ASK TO SHOOT GERMANS ATTEMPTING TO ESCAPE

Navy Department Wants to Know How Far It Can Go to Hold Interned Men.

Great Britain and France have protested to the United States on the frequent escapes of officers and members of the crews of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich and the Kron Prinz Wilhelm, the German interned cruisers at Norfolk, Va.

The Navy Department acted at once upon the request by asking the State Department for a ruling as to whether the United States would be within their rights if they shot any one trying to flee from either of the vessels. The State Department had not made the ruling last night.

Officials indicated that plans are being made to keep a closer watch on the vessels. Neither officers nor men will be permitted to leave either vessel without permission from Admiral Beatty, commander of the Norfolk Navy Yard.

This government also plans to demand from Germany that those who escaped from the ships be sent back to the United States if they reach that country. They would be kept here until the close of the war.

THOUGHT BRYAN INSULTING.

Teston Didn't Understand Word "Teetotaler" Applied to Kaiser. Senator Alton Pomeroy, of Ohio, tells a story about William J. Bryan's recent campaign for the "dry" in Ohio and how Mr. Bryan was suspected of being neutral by one of his whilom German admirers. In the course of an argument at Canton, Pa., on prohibition, Mr. Bryan observed that he was glad so many Germans were present and remarked that the German Emperor was a "teetotaler."

Immediately afterward there was a disturbance in the audience and several persons engaged in an argument with German-American who appeared to be trying to reach Mr. Bryan or expostulate with him. The speech was finally suspended and the excited individual excluded. After he was well out of the hall some one asked him why he tried to break up the meeting.

He called the Kaiser a hard name, was the disgusted reply. "I did not think Mr. Bryan would be so personal."

EIGHT-HOUR LAW IS HELD CONSTITUTIONAL

Appeals Court Upholds Decision of Lower Bench in Case of Susan H. Hotchkiss.

The District Court of Appeals upheld the constitutionality of the District eight-hour law affecting female employment yesterday, when attorneys for Susan H. Hotchkiss, a Washington dressmaker, were refused a writ of error and the privilege of appealing from the action of the lower court. The Court of Appeals held that the eight-hour law statute is purely local to the District and therefore not reviewable on error, and the appeal to the Supreme Court was denied on the ground that the question of the constitutionality of the statute was not presented in a decision of the Supreme Court in a California female labor case.

FARMERS' PROFIT GAINS FROM WAR

"War Stocks" May Sky-rocket, but Rural Men Pocket Real Coin.

PLANTS AND SELLS MORE

Both Acreage and Yield Increase in All Crops Except Cotton, Which Is Kept Down.

Skyscraping of "war stocks" is the spectacular effect of the European war—the American farmer is quietly pocketing a big profit out of it. Last year the boom in the United States, due partly to the first year of the conflict.

"War commodities" that showed increased acreage were: Sugar beets, 20 per cent; increase; rice, 18 per cent; wheat, 15 per cent; corn, 12 per cent; tobacco, 5 per cent; corn, 6 per cent; oats, 5 per cent; hay, 3 per cent; rye, 2 per cent; potatoes, nearly 100 per cent; flax, barley and cotton acreage decreased.

Not only did the acreage increase, but the department's figures indicate an increased yield per acre. The demand for wheat last year practically exhausted the reserve supply and the price of wheat rose to another. The demand for corn was impelling—50,000,000 bushels (2 per cent) and the price of wheat to 2,622,000,000 bushels last year.

Ons Exported Take Jump. Exports of oats took a big jump in the first year of the war. Agriculture Department statisticians estimate that 97,000,000 bushels of oats were exported last year, or 100 per cent more than the other side—3 per cent of the crop. Cotton exports slumped. Usually about 65 to 70 per cent of the crop is exported, but this year it went abroad during the first year of the war—8,323,000 bales as against 12,100,000 bales in 1914. There is a surplus of 2,000,000 bales of the previous crop on hand. The domestic requirement for cotton are increasing, however, reducing the amount available for export, which this year may be regarded as about 15 per cent more than last year.

Meats and dairy exports were valued at $220,000,000, a 50 per cent increase over the preceding year.

TO PROTECT UNIFORM.

Officials Will Bar Articles Like Jack London's. Government officials say the action of the Postmaster General in barring from the mails an article by Jack London entitled "A Good Soldier" should be accepted as an indication of a purpose on the part of those in authority to protect the uniform and those who wear it from insult or affront. Mr. London's article, according to the authorities, was offensive to the military authorities as well as to the men in the ranks. Mr. London stated that a man "could go no lower than to be a 'good soldier'."

This observation and the general content of Mr. London's article was interpreted as a violation of the law governing the admission of printed matter to the mails. It is the understanding of the authorities that the article in question was distributed by organizations "with the purpose of opposition to increased appropriations for preparedness."

COLLEGE MEN HEAR HAPGOOD

Discusses Relation of Journalism to Politics at University Club.

Dr. Wiley, Col. John Temple Graves, and Will Irwin Also Speak on Newspaper Making.

That the invisible government which controls newspaper opinion has its cabinet meetings in clubs, at dinners and luncheons, was the statement of Norman Hapgood, editor of Harper's Weekly, before members of the University Club last night.

Dr. Hapgood discussed the relation of journalism to politics and he offered no solution for the problems which he presented. He told his opinion on the question confronting both newspapers and magazines on one hand and their readers on the other. "A newspaper is a piece of property," said Mr. Hapgood, "it represents the prejudice of property. Its owner belongs to a certain class. He is a member of the invisible government. He forms an opinion and they are expressed through the newspapers."

"Few newspapers are bought; it is as if they were force controls newspapers it is to say where we get our prejudices."

Advertisements Determine Attitude. The newspaper attitude on the Stevens merchant marine bill will be determined indirectly by advertisers, whose opinions are those of newspaper owners, Mr. Hapgood said.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Col. John Temple Graves, and Will Irwin participated in discussion which followed. Dr. Wiley said that the problem is how long readers will be content to be objects of charity. The people, he said, are content to pay 1 cent for a newspaper and 2 cents for a magazine. He said that Mr. Graves deprecated the idea of the counting house or business office with the editorial department.

Wonder Clothes Shops STORES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

No ready-to-wear clothes of equal quality can be sold at a price as low as the WONDER PRICE unless they command a market as large as do the

Wonder Clothes for Men and Young Men

If it were not for the size of the Wonder Clothes CLIENTELE these goods could not be manufactured and marketed at their present value. They are too fine in every element that constitutes QUALITY, to be distributed in any lesser volume at the present figure.

If it's field were limited to 50,000 or even twice that number of purchases in the different cities of the United States it would be necessary for the WONDER CLOTHES COMPANY to advance the price.

A competent expert on ready-to-wear clothes, examining the WONDER CLOTHES, will tell you emphatically that nothing but a large output could possibly justify their superb craftsmanship at such moderate price. He will tell you without hesitation but quite aside from performance, that the intrinsic worth is so great that it represents in the best sense of a much abused word, a value unequalled among ready-to-wear clothes.

If you will ask a WONDER CLOTHES WEARER, of whom there are hundreds of thousands in all the large cities of the United States, as well as in this city, they will tell you more about WONDER CLOTHES.
