

FIGHT FOR D. C. VOTES STARTED

Bailey Bill Provides for Election of Commissioners Without Representation.

REST DAY FOR LABOR

Chamberlain-Austin Measure, Providing Equal Franchise, May Be Introduced in Both Houses Today.

A bill providing for a measure of self-government in the District, through the election of a Board of Commissioners...

Mr. Bailey, who is a single tax payer, also introduced a bill which seeks to assess and tax the value of the provisions of the Pennsylvania law for cities of the second class...

Under the terms of a bill introduced by Representative Frank Buchanan, of Illinois, a labor member, one day of rest out of every seven is required for all employees in the District...

Penalties Would Be Heavy

The bill provides for a force of labor inspectors to detect violations of the law and provides the following penalties: First offense, $100 to $200...

The resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to admit the District of Columbia to the Union, with rights with the States of the Union, which was prepared by Chapin Brown, Theodore W. Noyes and H. Leffewich Sinclair...

Representative Harrison, of Mississippi, yesterday introduced a "Jim Crow" bill, affecting the District and proposed by Fitzerald, of New York, dropped in the hopper a bill providing for the construction here of a $200,000 memorial to John Ericsson...

LOCAL KENNEL CLUB TO FORM LOST DOG BUREAU

Organization Also Arranges for Annual Canine Show in March. New Members Admitted.

The annual dog show of the Washington Kennel Club will be held in Washington March 14, 15 and 16, these dates having been decided upon last night at the first meeting of the club...

Members of the club decided last night to attend the annual show of the Westminster Kennel Club, to be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, February 22, in a body.

A committee composed of R. H. Atkinson, chairman; Dr. George N. Payette, Capt. Grove A. Porter, E. J. Rout, and George Goodacre was appointed to have charge of monthly matches to be conducted among members of the local club.

The club decided to form a lost dog bureau to assist in locating stray dogs. The headquarters of the bureau will be at Schmidt's bird store, this committee that will have charge of this work is composed of E. S. Schmidt, chairman; J. O. Evans and A. Watson.

Seven new members were admitted: Miss H. K. Elliott, Miss Rosenthal, William Smith, Herman Benning, Dr. Gustav I. Schurz, Arthur M. Burkin, Jr., and Wade Goodwin.

LABOR MEN WANT TAX PUT ON "NEAR-BEER"

Central Union Will Make Effort to Have Congress Put Levy on It Similar to Beer.

Believing that "near-beer" is entirely too near to get untaxed, the central labor union tonight instructed its legislative committee to endeavor to have Congress place this beverage under the same restrictions in the District as regular brewed beer.

The union men began their fight on "near beer" several months ago, when they adopted a resolution asking that the slight differences in the per cent of alcohol in the two beverages did not warrant the exclusion of the weaker brew from the revenue and license law.

The legislative committee, composed of John B. Colquhoun, John H. Lynch, William H. H. Lewis, and D. J. O'Leary, will take immediate steps to interest its friends in Congress in the matter, and will endeavor to carry out the resolution during the winter placing the two beverages on an equal footing.

The union continued its campaign against "near beer" by circulating the stand taken by the Trades Unionist, the local police officials are lax in enforcing the law against the carrying of concealed weapons without a legitimate reason, and the delegates to the union were urged to send to the Trades Unionist their opinions on the matter.

Members of the executive board are: George L. Clayton, president; D. V. O'Leary, vice president; A. B. Vall, secretary; Louis H. H. Lewis, treasurer; W. O. Millington, E. C. Saltman, Henry C. Butler, T. K. Saunders, Fred Barnes, Lee B. Wilson, B. E. Hutchinson, and Seabury G. Quinn.

Changes Murder Plea. Simon G. Gowan, indicted for first degree murder by grand jury, appeared before Judge Conington yesterday and asked the court to permit him to withdraw his plea of not guilty to the charge and plead guilty to a charge of second degree murder. The court granted the permission. Gowan is alleged to have shot his wife, Dorothy Abbott Gowan, on the night of October 10, 1914, the woman dying at Emergency Hospital three days later.

An increased inclination is shown by British railways to abolish second-class fares, leaving only first and third.

