition to rescind the action taken in May, when it was decided to send delegates to the said congress, was overwhelmingly defeated by a vote of two to one. It is, however, a painful fact that upon such a proposition—so wise, so reasonable, so Christian—the Christians have not had a unanimous sentiment in our board."

Opposed to Protestantism.

"As to the grounds upon which this important action was so vehemently opposed there was no unanimity. Some evidently voted to rescind the action upon grounds of expediency—because of the bitter opposition of a portion of the church. Others evidently voted upon a complete misinterpretation of the spirit and purpose of the said congress, although it almost passes comprehension that any one could have been in doubt as to the real spirit and the real purpose of the congress."

"A few—and they the leading spirits in the opposition, the men who displayed extraordinary bitterness on the question—were dominated, I regret to say, by their antagonism to Protestantism in any form. It is impossible to doubt that the fundamental objection of this group was any recognition on our part of fellowship with any other Protestant communities and to any acknowledgment that this church in recent years has departed from its principles. The two conspicuous leaders in the debate on that side took strong ground against our participating in anything that might be called pan-Protestantism."

Outcropping of Antagonism.

"From this point of view the matter takes on a very serious aspect, indeed. It is an outcropping of that deep fundamental antagonism which has grown up in the Episcopal church in recent years between those who stand by the history and the record of this church from the time of the Reformation to the middle of the last century and those who in recent years have brought in new principles of a revolutionary character, principles which can only result in destroying the Protestant character of this church."

"We are here, I regret to say, face to face with an irreconcilable antagonism. I can see no possible real unity between those who are loyal to the principles we affirmed in the Reformation in the

SCORE OF MEN ARRESTED.

Two Raids Made on Alleged Unlicensed Barrooms.

Two raids on alleged unlicensed barrooms were conducted by police of the Third precinct yesterday afternoon. The raiding squad was led by Sgt. Brown and Detective W. E. Smith, with Policemen Thompson, Elliott, and Wilson. More than a score of men were arrested.

The first arrest was made at 237 Virginia avenue northwest, operated as an oyster house by Benjamin Lucas. Police say they confiscated beer, whisky, and wines. Lucas was held under collateral of $250.

The second raid was at 4 o'clock on a luncheon at 2610 F street northwest, operated by William Keppman. Keppman was released under $500.
