

LAMAR MUST GO TO PRISON CELL

"Wolf of Wall Street" Loses Fight to Overrule Decision of New York Court.

REMEDIES EXHAUSTED

Chief Justice White, of Supreme Tribunal, Hands Down Unanimous Opinion.

David Lamar, known as the "Wolf of Wall Street," will have to go to a Federal prison soon to serve for two years for the crime of impersonating an officer of the government with intent to defraud.

The case came to a conclusion finally yesterday when Chief Justice White read the opinion of the court, unanimously reached, that Lamar's conviction under the indictment returned in the Federal court for the southern district of New York should be affirmed. This apparently exhausts the legal remedies open to the accused, and his actual incarceration waits only upon the issuance of the mandate by the high court directing the marshal to take him into custody and escort him to prison.

Lamar is now at liberty on bail. The mandate usually issues thirty days after the court's final judgment, but the government will probably move for its issuance at an earlier date. Lamar was in the court yesterday when the Chief Justice began reading the opinion, looking a little paler than usual and a little bit more nervous.

Lamar was convicted of impersonating Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, then a member of Congress, having called upon various wealthy financial men in Wall Street over the telephone and made representations to them of what would happen in Congress affecting their interests unfavorably unless they made certain arrangements with attorneys and did certain other things to prevent it.

BRANDEIS' CHANCES DAILY GROW FEWER

Senate Adjourns Again Without Acting on Nomination to Bench of Supreme Court.

Another adjournment of the Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday without action on the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to be associate justice of the Supreme Court filled his friends in the Senate with misgivings and enhanced the opinion which has been growing of late that Mr. Brandeis will not be confirmed.

It was manifest that a majority of the committee members are unfavorable. The indications are that no report will be made this session of Congress and this may lead to a movement in the Senate to discharge the committee. But it was the belief of the leaders yesterday that such a motion if made, would fail.

The situation in the Senate with respect to the Brandeis case appears to be that the Democratic Senators believe that he should not be confirmed, and this view is shared by a majority of the committee that is considering the nomination. But most of the Senators on the Democratic side do not care to vote directly upon the case. They have decided to allow the nomination to slumber, from all appearances.

THE DAILY ADVENTURES OF PUSS IN BOOTS, Jr.

By DAVID CORY

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

HE VISITS PIGGIE'S MAMMA

She Raised Her Forefoot to Shade Her Eyes.

Puss, Jr., followed his friend the little Pig, whom he had so fortunately rescued from between the fence boards, across the field and into the woods. Indeed, he was so hungry by this time that he felt he would be brave enough to follow a lion. Just then he heard some one singing in a high, squeaky voice. This little Pig stayed at home. This little Pig had roast beef. This little Pig had none. This little Pig cried, "Wee, wee, wee!" All the way home.

"That's mother," replied the little Pig in answer to an inquiring look from Puss, Jr. "She always sings that when any of us is naughty. You see," he added apologetically, "I should not have tried to get through the fence and out on the road."

"Oh, I understand," replied Puss, Jr. "Is that your house?"

"Yes, and there's mother," Juss, Jr., saw a very nice looking lady Pig standing in the doorway of a queer little cabin. She had on a blue gingham apron over a short skirt of gray, and a very tight fitting shirtwaist, which was stretched almost to the bursting point as she raised her right forefoot to shade her eyes.

"Well, here you are at last!" she exclaimed to Piggie, "but look at your trousers; you've torn a big hole in them!" He looked ruefully at the rent in his blue jeans. "I got stuck in the fence," he whimpered.

"He'd be there yet if I hadn't pulled him out," volunteered Puss, Jr., hoping to divert her attention from his little friend Mrs. Porker, for that was her name, turned and looked at him, as much as to say, "Where did you come from?" but she didn't, she only very politely remarked: "Thank you for helping Piggie; I'm sorry to say he does not always mind mother. But come, you both are hungry, I know," and she led the way into the cabin, much to their relief.

At the round table in the room two little Pigs were already eating their dinner. "What is your name?" asked Mrs. Porker in a kindly tone, pushing a chair up next to hers for Puss.

"Puss in Boots, Jr., madam," he replied, with a polite bow. "This is Wiggle and this is Tiggle," said their mother, and the two small pigs got up and shook hands with him.

They had a merry lunch, and he was surprised to see how clean and well behaved the Porker family was. "You know," said Mrs. Porker, as if reading his thoughts, "that Pigs are really the cleanest of animals, only man is so cruel to Pigs—he shuts them up in small pens, and makes them appear quite the opposite. Just read the books about us and you will see. Yes," she continued, "when Pigs are allowed to run around they are clean as they can be, only when they are little, they are often most disobedient," and she looked at Piggie, who got very red in the face.