Commissioners Ask More Central Authority To Run Certain Branches of D. C. Government

Request Congress to Put Schools Under One Director with Advisory Board of Five—Would Reorganize the Board of Charities. Seek Appointive Powers Now Held by President. Nearly Fifteen and a Half Millions Asked for Budget.

Sweeping changes in the management of certain branches of the District government are advocated by the Commissioners in their estimate of the expenses of the District for the next fiscal year, submitted to Congress yesterday.

The changes—which include a reorganization of the school system and the office of charities, and a change in the manner of collecting revenue—are desired for the purpose of centralizing authority over the District in the Commissioners.

The Commissioners ask for authority to appoint the board of children's guardians now appointed by the judges of the Police and Municipal Courts, the board of charities, now named by the President, the recorder of deeds, named by the President, and the justices of the District Supreme Court.

In support of these legislative requests, the Commissioners point out that they are not satisfied with the expenditures of the District, but have no jurisdiction over many branches of the city government. They charge that the changes will increase the efficiency in running the District, and point out that the reforms they advocate are in line with the methods of cities where the central authority of government is proving successful.

The substitution of a director of education and an advisory board of five for the present Board of Education is advocated, because, the Commissioners point out, at present the school system is operated entirely apart from the city government. The present board is appointed by the District Supreme Court, and is not subject to supervision by either the Mayor or the Commissioners.

Other changes important. The recommendations for the office of charities and the board of children's guardians are similar. The Commissioners ask for a director of charities and an advisory board of five.

Another change requested is that the supervision of the National Training School for Girls be transferred from the legislative Attorney General, to the District Commissioners. It also is asked that the Water department be placed entirely under the Commissioners. At present the water is brought into the District by the Federal Government, and filtered under supervision of the War Department.

Annual Tax Assessment. In revenue reforms, the Commissioners ask for annual instead of triennial annual assessment in the District, annual registration of automobiles, and an increase in the force of employees in the assessor's office.

Other school requests are: $50,000 for an eight-room addition to the Elizabeth V. Brown School, Chevy Chase; $60,000 for a four-room addition to the Glasgow School, Second and T streets northeast; $2,000 for an eight-room addition to the Peterson School; $50,000 for a site for the new school, somewhere between Monroe, Newton and Eighteenth and Twentieth streets; $40,000 for a site for a wagon shed at the propagating gardens.

Recommendations for expenditures of particular interest to the District in the estimates of various executive departments, include many salary increases. The Civil Service Commission wants salary increases for employees, aggregating $70,000; the State Department wants $12,000 more for its pay roll, and the Patent Office seeks $2,500 more for new patents.

Estimates for public parks in the District are $200,000 greater than last year, including a $50,000 appropriation asked for the reconstruction of the field house in Potomac Park. In addition, an immediate appropriation of $200,000 is asked for the commencement of work on the proposed extension of Rock Park and the Zoo with Potomac Park.

To complete the new building of the interior department, $1,026,000 is asked; $134,000 is wanted to complete the central heating plant, and $200,000 is asked for one year's work on the Lincoln Memorial. The estimates also include $200,000 for aids to navigation in the Potomac River.

Seek Many Public Improvements. The following items are carried under the caption "District of Columbia" in the estimates: Improving Botanic Garden building, $10,574; an increase of $4,574 for remodeling the Butler building, $12,000; for plans and estimates for a new patent office building, $5,000; new roof for Treasury building, $30,000; remodeling fourth story, $15,000; repairs to remodeling building, $1,500; new road pavement, curbs, gutters and sidewalks on the E and F street roadways through Judiciary park, $15,000; for constructing a large fountain at Eighth street and Wisconsin avenue northwest, $5,000; for improving the site of the old high-service reservoir at the southwest corner of Wisconsin avenue and R street northwest, which is hereby made a part of the park system of the District of Columbia, under the chief engineer, United States army, $5,000; for replacing the post-and-chain fence around Rawlins park with a cement coping, and for rearranging the walks and improving the planting, $2,000; for improving seven small bridges, $1,000; for moving out the sea wall on the river side of West Potomac park, $25,000; for extending Eashy Point power in West Potomac park, $12,000; for rebuilding the sea wall on the river side of Potomac park between the railroad bridge and the inlet to tidal basin, $6,000.

