

FIRST STONE OF SANCTUARY LAID

New Work at Episcopal Cathedral Begins with Raising of Flag. ENSIGN TOPS MONUMENT

School Children at Exercises on Mount St. Alban—Prayer Will Be Offered for Workmen Daily.

The first stone in the new construction of the Sanctuary of the Episcopal Cathedral was laid early yesterday morning.

For the lifting of the stone to its place the George A. Fuller Company has erected a big steel derrick on top of the Cathedral.

In recognition of the laying of the stone simple exercises were held yesterday afternoon. With prayers for the nation, for the working men, and for divine guidance Bishop Harding and Canon de Vries raised a big American flag.

Because of the great height of Mount St. Alban above the common city level, the flag is now flying from the top of the tower where it will be every day until the process of construction is completed.

Every day at evening, by appointment of the bishop, a prayer is offered for the working men that they may be protected from hurt and harm.

The Attitude That Wins.

By OLIVAN SWETT MARDEN.

It is very difficult to get very far from people's estimate of us. A lot of our friends are of the opinion that it is impossible afterward wholly to remove.

Freer Collection Will Bring Greater Art Memorials Here

Chairman Moore, of Art Commission, Thinks Detroit Man's Gift of Paintings and Building Will Open Way for Others.

Although the coming of Charles L. Freer's $500,000 art collection to Washington is a great thing for this country, according to Charles Moore, chairman of the Federal Fine Arts Commission, an even greater thing will be its influence upon other men, desiring to establish memorials in the next few years, will turn their attention to the nation's capital.