"I don't believe he'll disobey again," answered Puss, Jr. "You have such a nice playground here in the woods, I shouldn't think he would want to run away to that dusty road again. Just look at my boots," and he trust his foot out and showed the bright red tops all dinged with the day's travel.

Lunch was now over, and after politely thanking Mrs. Porker for her goodness Puss said good-by to the three little Pigs. "Don't forget me," called out Piggie as Puss, Jr., climbed over the fence "of course, I won't," he called back, and waved his paw to Piggie in the doorway.

Count the Diamonds

This Contest Closes at Midnight Tomorrow

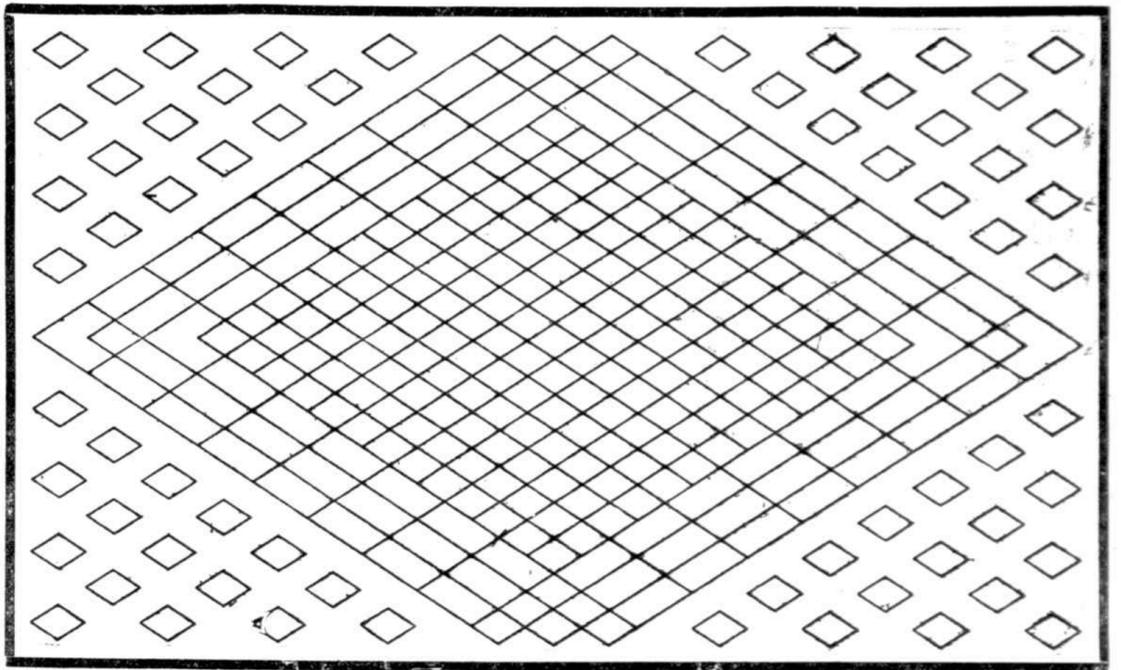

A Few Hours' Work Does It.

TWO---MORE---DAYS

TO WIN UP TO $500

Those Who Enter Now Have the Same Chance as Those Who Have Already Submitted Solutions, But You Must Act Now.

The One Last Chance to Make Enough Money for Your Summer Vacation.

THE WASHINGTON HERALD'S DIAMOND PUZZLE Copyright by J. R. Colburn

THE PROBLEM

Diamonds of various sizes are described, or outlined, in the puzzle chart.

The problem is to ascertain how many diamonds there are altogether. Read the rules and conditions carefully.

By "Diamond" is meant a character similar in shape to the diamond on ordinary playing cards, the four lines describing it being of equal length. This may be ascertained, if in doubt, by either measurement, or cutting the diamond out and folding it over in the center, or by any other means which the ingenuity of contestants may suggest.

Provided the one simple rule is complied with that the lines describing each diamond be of the same length, the lines in the chart may be used as often as desired in forming different combinations, each combination constituting an individual diamond. Every possible combination, therefore, contestants may avail themselves of to form diamonds through the manipulation of lines of equal length is permissible. No alterations in the lines, however, as they appear in the chart can be made, such as extending or erasing them.

There is no "joker" or trick of any kind in the chart. The chart was drawn with absolute precision and accuracy, and contestants should be able to determine at a glance whether the lines in the various combinations are of equal length.

The purpose of the "Diamond" puzzle is to afford amusement and pleasant mental exercise to the readers of The Herald, and to invite new subscriptions from those who are not already enrolled among those who subscribe for Washington's fastest-growing newspaper.

The prizes in this contest will be awarded to those submitting the best solutions, regardless of whether such solutions are absolutely correct or not.

THE PRIZES

Note Carefully the Dividend Plan

First Capital Prize—One hundred and forty dollars to which will be added fifty times the amount paid by the winner on subscription to The Herald. The maximum value of this prize is $500.