For planting the center parking in Pennsylvania avenue between Second and Seventeenth streets southeast, $5,000; for changing and reconstructing the walks of Lafayette Park, $5,000; for care and maintenance of Mount Vernon Park, $1,000; for constructing and erecting a

CHANGES PROPOSED IN MANY BRANCHES OF D. C. GOVERNMENT

Substitution of a director of education and an advisory board of five for the present Board of Education. Substitution of a director of charities and an advisory board of five for the present Board of Charities. Placing the water department entirely under the Commissioners, discontinuing the present supervision of the War Department. Annual instead of triennial assessment of District real estate. Annual registration of automobiles, abolishing the present plan of permanent registration.

A $500,000 appropriation to commence work on the new Municipal Hospital at Fourteenth and Upshur streets northwest. A municipal lodging house, estimated to cost $40,000. The purchase of ground adjoining fifteen public schools for playground purposes. A total of $125,500 for motorized fire apparatus. Purchase of the Dean tract, in the northwest, and the Patterson tract, in the northeast, for park purposes. The former to cost $625,000; the latter, $500,000.

A $200,000 appropriation to complete the reclamation of the Anacostia flats. Underground public comfort stations at Ninth and F streets northwest, Fifteenth street and New York avenue northwest, and Wisconsin avenue and M street northwest. Increase in pay for police captains, lieutenants and sergeants, and a graduated increase for public school janitors.

request for a $3,000 appropriation to send the local high school cadets to a military training camp next summer. Commissioner Brownlow said that several desirable locations in the vicinity of Washington are under consideration for the camp should the appropriation be granted. A total of $25,000 is asked to start new municipal institutions, including a trash and garbage plant, a new Washington Asylum Hospital, a municipal lodging house, a municipal reform school, and a power plant to supply all the buildings at Occoquan.

The ground for the new municipal hospital has been purchased at Fourteenth and Upshur streets northwest, and the Commissioners are asking a first appropriation of $100,000 to begin its erection. The several citizens' associations in that vicinity have been fighting the location of the hospital in that section for six months. It is hardly likely, however, that the plans of the Commissioners can be changed now.

If the Commissioners' request for the purchase of the Dean tract, in the northwest, and the Patterson estate, in the northeast, are granted the city will be almost encircled in beautiful parks. A map of the park system of the National Capital, including the addition of these two tracts would complete a natural fan of parks.

Aimed to Help Children. The real motive behind the request, however, is to give relief to the children of the two sections in which those tracts are located. The Commissioners point out that in summer the children of the section in which the Dean tract is located are crowded into the section surrounding the Dean tract are in practically the same situation. The Dean tract will increase the number of children in that section, and the Patterson estate, in the northeast, will increase the number of children in that section.

Other school requests are: $50,000 for an eight-room addition to the Elizabeth V. Brown School, Chevy Chase; $60,000 for a four-room addition to the Glasgow School, Second and T streets northeast; $2,000 for an eight-room addition to the Peterson School; $50,000 for a site for the new school, somewhere between Monroe, Newton and Eighteenth and Twentieth streets; $40,000 for a site for a wagon shed at the propagating gardens.

Millions for Improvements in District Asked by Uncle Sam

Higher and Additional Salaries Sought from Congress, as Well as Completion of Buildings, Bettering of Parkway System and Rectifying Public Highways.

Recommendations for expenditures of particular interest to the District in the estimates of various executive departments, include many salary increases. The Civil Service Commission wants salary increases for employees, aggregating $70,000; the State Department wants $12,000 more for its pay roll, and the Patent Office seeks $2,500 more for new patents.

Estimates for public parks in the District are $200,000 greater than last year, including a $50,000 appropriation asked for the reconstruction of the field house in Potomac Park. In addition, an immediate appropriation of $200,000 is asked for the commencement of work on the proposed extension of Rock Park and the Zoo with Potomac Park.

To complete the new building of the interior department, $1,026,000 is asked; $134,000 is wanted to complete the central heating plant, and $200,000 is asked for one year's work on the Lincoln Memorial. The estimates also include $200,000 for aids to navigation in the Potomac River.

