The Washington Herald Wants Girls to Write "Better Baby" Essays

Newspaper Will Award Valuable Prizes for Best Compositions On "How to Care for Baby." Contest Open to Pupils of Public Schools.

Rules for the Better Baby Essay Contest

1. Essays are to be on the general subject, "How to Care for Baby."
2. Essays may deal with any phase of the baby's life, his food, clothing, bath, sleeping facilities, and summer and winter care, etc.
3. Essays should be based on the articles to be published daily from April 16 to 22.
4. Essays must contain not more than 400 words.
5. Essays should be addressed, "The Washington Herald Better Baby Editor."
6. Essays must be in The Herald office, 427 Eleventh street northwest, before 6 o'clock on the evening of May 6.
7. Essays will be turned over to five judges on Monday, May 8.
8. Contest will be open to all girls of the public graded and high schools.
9. There will be two valuable prizes for the graded schools and two for the high schools.
10. Essays should be written on one side of the paper only, with the writer's name, age, address, school and grade on the first page.

Do you love babies? If you do and if you are a girl pupil in the District public schools you should enter The Washington Herald Better Baby Essay Contest. The contest starts today and is open to every girl attending the public graded and high schools. Girls in every grade and girls of every age are invited to enter the contest. Girls who know much about babies and girls who know little about babies are invited to enter the contest. The way to enter the contest is simple. All you have to do is to write an essay or composition on the subject, "How to Care for Baby," put your essay in an envelope addressed to The Washington Herald Better Baby Editor, stamp the envelope and drop it in the mail box. In order to help you The Washington Herald will print stories on "How to Care for Baby" each day of next week, beginning Sunday morning. If you want to benefit by these stories about babies do not write your essay until all the stories have been printed. The last model story about babies will be printed on Saturday, April 22. Your essay does not have to be in The Washington Herald office until 6 o'clock on the night of May 6, so you will have plenty of time to write your essay after the last story about babies is published. Maybe your mother, or sister, or aunt, or the "lady who lives next door" may know more about "How to Care for Baby" than The Washington Herald Better Baby Editor. If you think so, ask them, and then put what they tell you in an essay and mail it. You should work hard to win the beautiful prizes that The Washington Herald will give to the girls writing the best essays, but even if you don't win a prize you will know so much more about "How to Care for Baby."

Do you know that every girl should know "How to Care for Baby?" Do you know that many little babies die right here in Washington every week because their mothers DO NOT KNOW "How to Care for Baby?" Do you know that right now, when you are attending school, is the best time for you to learn "How to Care for Baby?" If you do know these things you will not waste a minute but will start at once to write your essay on "How to Care for Baby." Are you going to enter the contest? Of course you are. Then you should read the rules of the contest above and start in at once on your essay. You also should read The Washington Herald the first thing tomorrow morning to learn more about the contest.

WORLD'S MIGHTIEST LOCOMOTIVES

During the past twelve years America has witnessed the building of steam locomotives of such immense weight and power as to cast into insignificance the small but sturdy engines of thirty years ago. But the steam locomotive seems to have reached the limit of its power and the sceptre is passing to a greater giant—the electric locomotive. World supremacy in locomotives is now held by the mighty electrics of "The St. Paul" that haul the superb all-steel trains "The Olympian" and "The Columbian" over the completed unit of the electrified main line of this railway across the Great Continental Divide—this supremacy rests on their ability to pull heavier loads with greater speed over the mountains—to master snow and cold—to effect vast economies in operation and to travel farther without overhauling—than any other locomotives, either steam or electric.

A Few Facts About "The St. Paul's" Electric Locomotives

- Power is obtained from the harnessed streams of the mountains.
- Current used is 3,000 volt direct.
- Weight 224 tons—are 112 feet 8 inches long.
- Have a tractive effort of 85,000 lbs.
- Require no coal or water.
- Run at an even speed.
- Operate best in cold weather when steam locomotives have their greatest trouble.
- Handle twice the load of the steam locomotive at greatly reduced cost.
- Motors when reversed on down grades become generators and return to sub-stations from 25 to 52% of power used in climbing—keep the speed of the train under perfect control—insure maximum safety.
- Are smokeless, noiseless, dustless and "jerkless."

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry.

Take "The St. Paul" on your next trip through the Pacific Northwest. In the luxurious "Olympian" or "Columbian," riding smoothly behind the world's mightiest locomotive, you enjoy a smokeless, dustless, Cinderella journey through the beautiful scenery of the majestic Rockies and forested Bitter Roots.