Second Capital Prize—Seventy dollars to which will be added twenty-five times the amount paid by the winner on subscription to The Herald. The maximum value of this prize is $250.

Third Capital Prize—Twenty-five dollars plus ten times what the winner pays on his subscription. Should the winner of this prize pay the maximum amount allowed under the conditions he will be awarded an even hundred dollars.

Fourth Prize—Fifty dollars.

Fifth Prize—Thirty dollars.

Sixth Prize—Twenty-five dollars.

Seventh Prize—Fifteen dollars.

Eighth Prize—Ten dollars plus what the winner pays on subscription to The Herald.

Ninth to Eighteenth Prizes—Five dollars each.

Nineteenth to Twenty-fifth Prizes—Three dollars each.

Twenty-sixth to Thirtieth Prizes—One dollar each.

Notice to Mail Subscribers.

The dividend prizes are based upon the city rates of subscription and will be paid on that basis, the extra mail rate of five cents a month for the Daily and Sunday being to cover postage on the Sunday edition.

HOW TO ENTER

This contest is open to everybody everywhere in the United States east of the Mississippi River.

A payment on subscription of from 50 cents to $2.50 for The Washington Herald, for from $1.00 to $5.00 if the paper is to be mailed, entitles a contestant to submit one solution of the puzzle. In remitting please note schedule of rates and omit in multiples of 50 cents a month for service by carrier or 10 cents for Daily and Sunday.

As many different solutions may be submitted of the Diamond Puzzle as the contestant desires upon making an additional payment of not less than 50 cents nor more than $7.50 with each different solution.

It is not necessary to pay the same amount with each solution, if more than one is submitted. As the prizes have added value according to what is paid on subscriptions with the winning solutions, contestants should familiarize themselves with the dividend schedule before sending their subscription and solution. (See prize list.) After once being submitted a solution cannot be changed.

Remit by check, money order or cash in registered letter. Solutions unaccompanied by cash subscriptions will not be registered. The contest is open to both old and new subscribers.

Whatever is paid, whether on one or a number of solutions, applies on a continuous subscription to The Washington Herald.

DECIDING TIES

Those tying will be required to solve a second problem, a reduced illustration of which will be found in the larger advertisements, or may be obtained by applying to the contest manager. This puzzle will consist of drawing a chain across a chart made up of diamonds with figures inserted so that the numbers in the diamonds will total the greatest number of points, the number of circles in each section of the chain being limited to either three, four, or five.

The second problem will be presented immediately following the registration of all answers to the first prize puzzle, and a week will be given in which to solve it. Should further entries, the same chart will be rearranged, and those tying will be required to solve it again. In the almost impossible event of further ties, a third and fourth re-arrangement will be made, but after that should any ties ensue, the contestants so tying shall each receive the full amount of the prize tied for.

(Cut Out Neatly Around Margin.)

This Blank Must Accompany All Solutions

I herewith inclose $..... for subscription to The Washington Herald.

Name.....

Address.....

I submit as my solution the following to be the total number of diamonds in the puzzle chart.

If you wish the paper sent to any other address or person than indicated above write name and address here. Otherwise leave blank.

Name.....

Be sure to write names and addresses plainly and in full, such as giving apartment numbers, rural route and box numbers, etc.

Are you receiving the paper now by carrier or mail? If so, by which means?.....

Should you desire to submit another solution use another blank.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS

As many prizes will be reserved as there are people tied before any prizes are awarded to those sending in less correct solutions.

While the winning of most of the prizes does not depend upon the time a solution is registered, it is best to begin counting at once and send in your solution as soon as you have finished, and if later you find you have made a mistake, you can send in another solution, if accompanied by an additional payment.

The prizes are offered for individual effort and The Herald reserves the right to reject any solution and to return whatever amount is paid in connection with it, if it appears that the answer submitted is the result of the efforts of some other than the person who submitted the solution. If more than one member in a family submits the same answer only one prize will be awarded jointly.

All those entering the contest will as a condition and consideration, be required to abide by the rulings of the Puzzle Manager. In the event of any questions arising the Puzzle Manager may appoint a committee to assist him in deciding them, and those entering the contest do so with the understanding and consent that such decision will be final.

In order that the Puzzle Manager may be in a position to judge whether a solution was actually worked by the person submitting it, each contestant agrees to furnish such information as is desired. Retain all your working papers until called for.

Tomorrow The Last Day

Address All Communications to

DIAMOND CONTEST MANAGER, THE WASHINGTON HERALD

425-427-429 11th Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

NEW ORLEANS THE CRESCENT CITY

JACKSON SQUARE

History and Romance Combined

The pleasure of travel is heightened by two conditions COMFORT AND INTEREST

These conditions exist to a wonderful degree on the WASHINGTON-SUNSET ROUTE

The New York-New Orleans Limited and the Sunset Limited supply every comfort known to modern train service and operate fast schedules, protected by an automatic black signal safety system which has won the plaudits of travelers and experts.