Seek Many Public Improvements. The following items are carried under the caption "District of Columbia" in the estimates: Improving Botanic Garden building, $10,574; an increase of $4,574 for remodeling the Butler building, $12,000; for plans and estimates for a new patent office building, $5,000; new roof for Treasury building, $30,000; remodeling fourth story, $15,000; repairs to remodeling building, $1,500; new road pavement, curbs, gutters and sidewalks on the E and F street roadways through Judiciary park, $15,000; for constructing a large fountain at Eighth street and Wisconsin avenue northwest, $5,000; for improving the site of the old high-service reservoir at the southwest corner of Wisconsin avenue and R street northwest, which is hereby made a part of the park system of the District of Columbia, under the chief engineer, United States army, $5,000; for replacing the post-and-chain fence around Rawlins park with a cement coping, and for rearranging the walks and improving the planting, $2,000; for improving seven small bridges, $1,000; for moving out the sea wall on the river side of West Potomac park, $25,000; for extending Eashy Point power in West Potomac park, $12,000; for rebuilding the sea wall on the river side of Potomac park between the railroad bridge and the inlet to tidal basin, $6,000.

For planting the center parking in Pennsylvania avenue between Second and Seventeenth streets southeast, $5,000; for changing and reconstructing the walks of Lafayette Park, $5,000; for care and maintenance of Mount Vernon Park, $1,000; for constructing and erecting a

DANIELS SENDS VESSEL TO RESCUE U. S. SHIP

Cruiser Des Moines Ordered to Aid American Steamer Shelled by Submarine.

Acting at the request of the Department of the Secretary of the Navy, Daniels has ordered the United States cruiser Des Moines, now at Cananea, Island of Crete, to proceed at once to the rescue of the Greek government steamer which was shelled by a submarine off the coast of Northern Africa, 125 miles south of Crete. This action was taken as a result of a cablegram received at the State Department yesterday from the United States. The Greek government steamer, Athens, was shelled by a submarine off the coast of Northern Africa, 125 miles south of Crete. The action was taken as a result of a cablegram received at the State Department yesterday from the United States. The Greek government steamer, Athens, was shelled by a submarine off the coast of Northern Africa, 125 miles south of Crete.

Dutch Market TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY SPECIALS

MARKETS ALL OVER TOWN. FANCY WHOLE CUT FROM SELECT SMALL PIG PORK. PORK LOINS, blade end, lb. 13c. LEAN PORK CHOPS, lb. 14c. PORK LOINS, tenderloin end, lb. 16c. PORK CHOPS, selected centers, lb. 18c. PORK LOINS, center cut, lb. 18c.

BREAKFAST BACON Lb. 22c. SUGAR CURED, MACHINE SLICED. FRESH HAMS Lb. 15c. SMALL, TENDER.

SWEET JUICY FLORIDA ORANGES. SELECTED MICHIGAN POTATOES PECK..... 23c. FANCY JONATHAN APPLES 1/4 PECK.. 15c. WINESAP APPLES PECK.... 20c.

PROMISES WOMEN HE WILL CONSIDER VOTES. CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE.

Hill Weed, dispenser of tickets to the selected group of distinguished women who were to attend the President's reception. Fewer and fewer tickets she had and the crowd appeared undiminished. When there were but five left she hastily grabbed Police Inspector Cross, who had had the parade's responsibility in charge, but was at that moment standing by.

"Here, you give them out," she ordered thrusting the diminished packet in his hand. Then she fled.

"I picked out the more elderly women," Inspector Cross admitted later. "Those forty younger women can wait until another time."

Last night there was the first meeting of the nationally elected executive committee. Miss Janet Richards acted as chairman. At the conclusion of the meeting here the parade reformers and processions headed for the White House.

Despite the bitter wind that brought the color to the cheeks and noses of the marchers not one weakened or turned her back to the gale. It was a blustering day and the strength of the four stalwart women who held the Susan B. Anthony amendment banner to the parade was not lessened.

An imposing spectacle. "Gorgeous in their purple robes the array of women on foot, together with the decorated automobiles making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the day. The Susan B. Anthony amendment banner borne by some of the women on foot, together with the American flag and suffrage banner followed. After them a band of girls of high school age in the purple, gold and white of the Commission on the Status of Women, and a decorated automobile making an imposing sight as it moved down the avenue to the President's house, the parade could not be called a parade of women led by Mrs. John Jay White, marshal of the