There are other fast daily trains; and daily tourist sleeping cars run through from Washington to San Francisco. Also, personal conductors leave Washington daily for San Francisco.

No part of the United States so teems with romance as along this route dating back to revolutionary days. New Orleans is perhaps most conspicuous in its history and traditions.

Write for further particulars and a copy of booklet "The Apache Trail of Arizona."

To WASHINGTON-SUNSET ROUTE
A. J. Poston, General Agent
911 G St., 705 15th St.,
Washington, D. C.

A SOUTHERN SCENE EN ROUTE CALIFORNIA

PRACTICAL HEALTH TALKS

Lillian Whitney, M.D.

Dr. Whitney's popular articles on health and beauty subjects in several leading magazines have been attracting marked attention for a number of years. No other writer on similar topics has better established for the world for Dr. Whitney has established an enviable reputation as a specialist and is endowed with the ability to make herself easily understood by her readers. She will answer all letters relating to her department as promptly as possible. All letters should be accompanied by a stamped envelope and should be addressed care of this paper.

EMERGENCY TREATMENT FOR EYE ACCIDENTS.

It goes without saying that a physician should be sent for whenever possible, but meanwhile something must be done and it is highly important to know what to do, for this may save the sight or prevent a marked deformity.

Lime in the eye, either pure or in the form of plaster or mortar, is not an uncommon accident. Every one knows that lime is a caustic, and unless speedily removed sets up permanent damage. Do not use water, as water slackens the lime and makes it burn worse. Use fat or oil in any form on a clean handkerchief or piece of gauze or cotton, and wipe every particle of lime from the eye. The lids must be folded back and carefully examined for minute grains and then wash the eye thoroughly with a strong solution of common sugar. If sugar is not handy, pour molasses in the eye. Vinegar will answer the same purpose. These substances neutralize the action of the lime and do not injure the eye. Next apply sweetened oil or vaselin and lay lead cloths over the eye until the doctor arrives.

Acids frequently get into the eye. The first thing is to neutralize the action with an alkaline wash of some sort—borax, bicarbonate of soda (baking powder), dissolved in water and poured gently into the eye, will quickly arrest the action of the acid. Milk will answer, or even plain water, if none of the substances named is at hand, for plenty of water will weaken the acid. The eye and lid should then be covered with oil or grease of some kind and cold cloths applied.

Ammonia in the eye is neutralized with vinegar or lemon juice and the same after treatment pursued as in the other cases.

Carbolic acid may get into the eye by mistake. Alcohol in some form is the thing to use, either pure or as whisky or brandy—1 part of this to 3 parts of water is the strength required. Wash the eye thoroughly with this, or use plain water, if no form of alcohol is at hand; then protect the eye as above with oils and lead cloths.

The eyes or lids may be injured by steam, boiling fat or hot cinders, I have known a curling iron to drop from a woman's grasp and fall on the eye.

Hot cinders and the like can quickly be removed by sweeping the eye with a small goose feather dipped in oil. A good rule to impress upon one's mind is never close the hand down on the eye. This presses the hot cinder or whatever has got into the eye between the ball and the lid, thereby delaying its removal and increasing the damage. Always draw the lid away from the eye.

Burns are best treated with olive oil applied as hot as it can be born upon antiseptic cotton. This is also excellent treatment for a discolored eye.

Answers to Queries.

Hanover: Try this powder for tired, burning feet: Alum, 1 ounce; rock salt, 2 ounces; borax, 3 ounces. Add a teaspoonful to a basin of tepid water and bathe the feet for fifteen minutes night and morning.

Question: Yes, a drying powder for the hair removes excessive oiliness and keeps the hair fluffy. It must be well brushed out, otherwise there is likelihood of clogging the pores of the scalp. Here is a combination much used, especially on white hair: Pulverized starch, 1 pound; orris root, 1 ounce; oil of rhodium, 10 drops. Mix well.

Mamie: I cannot answer so many questions either through this column or by private letter. But almost everything you ask has been given. Do you follow my articles? One thing I must tell you—regulate your diet; otherwise you can never have a "nice" complexion and by all means overcome the tendency to constipation.

Father: Your letter delighted me. Your problem interests me profoundly. I, too, should hesitate to put my girl under the tutelage of an "outsider" respecting the most sacred truths in life. But why not teach her yourself? She is born of your bone and flesh of your flesh. I can think of nothing more beautiful than so close a bond as this would weave between you and your motherless little girl. Write me again.

Mrs. X.: Yes, goitre is enlargement of the thyroid gland. Operation is rarely resorted to, because entire removal of the gland is fatal. While I would gladly advise you, the best course is to put yourself in the hands of a specialist.